CONGRATULATIONS TO THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR SAMUEL S. LEWIS ON HIS BIRTHDAY

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Hon. Charles H. Ealy, in the Chair).

Mr. TAYLOR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 17, 1942.

Whereas, The Senate of Pennsylvania regards with esteem and respect its Presiding Officer, the Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth, the Honorable Samuel S. Lewis, who regardless of politics or personality, has conducted himself on the rostrum of this body with utmost fairness and with due regard to the best traditions of the office; and

Whereas, The members of the Senate learn with pleasure that this, the opening day of the Special Session of 1942, coincides with the birthday of Lieutenant-Governor Lewis; be it therefore

Resolved, That the Senate hereby extend to him on this happy occasion this token of its regard, together with the wish of the members that the Lieutenant-Governor will find as much pleasure in his duties as they have had in observing his uniform kindness and consideration in all his personal relationships, and that they join in wishing him long life, happiness and continued service to his fellow citizens.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Are there any remarks?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President Pro Tempore, I would like to know whether the Lieutenant-Governor has his birth certificate.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Will the Lieutenant-Governor permit himself to be interrogated?

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. I will.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I look with a little suspicion upon this resolution, because of the identity of the sponsor, who has a peculiar knack of going out and getting the Democrats to do something innocently, and then later using it. As I understand it—of course, it is all right with me—this is endorsement in support of our Lieutenant-Governor as the next Governor of the State of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDENT. Mr. Ealy and members of the Senate, I appreciate all of the nice things that the resolution contains, and I want to assure you that during this Special Session, which I hope will be brief, I purpose conducting the office of presiding officer of this body on the same high plane and in the impartial manner that I have during the three previous sessions. If I succeed in doing that and continue to hold the esteem and personal friendship of every one of the members, which I think I have, I will be amply repaid.

I think there should have been an amendment to the resolution, asking that the precedent established last year be continued, and I will say that if the session continues sufficiently long to permit an outing such as we had last year, you are all invited, so that may be an inducement not to adjourn as promptly as I would like.

Thank you.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I intend to present a resolution at this time, and because of the urgency of the matter that it covers, I would like, by way of explanation, to just say a few words relative to the subject matter.

During the last session of the Legislature we passed a bill known as the Tallman Act, relating to the subject of civil service in this state. Because of certain provisions of that act, there is a controversy now between the Social Security Board in Washington and the Governor of the Commonwealth, and because of this controversy thousands of employes of the state who work in the Unemployment Compensation Division are in jeopardy of losing proper payments of their salaries and wages.

This whole argument, as I understand it, as a witness at a hearing in Washington on Monday a week ago, resolves itself around the contents of a bill passed by this General Assembly, and the purpose of that bill, or, rather, the intent of the Legislature. It covers the subject of a hearing before an impartial board before the dismissal of a certified civil service employe.

I believet hat the members of the General Assembly fully intended that any person who is working under a civil service status should be entitled to the simple principles involved in civil service employ, that is, that they must be given an impartial hearing prior to their dismissal, but somehow or other, Section 807 of Act 286 contains these words:

"Notwithstanding the provisions of this Act, the Governor may upon recommendation of the appointing authorities suspend or remove the director or any employe if he deems such action to be to the best interest of the public service."

LIBRARY
UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Now, Mr. President, the Social Security Board takes the position with the Secretary of Labor and Industry that sub-section (b) of the same section of this act specifically states that "all employes under civil service shall enjoy the right of having an impartial hearing before an impartial board before dismissal." That is contained in the law at the present time, but by construction the Attorney General has stated that the Governor has the right to fire any employe without giving him a hearing.

I think the question is too trivial and too self-centered to allow thousands of employes to be without their pay on their regular pay day, because of this argument, and therefore I introduce this resolution which clearly and merely states that the intent of the Legislature was and is that an employe who is employed under the civil service status will be given an impartial hearing before a board.

Therefore, Mr. President, I introduce this resolution and ask that it be given immediate consideration.

RESOLUTION URGING PENNSYLVANIA MERIT SYSTEM CONFORM WITH SOCIAL SECURITY BOARD

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read:

Whereas, The members of the General Assembly, during the 1941 regular session, passed Senate Bill 653, later approved by the Governor as Act No. 286, establishing a unified civil service system in Pennsylvania for the employes the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation in the Department of Labor and Industry, Liquor Control Board, and the Department of Public Assistance; and

Whereas, The members of the General Assembly and the officials of the State Administration knew at that time that Federal grants for the administration of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation and Federal grants to the Department of Public Assistance for old age assistance and aid to dependent children were contingent upon the employes in these two agencies being employed or removed on a merit system basis which met the requirements of the rules and regulations adopted by the Social Security Board; and

Whereas, It was the intent and understanding of the members of the General Assembly that the passage of this act would permit of the appointment, promotion, demotion or removal of employes in these agencies on a merit system basis in conformity with the rules and regulations adopted November 1, 1939, by the Social Security Board which contain therein a clause stating "In the event of removal, permanent employes will have the right of appeal to an impartial body through an established procedure provided for in the merit system rules"; and

Whereas, It has now come to our attention that the Social Security Board is withholding administrative funds for the payment of the salaries of approximately 1600 employes in the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation and is contemplating withholding the grants to the Department of Public Assistance for the payment of the Federal government's share of old age assistance and aid to dependent children due to the fact the State Administrators or the Governor have not to date furnished them with an established procedure providing for a hearing in the event an appointing authority recommends to the Governor the removal of any permanent civil service employe; and

Whereas, The State Administration, by correspondence with the Social Security Board and by testimony of a representative of the Attorney General's Office presented at a hearing before the Social Security Board on February 9, 1942, has stated that if an appointing authority gave the Social Security Board a satisfactory assurance of giving civil service employes a fair hearing before recommending removal by the Governor, such assurance would be contravening the purposes and intent of the Legislature giving the Governor power of removal as set forth in Section 807 (c) of Act 286, and that he could not legally provide the Social Security Board with such an assurance of following some satisfactory established procedure; and

Whereas, It is the belief of the members of the General Assembly that any merit or civil service system should not prohibit any appointing authority from giving any civil service employe an opportunity for a hearing before recommending to the Governor that he be removed; and

Whereas, Senate Bill No. 653, Act No. 286, Section 807 (c) reads as follows: "Notwithstanding the provisions of this act, the Governor may, upon recommendation of the appointing authority, suspend or remove the director and any employe, if he deems such action to the best interests of the public service"; and

Whereas, The members of the General Assembly did not intend, when passing Senate Bill 653, that the powers and prerogatives granted under the above-quoted section would prevent any appointing authority or the Governor from giving any civil service employe a fair hearing before removal or prevent any such appointing authority or the Governor from conforming to the rules and regulations of the Social Security Board which require an established procedure for a fair hearing before removal; Therefore, Be It

Resolved, (if the House Concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania reiterates its legislative intent that there is nothing contained in Section 807 (c) of Act No. 236 which prohibits or prevents any appointing authority or the Governor from establishing a satisfactory procedure for a hearing before removal or from furnishing the Social Security Board with a copy of such procedure for a hearing in order to confirm with its rules and regulations; And Be It Further

Resolved, That it is the intent of the members of the General Assembly that fair civil service procedure should at all times give an employe an opportunity to be heard before removal; And Be It Also Further

Resolved, That the members of the General Assembly urge upon the appointing authorities and the Governor that they forthwith establish such satisfactory procedure to bring Pennsylvania's merit system in complete conformity with the rules and regulations of the Social Security Board so that the salaries for the period ending February 14, 1942, can be paid to these employes and thereby safeguard the issuance of unemployment compensation payments to some 70,000 unemployed in this Commonwealth and safeguard the grants to the aged and the dependent children of Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I want first to object to immediate consideration of the resolution which has been offered. In connection with the subject matter of that resolution, I should like to discuss several matters pertaining not only to the act of 1941 but also some of the history which preceded that bill coming to the attention of this Legislature.

The members, or at least some of the members of this

Senate, will remember that a similar piece of legislation was introduced by me in the Senate in the Session of 1939. It will also be remembered that that bill was vetoed, after it had passed both houses, by the Governor for reasons among which was that the Governor did not approve of the provisions of the bill with regard to the administrator and the inability of the Governor to remove that particular official.

An interesting thing to be remembered about the veto message concerning the 1939 bill is that the Governor at that time served notice that he was interested in some provision in a bill of that nature for the removal of civil service employes for the good of the service.

At the time that the 1941 session drew near I again became interested in the introduction of that kind of legislation. I was sincerely interested in it and for that reason in the early part of that session, if my memory serves me rightly, in March of 1941, I went to Washington to discuss with members of the Civil Service Board legislation which I had at that time introduced.

I want to make certain and have it understood that my purpose, among other things, in introducing that kind of legislation was partially and for the most part in an effort to end the ceaseless and trivial arguing between the Federal Social Security Board and the various departments of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and an effort to end, if you please, the very same thing the gentleman from Westmoreland complained about in the resolution which he has just now presented.

With that thought in mind I went to Washington and sat with a group of persons in the Social Security Board offices, specifically in the office of Oscar M. Powell, executive director of the Social Security Board, and also with representatives of the various departments having charge, when social security payments, unemployment compensation payments, relief, and other matters were discussed. We discussed the bill which later was enacted by the Legislature.

During the course of that conversation in Mr. Powell's office this very provision in this act was brought up and discussed. If my memory serves me rightly at this moment I would say that after the matter had been generally discussed, after opposition had been voiced, to that particular portion of the act, all of the other persons in the room withdrew from that conference with the exception of Mr. Powell, myself, and Mr. Donaghy, who was acting as Secretary of the Civil Service Investigating Committee, appointed at the 1939 Session of this Legislature.

Mr. Powell at that time made a statement that so far as the Social Security Board was concerned, while it was out of sympathy and felt that such a provision in an Act was not in accordance with its belief of what a good civil service bill ought to represent, that he did understand the situation in Pennsylvania, that he was cognizant of the attitude of the Governor in the situation, and that he would rather have a bill and that the Social Security Board would rather have a bill with that provision in it than no bill at all to correct the inconsistencies and the wrongs in the Commonwealth.

I submit to the members of this Senate and to this Legislature that the Social Security Board, speaking through Mr. Powell, had cognizance of this situation when that statement was made, and that, when this whole matter was discussed with the Social Security Board in Washington, it is acting in bad faith toward the citizenry of Pennsylvania when it raises the objection that it has now raised to that piece of legislation.

I was also present at a conference which Mr. Powell attended in the Governor's office at a subsequent time and I believe that the board which has charge of these matters—I can not think of the name of it at the moment—in the unemployment compensation division, the members of that board were present.

This subject came up for discussion at that time. Mr. Powell and the Governor entered into a discussion of it at that time. There was nothing by way of conclusion reached, as I recall it, and I want to speak fairly about the matter; I do not think there was anything conclusive reached, but it was understood, and it was also understood at the time that the conference committee sat in that room all night on a Saturday night during the last days of the session, when a member of the Social Security Board was present, an attorney representing that board sat with us; it was understood and it was discussed that that provision was to be a part of this bill.

I do not know, Mr. President, I do not know to this day and no one has said that that power has been abused by the Governor since that bill has become effective. I have not heard of any people being discharged. I do not know whether it is so or not I am merely saying I have not heard of it, but I do say now that a resolution of this kind is out of order and certainly ought not to be considered immediately by reason of that background in connection with this bill.

I want to say again, Mr. President, that the Social Security Board is not keeping faith with the people of Pennsylvania. I do not want to be accused of making political statements or statements that might be construed to be political, because I presented that bill in good faith. I discussed that bill on the floor of this Senate and that matter was brought up here, you will all remember, when the bill was on final passage in the Senate.

I do not want to be accused of making that kind of a statement because I am sincerely interested in this matter of civil service, but it does seem to me that the action of the board in Washington is pretty much the kind of action that they have pursued consistently and constantly with relation to a lot of the funds that are being administered by the State of Pennsylvania and other states, as far as that is concerned, and I suspect, although I dislike to suspect it, that the Social Security Board is making a supreme effort to grab away from the people of Pennsylvania the right to administer the unemployment compensation fund and the right to keep the money that is paid into that fund within the confines of this commonwealth and I suspect that this is one of the ways in which they best find it convenient to lay hold of that fund.

Therefore, Mr. President, I want to voice my serious and sincere objection to immediate consideration of the resolution.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to clear up a few matters here relatve to this resolution and the importance of this resolution at this time.

First of all, whether the Federal Government is to blame or the Governor is to blame has nothing to do with the fact that the employes are not going to get paid.

I only know that when this bill was before us it contained the following clause and still contains that provision, page 24 of Act 286, Section 807, sub-section (b), and this is the sub-section that the Federal Government agreed to, and said that a bill in this form would be agreeable to them and there would be no stoppage of funds if this act were lived up to according to the letter of the law.

Sub-section (b) says: "Demoted or furloughed employes shall have such rights of notice and hearing similar to those provided under this section for removed employes as shall be prescribed in the rules of the commission."

The Legislature I believe fully intended, and I think the sponsor of the bill fully intended, at least if he believes in civil service he certainly must believe in having some protection surrounding an employe who has civil service status in the state.

I believe the sponsor meant that every person, who after a proper and fair examination receives a civil service status in the state, that that person can not be removed by some sort of a proceeding whereby he can not have a hearing before an impartial board.

The Federal Government provides funds also for the Department of Public Assistance in this state. There has been no stoppage of funds to the Department of Public Assistance for the payment of its employes, simply because the director of the Department of Public Assistance has assured the Federal Government that no employe will be recommended for discharge unless he has had and received a hearing before himself or a board that he designated.

That is all they ask in the matter of unemployment compensation. They do not restrict the Governor in his dismissal of employes; they do not say that the recommendation of the board must be accepted; they only say that they must have a hearing and they only say that because the provisions are contained in their own rules and regulations and the law of the Federal Congress and they would be violating the law of the Federal Congress if they did not demand that the State of Pennsylvania give a hearing to employes under the unemployment compensation act.

Regardless, Mr. President, of what any person says about an understanding with the Federal Government, there is written word from the Social Security Board, dated June 20, 1941, in a letter to the leader of the House Democratic group or the majority group, in which it is stated that the amendments that are required by the Federal Social Security Board are contained in paragraph No. 2, from which I will quote:

"The standards of the Social Security Board require that permanent employes not be subject to removal except for cause unless separated for reasons of curtailment of work or lack of funds, and that permanent employes have the right of appeal to an impartial body."

That letter was written June 20, 1941, and it was the understanding of the majority of the House that the bill that we passed, P. L. 286, contained that provisions by taking sub-section (b) of Section 807 of the law, which specifically states that an employe will be given a hearing before an impartial board.

All this resolution does is to clarify the situation and say that the intent of the Legislature was that an employe who had civil service status would be entitled to a hearing before an impartial board. If you do not want them to have a hearing, then defeat the resolution, and you go right back to pork barrel politics, which is exactly the point I made when the act was up here for discussion.

I said then and I say now that civil service under that act is a mockery unless some protection is given employes under civil service. I personally do not care for civil service, I do not believe in it particularly because it creates another burden upon the tax payers—when they once get into a job you can not get them out.

However, if you are going to have civil service you must have restrictions and guards whereby a person who takes an examination in an honest effort may have some protection for himself or herself in order that his or her job can not be taken away at the caprice of a Governor.

Why, do you know if this situation exists as it does today and is allowed to continue, do you realize if the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania happens to be Democrat next year he can fire every Republican, and there are a lot of them, because under the provisions of this act he needs no cause whatever, he has to account to nobody, nor does the director of any department have to account to anybody. He can dismiss any person on civil service. Now, if that is civil service then I do not know what civil service is.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

REASONS FOR PARDONS

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 17, 1942.

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to present herewith the reasons for pardons granted by me from January 17, 1941 to date.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

(For reasons see Appendix.)

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. WOODWARD read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 1, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section one of Article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 2, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article fourteen of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, abolishing County of Philadelphia as a separate political entity and providing for administering of county functions by City of Philadelphia.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 3, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine, section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, further regulating indebtedness of political subdivisions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, pursuant to the Supplemental Proclamation of the Governor, the sixth item is a call for liberalization of the Unemployment Compensation Law. On February 5, 1942, on behalf of the Committee on Joint State Government, as Chairman of the Unemployment Compensation Study Committee, I addressed a letter to the Governor calling attention to certain inequalities in the State Unemployment Compensation Law that ought to be amended.

I therefore present to the Chair a series of bills, the subject matter of which has been already called to the attention of the Governor and I am sure comes within the call. There will be other bills tomorrow that will fill out the entire string. However I want to present to the Chair for the record a statement made to the Governor by the Joint State Government Commission and ask that it be spread upon the record.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the communication will be spread upon the record.

SENATE OF PENNSYLVANIA

February 4, 1942.

Hon. Arthur H. James, Governor
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:—

During the month of October the Committee studying Unemployment Compensation addressed a Communication to your office relative to the subject of Unemployment Compensation and the necessity for certain amendments.

The Committee asked that this subject be given your attention with the aim in view of including certain amendments in the call for a special session, if one is called.

We believe we have ironed out certain amendments which should have the approval of all concerned because they deal with the Administration of the Act as well as providing certain protections for persons entering our armed forces in this hour of peril.

The specific amendments are included in the attached statement.

You will note that we have separated the various amendments into a series of bills instead of trying to put all the eggs in one basket.

No matter how much we talk about non-controversial measures we usually get into a dogfight over some features of a bill so we have put the related subjects into separate bills.

If the Committee can be of any service, please get in touch with Mr. Moomaw, Director of Joint State Government Commission or myself.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. DENT, Chairman
Compensation Study Committee

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR AMENDING THE PENNSYLVANIA UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION LAW BY THE COMMITTEE ON COMPENSATION OF THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION

(1) To modify the definition of "employer" to include a "successor in interest clause." This provision is recommended to prohibit evasion of the law by changes in ownership.

To include employers of nonresident employes by election. The present nonresident employes do not have unemployment compensation protection and such an amendment would allow employers voluntary election to bring the nonresident employe under the coverage of the Pennsylvania Law.

(2) An amendment to bring the State law into conformity with certain amendments of the Federal Act, by making further exclusions.

a. Domestic service in college clubs, fraternities, etc.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1942

EXTRAORDINARY SESSION

The SPEAKER, the Honorable Elmer Kilroy, called the House to order.

The SPEAKER. This being the day and the hour fixed by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth in his Proclamation convening the General Assembly in Extraordinary Session by virtue of the authority conferred upon him under Article IV, Section 12 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, the Members of the House of Representatives here assembled will come to order.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we pause at the beginning of this Special Session to ask Thy blessing upon each member of this House of Representatives, upon our State Government as a whole, and upon the momentous deliberations of this House in the days that lie ahead.

Bless, we pray Thee, our Nation—once at peace and now at war. Help us to recognize our responsibilities as citizens of a great Nation. As we have before us a year loaded with the vestments of war, may we be conscious of the many changes since last we met here. New phrases as, "Remember Pearl Harbor" and "All Out For Defense" remind us of the grim duty to which we are called. Planes, tanks, and ships, stamps, bonds, and registration—all have taken on new meaning. We think of our boys along the battle-fronts and in the camps—God bless them, every one.

May this Special Session be no exception of that which is expected of every American in this day. Let each member say within himself: "We are not here to play, to dream, to drift; For we are men with work to do and loads to lift."

Almighty God, may it please Thee to look with favor upon the President of these United States, the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, and the Speaker of this House of Representatives, for we are aware of the fact that each plays an important part in the success or failure of the State and Nation in the execution of the affairs, which we pray Thee, may spell Victory. Amen.

FORMER MEMBER INTRODUCED

The SPEAKER: The Chair observes the distinguished Judge Woodside in the hall of the House, and appoints as a committee the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Habbyshaw, to escort his Honor to the rostrum.

The SPEAKER. Gentlemen, this gives me a thrill. I made a campaign speech for the Judge in the primaries. I present to you the Honorable Robert E. Woodside Jr., Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Dauphin County.

REMARKS BY HONORABLE ROBERT E. WOODSIDE Jr.

Hon. ROBERT E. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker—I almost said "and fellow Members of the House." Last evening I met one of the Democratic members, who in the presence of Mr. Turner said, "Since we are rid of Woodside and Turner has a cold, this should be a very peaceful and enjoyable session." Then the Speaker invites me to come up here to say a few words and spoils the peace and quiet of the Session before it really gets under way.

For twenty years I was in some way or other associated with the Legislature, starting out as a page boy just twenty years ago. For ten years I was a member of this House. Although I naturally enjoy the work in which I am engaged at the present time, I do not think I need to tell you gentlemen how much I miss and will miss the the associations and the work that you are doing here.

You are meeting under different conditions at this time than at any of the many regular or special sessions in which we have sat before, because you are faced with world problems which have their bearing upon the legislation which you will have to deal with at this session. I miss the opportunity to serve with you and I want you all to know how kindly I feel towards all of you. I do not think I need to tell you that because you can look around here and see much the older members think of this House of Representatives. Over here is "Herb" Cohen, Paul Lewis, Joe Ominsky, and Anne Brancato. Over here is David Perry, Bobby Moore, and back there is Congressman Gillette. I do not know who else because I have not been able to see all of the old members who have come back to see you in action.

I want you all to know that my heart will be with the House of Representatives no matter how long I am away from it.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. HABBYSHAW and TAYLOR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives,
February 17, 1942.

The day of the convening of the Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly marks also the final placing to rest of the mother of one of the members of the House of Representatives. Mrs. Ellen T. Reese died at her home in Harrisburg on Saturday, February fourteenth, and was buried this morning in St. John's Cemetery in Cumberland County. She was a native of Plymouth, but had resided in Harrisburg for the last twenty-three years.

Mrs. Reese was the widow of the Honorable David P. Reese, Sr., who served as a representative in this Assembly from Luzerne County during the legislative session of 1905, and the extraordinary session of 1906; therefore be it Resolved, That this House hereby extend its deep-felt sympathy to one of its members, the Honorable David P. Reese, Jr., in this his day of bereavement and sorrow, and direct the Chief Clerk of the House to transmit to him a certified copy of this resolution.

PARLIAMENTARIAN APPOINTED

The SPEAKER. In compliance with the Act of Assembly approved the 28th day of May, 1931, as amended the speaker appoints S. Edward Moore of Cumberland County, as Parliamentarian.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Clearfield will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, we find upon our desks a very glorious emblem of the United States and the State of Pennsylvania. The question of personal privilege to which I arise is that before photographs are taken I would request the Speaker to direct the Members how rightly to display these flags. There is a right way and a wrong way and rather than have a photograph publicized of this Honorable Assembly with some flags right and some flags wrong, it would be rather in order to have them all the right way.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the Chair believes that the photograph has been taken.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR LEWIS. Members of the General Assembly, I have the pleasure and honor to present His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth, Honorable Arthur H. James, who will personally deliver his message in reference to the several matters referred to in the call for the Special Session.

MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR ARTHUR H. JAMES

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Fellow Pennsylvanians:

The state of mind with which I approach this Special Session was so admirably put in words by a Democratic newspaper yesterday that I can find no better keynote than quoting the following paragraphs from the Philadelphia Record:

"As Pennsylvania legislators trek to Harrisburg tomorrow for the special session, we'd like to give them this tip:

"The people of our State are in no mood to tolerate any political saturnalia in this time of national crisis.

"Before enacting any legislation, each member of the Senate and Assembly should ask himself two questions:

"Will this bill promote national morale—or injure it?

"Will it help the war effort—or hamper it?

"Politics as usual, is out."

Wholeheartedly I endorse that statement. But I would go further. Not merely votes, but every word, before it is spoken, should be measured for its effect on national morale and the war effort. This is not the time and not the place for blowing political bugles.

Let me quote a line from my message of January 7, 1941. Speaking of the defense program, I said:

"Until our crisis is met, political hatchets must be buried. We must have an armistice on the political battlefronts."

Delay and embarrassment resulted a year ago when my suggestion was ignored. We are courting tragedy and disaster if it be ignored in this session.

Under the Constitution, this Special Session can pass no valid laws except on the subjects I have set forth in my Proclamation.

The eyes of Pennsylvania are on you. If any person in this room thinks the men and women of our State want this war-time assembly used as a stage for dragging out partisan red herrings or starting political bonfires, he has seriously misread the will and intention of our people.

Pennsylvania wants a brief, business-like, harmonious, and cooperative special session. Let's furnish it.

I do not believe you will find anything in my call which needs provoke controversy. Even those about which differences of opinion may exist can be disposed of without bickering and fireworks.

I have eliminated scores of suggestions because I believed they could be delayed until the regular session next January, with less harm than risking political battles and disunity at this session.

Nothing touching even remotely on our State's finances has been included. No benefit can result and much harm might ensue over attempts at this stage to alter the fiscal program to which we are committed for the present biennium.

Such questions as relief allowances and teachers' salaries are not before this Legislature. Regardless of our sympathies and wishes, this Legislature can accomplish nothing by bringing them up except to arouse bitterness and dissension. The same is true of a variety of other matters which will occur to all of us.

Only one problem demanded this special session. That is congressional reapportionment.

Had the regular session passed a reapportionment measure, there would be no special session now. I shall not attempt tonight to go into the reasons why the measure did not pass last year. It did not pass. A joint committee worked out a plan, signed it, and formally delivered it to me.

It is the method agreed upon, and the only one available, by which the men and women of Pennsylvania may be given the right of electing their Congressmen by districts instead of having to choose them at large.

If this plan fails of adoption, the machinery of representative government will largely break down in Pennsylvania.

The importance of Congress in our present emergency cannot be over-emphisized, and for Congress to function properly, each Congressman should represent, not a State as a whole, but a definite district within that State.

This year, of all years, it is supremely important that the local communities have their full voice during the congressional election. This will be the first opportunity since the war began which will be afforded our men and women of fulfilling their vital obligation under a democracy—that of encouraging, guiding and controlling their government.

I am not going to comment on the plan. It offers the only method of meeting an urgent need. For this reason, I unhesitatingly endorse it and recommend its speedy adoption by this Lgislature.

I might say that it would be a decided advantage to any one wishing to be a candidate if the bill can be passed before February 28th.

The second point embraced by my call is that of my suggestion to postpone the new Parole Bill.

Let me say at the outset that I see no reason why this suggestion should be considered controversial.

The reasons which led me to recommend postponement are simple and easy to understand. Despite some of the rather loose discussion, I have nothing up my sleeve.

Let me give you my reasons:

First, we have been requested by our national leaders to postpone new functions until after the present emergency, so as not to dissipate our energies in matters foreign to the war. The new Parole Program seems to me to fall into exactly the category of those projects we are being asked to postpone.

The proponents of the plan itself were perfectly willing to fix the effective date a year after passage of the Act. I can see no valid reason, in view of the outbreak of war, for their making so great an issue over further postponement of a period only slightly longer.

War time conditions are rapidly modifying the parole problem, both in the number of criminals and the demands upon the time of those presently charged with administering the parole laws.

Second, doubt about certain provisions in the Parole Act already has been raised. In fact, my first discussion of this matter came when one of the bill's sponsors came to me to explain certain amendments in the Parole Act which he wished to have submitted to this Special Session, so that these changes could be made before the bill went into effect.

Let me emphasize that the criticisms of the bill to which I refer come, not from its so-called opponents, but from the backers of the law. I must confess I have been somewhat surprised to read the eulogisms of this measure, written since my suggestion was made, by the very persons who approached me to enlist my cooperation in correcting what they then felt to be blemishes and defects.

The third point which led me to recommend postponement revolves around the selection of the personnel to administer this Act.

Under the Act, when the Board is appointed, it will arrange civil service examinations, prepare its lists, and select its employes. This is to be accomplished in the main prior to the effective date of the Act, and once the personnel is selected the employes are surrounded with the tenure provisions customary in merit systems. For this to be done—for these jobs to be awarded at a time when thousands of our best young men and women are not in a position to compete for these jobs because they are either actually in the armed services of our nation, or are working at defense and munitions plants, strikes me as improper and unfair. Freezing the civil service rolls at this time is freezing out the very persons whom we should be happiest to see in the service and the very ones for whom, once the present emergency is over, we will be most anxious to find employment.

A good many of the men in this room are veterans of the first war. They remember vividly the blue days after the war, when the soldiers came home and tried to find jobs. Here is our chance to save one series of jobs for the boys now at the front.

I, therefore, recommend that you give serious consideration to my suggestion of postponing all provisions of the bill until after the end of the present biennium in May, 1943, and that you be prepared at your regular session, next January, to weigh the suggestions which the supporters of this program wish to make, looking to the amendment and modification of the law.

Several of the subjects in my call relate directly to our war effort. One of these is the Anti-Sabotage Bill which is being urged upon us by the Washington authorities.

It is substantially the same measure which was introduced last year and which died in committee in the lower house. The advent of open warfare, since that time, the greatly increased risks which we run of subversive and sabotage activities, and the continued requests of Washington officials for such a measure, have led me to include it, in spite of the fact that its previous history in this Legislature brings it close to the point of being controversial.

I do not believe it need be the subject of controversy. The needs for and propriety of such a measure in war time are very obvious.

Other war time subjects included in my call provide for permitting local taxation for defense purposes and also grant and define special authority to permit such activities as maintaining blackouts, as well as meeting some other minor problems.

Special attention should be called to a bill which will be introduced setting up authority to suspend or modify laws under the emergency situations which constantly arise in war time.

This is a new step for this Commonwealth to take, and I am recommending it only because it offers the only solution in sight to matters of extreme urgency.

Almost every day we find that some war program which we are asked to undertake runs counter to some provision in the statutes which may have been fine in times of peace but which certainly did not contemplate our present national emergency.

In some States, Governors already have been given broad latitude to suspend and modify laws on their own motion. I do not ask that for myself and would not recommend it. I doubt whether it would be constitutional in this State.

I am proposing that we give the suspending authority to the Council of Defense, which was created by this Legislature and which, in Pennsylvania unlike the majority of States, consists largely of public officials who are members by reason of the positions they hold.

The grant of authority would be only for this calendar year, if the war lasts so long. All suspensions and modifications would die automatically sixty days after the opening of the regular session next January.

Provision is included in the proposed act for court review if any person deems his rights to have been infringed upon by the suspension or modification of the laws.

At this point I might mention that some consideration was given to creating a war emergency fund for use if the hazards of our times should bring major disasters and dangers to our Commonwealth. It was determined, however, that a statute passed during the last World War for this purpose is still in effect.

Under that act, the State can borrow, in a war emergency, up to five million dollars for defense purposes. This would be enough, even in the event of a major catastrophe, to meet the needs until there had been time to call a special session of this General Assembly.

It is now my duty to take up the one important remaining item, and I cannot deny that it is controversial in the extreme. However, the controversies do not, and need not, involve this Legislature.

For some time, it has been my intention to renew on this occasion the recommendations I made a year ago that the terms, amounts, and conditions of payment of Unemployment Compensation be considerably liberalized.

It has been a cause of sincere regret to me that this body last year failed to enact these more liberal grants. It has appeared to me that, because a quarrel rose over certain secondary matters, the working people of this State have been denied the fruits of a program over most of which there was little disagreement on the part of this Legislature.

I still favor the liberalization, and I recommend it again. Bills will be introduced to make such liberalization effective.

I cannot, however, drop the subject at this point.

For something more than two years, I have been protesting various authorities, policies and unreasonable requirements of the National Social Security Board.

Congress gave arbitrary power to the Social Security Board and constituted the Board, judge, jury and jailhouse keeper, without appeal. Under the law, it does not have to conform to law or equity. It can make one rule in one State and another across the line. It does not have to conform to its own prior rules and understandings.

Last week and this week in Washington are being heard the protests of more than forty States against a further augmentation of the Board's authority. The complaint of these Democratic and Republican Governors is that the measures now under consideration would Federalize Unemployment Compensation.

I can share in the anxiety of these Governors from North, South, East, and West, throughout our nation. I regret to say, however, that I am very much afraid they are many months too late.

Judging from Pennsylvania's experience, Federalization is an accomplished fact. The Social Security Board has won the game—all the proposed law would do is let them pick up the marbles.

I am not going into any detailed history of Pennsylvania's troubles with the Social Security Board.

You know what assurances Mr. Oscar Powell, the Board's Executive Director, gave me, and you know he confirmed and ratified that agreement by sending his representatives to urge you to pass the law.

That law is now officially declared unsatisfactory, and a week ago the Board cut off Pennsylvania's share of administrative funds.

The Board did not cut off Unemployment Compensation funds. It didn't have to, to get the results it was after. It merely made it impossible for us to continue distributing Unemployment Compensation checks.

You will note that the three groups of those who suffer are not in any way responsible for or in control of the Administration's policies regarding Unemployment Compensation.

The employes in Unemployment Compensation have nothing to do with policy. What happened? Because it was sorry for them about our Civil Service Law, the Board cut off their salaries.

The working people of Pennsylvania had nothing to do with the policies. They had nothing to do with the argument either, because at no time has Social Security Board so much as intimated that checks have ever been withheld or delayed. Nevertheless, they were the second victims of the Social Security Board's wrath. The thousands of Pennsylvania homes entitled to this assistance will have to do without it, so long as the Social Security Board's ruling stands.

The third group of those threatened with penalty again have no direct connection with the issues. I refer to the employers. Should the controversy continue, the Social Security Board apparently has the right to increase the amount of payroll charges which the employers must meet from 2.7 per cent to 5.7 per cent.

This is an intolerable situation. I have exhausted all means I know, of upholding what I conceive the rights of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with my oath of office.

Following the Social Security Board's decision I telegraphed President Roosevelt, outlining the history of the matter and asking him to do one of two things:

Either order the Board to suspend its ruling for the duration of the present emergency; or

To insist that the Board itself take over Unemployment Compensation.

I should like at this time to read a telegram which I received from the President, last Friday, which has not hitherto been made public. It reads:

"I am in receipt of your telegram regarding further Federal funds for administration of Unemployment Compensation. I am advised that the Social Security Board is without authority to make further grants since the State officials have indicated that under your Civil Service Law a permanent employe cannot be assured the right of appeal to an impartial body before being discharged. Such right is required by the standards for a merit system promulgated under the provisions of the Social Security Act. I am sure you will agree with me that this is a reasonable requirement. Therefore, I suggest that your Secretary of Labor and Industry advise the Social Security Board that he will not take action contrary to this standard, pending clarification of your law. The Social Security Board will then be able to make the necessary grant."

To that telegram, I made reply on Friday night in the following language:

"Do I understand from your telegram about Unemployment Compensation that you are denying to the Chief Executive of ten million Americans the very privilege which you say the Social Security Board wishes to guarantee to the employes under its control—that of appeal and review?

"Surely this question, involving millions of public funds and the right of Pennsylvania's Legislature to safeguard the interests of Pennsylvania's citizens according to its best judgment, is sufficiently grave to warrant a hearing before some impartial tribunal.

"You make no reference to my charge of breach of faith on the Board's part. Neither do you mention the fact that the Board, by failing to arrange for its own operation of the fund, has cut off all unemployment compensation from the thousands of Pennsylvania families entitled to it.

"So far as Civil Service is concerned, the effect of the recent Federalization of the Employment Service was to wipe out Civil Service through the spring primary and well on into the fall election. If the Board believes in Civil Service, why destroy it in the Employment Service?

"In light of these several matters may I not request that the Keystone State be given at least one impartial hearing before its appeal is brushed aside and its rights as a Commonwealth ridden down."

Neither my first telegram nor my second has produced tangible results.

A further telegram from the President which came late this afternoon closes with the following words:

"I repeat my suggestion that your Secretary of Labor and Industry advise the Social Security Board that he will not take action contrary to this requirement pending clarification of your law."

The deadlock still exists.

There never was a time in my life when I wasn't perfectly willing to batter my own head against a stone wall, if I thought by so doing I might achieve a victory of principle. In this instance, it is not my head which is taking the battering. This fight has meant little to me personally. As Governor, I have more authority and more responsibility than enough to satisfy any man. I have been waging this battle, first, on behalf of a principle which I believe to be vital to American democracy, and, second, on behalf of the men and women whose rights and possessions are the real issues. I have fought bureaucracy on this front for two years and, frankly, I haven't got to first base.

Tonight I am announcing that, so far as my Administration is concerned, Federalization of Unemployment Compensation has been accomplished.

Over the weekend we saw Singapore surrender to overwhelming odds. This is the Singapore of states' rights; and, like those defenders, I am going to have to leave it to someone else to carry on the fight.

I am instructing my Cabinet officers to make their peace with the Social Security Board on whatever terms are not specifically prohibited by statute. So far as we are concerned, Washington is running Unemployment Compensation.

In making this decision, I wish to emphasize that I am doing so under duress. I have not changed my mind in the least. Federalization of this service is bad. Giving the control to a bureau, without an appeal or review, is worse.

But the fight to reverse that centralization is up to Congress. Congress can stop it, and I can't.

In this room tonight are the representatives of various labor groups in Pennsylvania. I have a message for them.

Whether you gentlemen are aware of it or not, the fight which I have been waging in the field of Unemployment Compensation is far more your battle than it is mine.

It is your money, your jobs, your homes and your futures which are at stake.

When the Board becomes a Hitler over the States, it also becomes a Hitler over the working people.

It will have the power to make any union into a mere social club, to order mass migration of labor, to deduct what it wants from payrolls and spend the money as it pleases. It can tax you in Pennsylvania and turn the money over to any other State.

It will have the power to do these things. If you are tempted to grant it the power on its promises not to use that power—remember what its assurances were worth when made to your State.

The time to win this fight is now, and the place to win it is in Congress.

A great many things are wrong in the world, and many are wrong in Pennsylvania.

The war is not being lost, but it certainly is not yet being won. The fall of Singapore during the weekend is only one of a long series of discouragements. We have not yet learned to work together, and we have, I fear, tasted only by sips the dregs of disappointment which is in store for us before happier days dawn and victory lights on our banners.

But chagrin and dissension will get us nowhere. It's time for us to tighten our belts and keep our chins up.

We need, in our national life, a dose of the old-fashioned three C's: Courage, candor and cooperation.

The war is coming closer and closer to our shores, the effects of it are pressing closer and closer on our homes, our families and our lives.

Shortages, naval and military reverses, broken supply lines, confusion and uncertainty, dissension and criticism and fault-finding—all these are matters we read about in the newspapers and hear about on the radio.

Let me urge you to keep your feet on the ground and your chins up through these dark days.

We are all in the same boat. If we don't pull together, the boat goes down.

Our national leaders are fully entitled to our support, our cooperation and our loyalty in this crisis.

Each of us, in his own way, can serve the cause of unity. This body can serve it best by completing its business speedily and quietly.

All of us can serve that cause by keeping our tempers and holding to our faith in America.

The shadows of these days will pass, the errors and tragedies and disappointments we now all feel so keenly will be wiped out by the chastening hand of Time.

Yet a little longer, and the clouds will lift. America was not born to go down to disaster and defeat before any forces yet mustered against us.

Our emotions run in circles and we come back, as a nation, to the hopes and fears which long dead ancestry felt.

Facing me as I speak, on the rear wall of this room hangs a painting of Washington at Valley Forge. America has travelled far, but she has come again to another Valley Forge.

To the problems and cares and hardships and discouragements of our own day, let us bring the same devotion and faith and steadfastness which bore those soldiers through their Valley of Shadows.

Let us be confident that He whose divine guidance led those soldiers on to the founding of this nation is holding out His hand to guide us through our own Winter of Misfortune, and that if we do our part we cannot fail to press victoriously on into a future and a happiness more grand than any we have known.

Thank you and good-night.

ADJOURNMENT OF JOINT SESSION

LIEUTUENANT-GOVERNOR LEWIS. The business for which the Joint Session of the General Assembly was convened having been transacted, the Joint Session is adjourned. The Senators will immediately assemble in the Senate Chamber.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. CORRIGAN from the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation reported as committed House Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act concerning the election of representatives of the people of Pennsylvania to serve in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; providing for the apportionment of the Commonwealth into Congressional districts and for the election of one representative in Congress at large.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. CORRIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 1, read for the first time.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the reading of the bill for the first time? Is there objection?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object I would like permission to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FLEMING. I would like to inquire, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman will agree tomorrow when the bill comes up for second reading to give us the opportunity to have our amendments which we wish to present prepared. We are somewhat in a quandary whether or not we will have them ready at the time the bill is ready for second reading.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it is my intention to make it possible for any member who has amendments to be in a position to present those amendments when the bill is called up for second reading; with this understanding, however, Mr. Speaker, that there be no undue delay, because it is our intention sometime tomorrow to call this bill up for second reading and pass it on second reading.

Mr. FLEMING. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker. In that case I will not make objection.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act concerning the election of representatives of the people of Pennsylvania to serve in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; providing for the apportionment of the Commonwealth into Congressional districts and for the election of one representative in Congress at large.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have here three more bills to finish out the program on unemployment compensation. I would suggest that because of the shortage of paper, we refrain from our usual Legislative custom of stealing other persons legislative thoughts and putting them in new bills and new folders.

I think you will find by careful examination that this series of bills covers all the amendments suggested in Senate Bill No. 80 last year, with one exception, and that is that we took the schedule of payments and increased the maximum to eighteen dollars, benefit payments to sixteen weeks, and the minimum to nine dollars.

I think you will find that all the other bills are directly in line with what was contained in Senate Bill No. 80 last year.

Mr. DENT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 22, entitled:

An Act to amend sections four hundred one and four hundred four of the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (1937, P. Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 23, entitled:

An Act to further amend Section 309 of and to add Section 309.1 to the act approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (1937, P. He also read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 24, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (j) of section four of the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (1937, P. L. 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," limiting certain exceptions from the provisions thereof.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article eight, section eleven, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery will proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I hold in my hand a letter which I have just received from the Secretary of the Treasury, and inasmuch as it has its origin in circumstances that may prevail in other districts than my own, I would like to read it to the Senate.

I had my attention directed last week to the fact that a certain portion of our Italian citizens in Montgomery County who were not native born in this country, had the impression circulated among them that the government proposed to seize all their saving accounts, and inasmuch as they are thrifty and hard working folk and a savings account is usually the first asset they get in America, and it was causing a great deal of concern to an honorable and a high minded group of patriotic citizens, I wrote down to Washington, to Attorney General Biddle, who is a member of our Bar, and asked him whether or not it was the intention to disturb these assets of Italian born citizens in the United States.

Mr. Biddle replied that nothing had been referred to his department as yet, but that the problem was with Secretary Morgenthau and therefore he had referred my letter to Secretary Morgenthau.

Mr. Morgenthau wrote me February 12th, and as he has written to me here, I rather anticipate he would like publicity to be given to this statement which is as follows:

"THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

Washington, February 12, 1942.

"My dear Senator:

"The Attorney General has called my attention to your letter of February 6, 1942, discussing the harmful effects of rumors circulating that the Government intends to seize all bank accounts and all property in the name of Italian aliens.

"I want to say that I am fully in agreement with you as to the insidious effect of these rumors. As I have repeatedly stated, such rumors have no foundation whatever.

"In this connection I call your attention to the enclosed press release issued by this Department on January 12, 1942.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) H. M. MORGENTHAU, JR.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

"Honorable Franklin S. Edmonds,
"State Capitol Bldg.,
"Harrisburg, Pensylvania
Enclosure

The press release reads as follows:

"TREASURY DEPARTMENT

"Washington, Monday, January 12, 1942.

"In view of recurring rumors that the Government was planning to confiscate savings accounts, Secretary Morgenthau today entered an emphatic denial that this was so.

"I wish to state most emphatically that there are no foundations whatever for such rumors," Mr. Morgenthau said. "The Federal Government does not have under consideration any proposal involving the confiscation of savings deposits of this country for any purpose."

"Furthermore," he added, "any one circulating rumors of this character is acting against the welfare of the nation."

I have read these statements, Mr. President, in order that they may be printed in the Journal, and it may be that there are other Senators who have this same problem in their districts who will be glad to do as I have done, namely, have these letters circulated where our Italian citizens can learn as to the falsity of that rumor.

It is always a mistake to allow our brethren in this country to be subjected to all kinds of rumors which may result in victimizing them and I think we all want to unite in preventing any victimizing of this kind.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. KEPHART offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 18, 1942.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, February 23, 1942, at 4 p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Tuesday, February 24, 1942, at 3 p. m.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria may proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am about to introduce a resolution but before doing so I would like briefly to say a few words. The resolution I am about to introduce is in behalf of a young man whose name has been spread in every paper throughout the length and breadth of the United States within the last several months, a young man who was born in the County of Cambria, in the town of Nanty Glo, a young man who spent his boyhood days in the coal mines of Cambria County, a young man with whom I have had the pleasure of playing baseball with and against, also his dad. His father now resides in the City of Johnstown and at the present time he is a coal miner adjacent to Johnstown.

The name of this young man is Boyd Wagner.

Therefore, Mr. President, I introduce this resolution and I would like to have it read and I ask its immediate adoption.

CONGRATULATIONS TO LIEUTENANT BOYD D. WAGNER FOR HIS NOTABLE EXAMPLE OF COURAGE

Mr. HALUSKA offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, A state of war between the United States of America and the Axis powers was created when the Japanese Armed Forces made a treacherous attack, without notice, upon the American Forces in the Pacific Ocean; and

Whereas, in this emergency the courage, the endurance and the patriotic example of the young men of America serving with the Armed Forces has been a great inspiration to the people of this country; and

Whereas, Boyd D. Wagner, First Lieutenant in Aviation, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Wagner, 23 Irene Street, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, distinguished himself in one of the first encounters with the Japanese in the Philippine Islands by shooting down two planes and destroying twelve on the ground; and

Whereas, his courage and effective cooperation won for him the high commendation of General MacArthur, the fearless and patriotic leader of a band of fighting men, who by their conduct and endurance, have worthily maintained the best traditions of their country; and

Whereas, General MacArthur, in his citation commending Lieutenant Wagner, has stated as follows:

"Boyd D. Wagner distinguished himself by his daring attacks on a Japanese air detachment at Aparri. The modesty of this young man is best explained by the manner in which he concluded his report to his superior officer."

"My gas was running low, so I returned home."

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate of Pennsylvania that the patriotic example of the young men of the Army and Navy of the United States, who have met the present emergency with unexampled courage and steadfastness, deserve sincere recognition from their friends at home; And Be It

Further Resolved, That the Senate of Pensylvania tenders its sincere and respectful congratulations to the American Army in the Philippine Islands for its courageous service to the Nation; to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Wagner, of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, for the high privilege which is theirs to have given to the country one of its earliest heroes in this war; and to Lieutenant Boyd D. Wagner for the notable example of courage, modesty and service that he has given to the Nation; And Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this Resolution be sent to General MacArthur; to Lieutenant Wagner; and to his parents.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I do not rise to object. I want to concur and concur very heartily. It seems to me that in this war we have had illustrated one of the striking statements in the last book of Hervey Allen, "It Was Like This."

Hervey Allen calls attention to the fact that it is the nation which can produce young men who in an unexpected emergency will first show their valor, it is that nation which will win any war.

Some of us had wondered whether or not our young people had been softened by the condtions under which they have been living in America for the last twenty years. I am glad to say in my judgment the examples of Colin Kelly, and of Lockhard, the young boy from Williamsport who heard the approach of the Japanese air fleet and made a report to which no attention was paid, and this young man, Boyd Wagner from Johnstown, appear to me to illustrate the fact that we in America have, a younger generation of which we may well be proud and I think under those circumstances the older ones of us to these young men may well say, you have done well, you have made a good start, and in the case of Boyd Wagner I think the parents should be included, and that the matchless heroic MacArthur ought to know every one in America is watching developments and is proud of the wonderful record that he has attained. I am glad to concur in the resolution and second the motion for its immediate adoption.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

REQUESTING SECRETARY OF DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE TO INCREASE ALL GRANTS

Mr. McCREESH offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The cost of living has increased twenty per cent in the past year and is destined to increase even further with the duration of the present war; and

Whereas, This increase has resulted in extreme hardship and want for our fellow citizens who are receiving grants from the Department of Public Assistance; and

Whereas, Under the terms of the call of this session it is impossible to introduce remedial legislation at this time; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate requests the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance to increase all grants commensurate with the increase in the cost of living; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance for his immediate consideration.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

CONGRATULATIONS TO COL. BURLEIGH A. PETERS

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 18, 1942.

The Reverend Burleigh A. Peters who officiated as the Chaplain of this Senate during the regular session of one thousand nine hundred and forty-one is now serving his country as the Chaplain of the Twenty-Eighth Division now encamped at Alexandrie, Louisiana.

Pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church of Altoona for many years and always prominent in civic and patriotic affairs, he is now a Colonel in the United States Army; therefore be it

Resolved, that the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania extends to Colonel Peters its sincere congratulations on his appointment and the opportunity that is his to render service to the nation, and wishes for him the fullest measure of happiness in his work and in his efforts to be of value to the fighting men of the Twenty-Eighth Division; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution shall be forwarded to Colonel Peters by the Secretary of the Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate, before introducing this resolution and asking for its immediate consideration I should like to say that the rumor is that there are literally hundreds of tons of waste paper now filed away in different offices of the Capitol, as well as in the filing space under the State Street bridge. It is thought by many who have to do with that filing that that may now be turned into supplying a vital need for paper and filing cabinets as well, and, therefore, Mr. President, I introduce this resolution and ask for its immediate consideration.

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, February 18, 1942.

The salvage of waste paper is a vital contribution to the defense effort of our Country.

The necessity for additional filing cases in the various departments of the State Government is becoming acute.

It is possible that many filing cases are now filled with paper that might well be used in our defense effort and the filing cases be released for further use; therefore be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a Committee of three members of the Senate to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is hereby created, whose duty shall be to immediately make an investigation of the situation existing in the various departments of the State Government relating to the present filing of papers and documents; to the necessity for the further retention thereof and to the cost of micro-filming such papers and documents as should be retained in order to provide more filing space and make more waste paper available for defense purposes, and to report its findings and recommendations to the Senate as speedily as possible.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DENT. I suggest, Mr. President, that the resolution be immediately adopted, and I would also like to call attention to the fact that one of the bills I introduced this morning carries within it a provision that the old records of the Unemployment Compensation Bureau, which happen to amount to tons of scrap paper, will also be destroyed.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 4:30 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland may proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have been directed by the Democratic minority group to announce to the President and members of the Senate that during this Special Session, because of the absence of our former Floor Leader, we have elected for the Special Session, the Honorable Barney McGinnis of Allegheny County, as the Floor Leader of the minority.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I think it is needless for me to say that I appreciate very seriously the honor bestowed upon me by the members of this side of the House.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to state that he is of the opinion that the minority made a wise choice.

The House met at 1 p. m.
The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Father of all mankind, we are mindful of the wealth of friendship among the men of this House who, after vacationing in the purple mountains, beside the blue lakes, or along the mighty oceans, have been called back to their desks in the interest of the people of Pennsylvania. Let each give thanks unto Thee for Thy watch and care.

May we bring to Thy remembrance this day, Representative Allmond who is ill in body, and Representative Heatherington, whose father and Representative Reese Jr. whose mother have been called from this life. We beseech Thee not only to heal but to sustain Thy children in hours such as these.

Today, many of the men of this House will begin the observance of the Lenten Season with its forty days of self-denial. In our quiet moments of meditation may we give thought to the words: "Breathes there a man who claimeth not one lonely spot-his Gethsemane, To this he goes, and with his inmost pain, he cries aloud, and then, with hands outstretched, touches hands with God."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. CORDIER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, last evening the Governor of the Commonwealth, in addressing us, stated that the eyes of Pennsylvania were upon us and that this was no time for dragging out red herrings or starting political bonfires. He further stated that Pennsylvania wants a brief, business-like, harmonious, cooperative Special Session. As far as I am concerned, I pledge my efforts to bring this about.

However, I feel that there is one subject not included among the seventeen that the Governor issued in his call and which I further believe was not necessary to include in his call but which I firmly believe demands the attention of the Members of the General Assembly.

For many months I have attempted to bring about increases in the allowances for people on relief, old age recepients and aid to dependent children in this Commonwealth. My fight for these increases was based upon the balloon-like rise in the cost of living occasioned by the present war crisis.

The State Board of Assistance has at last recognized this need, and I am informed passed resolutions recommending increases. The Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance appeared before a Committee of the Joint State Government Commission, who recognized the need, and he has admitted the grants are insufficient. The Board is cloaked with sufficient authority to provide for these increases and has already taken advantage of that power by increasing the milk grants but has put the matter of increased food and rent grants up to the Governor of the Commonwealth.

The Governor has stated that the cost of living has not materially increased since 1937 and with the extra services granted these people that they are in a position to meet this rising cost of living. With all due respect to his Excellency, the Governor, whom I believe has done an excellent job in administrating the affairs of this Commonwealth for the taxpayers, I must most heartily disagree with him on this vital question.

When we speak of complete unity in our efforts in the present struggle, we must also include in the picture these thousands of unfortunates within the confines of our great State who, through no fault of their own, find themselves in their present condition.

Thousands of the flower of our youth are about ready to battle the Axis and Nipponnese hordes on the far-flung battlefields of the world to preserve our Democracy or our way of living. Is our way of living to be, that part of our population are to be allowed to sink to the level of the Hitler-dominated countries of Europe where people eke out a miserable existence or is the way of life to be one in which we recognize the fact that those on relief and old age and other assistance are to be considered as much a part of the fibre of America as those who enjoy high salaries and security?

Certainly it is in the interest of Democracy to raise their spirits to a point where they have a fighting chance for a decent standard of living commensurate to the cost which our Democracy imposes upon them. I believe this General Assembly has the right to express its opinion upon whether we shall give these unfortunate people that chance. We in authority have a moral obligation in the interest of national unity not to let these people down.

The answer as to whether or not the cost of living has risen since 1937 can easily be proved or disproved. I have facts and figures gathered from many quarters of the Commonwealth which I will not burden you with now. I will simply say that anyone interested in this question can most definitely find the answer by walking around to the corner grocery store with the amount of money paid to these relief recepients in weekly grants and see how far this money will go in buying the vital and staple necessities of life.

This General Assembly most definitely should give some expression of opinion to alleviate the fear and confusion created in the minds of these relief recepients because of their inability to properly cope with this problem. We must insist and demand that these allowances be increased to a point commensurate with the increase in the cost of living.

Mr. Speaker, I am presenting the following resolution and ask that it be read for the information of the House and appeal to the membership of this body to give it full expression by passing it. I am joined in the sponsorship of this resolution by Representative Melchiorre of Philadelphia who also recognizes this need.

RESOLUTION

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Messrs. CORDIER and MELCHIORRE offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The present system of this Commonwealth for assistance to dependent children, aged persons and other persons who need assistance was established in the year 1937, on the principle of enabling such persons to maintain for themselves and their dependents a decent and healthful standard of living; and

Whereas, In spite of the steadily rising cost of every item going to make up the vital necessities of life, especially during the past several months, the amount of assistance allowed under the act of 1937 has not been increased over that established during the first year of the system's operation, when the cost of commodities was extremely low; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby place itself on record as favoring, recommending and demanding for the unfortunates of this wealthy sovereign state an increase in the amount of public assistance that each receives, commensurate with the increase in the cost of living in the particular community in which he or she resides, based on the best available Federal, State or local surveys and statistics; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, and to the Secretary of Public Assistance, each member of the State Board of Public Assistance, and the chairman of each county board of assistance.

The SPEAKER. The resolution lies over for printing under the Rules.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. DUFFY offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The Honorable J. Harold Levy of Philadelphia County has frequently disagreed politically with the Honorable Ellwood J. Turner of Delaware County; and

Whereas, Said disagreements have usually resulted in many verbal battles between them on the floor of this House; and

Whereas, The Honorable J. Harold Levy has resolved to undermine the power and popularity of the Honorable Ellwood J. Turner in Delaware County, and is not easily swayed from effectuating such determination, regardless of cost; and

Whereas, In furtherance of such design, purpose and scheme, he introduced himself to Miss Mildred Gorenstein of Delaware County, for the purpose of instituting his fifth column activities in said county, and to win her over to his side; and

Whereas, It is now reported that he has won her over to his side after long and persuasive arguments and entreaty; now therefore be it

Resolved, That this House congratulate the Honorable J. Harold Levy and Miss Mildred Gorenstein upon their engagement to be married; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be submitted to Miss Mildred Gorenstein of Delaware County as a memento of a successful campaign.

RESOLUTION

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Mr. VanALLSBURG offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The cost of living has risen sharply during the past twelve months and is still rising; and

Whereas, The cost of the basic necessities to sustain health and vigor, such as meats, groceries and shelter, has increased approximately 20%; and

Whereas, The schedules of maximum Public Assistance grants to the needy of the Commonwealth now in effect were based upon the cost of living established in 1936, and it is plainly evident that they are not adequate to fulfill the Commonwealth's obligation to these unfortunates under present war-time inflationary price conditions; and

Whereas, It was reported that the State Board of Public Assistance is favorably inclined toward raising the assistance grants to a level comparable to the increase in living costs; and

Whereas, Funds to accomplish this purpose are believed to be available to the Legislature without resorting to additional taxation, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That a joint investigating committee of six members of the General Assembly be appointed to study and investigate the adequacy of assistance grants in relation to recent increased costs of living, and be it further

Resolved, That said Committee shall be composed of three members of the House (one of whom shall be a member of the minority party) to be appointed by the Speaker of the House; and three members of the Senate (one of whom shall be a member of the minority party) to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and

Be It Further Resolved, That said investigating committee shall report its findings, its conclusions and its recommendations, if any, for remedial legislation to both branches of the Legislature as soon as possible, and not later than March 15, 1942.

Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this Resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the following:

Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance
Chairman of the State Board of Public Assistance
His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania

The SPEAKER. The resolution lies over for printing under the Rules.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. LEYDIC and FLEMING offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

The Honorable Samuel H. Gardner, former Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, and former District Attorney of that county, died February 17th at his home in Tarentum.

Judge Gardner was born on a farm in Westmoreland

County on August 15, 1876. His early education was received in the public schools of Westmoreland County. In 1901 he was graduated from Grove City College, and for eight years following his graduation, he was principal of the Tarentum High School.

In 1909 he undertook the study of law at the University of Michigan. Later he transferred to the University of Pittsburgh, from which he obtained his law degree in 1911, when he was admitted to the bar.

Judge Gardner thereafter undertook the practice of law, and his legal ability early brought him into prominence in Allegheny County. In 1913 he joined the firm of McVicar, Hazlett and Gardner, and he remained a member of that firm until his appointment as a judge in 1930.

Judge Gardner was named assistant district attorney in 1918, and, in 1922, when the then district attorney was appointed to the bench, Judge Gardner was chosen by the judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County as District Attorney. He was elected to a four year term as District Attorney in 1924, and reelected in 1927. As District Attorney of Allegheny County, Judge Gardner distinguished himself for the orderly and prompt conduct of the duties of his office, and particularly for his prosecution of the notorious vote fraud cases arising in the 1926 and 1927 elections.

Governor John H. Fisher appointed Judge Gardner as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County in 1930, and he remained on the bench from that time until his retirement on January 1st of this year. During this period he distinguished himself as an outstanding jurist of this Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth, that the Commonwealth and the County of Allegheny have suffered a severe loss in the death of Judge Gardner, one of their outstanding citizens; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives by the adoption of this resolution expresses their sorrow at the loss of Judge Gardner; and be it further

Resolved, That this resolution be spread on the records of the House, and that a copy of it be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to his widow, Mrs. Bertha Wood Gardner.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

The SPEAKER. Before the gentleman from Delaware proceeds, the Chair would inform him that we are operating under Marquis of Queensbury rules.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, it would be very unfair to operate under any boxing rules between Mr. Levy and myself, as the weight would be in my favor.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Delaware the Chair would state that the gentleman from Philadelphia is not fighting with the gentleman from Delaware; he is about to begin a big fight.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy was here when the resolution was read and adopted on his attempt to invade Delaware County and acquire a future helpmate from our County. Whoever said he was trying to undermine me in my own county just doesn't know Delaware County. No Democrat has a chance down there.

I would just like to say to the gentleman from Philadelphia that I have disagreed with him on most occasions in the past, but this reminds me of the story of a man down in Norristown—Norristown being a place where they have an insane asylum—who was hanging out of a window one day. This was during the prohibition era. The man kept crying "I want whiskey, I don't want beer, I want whiskey, I don't want beer." There was a colored fellow wheeling a wheel barrow down below, working on the place. He looked up and said, "Boy you may have been crazy, but you are talking sense now." I hope this is an indication that the gentleman from Philadelphia has reformed and is now going to get some common sense out of Delaware County.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LEVY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I must admit that this is one time I am going to admit that the gentleman from Delaware is right.

BILL ON SECOND READING

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLEMING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny explain just what change this amendment makes to the bill?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, this amendment would reduce the congressional districts of the state of Pennsylvania from 34 to 33. It would take one congressman from the County of Philadelphia and leave the rest of the state districted as it is at the present time. In other words, the other 66 counties would not be disturbed; they would have the same congressional districts they have at the present time. We would take one away from the City of Philadelphia, where it rightly should come from because that is the one place in the State of Pennsylvania which has lost population. We in Allegheny have gained population as have other places in the State. Does that answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. TURNER. That answers my question, Mr. Speaker.

I have not had an opportunity to consult the majority leader on this, but across the floor I would like to ask for a ten minute recess.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection at this time to the declaring of such a recess.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will declare a recess for ten minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to comment just briefly on the history of House Bill No. 1, or the history which gave rise to House Bill No. 1, to which the amendments are offered.

Every member of this House knows that in the 1941 General Session the House and the Senate were unable to agree on a reapportionment bill. Finally they adjourned after having appointed a committee whose duty it was to endeavor to draft or to prepare some plan by which we could take care of the elimination of one congressman in Pennsylvania. That committee met on many different occasions during the Summer and finally arrived at a conclusion. That conclusion is written substantially in House Bill No. 1. It represents an agreement between the Democratic members and the Republican members as to how we would reapportion Pennsylvania. It is a pledge and an understanding that a real conscientious effort be made to enact it into law. The amendments offered would be a nullification of that agreement.

MOTION TO LAY ON TABLE

Mr. ACHTERMAN. For the reason stated Mr. Speaker, I move that the amendments be laid upon the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I understand that a motion to lay on the table is not debatable?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. TURNER. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to make a statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the gentleman from Delaware to make a statement? Is there objection?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I object, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Monroe if he would object if he knew my purpose in asking unanimous consent was to make a statement to the effect that the large majority of the Republican members on this side of the House feel that the agreement on the part of the committee is something that we should in good faith support?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the gentleman from Delaware placing his party on record as desiring to carry out the agreement of the committee, certainly not.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe withdraw his objection?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe withdraw his motion to lay upon the table, temporarily?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I presume I do not need to again ask for unanimous consent, but I do ask for unanimous consent to address the House.

The SPEAKER. It is not necessary. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the Republican members on this side of the House have great sympathy, as I think all of us must have, with the districts that are affected by this reapportionment, and as they would have for any district that would be affected by reapportionment. However, the committee met and drafted an agreement which they submitted to the Governor. On the basis of that agreement the Governor called this special session. We, therefore, feel that while we have sympathy with those members whose districts are affected, and who may feel they should oppose this reapportionment, nevertheless, the majority of us feel we should support the agreement in good faith and should therefore vote to table this amendment.

AMENDMENTS LAID ON TABLE

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I now renew my motion to lay the amendment on the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RHEA and Mr. FLEMING and were as follows:

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Edwin S. Wallace offered the following prayer:

Heavenly Father, we reverently bow our heads in Thy presence, acknowledging Thy sovereignty and our dependence upon Thee. Thou has given us life, and with that gift of life are many responsibilities. May we meet them in faith and confidence.

Teach us to so number our days that we may accomplish what Thou has given us to do.

We give Thee thanks for the common blessings of life which come to us from day to day without being asked for, and for which, too often, we make no expression of thanks. For life and health and food and privileges, we give Thee thanks. For home and loved ones and friends we give Thee thanks. For a country where freedom under law is enjoyed, where our religious beliefs and practices are not interfered with, where justice and mercy go hand in hand, where truth and honor among men and nations is enjoined and practiced, we give Thee thanks.

We ask Thy blessing upon this legislative session and Thy guidance in all the deliberations and conclusions of the session. We ask Thy blessings on the President of the United States, on the Governor of this Commonwealth and on all who are in authority. All authority comes from Thee. Bless the nation. Give it spiritual and material success, with victory over all its enemies, to be followed by a just and lasting peace.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to make just one comment to the Senate with regard to this bill which we are about to present. This bill is being presented on behalf of myself and several colleagues who have signed the bill.

Mr. President, I want to call to the attention of the Senate the fact that this is a bill on Congressional Reapportionment and that it is the second bill which a group of us have introduced since the beginning of this Special Session. The purposes of these two bills we have introduced are very simple. We feel it is an approach to reapportionment that we would like to direct to the attention of the members of the Senate.

The first bill, which we introduced yesterday, merely takes one Congressman out of the County of Philadelphia and leaves all of the rest of the congressional districts just as they are at the present time.

This bill which we are now presenting to the Chair takes one Congressman out of the County of Allegheny and leaves all of the others congressional districts throughout the state just as they are at the present time.

It is our firm belief, Mr. President, that a reapportionment or a political readjustment such as this will cause less confusion and less turmoil than the bill as presently suggested by the special committee which worked on behalf of both Houses of the Legislature. These two bills are offered not with a view of belittling the Committee which toiled so endlessly to solve this vexing problem, they are merely presented with this thought in mind, that the need for an equitable Congressional Reapportionment was felt by all the members of the special committee, but due to political circumstances surrounding their endeavors it was impossible to arrive at an equitable distribution of the congressional setup, and therefore it became necessary for them to have a compromise that is more or less a political adjustment of the thirty-four congressional districts into thirty-three, and in making this readjustment they found it necessary to give and take because, after all, that is the very essence of compromise, and so the Republican Party and the Democratic Party both gave up a district, because, in order to split the state into thirty-two Congressional districts, and have one Congressman at large, it was necessary to disturb political lines and political divisions that had been established for years.

We feel, Mr. President, that is going to create confusion all over the state. We feel it is going to make a maladjustment and create confusion in the labors of those who have labored long in the Halls of Congress, and we seriously direct the attention of the members of the Senate to what we feel might be the answer to Congressional Reapportionment. There has been the thought expressed that there should be taken a Congressman from a county where population has been lost, and the bill which we introduced yesterday will do that, because it takes a Congressman from Philadelphia; perchance you will think we are trying to pick on the largest and most popular county in the State, and therefore we offer this bill which takes one out of the County of Allegheny and leaves the rest of the state alone.

I say to you in all seriousness this problem can be solved because there are sufficient bills before the Legislature to solve the problem, and we seriously direct the attention of the Legislature to this most vexing problem.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. WALKER, GELTZ, CARR, ZIESENHEIM and CROWE read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 29, entitled:

An Act to apportion the State into congressional districts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Congressional Apportionment.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

As we come face to face with Thy glory, may we see the frailty of our hearts and recognize the incompetence of our bodies. Remove from us the mask of courage and mastery in order that we may become mindful of our soul's need to know Thee.

To enjoy this strength of life, we must have an intimate knowledge of ourselves. Therefore, we beseech Thee, give us not only that knowledge, but add to it a clear conscience and a desire for companionship with Thee and those who call us friends. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. KENEHAN. RESOLUTION No. 1.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, It appears that the present Congress of the United States will be called upon to pass upon the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is opposed to the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway because of its economical impracticability, its entire lack of advantage as a defense measure, and its detriment to business in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States not to approve or authorize the construction of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and Representative elected from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. VanALLSBURG.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 2.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The cost of living has risen sharply during the past twelve months and is still rising; and

Whereas, The cost of the basic necessities to sustain health and vigor, such as meats, groceries and shelter, has increased approximately 20%; and

Whereas, The schedules of maximum Public Assistance grants to the needy of the Commonwealth now in effect were based upon the cost of living established in 1936, and it is plainly evident that they are not adequate to fulfill the Commonwealth's obligation to these unfortunates under present war-time inflationary price conditions; and

Whereas, It was reported that the State Board of Public Assistance is favorably inclined toward raising the assistance grants to a level comparable to the increase in living costs; and

Whereas, Funds to accomplish this purpose are believed to be available to the Legislature without resorting to additional taxation, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That a joint investigating committee of six members of the General Assembly be appointed to study and investigate the adequacy of assistance grants in relation to recent increased costs of living, and be it further

Resolved, That said Committee shall be composed of three members of the House (one of whom shall be a member of the minority party) to be appointed by the Speaker of the House; and three members of the Senate (one of whom shall be a member of the minority party) to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and

Be It Further Resolved, That said investigating committee shall report its findings, its conclusions and its recommendations, if any, for remedial legislation to both branches of the Legislature as soon as possible, and not later than Mar. 15th, 1942.

Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this Resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the following:

Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance.
Chairman of the State Board of Public Assistance.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Messrs. MELCHIORRE and TATE.

RESOLUTION No. 3.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, Our Eastern coast is now menaced by enemy submarines who are taking a toll of our shipping in the Atlantic; and

Whereas, The bombing squadrons of the Army and Navy are now engaged in exacting payment from these raiders for their depradations; and

Whereas, An Army flier, Corporal John J. Duffy, of 3908 N. Darien Street, Philadelphia, was recently cited by the United States Army for distinguished service in bombing and probably sinking an enemy submarine during most difficult weather conditions; and

Whereas, The House of Representatives recognizes and honors the heroism and distinguished service of a fellow Pennsylvanian; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives pauses in its deliberations to pay tribute to Corporal John J. Duffy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to his family conveying the respect and admiration of the House of Representatives for this distinguished citizen of our Commonwealth.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. CORDIER. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 4.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, During the economic depression of the past few years, it became necessary to levy, and continue from year to year, temporary emergency taxes in order to carry on a program of public assistance rendered unduly burdensome by widespread unemployment. Among these, the increased personal property tax is especially onerous and confiscatory in its nature; and

Whereas, Conditions have now materially changed so that the public assistance burden is considerably lessened, and the need for emergency taxes should no longer exist, or should exist only to a very limited extent; and

Whereas, The entire system of State taxation has developed over an extensive period of time without at any time being revised and coordinated as a whole; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a joint legislative commission is hereby created to study all phases of State taxation and revenues, so as to enable it to lay before the General Assembly a complete picture of the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth at the end of the present fiscal year, with a view to determining the possibilities of tax reduction at this time. The commission shall consist of five senators appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and five members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker. It shall submit its report to the General Assembly as soon as possible after the close of the present fiscal year, or if the General Assembly is not then in session, the report shall be submitted at the next general or special session of the General Assembly. For this purpose the commission shall have power to sit during the interim between legislative sessions. The report of the commission shall embody its findings and conclusions together with its recommendations for tax reductions and such drafts of legislation as it shall deem necessary; and be it further

Resolved, That said special committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoena may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

RESOLUTION No. 5.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The present system of this Commonwealth for assistance to dependent children, aged persons and other persons who need assistance was established in the year 1937, on the principle of enabling such persons to maintain for themselves and their dependents a decent and healthful standard of living; and

Whereas, In spite of the steadily rising cost of every item going to make up the vital necessities of life, especially during the past several months, the amount of assistance allowed under the act of 1937 has not been increased over that established during the first year of the system's operation, when the cost of commodities was extremely low; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby place itself on record as favoring, recommending and demanding for the unfortunates of this wealthy sovereign state an increase in the amount of public assistance that each receives, commensurate with the increase in the cost of living in the particular community in which he or she resides, based on the best available Federal, State or local surveys and statistics; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, and to the Secretary of Public Assistance, each member of the State Board of Public Assistance, and the chairman of each county board of assistance.

RESOLUTION No. 6.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, When George H. Earle, U. S. Minister to Bulgaria christened a Nazi field officer by smashing a bottle of champagne over his square head a few short months ago there was general rejoicing along the Democratic front in Pennsylvania. The bands started rehearsing "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" and hope denied, blossomed anew under the vest of every Democrat. Later when he kicked a Nazi soldier from the running board of his auto, patriotism ran high. It took no effort of the imagination to see him back in the executive mansion on the banks of the Susquehanna; and

Whereas, George H. Earle has had enough experience at Harrisburg to qualify as the one Democrat who could do a good job for Pennsylvania as its Governor. In fact he could do a better job towards winning the war at the State Capitol than he could on the deck of a sub-chaser or mine sweeper, and the best contribution he could make would come from his ability gained on past experience to distinguish between the patriot for spoils and the party worker who believes his first task is to do a good job for Pennsylvania. Good for self is the wrong banner to be carried at the head of Pennsylvania's democracy; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives felicitate the Honorable George H. Earle on his return to the shores of his native land and wish him further success in his efforts as standard bearer for the Democratic party in Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Messrs. ACHTERMAN and JAMES offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 19, 1942.

Sunday, February 22nd, marks the observance of the two hundred tenth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and it is appropriate that this House of Representatives pause in its deliberations long enough to pay sincere, if inadequate, tribute to that great man.

George Washington, unselfish patriot, military genius and dauntless leader, second to none in our country's long roster of illustrious sons, is a personage whose life and deeds are familiar to all, yet the inspiration to be gained from his life is apt to be overlooked in the ceaseless flood of doubts and difficulties which now seem to be engulfing this land.

George Washington dared to put love of his country above all else, and largely because of that this Nation was created, which today stands as the most powerful in the world and as the ultimate savior of millions of people who have been brutally deprived of their precious rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

During the present war, and until our Nation emerges victorious, no American dares to stop short of the same unselfishness, self-sacrifice, courage and determination so inspiringly exhibited by George Washington, without betraying the Nation and the principles for which he fought.

If the future is to bring dark hours, they may be lightened by the thought that our Nation was created only after apparently hopeless obstacles had been surmounted by such men as George Washington, and that if his brand of indomitable courage, his type of dogged persistence and his breadth of vision are exhibited by us today, the democratic heritage left to us by Washington and his little group of patriots will be preserved for posterity.

It is particularly appropriate that the observance of George Washington's birthday is to be marked during this present extraordinary session of the General Assembly, met for the special purpose of charting a path for the citizens of the Commonwealth through some of the difficulties that lie ahead of them. The observance of this anniversary now may bring to all a new and fuller realization of the sacred trust borne by the representatives of a democratic people, therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives reflect upon and pay fitting tribute to the memory of George Washington, and father of our country, and the man who made possible the democratic form of government which it now becomes our privilege and responsibility to protect and maintain through the dark hours of the present world struggle.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. BAKER offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 19, 1942.

"December 8th, 1941, Private Robert L. Hull killed in action in defense of his country at Hickam Field, Territory of Hawaii."

With this terse notification his family and friends, and his grandfather, the Hon. Louis Leonard, a Member of this House, were suddenly faced with the grim reality of the world struggle for the existence and perpetuation of the democratic principles upon which this government was founded.

Private Hull graduated from Wheeling High School with the class of 1939, enlisted in the Army in September 1940, and gave his life in the defense of his country in one of its great hours of need.

The world may little remember the supreme sacrifice of Private Hull, except as represented by the supreme sacrifices that have and will be made by all the "Private Hulls" in the service of our country.

To the Hon. Louis Leonard whose sons Elliot and Richard are now serving with the armed forces of this country, and to Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hull, parents of the deceased, his heroic deeds and his sacrifice is their personal loss, therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives herby expresses its sorrow over the passing of Private Robert L. Hull, a patriotic citizen who offered and lost his life in the service of his country, and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be submitted to his grandfather, the Hon. Louis Leonard, and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hull.

RESOLUTION

Mr. FALKENSTEIN offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 19, 1942.

Whereas, The Honorable George H. Earle, former Governor of this Commonwealth, Ambassador to Austria and Minister to Bulgaria, has recently returned from war torn Europe and Africa; and

Whereas, It is the earnest desire of the Members of this House to be aprised, as accurately as possible, of the true conditions in said countries and to personally welcome him back to his native state; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Honorable George H. Earle be invited to appear before, and to address this House of Representatives as soon as his presence in Harrisburg can be arranged.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. WOODRING and LONGO offered resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 19, 1942.

The House of Representatives learns with sorrow of the passing on February 5, 1942, of the retired President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Northampton County, Russell C. Stewart, of the City of Easton.

Mr. Stewart was admitted to the bar of the Courts of Northampton County, January 3, 1881; became District Attorney on January 3, 1887; and by reason of his outstanding qualifications and accomplishments was elevated to the bench by Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker on January 2, 1907. He was thereafter elected and reelected for three full terms, becoming President Judge on November 23, 1914, in which capacity he served until his retirement on December 31, 1938.

During his tenure of more than 31 years on the bench of Northampton County, he attained wide recognition throughout the Commonwealth as one of its most able and illustrious jurists. He upheld the best traditions of the bar and his memory will ever be cherished and revered as an eloquent orator, an accomplished scholar and an honest and fearless judge.

It is fitting and proper that this House of Representatives dedicate his service to society to the men and women of this Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby acknowledges the lasting contribution to society of the late Honorable Russell C. Stewart, and now dedicates his memory to the people of this Commonwealth; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transcribed and transmitted to Mrs. Raymond Wood, daughter of the late Judge Stewart.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transcribed and transmitted to the Court of Common Pleas of Northampton County.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I am taking the floor in opposition to this particular bill, not because of the fact that we in Washington County are against reapportionment. I know that we must have it in order to have an election this spring of Congressmen under any reasonable means.

I take the floor this morning in opposition to this bill because of the fact that the Southwestern part of Pennsylvania is being unjustly dealt with. We feel there has been a conspiracy in drafting this particular bill. The population of our area, our congressional district, is much greater than that of other districts. We also come from what is known as the rural section.

Allegheny County, of course, is going to give you the argument that they are losing a Congressman, but that is not the fact. We are losing a Congressman in our section. In this bill they are taking Greene County from the 25th Congressional District and placing it in with Fayette and Somerset.

So far as the minority party in this new district is concerned they may as well not be on the ballot, because Greene County has a 7,500 majority Democratic, and the other district is already overwhelmingly Democratic therefore, Somerset will be out of the picture. In addition to this they are taking a portion of Allegheny County and turning it over to the 25th Congressional District.

Geographically the area given to Washington County is ridiculous. They are taking 7,500 Democratic majority from the 25th district and they are in turn giving to the 25th district a Republican majority from Allegheny County of about 5,500, and therefore by a stroke of a pen they are taking from the 25th Congressional District a registration of Democrats in the number of 14,000.

The territory given to the Washington section, especially Dormont and Mt. Lebanon, are not interested in the same things that we are interested in, and the result is that I can see no good coming from it.

Nevertheless, since we are supposed to have congressional reapportionment we came to a Democratic caucus and asked for a minor amendment which would have put Dormont back into the Allegheny district because it lies right on the ward line of the City of Pittsburgh, and they could give us two townships and one small borough whose voting strength lies on our county line; in fact an imaginary line running through there would split the two towns. But they were not given to us, therefore, we feel that we have a just protest.

We took up this grievance before a Democratic caucus, and of course nothing came from it except a lot of talk. One gentleman from Philadelphia had courage enough to tell us that the thing was cut and dried. Of course he was not telling us anything that we did not know, but nevertheless they did sort of promise a hearing, and of course that was useless.

Allegheny is going to argue to you that they are going to give up a congressman. As I understand this setup, in the beginning the Democrats were to reapportion themselves in such a manner that they would give up one congressional district; the Republicans were to reapportion themselves in such a manner that they would give up a district, and one candidate would run at large.

Well, it so happens that the territory turned over to us in this county, I believe the congressman from this area was elected in the presidential election by something like 200 or 300 votes. Therefore it would have been practically impossible for them to have elected a congressman from this same area during 1942, so they took this bad stuff as they call it and turned it over to us, and they kept the territory which would make them secure in Allegheny county. Therefore the minority party in Allegheny county would have to have some sort of miracle to now be able to elect a Republican congressman from that area.

We feel that we have a good protest here and we only hope that if there is a possibility of an amendment being made that we can get it in the Senate.

We in Washington County hold no one responsible for this except the leaders in our own Democratic party. We know that it is a conspiracy where organized politics is stacked against unorganized politics, and although they say they are taking one congressman from the urban sections, we feel that this year's election will show that this is untrue.

I am speaking for the members from Washington county and we want this in the record so that the people back home will know the attitude we took on this particular bill.

Also in conjunction with this bill Greene County did not desire to be separated from Washington County. After we failed in our first effort to have Dormont placed back in the Allegheny County group and to have the two adjoining townships placed in with us so that we would not have to absorb all the shock in our area, we then asked that Greene County be put back in our territory. We then would have had a population of 352,000. Fayette was satisfied, Somerset was satisfied, Greene was satisfied, Washington was satisfied. This did not interfere with Allegheny in any manner whatsoever. But this request was turned down. Therefore we feel that after making this request and it being refused, we have a just protest here, and we in the southwest part of the state are going to have to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I find myself in the position of sympathizing and agreeing with possibly everything that the previous speaker has said. I agree with him that both his county and our county of Allegheny have been most unjustly dealt with. We have been given the bag to hold, and we are going to hold it.

I take a different attitude than Mr. Williams. In view of the chaotic condition that would ensue, even though we have been so unjustly dealt with in Allegheny County, we feel that any apportionment is better than no apportionment, and for that reason I along with my other colleagues, I believe, are going to vote in support of this measure.

Mr. SHAFFER. In the past, Mr. Speaker, I have found myself unable to agree with the recommendations made by the Special Committee on Congressional Apportionment. The final recommendations of the Committee which are embodied in House Bill No. 1, which is on final passage now could be more aptly described as dis-proportionment.

However, I do not want to discuss the merits of the bill; it is too late for that. Today I am faced with a different situation. I am forced to chose between voting for an unjust and inequitable apportionment or voting against the only apportionment bill which can pass this Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, and therefore would be contributing to an at-large election which would result in chaos and a mockery of representative government.

I regret very much the inequities which are being visited upon the people in certain counties. However, I have but two choices, either to vote that the people of Pennsylvania may be represented by districts in the legislative halls or to vote for a lottery, for a mockery. There is but one choice, so today I am going to vote for the bill, believing as my colleagues have said, that any apportionment is better than none. Therefore, I vote for the bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened with some interest to the remarks of several of the gentlemen who were opposed to the bill. I heard the rgument, for instance, that Washington County is going to lose a Congressman and that Allegheny is going to lose a Congressman. I heard of the injustice done to Allegheny County presumably because Allegheny County was going to lose a Congressman. It becomes quite apparent now that one of the speakers is in error; either Allegheny County loses a Congressman or Washington loses a Congressman, not both of them.

As a matter of fact it is obvious to me that if a county with 210,000 in a district with a little over 300,000 is unable to get a Congressman then it becomes apparent that it is the people of that county that do not want a Congressman and that a smaller segment of their district cannot have a Congressman.

However, Mr. Speaker, without going too much into the merits or demerits of the bill, I do not think anyone who served on the Special Committee on Apportionment after adjournment the last time would for one moment say that this is the best thing. Don't you know, Mr. Speaker, that the best thing would have been if we could have kept every one of our Congressmen and not lost any. But unfortunately Pennsylvania did not gain in population in the same proportion as the rest of the United States and consequently Pennsylvania loses a Congressman.

Somewhere someone is going to be hurt. You just don't have to conclude that; you are losing a Congressman in Pennsylvania. That means that some section of Pennsylvania is going to suffer, and the problem was where? The Committee that was appointed wrestled with the thing seriously and honestly over some months of time. We went to the end of trying to reapportion the entire state of Pennsylvania on the population basis, and when we were through with our work and looked upon it every man on the Committee said: "You can't possibly get this thing through. You are affecting almost every section of Pennsylvania. You are affecting almost every district and every Congressman. It will be impossible to put that piece of legislation through; you will be ending with districts so tremendously large that there would be complaints from those sections. Gracious, are you going to run our people all over the entire state of Pennsylvania?"

We tried every conceivable scheme that we felt would cause the least amount of disturbance in the State of Pennsylvania in order to reduce our Congressmen by one and we came to the conclusion that it could not be done that way.

Finally we arrived at this solution—it was a compromise, no use trying to fool anybody, it was a compromise to try to avoid the situation that Mr. Shaffer referred to and Mr. Williams. Electing Congressmen-at-Large would create a chaotic condition in Pennsylvania. The chances are before we could even determine who our Congressmen were in Pennsylvania, it would result in a situation for two years where Pennsylvania would not be represented in Congress.

We have a situation here that we must take care of. No one is particularly happy about this situation, but certainly no one in this House is going to be a party to a situation that would result in Pennsylvania not having representation, which is going to follow if you do not have a Congressional reapportionment bill.

It was for that reason that not only the members of one party, but the members of both parties through their representatives on this Committee finally came to this compromise solution. It was our understanding and agreement, Mr. Speaker, that both parties would endeavor to make this law so that Pennsylvania would have representation in Congress, not at large but by districts so that the local districtst would have representation.

I am asking and pleading with the members of this House to support the measure, since it is the measure that both major parties have agreed should be passed at this time.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, it occurs to me that when we vote on House Bill No. 1 today we are voting more on a matter of good faith than we are on anything else. It is not difficult for any of us who are not affected in our districts by this measure to sympathize with those who feel that they are affected. We can sympathize deeply with them in their real or imagined injustices that they may now prove or which may remain to be proven at the election.

But there is one principal consideration here today, and only one, as I see it. The Democratic side of this House and the Republican side of this House have obligated themselves to each other, and this House as a whole has obligated itself to the Senate, and the Senate and this House have obligated themselves to the administration to bring here before this Special Session of this legislature a bill on which common consent has been reached.

There is no need to go into the long history of arriving at House Bill No. 1 as it appears before us today. We are all very well aware of what took place in the last session. We know of the length of time over which a special committee of the House and Senate debated all matters brought before them. We know in that long interval there was ample time for all districts to submit to that committee plans for suggesions, and I think at this time there is no other question to be decided but the question of good faith, and good faith can only be settled by voting for this bill.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, some of the gentlemen who served on the Judiciary General Committee in the last session and myself have been somewhat disturbed about the draftsmanship of this bill, and in order that there may not be any irregularity in the bill I would like to interrogate the majority floor leader for one purpose.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, why it is after enumerating the first seven districts, designating that each shall have one congressman, down to page 2 line 22, from then on the districts are outlined, but the number of congressmen is not enumerated which each district shall have.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, when I first received this bill from the Legislative Reference Bureau I noticed the draftsmanship to which the gentleman refers, and I then discussed with the Legislative Reference Bureau the reason why they did not continue on as they did with the first seven districts so that each will have a congressman. I learned then that in drafting this measure that they referred back, as I requested them to do, to the prior act setting up congressional districts. I have that measure here, in fact it is No. 361 approved the 27th day of June 1931 in which the draftsmanship is similar to the draftsmanship of House Bill No. 1.

I discussed with them what they felt was the controlling feature in Section 1, and if the gentleman will turn to the first five lines of Section 1 he will notice that the bill says "for the purpose of electing 32 of the Representatives of the people of Pennsylvania to serve in the House of Representatives of the congress of the United States of this Commonwealth shall be divided into 32 districts—" meaning therefore that there is one congressman for each one of the 32 districts named.

There seems to be no real good reason why they should have added "and will have one congressman" for the number of districts in Philadelphia and then drop that particular phrase. However, I am convinced and I am assured by the Legislative Reference Bureau that the draftsmanship in relation to that point does not affect the bill in the least, but that each of these districts as stated in the first few lines of Section 1, has a congressman. That is the state is divided into 32 districts for the purpose of electing 32 congressmen.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman. We are familiar with the Act of 1931 and also with the first section. However, we thought it best that the record should show, rather than to reason that after enumerating seven districts the others should have one each, which would, of course, be only reasoning, but a dangerous thing to stand upon, so we thought we would ask the majority floor leader to state that each one of these districts would only have one Congremman, and that that is the intent of the bill.

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to the debate here today on this measure and I think the truth has been expressed very well, that this bill represents a definite compromise between the parties in the House and in the Senate.

It is a bill which has been prepared and agreed upon by five Democratic members and five Republican members, and while none of us can say that it is the perfection of Congressional reapportionment, nevertheless, it is a compromise which I personally believe and feel is the best which can be attained under the circumstances.

I, therefore, as a member of the Committee and for the minority membership of the House ask the support of the measure in behalf of the membership of the House.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, our floor leader struck the keynote,—he said it is a scheme. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, raised the question that we have had an opportunity to express ourselves. In Washington County, the only opportunity we had to express ourselves was when the questionnaire was sent out.

What I am trying to get at,—I am not trying to hold the gentlemen on the other side of the House responsible for this scheme. It is a matter concerning the Democrats; it is our family squabble, and if I must express myself on it, I must explain that, in order to keep the record straight.

The agreement with our Democratic State Committee was that Allegheny County was to meet with the representatives of Washington and Greene Counties and reach a satisfactory compromise on this reapportionment, because those were to be the districts affected. This was never done. Somebody, either on the Committee or in the State Committee or in Allegheny County, wrote our particular phase of this bill, and the rural sections were absolutely ignored, and the result was that they were building their own particular fences in Allegheny County; they didn't care about anybody else.

That is the protest I am making here today, that they had agreed to confer with the other members from southwestern Pennsylvania, and this was never done. The only time we knew what was in the bill was the last few days when it was printed in the newspapers, and therefore, I agree with our floor leader that it was a scheme to satisfy some State political leaders within the Democratic Party.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, just to keep the record right, I never made any statement that this was a scheme to satisfy some political leaders. I made the statement that this was a compromise between the two political parties on a measure that we felt could finally be passed, but never that it was a scheme to satisfy some political leaders.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, very briefly and to keep this session in businesslike order as suggested by the Governor, and not making any keynote speeches, I want to say that I am opposed to this bill, but because there is no oher way out I am going to vote for it, not because I like it, not because the people of Pennsylvania like it, but because it is the best we can do under the circumstances.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. BROWN filed the following reasons for his vote.

It is clear to the members that unless House Bill No. 1, Printer's No. 1 is passed, Pennsylvania will face a situation unsurpassed in its history, notwithstanding the fact that there is some doubt as to its constitutionality and that there are potent inequalities as to how the congressional districts are apportioned, and that my own county was in my opinion unfairly dealt with, I am voting aye to save our commonwealth from a situation which would, unless this bill is passed, make it the laughing stock of our nation.

Mr. COOK filed the following reasons for his vote.

I voted in the affirmative on the Reapportionment Bill not because I believe its provisions are just, but rather because I feel that it is better than no reapportionment at all.

Mr. GREENWOOD filed the following reasons for his vote:

Mr. Speaker, In voting for House Bill No. 1, I do so realizing that Rural Pennsylvania is taking it on the chin as usual and it will continue to take it on that extremity until such a time as the Rural members wake up to the fact that we should be legislators instead of Charley McCarthys operated by remote control from Pittsburgh.

It is hard to imagine a worse reapportionment plan, however I am voting for it rather than see this Special Session threw into another disgraceful episode.

There is no question as to where the district should be dropped namely—Philadelphia!

Mr. RHEA filed the following reasons for his vote.

Although this bill is not a true reapportionment bill but instead is a mere political compromise, and despite the fact that the bill is grossly unfair to the people of Allegheny County, I feel compelled to vote for it in the absence of any alternative measure.

Mr. RONALD L. THOMPSON filed the following reasons for his vote:

Under the new apportionment, the State must be divided into 33 districts and the mandate of the Constitution and congressional action requires that these districts approximate 300,005 in population as nearly as possible.

But the "plan" which Governor James and the theoretical leaders of the Republican and Democratic factions propose to jam through the Legislature in two weeks makes no pretense at meeting this constitutional, statutory and moral requirement.

It sells the people of Pennsylvania down the river. It deprives vast populations of their just representation in Congress at a time when fair representation is vital to the safety of our country.

It is a cheap and fraudulent plan because it does not propose the election of 33 congressmen on a representative basis. It calls for the election of one congressman at large, in direct defiance of the national Constitution we now are fighting to preserve.

It is unfair to the people of Allegheny County because it sets up one lopsided gerrymandered district of more than 356,000 population, at the same time splicing an integral section of the County (the South Hills) with Washington County.

It is unfair to the people of Indiana, Jefferson, Armstrong and Cambria counties because it leaves undisturbed their district of more than 428,000 population.

It is unfair to the people of the whole State because it gives Philadelphia seven congressmen when the population figures barely entitle that city to six. And it does not reapportion those seven districts, which range in population from 252,131 to 304,555.

It is unfair to the people of Crawford, Erie and Mercer counties because it bunches them into a single district with a population of 353,572. Yet it fails to touch the Eighteenth, or Shoestring, district in Central Pennsylvania which has a population of only 215,352.

This is not a reapportionment bill. It does not pretend to be. It is a shoddy product of political expediency.

The gross injustice which this bill inflicts on the people of Allegheny County is so flagrant that the Republican members from Allegheny County offered amendments to correct these manifest evils. The agreement of the floor leaders of both parties which prevented any discussion of these amendments was dictatorial and high-handed and in accord with the political conniving which created the plan in the beginning.

I am bitterly opposed to this particular bill but have no recourse except to vote in the affirmative.

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG filed the following reasons for his vote:

I voted in the affirmative on the Reapportionment Bill not because I believe its provisions are just, but rather because I feel that it is better than no Reapportionment at all.

ADJOURNMENT

Extraordinary Session of 1942.

SENATE

MONDAY, February 23, 1942

The Senate met at 4:00 o'clock, p. m., E. W. T. The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

O Lord God, in whom we live and move and have our being, give us faith to believe that Thou art ever with us, and that we are the recipients of Thy gracious and continuous care.

We are told in Thy word that "Happy is that people whose God is the Lord." The men and women who first came to this country were seeking for Liberty of life and freedom to worship God. They found these blessings here but to maintain them had often to sacrifice their property and their lives.

Our first great leader pledged his life, his property and his sacred honor to win freedom for the people of his day. Another of our great leaders in a day rededicated to nation to the principle that all men are free and equal before the law. To-day our nation is threatened by a sinister foe who would destroy our manner of life, tear down our civilization and enslave our free people.

Give to us, we pray Thee, that leadership and that consecration on the part of all of us that will keep us true and faithful to Thee, and that which under Washington was founded and under Lincoln was sustained, shall under American men and women of to-day be fully preserved, and passed on to our children and children's children to remote generations.

All this we ask in the name of the Author of our Liberty, even Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WALKER and Mr. GELTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Geltz asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Clearfield, Mr. LETZLER.

Mr. McGinnis asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. MUNDY, on account of illness.

Mr. Stiefel asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. SHAPIRO, on account of illness.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

The PRESIDENT. The Chair clears his table and lays before the Senate a communication addressed to him as Chairman of the Senate, from the Building Owners and Managers Association of Pittsburgh, dated January 14, 1942. The communication states that the Building Owners and Manager's Association of Pittsburgh believes that existing laws regulating municipal expenditures are sound, workable and reasonable protection against waste, extravagance, favoritism, looseness or graft, and oppose any let down in these safeguards of the taxpayers' welfare to permit unregulated spot buying.

If there is no objection the communication will be noted in the Journal.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY GIRARDVILLE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The PRESIDENT. The Chair clears the table and lays before the Senate a communication from the Girardville Educational Association, dated February 6, 1942, recommending an appropriation or supplementary appropriation, in order to increase State subsidy to school districts in Pennsylvania.

REPORT OF THE DELAWARE RIVER JOINT COMMISSION

The PRESIDENT. The Chair clears his table and lays before the Senate a report of the Delaware River Joint Commission of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, for the year 1941. The report will be noted in the Appendix. The Chair is advised that copies of the report have been placed on the desks of each Senator.

COMMUNICATION URGING PASSAGE OF EQUITABLE CONGRESSIONAL REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, on behalf of myself and my colleague from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, I would like to present to the Chair a letter from the Civic Club of Allegheny County, and ask that it be spread upon the Journal.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the communication will be spread upon the Journal.

The communication read as follows:

CIVIC CLUB OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY

Hotel William Penn, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Hon. John M. Walker, The Senate, Harrisburg, Pa.

"My dear Mr. Walker:

"The Civic Club of Allegheny County has consistently impressed the members of the Legislature with the importance of passing an equitable Congressional Reapportionment Bill for Pennsylvania.

"We are advising you, as a member of the Legislature from Allegheny County, that the State Affairs Committee supported by the Board of Directors of the Civic Club of Allegheny County regards the bill before you as denying equal representation in Congress to every citizen in the State.

"The redistricting should be done by natural boundaries and in the interests of the various districts; for instance, the proposed northern district—30—proposes to take two of the wards of the Strip District in Pittsburgh and add to all that section of old Allegheny lying north of the Allegheny River.

"It is quite obvious that since Philadelphia has lost population it should lose on reapportionment.

"It does not follow that the Metropolitan Area of Pittsburgh should be cut up in the manner proposed, on the contrary, we insist that it should be kept together just as the Metropolitan Area of Philadelphia is to remain intact.

"It is the opinion of the Civic Club that proposals are obviously intended to create self-perpetuating jobs for the various congressmen who are now incumbents.

"We urge you to accept this criticism in all seriousness.

Sincerely, FRANK W. STONECIPHER, Chairman
State Affairs Committee"

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bill of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 1, (Senate Bill No. 33), entitled:

An Act concerning the election of representatives of the people of Pennsylvania to serve in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; providing for the apportionment of the Commonwealth into Congressional districts and for the election of one representative in Congress at large.

Which was committed to the Committee on Congressional Appointment.

HOME-COMING DINNER FOR THE HONORABLE GEORGE H. EARLE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, the committee arranging for the Home-Coming Dinner for Former Governor Earle, which is to be held tomorrow evening, Tuesday, February 24, have handed me a notice which I should like read to the members of the Senate.

THE PRESIDENT. The Clerk will read the communication.

The communication was read as follows:

"To the Members of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

"Gentlemen:

"The Home-Coming Dinner Committee cordially invites you to attend the Dinner and Ball for the Hon. George H. Earle, former Governor of Pennsylvania, to be held at the Zembo Mosque, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1942, at 6:30 p. m.

"Tickets for the affair are available to members from Mrs. Justine Cohen, Secretary to the Chief Clerk of the House."

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, in line with the letter of information just read relative to the home-coming dinner for George H. Earle, I might at this time add a few words regarding this affair and the guest of honor in order to bring before us the significance and importance of this occasion.

We are gathering tomorrow evening to honor a patriot who has had a unique as well as a useful career in American politics and diplomatic life. To the best of my knowledge, his first appearance in public life, as I recall it, was his appointment to the important post as minister to Austria. After distinguishing himself in the foreign service for which he showed an unusual aptitude, he was honored by the people of Pennsylvania by being elected the first Democratic Governor in this Commonwealth in 40 years. His administration has been recorded in history as the high water mark for social, humane and liberal legislation. He courageously adopted and applied the principal of "pay as you go" in a government whose economies were torn asunder by the most disastrous depression ever witnessed by the American people.

After this experience, he left active politics for the time being. However, his worth as a diplomat was again recognized by President Roosevelt and he was sent to Bulgaria into the seething tempest of the Balkans at a time when the whole world was at the edge of a precipice and was soon to be catapulted into another and greater conflagration of hate, death, destruction and despair, a holocaust greater than any yet recorded by civilized history. For his skillful and statesmanlike handling of his duties he has been credited by many students of international politics as being the main influence in keeping Bulgaria out the Axis powers until it was humanly impossible for that little country to withstand the pressure any longer. There is no question that he gained a wealth of knowledge and experience in his capacity as Ambassador in the excellent listening post in the Balkans.

While there, an incident occurred which to some at the time appeared humorous. However, in the light of after events, the blow struck by Earle in a truly American fashion seems to have been prophetic of the future. It can well be said that George Earle's individual, personal courage was exemplified that day when he struck a blow for freedom against Nazi oppression and intolerance in the same spirit that he served his country in the United States Navy in the last war at which time he was rewarded by a grateful country by being awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. The people of Pennsylvania can well be proud of George Earle whose experience as a statesman, diplomat and Naval Commander so ably fits him for any job of leadership.

I do not hesitate to say that I would follow George Earle into any battle whether it be political or military, with the full conviction that he would never ask or order me to do anything that he himself would not be willing to do first.

I don't know what the contents of his speech will be but I do believe that his talk will be of great interest to the members of this Senate who are at the present time struggling with a war-time Session and that perhaps his first-hand knowledge and service in some way can guide us in our deliberations.

I suggest, therefore, Mr. President, that the members of this Session who can find time to be there, attend this home-coming, non-political banquet tomorrow night in honor of George Earle, the ex-Governor of the State of Pennsylvania whose future becomes more and more linked with the destiny of this great State and Nation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Washington will proceed.

Mr. REED. Back through the years the American people have been severely tried and tested by national emergencies, but never has the Republic been confronted with a situation so grave as the one that faces her today.

We marvel at the success of our American Fathers; we view with pride the heroic services of those early patriots who brought us independence; we review again and again, with inner joy, the brave and noble work of that great host of American citizens that, untiringly and unselfishly, protected and guided the ship of State during the many dark and perilous periods of the past.

We ask—What gave them victory? What promoted their progress? What protected, undefeated and unimpaired, that noble Sovereignty, created by them, and given to us as a priceless heritage?

The answer comes to us from the obscure realm of the past. It arises from the lips of the patriot and the martyr, long since dead. They speak a plain, simple language that every true American understands and loves to hear. Fortunate, indeed, for them, they had no knowledge of the fantastic and complicated theory of society that some of our present day, self-styled intelligentia would have engrafted on the clean and strong body of the Republic.

No, their voice expressed the inner wishes of the soul; and the soul was inspired by a simple faith in the divine wisdom of Almighty God. In the other words, they were guided by that irrepressible spirit, that divine impulse, that sacred inspiration; that never knew defeat.

The past now opens before us and as we turn to some of the obscure pages of our noble history, disregarded of late by the rising form of the new Utopia, we discover the old-fashioned, substantial meaning of American patriotism as developed under a true form of democracy.

In the early days of the Revolution George Washington considered the advisability of bombarding the town of Boston, then held by the British. He presented the matter to the Continental Congress. John Hancock, President of Congress, was a large property holder in Boston. When the question came up, he left the chair and addressed the chairman of the Committee of the Whole in the following words: "It is true, sir; nearly all the property I have in the world is in houses and other real estate in the town of Boston; but if the expulsion of the British Army from it, and the liberties of the Country, require their being burnt to ashes—issue the order for that purpose immediately."

Do we have patriotism of this type burning in American breasts to-day? Are our leaders animated by the same spirit of devotion? Are such offers of sacrifice going out to vitalize the hope of the American people?

When we can answer truthfully in the affirmative, then we are on the way to victory. But so long as lusts for power, desires for war profits, cravings for congressional pensions, or any other base or selfish feeling motivate the American heart, then such sterling patriotism is impossible.

During the Revolution, Joseph Reed, a soldier and statesman of Pennsylvania, was approached by a fifth columnist of the crown, and his famous reply has since become a part of American tradition. General Reed said: "I am not worth purchasing, but such as I am, the King of Great Britain is not rich enough to buy me."

Joseph Reed was aid and secretary to Washington, Adjutant General of the American Army, a member of Congress, and President of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. His honorable activities in these several capacities have been generally forgotten. But the noble sentiments embodied in his famous reply were issues of the soul, and will live forever as an inspiration to the American people.

During the occupation of Long Island by the enemy, General Washington was desirous of having certain military information of a secret nature, and a young man in the American Army was selected to obtain the same. He was captured and hanged as a spy. He was not allowed the company of a clergyman or the use of the bible. But his soul burned with true American patriotism, and when the cruel jeers of the enemy had died away, he exclaimed "I only regret that I have not more lives to give to my Country."

Nathan Hale is dead, but his spirit will remain for all time with the American people.

The same patriotic spirit as exemplified in the words of John Hancock, in the reply of Joseph Reed, in the last words of Nathan Hale, has enflamed the soul of every true American in every period of threatened disaster, and directed their course to victory.

Mr. President, we cannot speak of this spirit of patriotism without including the name of Washington. At this season of the year the American people look back with pride to the days of George Washington. They honor his life; they praise his name; they worship his memory. He is to them the Father of American Freedom. His zeal touched the life of every soldier and patriot. His indomitable spirit, during the gloomy days of the Revolution and the critical period that followed, shone forth in exquisite brillance to light the way of his people to safety and honor.

He embraced the simple creed of the Fathers—devotion to the high and sacred ideals of the Soul. The American people loved this creed. It was the doctrine of the American home; it was taught in the little country school; it was expounded in the village church; it was felt by all. Out of it came the Republic.

We have the Republic today. But are the people of the Republic filled with the same patriotic devotion as agitated the lives of the early Fathers? Or has the of the Fathers been suppressed or destroyed by the appearence of the new Utopia of material things? I answer, the Republic is dying from within. The pure spirit that formerly animated its being has departed. Will it return to save us? The answer is with the American people. I regret that too many of our people have been led away by unclean spirits. I am sure that many have settled down with self satisfied ease, based on the promise that the Government will care for them. I feel that many have given too much attention to the new American policy that we can purchase security by the appropriation and expenditure of large sums of money.

They have lost the way. They are enveloped in the mists of the approaching storm. They are asleep with manifold dangers about them. Awake America! Arise from your ease. Shake off your indolence. Light again within your breast the patriotic spirit of the American Fathers. Directed by this spirit go forth in your might to the support of the Republic. Do not let the cry of selfish groups for more relief; for congressional pensions; for higher salaries; for lesser hours; and kindred demands, swerve you from your true purpose. The Republic must be saved. Learn now that the Republic cannot be saved by supporting her cause with one hand and playing party politics with the other. A just cause must have unity of action.

United, and full of the spirit of that brand of patriotism engendered by the American Fathers, the American people will present to the World an inspired fighting force, abundantly equipped with all the implements of modern warfare.

We must not forget that there is a right side and a wrong side to every cause. The Republic claims the side of right. In the spirit of the Fathers let us support our Country by diligently and conscientiously following the path of honest duty, suppressing the wrong and embracing the right, remembering at all times, "That righteousness exalteth a nation." Let us seize hold of the spirit of the great patriot Francis Scott Key as expressed in his immortal words, "Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just And this be our motto "In God is our trust."

If we forsake and fall below these high standards, established by the American Fathers through suffering and sacrifice, we may have America but we will not have the Republic.

We strive for victory and Democracy. Not the democracy of Japan. Not the democracy of Hitler. Not the democracy of Stalin. There is but one type of pure democracy—the democracy of our great and good George Washington. In the defense of such democracy we must succeed. O, may we take new courage to-day as we imbibe freely of the spirit of the American Fathers.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the gentleman from Washington has justly stated that a man can not advance the cause of the Republic with one hand, and yield in the other the cause of party politics. This is in substance restating the biblical injunction that man can not serve two masters, he will either serve God or serve mammon; he can not serve his country and party politics or foreign interests at the same time.

Indeed, it is consoling on this anniversary of the birth of the Father of his Country to note reverently his farewell admonitions to his fellow countrymen on the dark pitfalls of party, sectional and international politics. The great soldier, patriot and statesman would speak to us today as follows:

"Here, perhaps, I ought to stop. But a solicitude for your welfare, which can not end but with my life, and the apprehension of danger, natural to that solicitude, urge me, on an occasion like the present, to offer to your solemn contemplation, and to recommend to your frequent review, some sentiments which are the result of much reflection, of no inconsiderable observation, and which appear to me all important to the permanency of your felicity as a people. These will be offered to you with the more freedom, as you can only see in them the disinterested warnings of a parting friend, who can possibly have no personal motive to bias his counsel. Nor can I forget, as an encouragement to it, your indulgent reception of my sentiments on a former and not dissimilar occasion.

"Interwoven as is the love of liberty with every ligament of your hearts, no recommendation of mine is necessary to fortify or confirm the attachment.

"The unity of government which constitutes you one people is also now dear to you. It is justly so, for it is a main pillar in the edifice of your real independence, the support of your tranquility at home, your peace abroad; of your safety; of your prosperity; of that very liberty which you so highly prize. But as it is easy to forsee that, from different causes and from different quarters, much pains will be taken, many artifices employed to weaken in your minds the conviction of this truth; as this is the point in your political fortress against which the batteries of internal and external enemies will be most constantly and actively (though often covertly and insidiously) directed, it is of infinite moment that you should properly estimate the immense value of your national union to your collective and individual happiness; that you should cherish a cordial, habitual, and immovable attachment to it; accustoming yourselves to think and speak of it as of the palladium of your political safety and posperity; watching for its preservation with jealous anxiety; discountenancing whatever may suggest even a suspicion that it can in any event be abandoned; and indignantly frowning upon the first dawning of every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest, or to enfeeble the sacred ties which now link together the various parts.

"For this you have every inducement of sympathy and interest. Citizens, by birth or choice of a common country, that country has a right to concentrate your affections. The name of American, which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism more than any appellation derived from local discriminations. With slight shades of difference, you have the same religion, manners, habits, and political principles. You have in a common cause fought and triumphed together; the independence and liberty you possess are the work of joint counsels, and joint efforts of common dangers, sufferings, and successes.

"I have already intimated to you the danger of parties in the State, with particular reference to the founding of them on geographical discriminations. Let me now take a more comprehensive view, and warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of party generally.

"This spirit, unfortunately, is inseparable from our nature, having its root in the strongest passions of the human mind. It exists under different shapes in all governments, more or less stifled, controlled, or repressed; but, in those of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy.

"The alternate domination of one faction over another, sharpened by the spirit of revenge, natural to party dissension, which in different ages and countries has perpetrated the most horrid enormities, is itself a frightful despotism. But this leads at length to a more formal and permanent despotism. The disorders and miseries which result gradually incline the minds of men to seek security and repose in the absolute power of an individual; and sooner or later the chief of some prevailing faction, more able or more fortunate than his competitors, turns this disposition to the purposes of his own elevation, on the ruins of public liberty.

"Without looking forward to an extremity of this kind (which nevertheless ought not to be entirely out of sight), the common and continual mischiefs of the spirit of party are sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it.

"It serves always to distract the public councils and enfeeble the public administration. It agitates the community with ill-founded jealousies and false alarms, kindles the animosity of one party against another, foments occasionally riot and insurrection. It opens the door to foreign influence and corruption, which finds a facilitated access to the government itself through channels of party passions. Thus the policy and the will of one country are subjected to the policy and will of another.

"There is an opinion that parties in free countries are useful checks upon the administration of the government and serve to keep alive the spirit of liberty. This within certain limits is probably true; and in governments of a monarchical cast, patriotism may look with indulgence, if not with favor, upon the spirit of party. But in those of the popular character, in governments purely elective, it is a spirit not to be encouraged. From their natural tendency, it is certain there will always be enough of that spirit for every salutary purpose. And there being constant danger of excess, the effort ought to be by force of public opinion, to mitigate and assuage it. A fire not to be quenched, it demands a uniform vigilance to prevent its bursting into a flame, lest, instead of warming, it should consume.

"Observe good faith and justice towards all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct; and can it be, that good policy does not equally enjoin it? It will be worthy of a free, enlightened, and at no distant period, a great nation, to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence. Who can doubt that, in the course of time and things, the fruits of such a plan would richly repay any temporary advantages which might be lost by a steady adherence to it? Can it be that Providence has not connected the permanent felicity of a nation with its virtue? The experiment, at least, is recommended by every sentiment which ennobles human nature. Alas! is it rendered impossible by its vices?

"In the execution of such a plan, nothing is more essential than that permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular nations, and passionate attachments for others, should be excluded; and that, in place of them, just and amicable feelings towards all should be cultivated. The nation which indulges towards another a habitual hatred or a habitual fondness is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to is affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest. Antipathy in one nation against another disposes each more readily to offer insult and injury, to lay hold of slight causes of umbrage, and to be haughty and intractable, when accidental or trifling occasions of dispute occur. Hence, frequent collisions, obstinate, envenomed, and bloody contests. The nation, prompted by ill-will and resentment, sometimes impels to war the government, contrary to the best calculations of policy. The government sometimes participates in the national propensity, and adopts through passion what reason would reject; at other times it makes the animosity of the nation subservient to projects of hostility instigated by pride, ambition, and other sinister and pernicious motives. The peace often, sometimes perhaps the liberty, of nations, has been the victim.

"So likewise, a passionate attachment of one nation for another produces a variety of evils. Sympathy for the favorite nation, facilitating the illusion of an imaginary common interest in cases where no real common interest exists, and infusing into one the enmities of the other, betrays the former into a participation in the quarrels and wars of the latter without adequate inducement or justification. It leads also to concessions to the favorite nation of privileges denied to others which is apt doubly to injure the nation making the concessions; by unnecessarily parting with what ought to have been retained, and by exciting jealousy, ill-will, and a disposition to retaliate, and in the parties from whom equal privileges are withheld. And it gives to ambitious, corrupted, or deluded citizens (who devote themselves to the favorite nation), facility to betray or sacrifice the interests of their own country, without odium, sometimes even with popularity; gilding, with the appearance of a virtuous sense of obligation, a commendable deference for public opinion, or a laudable zeal for public good, the base or foolish compliances of ambition, corruption, or infatuation.

"As avenues to foreign influence in innumerable ways, such attachments are particularly alarming to the truly enlightened and independent patriot. How many opportunities do they afford to tamper with domestic factions, to practice the arts of seduction, to mislead public opinion, to influence or awe the public councils. Such an attachment of a small or weak towards a great and powerful nation dooms the former to be the satellite of the latter.

"Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence (I conjure you to believe me, fellow-citizens) the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake, since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government. But that jealousy to be useful must be impartial; else it becomes the instrument of the very influence to be avoided, instead of a defense against it. Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people, to surrender their interests.

"The great rule of conduct for us in regard to foreign nations is in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop."

Mr. President, on this 210th anniversary of George Washington and in the face of our present national and international relations, many Americans are inclined to wonder whether it might have been more prudent for the cause of this republic for our executives and legislators of recent years to have given greater thought and consideration to the solicitous admonitions of the Father of his Country, rather than to have yielded to those admonitions, the baneful caprices of party spirit and international mongering.

Almighty God the author of our being and the sustainer of our lives, enable us with due reverence and in godly fear to ask for divine guidance in all matters to come before this body, and to believe that Thou art more ready to give such guidance than we are to ask Thee for it.

We thank Thee for Thy providing and preserving care that has been over us through the days. All that we have needed has come to us from Thy generous hand.

We acknowledge Thy sovereignty over us and humbly confess our allegiance to Thee.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, for eight years now I have had the pleasure of serving with most of you, both in the House and in this Chamber. I have been elected and I have served here as a Democrat. True, oftentimes I broke away from the Democratic leadership; I did so when I thought that they were wrong.

I noticed by the papers that the Democratic Caucus last week had elected a new floor leader, a colleague of mine, and a fine man, Senator McGinnis. I am sorry that I shall not have the opportunity, I might say the privilege, of working with him. I know of no better selection that my colleagues could have made as floor leader; I think we all agree that Senator McGinnis is an outstanding party man and will fight his cause to his very end.

I say I am sorry that I can not work with him and I feel that I should rise on my feet and explain my position this afternoon, that my colleagues on both sides might know what I am doing and what my ambitions are.

I have tried, Mr. President, to influence both parties, the Democratic Party and the Republican Party, to enact certain legislation. That certain legislation was pertaining to the aged of our Commonwealth, to give a pension to those who never again will have the apportunity of going back to private industry. That has been a long battle but it has been fought in vain. I am satisfied now that neither party has any thought of placing within their platform any such program.

The second part of my battle has been that I have always disagreed with party leaders, both Democrat and Republican, when any person who had been compelled to apply for relief or old age assistance or widow's pension, must first assign their wordly goods on the dotted line for repayment of any moneys or any aid that he or she might receive, and the records show, Mr. President, that I have fought hard for years trying to abolish the present system of relief. That battle has been in vain.

I promised in one of my last talks during the last session that if neither party saw fit to place within their program some repealers that I would enter in 1942 a third party in Pennsylvania politics.

Therefore, Mr. President, I wish it to be known now that today I am announcing the preempting of a third party. In doing so I want it to be known that there is no malice in my heart towards any Democrat or any Republican in this Chamber or in this Commonwealth. They probably acted wisely, or at least they thought they did. So, I have no malice towards any of you gentlemen but I feel I have a right to fight for a cause.

It has been said that possibly I was born ten years too soon; that might be true. I will find myself from today on very much isolated; I will find I am a man without party, a man without a home. It takes courage, Mr. President, to break away from any party, you must agree. However, I am no politician, I never hope to be, and if I win, if once we have placed upon our statute books a pension law, I promise that never again will I seek public office. Up until such time I expect to seek public office and fight in my humble way for the cause I am fighting for now.

I am preempting a third party carrying my own name for Governor; I will have with me a running mate for Lieutenant-Governor; and I will have with me a running mate as Secretary of Internal Affairs. They will be men from great organizations and we expect to travel the width and breadth of this Commonwealth to place our cause before the voting public.

If I should be defeated, if that should be my lot, I have no fear, but I hope that I will bring back with me into this next session at least several liberal members in this Chamber and at least a number of members in the House, when, if we have a close House or close Senate, we might be able to give the people of Pennsylvania what they have been asking for.

Oftentimes we have said give us liberty or give us death, and the old people of Pennsylvania say to you give us security or give us death.

So, Mr. President, in these words I wish to break my relations, I might say my political relations with both parties I shall cast my vote from now on as I see fit; it might be with the Democratic group or it might be with the Republican group, but I am preempting my party because I feel only in that way will I be in position to carry my battle down to the home lines and let the people decide for themselves whether or not they believe the aged of our Commonwealth should have some security when they reach the autumn of their lives.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, even though gloom covers all the earth, and a black cloud shrouds the nations of the world, yet we Americans not only continue to look to Thee for guidance but express our gratitude for Thy eternal light which shines upon us.

In being thrust into this present crisis, make us conscious of both heaven and earth, and more especially of Thy promises to those who put their trust in Thee. Since we live in a world of unexpected developments and decisive events, we seek Thy blessing upon us as a State and Nation. May each man of this House find Thy benediction as in his private meditation he seeks Thy help in the discharge of his duties. Be with the men who are bearing arms for the cause of freedom.

Help us to emulate the best from a valiant leader of our country, of whom is inscribed;

"Washington, the brave, the wise, the good,
Supreme in war, in council, and in peace.
In disaster calm, in success moderate; in all, himself.

Who, when he had won all, renounced all, and sought in the bosom of his family and of nature, retirement, and in the hope of religion, immortality."

Hear our humble prayer. Amen.

RESOLUTION

SUSPENSION OF LAWS

Mr. BROWN offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 24, 1942.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been called into Extraodrinary Session by Proclamation of the Governor, in order to consider and adopt certain legislation which is deemed necessary as a result of the war in which this Nation is now engaged; and

Whereas, At the suggestion of the Governor, there has been introduced for adoption, a bill (Senate Bill No. 14), which would authorize him, in accordance with the recommendations of the State Council of Defense, to suspend or modify the operation of any laws, in whole or in part, during the continuation of the war; and

Whereas, Under Article 1, Section 12, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, there is grave doubt as to whether or not such broad authority to suspend or modify laws, as that which would be conferred by Senate Bill No. 14, would be valid; and

Whereas, The power to suspend or modify the operation of any laws, in whole or in part, as granted under Senate Bill No. 14, would, in practical effect, be equivalent to complete power to legislate, which would be an undoubted abrogation of its rightful functions on the part of the Legislature, in clear violation of Article 2, Section 1, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, which vests all legislative power in the General Assembly; and

Whereas, It is by no means certain that such broad powers, as those sought by the Governor under Senate Bill No. 14, which would make the Executive Branch of the Commonwealth paramount to the Legislative Branch, are necessary, or even advisable, as a means of aiding the Government of the United States or of this Commonwealth in prosecuting the present war; and

Whereas, An examination of the various statutes adopted by other states, both during the present and past World Wars, does not indicate that any such broad grant of power to suspend laws has been deemed proper elsewhere; and

Whereas, The present Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, could by recess, instead of adjournment, hold itself in a position to provide in a consittutional manner for the suspension, modification or enactment of any laws which may be found necessary or advisable for the prosecution of the war; and

Whereas, Any expenses which would be entailed by recess, instead of adjournment, could be largely minimized by proper legislative action; now therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That, if the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania satsifactorily establishes that there may be substantial need for the suspension or modification of laws during the continuation of the present war, the present Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly shall not adjourn finally, but shall recess only, and hold itself in readiness to consider and provide for such suspension or modification of statutes as is deemed advisable.

The SPEAKER. The resolution lies over for printing under the Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BROWN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker Members of the House, the supplemental proclamation of the Governor—presented to this General Assembly in its first item contains a proposal so sweeping that it calls for some expression on the part of the members of this House. In view of the fact that item number one of the supplemental call has been followed by Senate Bill No. 14, which is now in the Senate Committee, I do not deem it advisable to discuss Senate Bill No. 14 for fear that I might transgress upon the rules of procedure of this House.

However, I call your attention to the fact that item No. 1 of the Governor's Supplemental Proclamation namely:

> "Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged."

is embodied in the statement of powers asked for in Senate Bill No. 14, and therefore when we discuss the supplemental proclamation we are discussing Senate Bill No. 14.

I have presented a resolution which you were kind enough to allow to be read and I express the hope that the Select Committee will study the resolution carefully and see if we cannot cooperate with the Governor and with the other Departments of the Commonwealth in a legal and constitutional way during this emergency.

I say to the Governor that this Legislature, in the language of a distinguished jurist of this state, "has no power to barter away its essential attributes of sovereignty," and if we pass legislation as has been proposed by the Governor so that item No. 1 of his supplemental proclamation becomes law we will be bartering away the essential attributes of our sovereignty.

I say to the Governor that he knows or he should know that the people of this Commonwealth will not stand for any person or any body of persons who would attempt at this time of crisis in our history to undermine the fundamental principles upon which this government rests. I say to him and I say to the members of this House that our Constitution recognizes the three coordinate, separate and distinct branches of the government, as the cornerstone of our freedom: it has survived in the past and it will survive in the future.

I call your attention, as I have before, to the address of George Washington as he presided over the Constitutional Convention when he said: "Let us raise a standard to which the just and wise will repair"; not destroy, not tear down, but "a standard to which the wise and just will repair."

I say if there needs to be a modification or a suspension of laws of this Commonwealth, those laws can be modified, those laws can be suspended in a constitutional way only by the Legislature which has the sole authority to make laws.

Isn't it a rather absurd thing to say that the Constitution as is provided for by Article II, Section 1, wherein the sole right to legislate is vested in the Legislature, and at the same time propose to give to some administrative body, not answerable to the people, the right to modify and suspend any law which in their opinion might affect the prosecution of this war.

Nothing so drastic and unprecedented has been done in any General Assembly in any Commonwealth of this nation or in the Congress of this nation.

We heard the President last night bring to our minds the memorable words of one of the most profound thinkers of this nation when he said: "Tyranny is like hell, hard to conquer." Such legislation as has been proposed by the Governor, although he may be so far as he is concerned and so far as the Council of Defense is concerned, patriotic citizens, is the first step towards tyranny, and we ought to be admonished by those words of those profound thinkers and writers of the past to steer our ship clear from any such proposal.

Our constitutional government has sustained us throughout all the trying times of the past. Coming up on the train today, I had the honor to read a famous book by Prof. Harold J. Laski who tells us that this government has gone through five distinct crises: In 1789 to start with the Republic, George Washington was at the head; in 1800 Jefferson was our leader; in the crisis of 1861 Abraham Lincoln was at the head and in the crisis of 1914 Woodrow Wilson was our president. In the crisis of our depression Franklin D. Roosevelt guided us. There Mr. Laski stopped because his book was published prior to what happened to us in December 1941. The sixth crisis is our present emergency and we have as our head Franklin D. Roosevelt. Our president has asked for no such power as have been asked for by the Governor of this Commonwealth.

Therefore I have presented this resolution which will call for patriotism on our part and if need be to stay in session. That we will not adjourn but we will recess, but before recessing we will pass sufficient legislation so that there will be but little expense to the people of this commonwealth.

I say in closing while today men are dying in the air and while men are dying on the surface of the earth and are dying on the surface of the sea and the ocean and underneath the surface of the seas and the oceans for the protection and the preservation of the constitutional government of our United States of America, for in it and through its operation we find freedom, liberty, justice and equality, that the least we can do as patriotic citizens is to remain on the firing line and keep intact the constitution of Pennsylvania and the Constitution of the United States.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid on the table.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I listened with a great amount of interest, as I always do, to the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown. We all know that he never approaches any subject on the floor of the House without careful study and consideration, and for his views, on legal matters particularly, we all have profound respect.

I would not attempt at this time to debate the issue which is raised because I do not feel that we have arrived at the point where there is any difference of opinion between us. I think all of us are trying to approach this problem from the standpoint of the necessity of the times, and that is the proper thing to do. I would be the last one to give away any of the prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government to the executive. I think I have stood here in enough battles on that problem to feel that whatever I say must be taken at its full face value.

However, I think that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, perhaps inadvertently in the resolution which he submitted made a mistake when he said that no past or present legislation of any of the states is as drastic—I will put it that way because I do not remember his exact words—that no piece of legislation is as drastic as that which has been submitted to this special session. I am very reliably advised—I have not seen the statutes, but I am very reliably advised that Massachusetts within a very short space of time, several days, has passed an act granting to the Governor power to do almost anything by executive order, power similar to that which Congress has granted to the President of the United States, to do almost anything by executive order. I understand there he has power to set aside law, without any check upon him; it is within his power as chief executive.

I know that within the last couple of months the New Jersey Legislature granted wide, sweeping powers to the Governor of New Jersey. I happened to be in a meeting with the leader of the Senate of New Jersey who told me he was offering a bill the following Monday in the Legislature of New Jersey which was going to give the Governor of New Jersey sweeping powers in the war emergency.

I have conversed with several Governors who told me that under their constitutions their attorneys-general have told them that they have sweeping powers to do almost anything that was necessary in the emergency. And so I might go on. Connecticut or Rhode Island has also passed a measure that is far more sweeping than anything heretofore passed, giving great powers to the Governor, the Chief Executive of the Commonwealth.

I think in view of these things there must be some indication—it is not necessarily so because some other state does it that Pennsylvania must keep up with the Joneses, but there must be some indication that Legislatures in the United States were thinkng that there must be some necessity for the granting of extensive powers to their Chief Executives, in order that we may not only carry on the plan of defense but also the production of materials to supply our armed forces, as well as in the matter of civilian defense.

The second thing I would like to say to keep the record straight, if I may, is that I feel it is unfair to place the Governor in the position of asking for himself some kind of dictatorial powers. I do not so read the bill as it has been introduced, nor do I so understand the proposal, a proposal which leaves with the State Council of Defense a recommendation and determination; a Council of Defense consisting of besides the Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor, the President pro tem of the Senate, the Speaker of the House, the Auditor General and the State Treasurer. There are five members of that body who are independent of the Executive Branch of the government and the Chief Executive. It certainly seems to me that a proper check has been furnished in the proposal.

I am not saying that I agree with the proposal that we need to grant to somebody power to suspend our laws or to revise them. I am not ready to take that stand at the moment, but I do say it is rather unfair, as the gentleman from Allegheny did, to lay that matter in the lap of the Governor of the Commonwealth as asking for extensive powers, when it seems to me that the powers asked for are so hedged about with restrictions, both by the fact that there will have to be a recommendation by the Council of Defense which has on it elective and other officers who are not a part of the Executive Branch of the government, and also by the fact that it is subject to review by the Courts. Certainly no greater protection could be thrown around a proposal, and certainly no one who is grasping for power or trying to assume dictatorial power would place any check or balance of that kind upon it. In addition this proposal is to remain in existence only sixty days after the next session of the Legislature begins.

I again say I do not intend to debate the matter with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown. Certainly on the question of delegation of authority or the handing over of the prerogatives of the legislature I am in accord with him, and I am not ready to say that I have felt it is necessary to grant extensive powers for revision. I have run up against the restrictions imposed upon the municipal governments and know the difficulties which are experienced by our municipal governments under the present exigency, so that I know there is some necessity to relax here and there the restrictions we have in effect at this time, if we are to function and if the local governments and the state government is to function during the crisis.

Therefore, let us not approach it on the highly emotional basis of what we free men in the coordinated branch of the legislature feel should be done, but let us approach it from a practical standpoint of what is the emergency, what is the necessity, what is the best way to handle it.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is my feeling in relation to Senate Bill No. 14, in which the Governor has asked extraordinary powers, that in the first instance this House, and as a matter of fact the Legislature should endeavor to learn what laws need modification under present conditions and also what laws might need to be suspended. To that end, Mr. Speaker, I today addressed a letter to each and every Department head, requesting him promptly to advise me what laws pertaining to his Department or what laws which are administered by his Department need suspension or modification.

I believe that once we get the entire picture and learn what is needed in the Commonwealth in that particular line, the question and the problem will resolve itself; at least it strikes me that that is the orderly method of procedure, first to ascertain what is needed and then act upon that need.

FORMER MEMBER INTRODUCED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair at this time would like to invite to the rostrum a former member of the House, Judge L. Kenneth Harkins of the Municipal Court of Allegheny County.

REMARKS BY HONORABLE L. KENNETH HARKINS

HON. L. KENNETH HARKINS. Mr. Speaker and my former colleagues, it is a real pleasure to be back. It seems just like last summer when I used to hear my two colleagues, Representative Brown and Representative Turner making those fine speeches. I see the House is just like it used to be. Representatives Brown and Turner are still carying on their fine debates. Just as usual, Mr. Turner is agreeing with Mr. Brown, only saying something different.

I told the Speaker that I knew all you fellows would be glad to hear a long speech, but since I can only give short sentences I won't be able to make a long speech.

I noticed that the Speaker is carrying Philadelphia out inot Allegheny County again when he says Municipal court. There are no Municipal Court Judges in Allegheny County, and we forget all about the Common Pleas Court down there when we say County Court, because it seems at throughout the rest of Pennsylvania everybody says ounty Courts. So, as far as I am concerned, the County ourt is the Court in Allegheny County.

It is really very fine to be here, and I know I will watch ith keen delight and interest the results of this session. I want to take this opportunity to thank my Republican lleagues from Allegheny County who told me they would so glad to have the chance of filling the seat that I uld vacate with a Republican, that they would vote r me. I really appreciate those votes. Fortunately I dn't quite need the three or four that I got, but anyway they were welcome and I was glad to have them.

The SPEAKER. I wish the Judge would come down to see our beautiful Municipal Court building. I do not think he would mind moving down there.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. RHEA. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, February 25, 1942, at 1 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 3:40 p. m.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, February 25, 1942.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., E. W. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

O God, the Eternal, who is and was and always will be, before whose face the generations rise and linger for a little while and pass away, grant to us while we have the light of day the light of the knowledge of the glory of God. Thus we shall learn that there is no limit to Thy loving care.

Our fathers in their pilgrimage walked with Thee, trusted in Thy promises and fell asleep in the firm belief that they would meet the embrace of the God of the living.

May we, the children of to-day, emulate their faith and good works, that we have their peace now, and in ages to come their blessedness.

We pray that Thou wilt give us grateful hearts as we consider the favors that crown our days. Let us learn by adversity, if this is Thy will for us, that by adversity nations and individuals are brought to a realization of their need of divine direction and assistance. Thus in times past Thou hast dealt with Thy people and by process of refining hast eliminated the weak and the unworthy. Refine every debasing substance from our characters that we may be of real value to Thee and to our nation in these trying times.

Give to Thy servants, the President of these United States and to the Governor of this Commonwealth, the wisdom that cometh from above. Bless this session of the Senate. In all their deliberations and conclusions may Thy will be done. We ask all in the name of our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS NOT TO APPROVE OR AUTHORIZE CONSTRUCTION OF PROPOSED ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 25, 1942.

The often re-appearing question of the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway is again pending in the Congress of the United States.

Now, when every available dollar and every hour of productive effort is needed in starting the offensive warfare promised by our President, it seems most unwise to expend our money and effort for the accomplishment of anything that is not urgent at this time.

All available money, material and man power should be used now to insure and bring about a speedy conclusion of the war. To do otherwise will prolong the war and result in the needless sacrifice of many American lives.

The construction of the contemplated seaway can add nothing to a successful offensive and the man power diverted from the production of weapons of war may contribute to disaster, therefore be it,

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is opposed to the construction of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway at this time on account of the necessary and consequent expenditure of funds and the use of man power, both of which are vitally necessary to carry on the offensive warfare, promised by our military and naval leaders, and to successfully terminate the war, and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Congress of the United States not to approve or authorize the construction of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and Representative elected from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting against the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. CARR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, February 25, 1942.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 2, 1942, at four o'clock p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 2, 1942, at nine o'clock p. m.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

MRS. ARTHUR H. JAMES PRESENTED

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is going to assume a little authority, in that he is going to ask that a short recess be taken and that the Senators remain in their seats.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland tell me whether or not he was the author of a resolution at the last session of the General Assembly setting up a ten man board to investigate or to work out a decent reapportionment bill?

Mr. DENT. That is right.

Mr. HALUSKA. Did that resolution pass, Mr. President?

Mr. DENT. Yes.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, was the gentleman from Westmoreland a member of the committee?

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. At that time or at the time the committee decided upon coming to some conclusion with respect to this bill, did you consider at any time or did the committee consider giving some relief to the twenty-seventh district of this Commonwealth?

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President, we did.

Mr. HALUSKA. Did you arrive at any conclusion?

Mr. DENT. Well, Mr. President, the conclusion arrived at by the committee is set forth in the bill now before us. We could not get a solution that was satisfactory to everybody but we did get some solution and that to our minds was better than none at all.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, did the committee really have knowledge of the fact that the district I am now speaking of, in which I reside, is the second largest district in this Commonwealth.

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President, that was known to the committee and that caused quite a bit of controversy and quite a bit of discussion in the committee. I again repeat that although the bill which came out of the committee does not touch the twenty-seventh district you will find that the committee members themselves, individually and collectively, thought that something ought to be done concerning the twenty-seventh district, but in arriving at a solution to the problem we could not get that district taken care of.

Mr. HALUSKA. Was it not possible, Mr. President, to at least take some of the counties that are not connected with Cambria County and join them to some other district.

Mr. DENT. May I have that question repeated, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Was it not possible for the committee to at least take one of the four counties away from the twenty-seventh district and tie it in with some other district?

Mr. DENT. For the information of the Senator and the Senate, we had arrived at a tentative agreement following the letter sent out by myself on November 4, 1941, in which I offered a proposal which would have eliminated a congressional district from the County of Allegheny. In this proposal it was also a part of the program to take Jefferson County out of the twenty-seventh district and change the twenty-seventh district with some of the neighborhood districts. However, when that plan was blocked the substitute plan which was later submitted ignored the twenty-seventh, and as a member of the committee I could not do anything but go along.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am not going to speak long concerning my district. I think the record shows that at the last session I explained in detail my reasons for opposing any bill that came before this assembly unless it gave some relief to the twenty-seventh district. We have the second largest district in this Commonwealth.

Ten years ago, when we saw fit to cut one congressman off our list, the eyes of the General Assembly turned toward Cambria County, which was a district all by itself, and they added thereto the counties of Indiana, Jefferson and Armstrong.

We had hoped, Mr. President, that the next time we would be confronted with this problem, this district would get some relief. It seems now that the General Assembly is paying no attention whatsoever to that district. They have taken the easiest way out.

The gentleman from Westmoreland has said they were all conscious of the fact that the district should have some relief but they closed their eyes and let it go by.

We have now before us what I would term purely a fake bill, the way I see it. It is fine to go back home and say you have done your job. You have done that, but how? I can not and I will not vote for any measure that might be before us unless it has some relief for the twenty-seventh congressional district. I am very much disappointed and at the last session I tried, in vain of course, to be placed on that committee. I tried to give the members of that committee some light as to why my district should be reduced. I was ignored.

They have placed on that committee other members who had no reason to be on it and naturally they did not bring forth the real facts, so once again it appears that the people of the twenty-seventh district will take a licking and you men here will go back home with great pride and say we have done a good job, we will not run them at large, and as far as I am concerned you may as well run them at large because our man who represents that district, whether Republican or Democrat, can not do justice to his people.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I did not know I was going to say anything about this matter, but for the benefit of the Senator from Cambria, when the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, introduced the proposition he stated a moment ago, seven of us voted for that, but that did not do any good; if you could not get Achterman and Kilroy to go along there was not any use.

There is not any compromise that will suit everybody. We know that this is a bad bill, but it was the only conclusion that could be reached. I still think it is not so bad—although it does hurt some of my political friends on both sides, but we either had to take the position that we were going to protect the people of Pennsylvania or we were going to elect Congressmen at large and distress all the people, accept a poor substitution.

I refused in the committee when the Majority Leader of the House said, "you introduce the bill in the Senate and I will introduce it in the House," and I said, "I will never put my name on it, it is a bad piece of legislation." I am just as much ashamed of this bill as you are.

I can only say, to be absolutely fair, that we could not get any satisfaction or adjustment, and in my opinion a divided House never can make a satisfactory apportionment plan. I think you will all agree to that, but we passed our word and as far as I am concerned I am going to keep the bargain. We signed and delivered to the Governor this proposition and on the strength of that he called an extra session and it comes with poor grace for us now not to go along with it.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, for the informaton of my distinguished friend from Dauphin, I wish to assure the members of the Senate that I am not ashamed to vote for this bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to add a few words to those stated by Senator Taylor, for the simple reason that it has become quite apparent to me that this child has no father or mother. The bill belongs to nobody, and yet it is going to be the law of the state.

I was particularly amused during the discussions and debates on the bill in committee by the avowed intentions of every member of the committee to have some kind of a reapportionment bill but no one knew just what to do about it.

To prove to you that we did have some different kinds of proposals I have made a careful file of all the proposals submitted and I think if you will look those over you will find that we have enough proposals here to reapportion the entire United States and perhaps the world.

I want to say that I did take exception to some of the remarks contained in some of the Pittsburgh newspapers to the effect that this plan was the Dent plan. You know, I would feel it an honor if I had the power to submit to this Senate and to this General Assembly a bill that would pass without any argument such as this one has, because there are only some remarks made, not really any argument against it, and I would be proud to except the sponsorship of this act for that reason, but I want to say that the Honorable Charles H. Ealy, President Pro-Tempore of this Senate and myself, who are blamed in most of the newspapers for the language of this bill and the make up of it, are not to blame at all.

I proposed that Allegheny County lose a Congressman as a way out of the mess, and the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Ealy, stepped forward and said, "Gentlemen, if it will help to break the deadlock, if it will help to get Pennsylvania congressmen elected in their respective districts, I would be willing to see my district take on more population," and out of that remark, why, he was later branded by someone as the sponsor of this obnoxious piece of legislation.

I know Governor James does not want to sign this bill, he knows the bill is not anything but a makeshift bill—he does not know it any better than the members of the Committee who signed the proposal—but I know that the Governer will sign it just the same as the members of the Committee signed the proposal and just the same as the members of this Senate will vote for it, because it is of more importance for the people of Pennsylvania that the principles of Democracy be maintained, that the elected officials represent them in Congress from their respective districts, rather than allow it to become a hodge podge election, in which men not qualified for office by training might be elected because of the chaos that would take place if you allowed men and women to run at large in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, Allegheny County ought not to feel very bad that they are going to lose a Congressman, but really they will not lose anything, they still have four Congressmen, and out where I come from we cover more area than you do with your four and we have only one Congressman. In fact, they would all be better off if they had only one because you would not have so many fights.

In the old days when they traveled by horse and wagons and bicycles, later on, it was all right to have more Congressmen so that they would not have to cover such large districts and so that they could cover the area and talk to their people, but today with trains and automobiles—if you can get tires—and airplanes, and so on, why, one Congressman could pretty near represent a district. Why, look, we are represented in Congress now, in the Senate—I think we are represented—by two men.

It is not so bad. If you people pass the right kind of laws in Pennsylvania and keep from chasing industry away, as you have been doing the last several years, pass a decent type of legislation and reduce taxes to the point where they ought to be, you will bring more people back into Pennsylvania and by the time of the next census we might gain two or three congressmen.

So, let us not be ashamed of this piece of legislation; let us admit it is bad but let us also admit that we defy any person in Pennsylvania to come forward with a better plan, in spite of the attempts to belittle the efforts of the members of this committee, when they say they will accept anything except this, when you touch our district it is bad, take it from anyone else, but together they could say, just as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro said, he will vote for this bill, but I can just picture him, bellowing and hollering, he would put up a fight if we had taken one out of Philadelphia. That is the motivating spirit on the part of all of them, everybody is very willing to lose somebody else's congressman, and so, without being criticized too much, I think the members of the committee ought to be complimented a little by the members of the Senate for at least getting some solution to a darn bad problem.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAYLOR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Dauphin tell me whether or not I am to understand now, under this act as proposed, a congressman will be elected at large for ten years or for only this year?

Mr. TAYLOR. He could be for ten years, Mr. President; he will be elected for two years only, the same as the rest of the congressmen, but unless this law is repealed at a regular session of the legislature, this law would carry on for ten years. No congressman is elected for more than two years.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, do I understand the men that are elected could be proposed for reelection for the next five terms under this act.

Mr. TAYLOR. Surely, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, did I understand the gentleman from Dauphin to say also that seven members of this committee had different plans but two gentlemen, called Achterman and Kilroy, had overridden your plans and your good judgment; it that true?

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, to tell the truth, Mr. President, if my memory serves me right we had practically all agreed, except one member, and then later in the evening, after some conference over the telephone, a certain gentleman came back and said that if we thought we understood, we misunderstood. We knew when they went out to telephone that it was not agreeable to certain people and we thought that was the finish.

Now, after we had adjourned, and we drew up an agreement, and we were having dinner about seven o'clock in the evening, and about nine o'clock in the evening there was a misunderstanding—and, incidentally, I felt so good about it I paid for the dinner.

Mr. HALUSKA. Am I to understand, once more, Mr. President, this one member, whoever he might be, really is entirely responsible for this plan?

Mr. TAYLOR. No, Mr. President, I tried to say a moment ago, maybe I did not make it clear enough, it is not possible to get congressional reapportionment without the leaders of the House and it is not possible, I think, with a divided House.

We surrendered. We are willing to admit that we surrendered because if you could not get it through the House there is no use in talking about it or in putting a bill through the Senate. I have every respect for those gentlemen but I will still stick to that.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I believe what the gentleman says and I believe that the committee worked hard and I am of the opinion that the gentleman from Westmoreland should be complimented. I am satisfied to give him a rising vote of thanks.

However, Mr. President, it is just too bad when one man in this great Commonwealth has sufficient powers to say to such a committee you will take my plan or you will take nothing, and then in the same breath you rise on this floor and say it will be a bad state of affairs if we elect congressmen at large. At least, you would have thirty-three men representing us, but now we have one man, your Speaker of the House, the leader of the House or whatnot, that he should have sufficient powers to tell this entire committee, have any plan you wish, I will not agree to it, and if I do not agree to it it is just too bad. And you speak of Communism, Bolshevism and Hitlerism. It is too bad in this Commonwealth when any one man gets so powerful he can dictate to the entire Senate or the entire House as to what type of bill shall be presented to this Governor for his approval. I am ashamed to think of it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not think the gentleman from Dauphin left the impression or intended to leave the impression here that any one man blocked any one particular plan. I want to say here this bill is not the desire of any one particular man on that committee. If you look at it you will see it affects fifteen or sixteen counties and we all put our two cents worth into it.

No individual dictated the bill, Mr. President, no individual took a position of take his plan or not.

And I also want to say that Elmer Kilroy, the Speaker of the House, when he attended our meeting he was cooperative and tried his utmost to help untangle the situation. He and the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Ealy, were members of the committee ex-officio.

Mr. Kilroy did not at any time declare himself for or against any particular plan and I do not want that impression to get around.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I want it definitely and distinctly understood that I did not refer to that, I thought I was speaking about the proposal of taking one out of Allegheny—taking one away from Jefferson. At that time some people left the room. I do not say they telephoned one man, I do not know how many men they telephoned, but I know they telephoned because they admitted when they came back "our people will not agree to this." The final plan, I will say, came from the committee; the final plan came from the committee because somebody proposed that plan, because it was impossible otherwise we could not reach a conclusion. I do not recall who proposed that we take one from the Republicans and one from the Democrats and have one run at large. That came from the committee itself. That was finally agreed upon, with this exception, if I may take the liberty of saying so, I said provided you take one out of a metropolitan district from the Democratic side. I think that states my position.

I do not want you to think that for a moment of Elmer Kilroy, who was very cooperative on this question, and he would go along with almost anything except to take one out of Philadelphia.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 3, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine, section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, further regulating indebtedness of political subdivisions.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, what I will say briefly falls under two heads, first, the intrinsic merits of this proposal and, secondly, an emotional appeal to my colleagues to vote for it.

This Joint Resolution does not directly repeal the personal property tax; it is an attack upon that very unscientific four mills county tax. We have said so often, and over and over again, so long as the personal property tax is united with the assessed value of real estate to determine the borrowing capacity it is impossible to repeal the four mills tax.

The goal, the real objective of this movement, is to set up in Pennsylvania a graduated income tax, and I believe both the Republicans and the Democrats favor such a tax; no other tax is as scientific as a graduated income tax.

The Senator from Erie, our very handsome Mr. Ziesenheim, objected in caucus that I was putting the cart before the horse. If you believe in a graduated income tax, he said, why not enact it? Well, the answer to that is that no voter is going to vote a double tax on himself, namely, an income tax plus a personal property tax and that was the trouble, of course, with the Joint Resolution which the gentleman from Berks, Senator Ruth, introduced at the last session and which passed both Houses and will be reenacted, I suppose, at the next session and then put up to the people.

The trouble is that the voter will hesitate and probably will not put himself in a position of paying two taxes.

I might say that if there are certain Senators who believe in the personal property tax, that it is a good tax, I have no argument with those men whatever, but I believe a majority of this Senate has been converted to the idea we ought to get rid of the personal property tax and if anyone knows of any other way of getting rid of it I would be very happy, but this seems the only way. It is indirect and slow, I admit.

I might say as a kind of postscript that anyone who has any doubt as to how to vote can really with a clear conscience vote for this Joint Resolution, because I would say the chances of this Joint Resolution being really enacted are about the same as Senator Haluska's third party. I would put it in that category. Democrats, perhaps some of the Senate Democrats, will admit that in the House there is no longer Democracy with a little "d"; it is Democracy with a capital "D", and all legislation there is submitted to a special committee, and if this goes to the House it will also be submitted to that special committee.

I have in all these years, as you know, been either a hero or a martyr, mostly martyr, in trying to amend the Constitution. Someone has said, some statesmen has described the Constitution as a rudder to steer the Ship of State; their statement was that it is an anchor. Well, after my experience over these years I am convinced that it is an anchor, that the Ship of State is anchored very, very firmly. In our committee meeting we had to lift the anchor three times, three Joint Resolutions, and this is one of them.

I hope that you will vote with the feeling that if you do not like it, it will never get beyond the special committee in the House, and as my doctor is probably going to order me to go south I could have a pleasanter vacation if I thought the Senate had supported this resolution and therefore from this very important point of view I I ask you to vote "aye".

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, a bill similar to this one was introduced in the last General Assembly and for many reasons it was never enacted into law. Since that time great changes have taken place in the nation, we are now at war, and the attitude of people towards legislation that was once unfavorable is now favorable.

In the last general session, of 1941, it seemed that there was great opposition to a bill of this kind by employes or the labor leaders of the state, and their opposition was based on the notion that the bill was outlawing the rights of employes to strike or to picket lawfully.

In order that there may be some clarification of that point I think that it is well for us to express our opinions as to just how far this bill that is now before us might go.

It is true that Section 7 in general terms seeks to protect employes in matters of collective bargaining in their concerted activities and mutual aid in the formation of unions and labor organizations, but the section is in rather general terms and it is susceptible of construction that might be unfavorable.

I really think that we should state here on the record the exact legislative intent and purpose of this bill and I think that the gentleman from Clinton, who introduced the bill, is the gentleman that I think should state that, and to that end I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Stevenson, on this matter.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clinton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEVENSON. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish the gentleman from Clinton would answer me this question; is it the legislative intent and purpose of this bill to outlaw strikes and picketing conducted in the lawful exercise of the rights of employes and their representatives to self-organization, to form, join or associate with labor organizations, to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choice, and to engage in concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining and for mutual aid and protection.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I think the gentleman from Fayette in his preliminary remarks referred to Section 7; it should be Section 12.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Section 12.

Mr. STEVENSON. In my opinion the legislative intent is to properly safeguard the vested rights of labor in every legal way possible. Strikes or picketing, when conducted lawfully, are properly safeguarded in Section 12 of this bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Then, Mr. President, it is the opinion of the gentleman from Clinton that Section 12 includes in that protection employes or their representatives when engaged in lawful strikes and picketing.

Mr. STEVENSON. Yes, it is, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. And that is the legislative intent and purpose that you have in mind in inserting Section 12 in this act.

Mr. STEVENSON. That is my understanding.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Thank you, sir.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, the Senator from Fayette has referred to former legislation upon this same subject. I am rather familiar with the history of that legislation inasmuch as I was the sponsor of that bill. The bill today introduced is based largely upon the former bill and is in many respects identical with the former bill.

I may say that bill, which was introduced by me at the session of 1941, was the result of a request made by the Attorney General of the United States of America for a conference of the Attorneys General of all the states of the union, together with peace officers, who assembled in Washington and I will read to you, if I may, an extract from the Harvard Law Review of 1941, which reads in part as follows, the article is headed "The Model Sabotage Prevention Act" and it reads: "The prevention of sabotage is a vital cog in the machinery of national defense. Sabotage is far more dangerous now than it has ever been in the past, because in the mechanized war of today the products of the factory are essential to the success of the army. In the first World War, armies required quite some mechanical equipment, but today the need not only for guns but for airplanes, tanks and trucks as well is many times as great. If our country is to prepare for a possible modern war and is actively to pursue its now openly avowed policy to assist England in defeating the Axis powers, every available factory must work at top speed. Destruction of machinery, factories and utilities will spell defeat just as surely as rout in the field.

"A realistic appreciation of the importance of preventing sabotage and other subversive activities led the Department of Justice, the Inter-State Commission on Crime, the National Association of Attorneys General, the Governors' Conference, and the Council of State Governments to call the Federal State Conference on law enforcement problems of national defense. The model sabotage prevention act is one of the acts drafted as a result of this conference."

As a member of the Inter-State Crime Commission appointed by His Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth I, in company with the Attorney General of this Commonwealth, attended the conference, which lasted some few days. We were addressed by the Attorney General of the United States, now upon the Supreme Bench of the United States, and this model act was a result of that conference and suggestion of not only the Attorney General's office but of all peace officers all over the United States of America, who agreed upon a model sabotage act.

This act as it is now presented to the Senate is in substantially the same form, in fact, as the bill that I introduced at the last session and which passed the Senate at that time but died a natural death in one of the committees over in the House. I have compared that bill that was passed at the 1941 session with the bill which is now before us and I find, taking up section by section, it is almost the same.

The title, with the exception that there is an addition of highways and travel thereon, which appears in the bill itself, is the same. Section 2 is the same and on page 2 the first paragraph, proper authority, and the second paragraph, political subdivisions, are new in this act; section three is practically the same; section four practically the same; secton five is identical in language; section six is identical in language; section seven is identical in language; in section eight there has been some addition to subsections a, b, c, d and e. Section seven is exactly the same except that it adds individual partnerships, various corporations, political subdivisions or their representatives. Section nine appearing in the bill now before the Senate is new. Section ten is exactly the same; section eleven is new; section twelve is the same and section thirteen is new.

That bill which was prepared and placed in my hands for introduction was modeled from the act which was as a result of the conference held in Washington, and in speaking of the labor clause, mentioned by my friend from Fayette County, I desire to quote from that proposed act. I am reading now from the model act, proposed section eleven, rights of labor: "Nothing in this act shall be construed to impair, curtail or destroy the rights of employes and their representatives to self organization, to form, join, or assist labor organizations, to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and to engage in activities, for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid or protection."

At that time the very question raised by the gentleman from Fayette was raised in that discussion and the conclusion was, at least by the members and representatives at that meeting, that the rights of labor were amply protected.

I think that will answer your question, sir.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, speaking as I have before on several occasions as Legislative Chairman, Department of Pennsylvania, American Legion, I feel that I would be remiss in my duties if I did not state for the record that not only the Department of Pennsylvania, American Legion but the affiliated organizations heartily approve of passage of this act and that they feel that the rights of labor are adequately protected in the bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe it is necessary to have some type of legislation on the books. I believe this bill will serve that purpose, if it is administered by men who will use good judgment. I would hate to think, if I helped in the passing of this legislation, that it could be used to frame or railroad any particular individual in an industrial plant who because of accident or unavoidable circumstances might be the indirect or direct cause of sabotage of production, although there was no intention to do so.

I believe the bill can be interpreted by those who administer it to give fair play in cases such as I have just mentioned and with that thought in mind, that all of us will do our utmost in this crisis to see that our wheels of production are not stopped, I intend to vote for the bill, but I sincerely hope no person in Pennsylvania will take advantage of some of the provisions of this act that could be administered very unfairly to those who produce.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MALLERY, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 25, on third reading, entitled:

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 26, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article eight section eleven of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows

Section 1 The following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof

Article eight section eleven of the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 11 Townships and wards of cities and boroughs shall form or be divided into election districts of compact and contiguous territory and their boundaries fixed and changed in such manner as may be provided by law

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to ask one of the sponsors of the bill to explain the purpose of this bill.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, under a recent decision by Judge Shull, District Court, 41D and C, 1, he held that the provisions of the election code relating to this subject were restrictive of the rights of courts and therefore unconstitutional. That means now that the laws of Pennsylvania as set up by the Legislature are no longer effective in the matter of the division of election districts.

Therefore, Mr. President, it resolves itself down to a point where each judge will form his own rules and make up his mind as he wants, politically or otherwise, in the set up of election districts.

If this should be adopted by the Supreme Court, of course it has not yet gone that far and probably never will, but in its present status there is a great deal of uncertainty in Pennsylvania regarding this question. In order that the Legislature may again constitutionally pass a law covering the matter of election districts, it is felt necessary that the Constitution of Pennsylvania be so amended.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, may I inquire further as to what changes this resolution will make with respect to the creation of election districts?

Mr. STEVENSON. This, Mr. President, will remove the power of the judge to use his individual discretion in the matter. He will in the future have to proceed under the provisions as laid down by legislative enactment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BROWN. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 7.

In the House of Representatives, February 24, 1942.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been called into Extraordinary Session by Proclamation of the Governor, in order to consider and adopt certain legislation which is deemed necessary as a result of the war in which this Nation is now engaged; and

Whereas, At the suggestion of the Governor, there has been introduced for adoption, a bill (Senate Bill No. 14), which would authorize him, in accordance with the recommendations of the State Council of Defense, to suspend or modify the operation of any laws, in whole or in part, during the continuation of the war; and

Whereas, Under Article 1, Section 12, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, there is grave doubt as to whether or not such broad authority to suspend or modify laws, as that which would be conferred by Senate Bill No. 14, would be valid; and

Whereas, The power to suspend or modify the operation of any laws, in whole or in part, as granted under Senate Bill No. 14, would, in practical effect, be equivalent to complete power to legislate, which would be an undoubted abrogation of its rightful functions on the part of the Legislature, in clear violation of Article 2, Section 1, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, which vests all legislative power in the General Assembly; and

Whereas, It is by no means certain that such broad powers, as those sought by the Governor under Senate Bill No. 14, which would make the Executive Branch of the Commonwealth paramount to the Legislative Branch, are necessary, or even advisable, as a means of aiding the Government of the United States or of this Commonwealth in prosecuting the present war; and

Whereas, An examination of the various statutes adopted by other states, both during the present and past World Wars, does not indicate that any such broad grant of powers to suspend laws has been deemed proper elsewhere; and

Whereas, The present Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, could by recess, instead of adjournment, hold itself in a position to provide in a constitutional manner for the suspension, modification or enactment of any laws which may be found necessary or advisable for the prosecution of the war; and

Whereas; Any expenses which would be entailed by recess, instead of adjournment, could be largely minimized by proper legislative action; now therefore be it

Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That, if the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania satisfactorily establishes that there may be substantial need for the suspension or modification of laws during the continuation of the present war, the present Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly shall not adjourn finally, but shall recess only, and hold itself in readiness to consider and provide for such suspension or modification of statutes as is deemed advisable.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

BOILING SPRINGS HIGH SCHOOL WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House the Senior Class of the Boiling Springs High School, Boiling Springs, Cumberland County, who are the guests of the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. McIntosh.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WRIGHT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. SPEAKER. Little more than a year ago, Governor Arthur H. James came before the Legislature with a message that was described by this body as the most statesmen-like he has ever delivered.

Its practical merit, and patriotic inspiration won praise alike from the Governor's friends and the general public. But after this good start, Mr. James fell down on his own program.

Now comes the Governor with another message to this same Legislature, this time to a special session, made necessary because Mr. James dodged his responsibility last year.

The speech Mr. James delivered Tuesday night, February 17th, is a perfect epitome of the serious mistake he and other leaders have made of the most important public issue which has developed since that previous message.

As you well know, more than half the Tuesday speech was devoted to a bitter, but childish, castigation of the Federal Social Security Board, because the Board insists that Mr. James live up to the Civil Service requirement of that law, and for that matter, his own Civil Service Law.

There are two other aspects of the Governor's address to the Legislature which are more than just silly. One is his unreserved endorsement of the farcical plan to reapportion the Congressional Districts of the State.

This so-called plan or scheme is so fraudulent and so shorn of any sense of responsibility that it is a serious threat to the basic foundations of representative government.

The best service this special session could have performed in the public interest was to pass an equitable Bill to reapportion, and to bury in oblivion the sham apportionment measure which the Governor describes as the only one available.

Even more dangerous than this shirking of plain moral duty, as evidenced by the Governor's speech, is his astonishing demand that the Legislature give to him and the State Defense Council the power to set aside or modify any State Law which they declare may interfere with some war activity.

This is a dangerous uncalled for proposal. It smacks of tyranny. It is opposed to every principle of our American form of government. This power if granted, would permit him to "suspend or modify" the operation of any State law after investigation hearing and written report with recommendations, from the State Defense Council of which Mr. James is chairman.

When Mr. James asked for Legislative power Tuesday night, he said "I am recommending it only because it offers the only solution in sight to matters of extreme urgency. We, the people, believe that any leader trying to use the nation's peril for personal gain or selfish purposes, will find themselves seared by the righteous anger of an enraged people, who believe that the National Government itself must lead the way in fairness, frankness, promptness and energy in times of peace or war, and in accordance with the Constitution and our democratic way of life.

Although it is an unprecedented demand for power, the Governor dismissed it with a paragraph of ambiguous generalities.

Mr. Speaker, and members of the House—Earlier in his speech he said in effect, he considered none of the subjects presented to the Legislature sufficient causes for the special session, save the issue of congressional reapportionment.

Yet he had a Bill to carry out this amazing power-grab introduced in the Senate, the night of his speech, and there is every indication of his intention to jam it through the Legislature if he can. The President outlined three high purposes in his address Monday night, his second one was (I quote) "we shall not demand special privileges for anyone."

This Bill, demanding sweeping war time powers to suspend or modify any state law, deserves speedy and decisive defeat by this Legislative body.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McFALL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, My object in asking for this privilege is to voice my disapproval in the manner our Governor disposed of the plea made by the public school teachers of our state for some recognition in increasing their salaries by this special session.

What the future holds for each of us is difficult to say. What we do know, however, is the fact that increased cost of living must be met by increased wages and salaries for those who must struggle along in the lower brackets of income. And since education plays a prominent part in the whole system of Democracy, we may do well to pause in this session to consider the fact that when education fails, Democracy ceases to be motivated.

When the Governor addressed the joint Assembly last Tuesday night, he made this statement. Quote: "Such questions as relief allowances and teachers' salaries are not before this legislature, regardless of our sympathies and wishes, this legislature can accomplish nothing by bringing this up except to arouse bitterness and dissension."

The very reference to the poor on relief, and to the salaries of educators, and the immediate dismissal of any consideration for their needs, will in my estimation arouse real bitterness in the hearts and minds of those who have made a most worthy appeal.

My wish is to refresh memories and bring attention to these pertinent facts regarding the present situation, particularly to the high cost of living that is passed over by the Governor by saying, quote: "I have eliminated scores of suggestions because I believe they could be delayed until the regular session next January."

Who knows what a whole year may bring forth to the army of school teachers, drawing small salaries. It may mean a travesty.

The cost of living has increased about ten percent since August 1939. Food prices have increased about twenty percent. During the past two years factory workers have received an increase in wages amounting to around thirty percent. Farmers and other groups have shared likewise.

We all know this has been caused by increased cost of production and distribution. Many there be, who will be caught in this vicious circle with very little hope of succor. On good authority, estimates have been made that the cost of living will increase another fifteen or twenty percent by the end of 1942.

The question then is—Can the efficient personnel which education demands and is entitled to be retained under the present salaries or will teachers seek higher paid vocations that present conditions offer? The danger of losing our best qualified teachers should be manifest to all of us.

Not one of us wishes to weaken in any way the structure that has taken years to build, one of our greatest free institutions—our free public schools.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. HEATHERINGTON and MORAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

We, the Members of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in session duly assembled this 25th day of February 1942, do hereby resolve that we express our sorrow at the untimely death of C. Verne Shoup and the loss the Members have suffered by his demise.

C. Verne Shoup was born June 24, 1885 at St. Petersburg, Pennsylvania, and died January 1, 1942 at the age of 56 years, through an unfortunate accident upon the Pennsylvania Turnpike while he was returning from Harrisburg, whither he had gone on matters of business in connection with the Taxpayers League of Allegheny County.

He was a man of sterling character, whose later life had been devoted to municipal problems and civic affairs. He had expert knowledge of all matters of legislation relating to municipalities, which was always at the disposal of anyone asking his aid. For the the past nine years he was Executive Director of the Taxpayers League and he devoted himself to the property owners' problems. He was fair-minded, loyal to his trust and a good companion.

We feel that by C. Verne Shoup's death the House, as well as the community which he so faithfully served, has suffered a distinct and irreparable loss.

We hereby resolve that a copy of this resolution be engrossed and a copy thereof sent to his widow and family and one copy thereof to the Taxpayers League of Allegheny County.

RESOLUTIONS

Mr. MORAN offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the Rules.

AGE LIMIT FOR EMPLOYMENT

Mr. HOLLAND offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent to have it read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, It has become the practice in administering the selective military service law to exempt men of draft age engaged in industry essential to the prosecution of the war; and

Whereas, At the same time, these same industries persist in a policy of refusing employment to able-bodied men, of more mature reasoning and discretion, for the reason only that they are above the age of forty-five; and

Whereas, It is now more important than ever to preserve economic order, which cannot be done if we continue to permit any class of competent workers to feel that they are not wanted in the industrial world, and to condemn them to remain on the relief rolls of the unemployed where they become the scorn of the press and of political fakers; and

Whereas, To win this war, it is necessary to fight it not only on all of the battle fronts the world over, but as well on the home front, in the industrial plants, and above all, to preserve the morale of the people by making each man, woman and child feel that he is a necessary part of a unified system of national defense in which his best services are needed and wanted; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby record itself as opposed to any policy of an age limit for employment in defense industry, and as committed to a policy of physical fitness and mental alertness, irrespective of age, as the qualifications for such employment; and that the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of Labor and Industry are hereby requested to contact all employers of labor in defense industries in this Commonwealth, and to urge upon them the necessity for waiving all age limits for employment, and to adopt the standard of fitness alone; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the Secretary of Commerce and to the Secretary of Labor and Industry of this Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER. The resolution lies over for printing under the Rules.

Mr. EDWIN F. THOMPSON offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the Rules.

Mr. BRETH offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the Rules.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. MAXWELL and O'NEILL.
RESOLUTION No. 8.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, The Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by his Proclamation given February 10th, 1942, convened the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in Extraordinary Session to consider legislation on certain specific subjects; and

Whereas, By his Supplemental Proclamation, given on the 17th day of February, 1942, he included certain additional subjects for the consideration of the General Assembly at its Extraordinary Session; and

Whereas, Neither the original Proclamation nor the Supplemental Proclamation given by the Governor, as aforesaid, contains any provision which would permit legislation increasing the salary of school teachers throughout the Commonwealth, even though, as a result of the present war, the marked increase in the cost of living is imposing a real hardship upon a considerable number of such teachers; and

Whereas, The efficient conduct of the public schools throughout the Commonwealth plays a real and vital part in the defense effort, which may be seriously imperiled if the various school teachers are unable to maintain a decent standard of living; and

Whereas, The Governor of the Commonwealth has reputedly been advised by the Attorney General that, under the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, additional subjects may be submitted for consideration by the Legislature at an Extraordinary Session, by the issuance of a Supplemental Proclamation after the date such session has convened; now therefore be it

Resolved, That His Excellency, Arthur H. James, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, be requested to issue a supplemental proclamation submitting for consideration by the General Assembly now met in Extraordinary Session, the subject of increasing the salaries of all school teachers in third and fourth class school districts by an amount not exceeding ten per centum; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Governor, and to the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. EDWIN F. THOMPSON. RESOLUTION No. 9.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, At the last session of the General Assembly, a State Council of Defense was created, one of its purposes being to coordinate the defense activities of the Commonwealth with those of the entire Nation; and

Whereas, Almost a year has passed and industry in its all out effort for defense production is still handicapped because of the lack of skilled labor; and

Whereas, Nothwithstanding prior resolutions, public statements and demands that all discrimination against the employment of Negroes in defense industries cease, it is well known that the policies of such discrimination still exist; and

Whereas, The neglect to remedy the intolerable conditions caused by such discriminatory policies is a serious deterrent to the success of our defense program; and

Whereas, The failure to fully utilize the services of available and competent Negro workers, who are thus denied the right of all patriotic citizens to live and work and die in the service of their country is a serious menace to the welfare and morale of all citizens of our Commonwealth and Nation, and directly opposed to the great traditions of the true democratic ideals and principles upon which this Nation was founded; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby requests the Governor of this Commonwealth and the State Council of Defense to request and demand the elimination of all discrimination in the employment of negroes in industry; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House submit a copy of this resolution to the Governor of the Commonwealth and to the State Council of Defense so that appropriate action hereunder may immediately be instituted.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. HOLLAND. RESOLUTION No. 10.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, It has become the practice in administering the selective military service law to exempt men of draft age engaged in industry essential to the prosecution of the war; and

Whereas, At the same time, these same industries persist in a policy of refusing employment to able-bodied men, of more mature reasoning and discretion, for the reason only that they are above the age of forty-five; and

Whereas, It is now more important than ever to preserve economic order, which cannot be done if we continue to permit any class of competent workers to feel that they are not wanted in the industrial world, and to condemn them to remain on the relief rolls of the unemployed where they become the scorn of the press and of political fakers; and

Whereas, To win this war, it is necessary to fight it not only on all of the battle fronts the world over, but as well on the home front, in the industrial plants, and above all, to preserve the morale of the people by making each man, woman and child feel that he is a necessary part of a unified system of national defense in which his best services are needed and wanted; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby record itself as opposed to any policy of an age limit for employment in defense industry, and as committed to a policy of physical fitness and mental alertness, irrespective of age, as the qualifications for such employment; and that the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of Labor and Industry are hereby requested to contact all employers of labor in defense industries in this Commonwealth, and to urge upon them the necessity for waiving all age limits for employment, and to adopt the standard of fitness alone; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the Secretary of Commerce and to the Secretary of Labor and Industry of this Commonwealth.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. MORAN. RESOLUTION No. 11.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, The requirement that all persons employed in any defense industry shall produce a birth certificate in order to establish his or her citizenship, has made the Bureau of Vital Statistics in the Department of Health a most important agency of the State Government, and places it in a position where the measure of promptness of its service, directly affects the expeditiousness or delay of national defense; and

Whereas, This now very important bureau is several weeks in arrear with its work, and the delays in obtaining birth certificates are steadily increasing, with apparently no prospect of their ever improving under present conditions; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives do now recess, and betake itself in a body to the offices of the Bureau of Vital Statistics in the South Office Building, there to conduct a first hand investigation of the causes for the altogether unwarranted delays in obtaining birth certificates for persons seeking to engage in national defense industry, and to determine what steps should be taken in order to remedy and improve the deplorable conditions now existing.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. BRETH. RESOLUTION No. 12.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, The problem of an adequate water supply in this Commonwealth, is one involving a natural resource, that has assumed tremendous importance with relation to the industrial output of our industries; and

Whereas, The problem of stream and water pollution in the Commonwealth has engaged the attention of the public authorities of our cities, State and Nation for many years; and

Whereas, This condition, more particularly in the populous centers of the Commonwealth, is a serious menace to the health and safety of its residents; and

Whereas, The contamination of the Commonwealth's water sheds has likewise reduced the availability of the water supply which is so necessary and important to the fullest industrial expansion of our industries for the National Defense needs of our Nation; and

Whereas, Contamination will increase as the natural result of more continuous operations of National Defense industries, adding considerably to pollution of the water supply; and

Whereas, The availability of chemical purifying agents such as chlorine may be restricted because of the demands in National Defense, creating a serious threat to the health, welfare and safety of the residents of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, It is deemed desirable to make a thorough and immediate study in order that preparations may be made to properly remedy or alleviate these conditions; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of this House appoint a committee of twenty-one members, whose duty it shall be to make a careful, thorough and impartial study of the causes and reasons for the continuance of these conditions, and that said committee shall make a report of its findings and recommendations to this House as soon as possible; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, when we assembled for this special session, few of us, if any, suspected that we might be called upon by the Governor to consider surrendering to the State Council of Defense the authority to suspend or modify such Pennsylvania statutes as might interfere during the present war emergency with what the Governor describes as the "all out prosecution of war and defense." It was my impression and possibly yours, that the big job ahead of us at this session was re-apportionment of the State's Congressional Districts. The bombshell, however, has fallen, and attached to the bomb, as received by you and me, a letter of "explanation" by the Governor for his reasons in asking this most extraordinary action on our part.

Now, it may be conceded, that changes of one sort or another in the set routine of our lives during a wartime, are necessary in the interests of national unity and defense, but to change the character of the pattern of government under which the people of a sovereign Commonwealth have seen fit to live, is the most vital usurpation of political power in which a people can engage and before they are asked to surrender their right to live that way or to enact or suspend laws in any manner save through the legislatures of their own choice, the reasons must be far more compelling than those mentioned by the Governor in his letter. I think we ought to follow the rule which Puck once announced as the rule of President Cleveland: "Be sure you are right; then stop a little."

As I see it, the combat between communism and fascism on the one hand, and democracy on the other, in the last analysis, comes down to the simple question: What, if any, place, shall be given to the average man and woman in government? What voice shall they have? Both communism and fascism would rob them of every right, every privilege, every guarantee given them in our Constitution, personal liberty, and all the attributes of liberty. The first line of defense therefore against a dictatorial government is the preservation of the people's liberties.

When Septimus Severus, I think he was a Roman Emperor, was dying, he said to his successor: "Pay the soldiers well, and don't worry about anything else." His idea apparently was that so long as the army was not disaffected, the government would stand. One might also say: "So far as the emergency thrust upon us by communism or fascism is concerned, preserve the rights of free speech, free press, right of assemblage and the other guarantees, and don't worry about anything else."

People do not voluntarily surrender their liberty, once they have enjoyed it. Thomas Jefferson said, you will recall:

> "Where every man is a sharer in the direction of his ward, republic or some of the higher ones, and feels that he is a participator in the government of affairs, not merely at an election one day in the year, but every day, he will let the heart be torn out of his body sooner than his power wrested from him by a Caesar or a Bonaparte."

Men may be cheated out of it, misled and deceived into surrendering their liberty, or they may be subjugated by force. But they do not surrender these things voluntarily. If the guarantees of the Constitution of the United States remain intact, if the Courts and Legislatures remain open, there is little chance indeed for arbitrary government, for any considerable length of time, especially.

To put it another way, the only sure cure for dictatorship is good, old-fashioned Americanism. I use that term, not as we use it on the Fourth of July or on state occasions, but as an expression of the doctrine of individual liberty.

It does not seem to me that there is nearly so much danger to our institutions in the out-and-out advocates of communism or fascism, as there is in our tendency to praise the principles of democracy but employ the methods of fascism. In the way of illustration, I read in a current magazine the words of an important official, which are strikingly like that contained in the Governor's letter, and which are as follows:

> "Certain conclusions appear clear. In the first place it seems clear that in these difficult times we need centralization of leadership. Decentralization of leadership may be a good thing for local matters, but what can it avail in our national affairs? If such leadership is an important requirement, from what source can it be obtained? Can it come from 435 Congressmen and the ninety-six Senators? Can it come from nine justices of the Supreme Court? It would appear that a single leader is the only source with any hope of effective results."

A certain dictator never stated the doctrine of Fascism with greater boldness or greater clarity than it is here stated "Centralization of leadership!" We have a practical and impressive illustration of that now! A certain dictator, having silenced the voice of the people, having reduced to pitiable impotency the representatives of the people, having disregarded the Constitution and having made subservient the judges so that no citizen can appeal to the courts for justice according to the Constitution, leads his people according to the discretion and judgment of "centralization of leadership." There you have speedy action, quick decision, undivided responsibility, with no power of appeal to the courts or to the Constitution, and no right of discussion.

Here is this official's statement, as in the Governor's letter, is an unmistakable contention that courts and members of the General Assembly and Congress elected by the people are an impediment. Then follows, although it is not mentioned, what must inevitably follow, that free speech, and a free press, and the right of assemblage, would be an impediment to "centralized leadership." It also follows that any form of business, any labor union, any political group, might likewise prove an impediment to "centralized leadership."

Individual leadership has its place, but there is a higher leadership to which all individual leadership must be subordinated, and that is the leadership which comes from the combined heart and brain, and from the conscience and the soul of millions of intelligent and patriotic people. That is a leadership less amenable to the call of ambition, less likely to suffer from the corroding effect of power, and more likely to take into consideration the welfare of all.

The Governor offers as a precedent for his request, the action of the Pennsylvania General Assembly in 1777, when an enemy had already invaded our shores, and when nothing but the raw courage of a rags and tatters and half-starved army and the God-given leadership of a Washington stood between victory and stark defeat. Should there—perish the thought—should there ever occur an invasion of this nation by the modern vandals with their swift, merciless tactics of warfare, rest assured that we too can then safely bulwark our powers of resistance by entrusting absolute power of life and death to a Safety Defense Council or any other leader as the circumstances may warrant. But until that time comes, the precedent offered by the Governor is without sense or without fitness and either shows an unholy groping for power or a siege of hysteria in his mind unworthy of his high office.

He even admits that some members of the Council of Defense have been far from enthusiastic about taking over these dictatorial powers. Only last week distinguished members of the Defense Council emphatically mentioned in a public statement that they recoiled from the obvious implications of such a vast transfer of power to a centralized leadership, however sincere the patriotism of that leadership. All the more glory to them for thinking that way and keeping their feet on the ground.

But I can answer the Governor's offer of precedent by referring you to other occasions in the nation's history when efforts were made to suspend the laws and the privileges of the people during times of great emergency and stress and strain.

These occasions involved attempts at suspension of constitutional rights rather than privileges granted by the laws of the several states, but the analogy is the same.

Now, the Constitution is not a divine institution, but in my opinion, it is the most nearly perfect institution yet devised by the wit of man for the preservation of liberty.

Tell me, if you will, where you will find a document of government so right in human rights as the Constitution? It is true that technically the Bill of Rights was not a part of the Constitution when it was formerly submitted, but it is also true, that in everybody's contemplation, the Bill of Rights was a part of the Constitution at the very beginning.

Think of adopting a Charter of government in 1789 which guaranteed religious liberty, free speech, a free press. No such rights upon the part of the people existed to any extent at that time in the entire world. It seemed like madness to other governments, and they made no concealment of their derision. Compare these rights with what you find elsewhere in the world today, and reflect upon what a small portion of the globe now sees the people enjoying free speech, a free press, the right of parliamentary assembly. We sometimes hear it said that those who wrote the Constitution did not trust the people. But no greater trust could be reposed in the people than the power to handle their own affairs of government. It was an expression of confidence in the judgment, patriotism and statemanship of the average man and woman. At the time the Constitution was written the world at large regarded such bestowal of power upon the people as incredible demagoguery. At that time governments were neither made or changed by the people. And do not forget that every privilege and right that even the humblest citizen of this Commonwealth enjoys in the participation of the civil affairs of government in this State is derived from that document.

And yet there have been occasions when the political side of government felt justified in invading some of these human rights. But then what happened? The Courts invariably struck down the laws which took away or compromised these rights. And they did so in some instances under the most trying and adverse circumstances.

You will recall that, in the midst of the excitement of the so-called Burr conspiracy, men were seized without warrant, transported hundreds of miles and thrown into prison and denied trial. They were protected by the Courts.

When President Lincoln suspended the writ of habeas corpus, Chief Justice Taney unhesitatingly declared that act was in violation of the Constitution, and imperiled the liberty of all citizens. No finer example of judicial courage is to be found in the history of jurisprudence than that of the venerable justice bending under the furious assault of war passion, but courageously upholding what he believed to be the plain provisions of the Constitution. And now when the passion of that hour has subsided, few men will be found to question the soundness or the importance of Taney's views.

When Congress under a plea of emergency subjected the citizen to trial by court-martial, this law too was defeated. And so on throughout the pages of American history. If the roll of martial drums and the fury of war dinning in the ears of earlier generation did not cause a suspension of the fundamental rights of the citizen, there is less reason for it now, when a nation great in strength, and well able to repel any invader faces another great crisis in its history.

The Federal Government hasn't dared to go so far as the Governor asks us to do. Congress remains in constant session, considering new problems from day to day, yet it has given no blanket powers of abdication such as is requested by the Governor. Moreover, no emergency we can foresee for the future in this state can be so great or so devastating that the broad emergency powers of the Government cannot cope with it. I ask the Governor why he cannot point out now what laws he considers as an impediment to an all out effort. I ask him why he thinks the Legislature, should the emergency be as he pictures it, cannot sit from day to day as Congress does or at least be within quick call for any such emergency. Why does he distrust the legislature and ask it to sign away its rights of future control over the State laws, unless it is because he knows deep down in his heart that it would be very reluctant to feed him the kind of meat that Caesar fed on and suspend the laws of the Commonwealth except for the very best of reasons and then only after fair consideration. Or is it because he is afraid that it will deny him the absolute powers he so recently accused the President of the United States of seeking in the now notorious controversy over the right to fire Social Security employes without a hearing. And most significant of all is his reticence and reluctance to answer questions as to just what laws he has in mind when he speaks of suspension. Surely, he must know with some degree of certainty what laws are now or may be later impediments to the all out war effort. But speaking of distrust, wouldn't it be far nearer the truth to say that the legislature might well distrust the motives of the Governor, the same executive who disregarded its plain mandate in the Parole Act and other recent evidences of disregard on his part of the will of the Legislature.

Despite the syrupy (and I use the word very advisedly) assurances of his letter, what assurance have we that once we are shoved into a corner, that the Governor might not in good time, classify as objects of the exercise of this extraordinary war-time power, the very things he has openly and consistently fought since he has been in office—labor, liberal laws, liquor control and a whole host of his pet dislikes and aversions? No man is exempt from human error, from human temptation, and "dressed in little, brief authority plays such trick before the high heavens, as to make the angels weep."

Or should we say with Hamlet:

> "Tis better to bear the ills we have than to fly to others that we know not of; thus conscience does make cowards of us all, and thus the native hue of resolution is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought; and enterprises of great pith and moment, with this regard, their currents turn awry, and lose the name of action."

In the Governor's letter, we hear constantly of these "difficult times" as an argument for wiping out all the rights and guarantees given the people under their chosen form of government. But it was in difficult times, very difficult times—times which tried men's souls, that the young nation was founded, and "centralization of leadership" was for all times rejected. It was in difficult times when economic and financial chaos reigned, that Washington calmly rejected the proffered "Centralization of leadership." It was in difficult times, very difficult times, a time when we were torn with civil strife, that the great martyr declared that the government of the people must not perish.

They had faith in our form of government, and difficult as the times were, they did not indulge in the defeatist policy of surrendering vital principles upon which a free government rests. They did not speak of the time when the Day of Disaster might find the young nation with their noses buried in law books. They knew that when you remove the restraints of popular judgment, you not only have taken the first step but you have taken the last step toward absolute dictatorial power.

A little patience, at little courage, a little faith, will stimulate tremendously one's confidence in the efficiency and the permanency of constitutional government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the question that comes to my mind at this time is, will wonders ever cease? I certainly never expected to hear a New Dealer take the floor in this Senate chamber and condemn the idea of delegation of authority and centralization of power.

My colleague from Philadelphia seems to be very much exercised over a bill which the Governor requested to be introduced, as being one which gives the Governor, or the Chief Executive of this state, dictatorial powers. I wonder if my colleague from Philadelphia has even read the bill, because if he has read it, he would understand that the power given to the Governor under the bill is merely a negative power and not a positive power, such as the New Dealers at Washington have been giving President Roosevelt for the last seven or eight years.

Apparently the gentleman from Philadelphia also makes no distinction, from the standpoint of time, because the New Dealers have been delegating authority for years before this nation was at war. Now, Mr. President, we are at war and it is only since the United States is at war that the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth asks for some remedy to a troublesome situation. I think any inquiry or any investigation in connection with the various departments of this government of the Commonwealth would immediately convince anyone that something must be done.

I am not, Mr. President, standing here to protect or uphold the bill that has been introduced, but I am standing up here to say that I think it most unfair to make the kind of statement that has just been made, instead of doing what each and everyone of us should be doing, thinking about this matter, thinking about the troubles and the difficulties with which our state departments are confronted, and then trying to find some solution for the difficulty, so that, instead of employing our time here in condemnation, we will put our time to good use in trying to figure out a proper method or program to overcome these difficulties; I think we will then have accomplished something worthwhile.

I will say at this time, Mr. President, that I know a number of our colleagues are giving this matter considerable thought, and I will also say, Mr. President, that I feel certain that as a result of that thought there will be introduced and proposed some method of eliminating or overcoming, at least to some extent, the obstacles with which we are presently faced. I think that can be done very easily, Mr. President, in conformance with our democratic principles of government under the Constitution, without the delegation of authority, and therefore in all probability, also, to the satisfaction of our good colleague from Philadelphia who is so alarmed because the Chief Executive of this state has proposed something that is unusual, and who evidenced apparently, no alarm when the New Dealers were handing out unprecedented power to the Chief Executive of this nation before this country was at war.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I know we have other important work to do and do not like to get into any discussion about this matter. Not being much of an attorney, I cannot go into the legal phases of it, but I can take up a political argument when I see one, and I think from experience I recognize a political argument when I happen to be in it.

It seems to me, Mr. President, the allegations made towards the New Dealers in voting dictatorial powers to President Roosevelt have no part whatsoever in this particular argument, for the simple reason that the powers that were delegated to President Roosevelt were so done by the Congress of the United States, with respect to specific laws as per the Constitution of the United States, and at no time did the Congress of the United States take the entire bailiwick of laws and say to the President, you can have any law that you want changed to suit your own purposes. When the gentleman from Allegheny says we do not delegate this power to the Governor by the passage of this bill, I want to say to that gentleman that you do so, only the Governor has not the courage to ask for it directly, he asks for it indirectly, he asks for it through the State Council of Defense, which is a creature of his creation, he alone created the State Council of Defense I want to remind you also that many of the so called defense leaders taking the positions are now candidates for public office on the strength of what they can get in the way of votes from being connected with the State Council of Defense. I also want to say that if you set aside the laws and give them the whip hand in this matter, they will use it for political purposes.

I also want to remind the gentleman that although this is a very crucial period in our history, that the days following Hoover, when President Roosevelt took office, were also crucial days in American history, and although we are threatened now by enemies from without, every person in this room knows that in 1932 we were threatened by enemies from within and we were as near to the brink of disaster in the late days of the Hoover administration as we are today, because the enemies that we have today, we know who they are, we know how to fight them, and when we get around to it, which each of us hopes will be soon, we will show we can handle them, but the thing we were fighting in 1932 took a very strong man at the helm of this government to save this nation from catastrophe, the farmers out west, mind you, were setting aside the law, were taking the law in their hands; the police officials could not enforce the laws of the states, because they could not go into the farmers' homes and take their homes, because they had no income and they had no way of earning an income. We were at that time, as I said before, closer to disaster than we are today, and if this Governor wants this power, let him come out and say he wants it directly, and not say, I do not want this power, I would not ask for it, as the Great White Father has in Washington, I only ask for it indirectly, give it to the State Council of Defense, and then I will name the State Council of Defense.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Thou who art the God of Life and the God of Love, look with favor upon this House of Representatives, as its members convene again after a week-end when each had the opportunity to worship Thee in beauty and in truth according to the dictates of his individual heart.

Continue Thy blessing, we beseech Thee, upon every official and citizen of our State and Nation, yea, and upon those within our country who have not come to appreciate this land as the land where freedom reigns and where men are men. Hasten the day, we pray Thee, when every individual within this great Nation may pledge his allegiance to Thee, the one true and living God, and to our government—a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Would that we might face these dark days and even years that lie ahead, secure in the feeling that we are God's Country because we have heeded the words of the Psalmist; "Blessed is the Nation whose God is the Lord, the people whom He hath chosen for His own inheritance."

Hear Thou our prayer. Amen.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to escort Lieutenant Commander George H. Earle and His Excellency, Arthur H. James, Governor of the Commonwealth, has performed that duty and they are now present.

The SPEAKER. It is my pleasure, at a time when we are engaged in dealing with serious problems that have arisen as a result of this tragic war to present a distinguished Pennsylvanian and a real American who has had unrivaled opportunity to observe first hand the operation of Nazi schemes and 5th column intrigue for world conquest. Lieutenant Commander Earle we welcome you home.

ADDRESS OF LIEUTENANT COMMANDER GEORGE H. EARLE

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER GEORGE H. EARLE. Mr. Speaker, Governor, President pro tempore of the Senate, Members of the House of Representatives, Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen, I can't tell you how deeply I appreciate the great honor of being here tonight without any element whatever of partisanship. That makes me very happy, and I can't tell you how deeply I appreciate it. I understand that Governor James flew from Wilkes-Barre in order to be here. That also I appreciate.

I called on Governor James this afternoon, we had a very nice talk. I said to him, "Governor, in strictest confidence I want to know what you really think, or what is your impression now of the telegram of congratulation I sent you when you were elected? I said, 'My heartiest congratulations and deepest sympathy'. How do you feel about it?" As I said, I pledged strictest confidence when I asked that question, so I cannot give you his answer.

I think one of the things that reconciled my stay over there was that the Bulgarians have a very good sense of humor. One of my American stories they really seemed to like better than any story I ever told. It related to an instance that actually happened to me in the 1934 campaign.

I never tell any stories about the 1938 campaign,—why bring that up? This is actually a true story. We had been campaigning, Guffey for Senate and I for Governor in the Southwestern part of the state. We came to Washington County, or the city of Washington down in the soft coal region near the West Virginia border, a very up and doing town, and we were going to make a speech in fifteen minutes. Joe Guffey belongs to that old school of political thought that believes that one shake of the hand is worth more than a speech to five hundred people; your speech will be forgotten while a hand shake will never be forgotten.

As I said, we had been driving in this caravan of cars for about four days, over the western part of the State. Joe and I had been walking around. He saw a fellow standing with a pleasant kind of expression on his face. He went up to him and said, "Glad to see you, I am Joe Guffey; I'm running for the Senate."

The fellow was a little bit embarassed and said, "Mr. Guffey, I'm glad to see you. I've been driving you around the last four or five days."

The Bulgarians love to tell political stories. They are the most politically minded,—I mean international politics,—they are the most international minded people I have ever seen. The Bulgarians are farmers and peasants; they do not have telephones or automobiles to interrupt their concentration, and they really think very clearly and very intelligently.

One of the favorite Bulgarian stories over there is with reference to when Germany loses the war.

Hitler, Goering and Goebbels were sitting together talking what they were going to do after Germany loses the war.

Goering said, "Well, I am going to be a pilot of an air line."

Goebbels said, "I am going to be manager of advertising in a big department store."

Hitler didn't say a word. Both Goering and Goebbels inquired of Hitler, "What are you going to do?"

Hitler said, "What am I going to do when Germany loses the war? Why do you ask me,—I am an Austrian."

They also tell the story of how Hitler sent for a leading Jewish rabbi in Germany.

Hitler said to the Rabbi, "I understand you can look into the future; I want you to tell me what day I am going to die."

"The rabbi said, "That is very hard to say, Herr Hitler."

Hitler said, "If you don't tell me, I am going to make it even tougher for you and your people."

The rabbi said, "I cannot tell you the exact day, but I can tell you this, it will be the day before the greatest of all Jewish holidays."

Gentlemen, an interesting thing to you men who became lawmakers by reason of election by your constituents, is the question. How do the Nazis reconcile the constantly changing policies of Hitler and go along with him and seem to be contented?" Here in America a political saying is, a man can change his party but he cannot change his principles. Sometimes the parties change their principles, therefore a man can stick to conscience and change his party. But a man who changes his principles is doomed in America, ninety-nine times out of a hundred.

You must remember that Hitler in "Mein Kampf" poured out his heart and made a terrific attack against Bolshevism as a great menace to Germany and to the civilization of the world. Then he made a pact of friendship with them. After having made this pact of friendship, having reconciled his people to that, he reversed himself again, and again described it as evil and the greatest menace to civilization, and made an absolutely unprovoked, vicious attack on Russia.

How did Hitler get the German people reconciled to his change of policy? In the first place, what he would do and what the Nazi leaders would do would be this,—you must remember this, ladies and gentlemen, there are only about five million Nazis in Germany out of a total population of eighty million. There are seventy-five million Germans who are not members of the Nazi Party. It is this militant minority that runs Germany. They have this Nazi political system which is as follows: They have what they call a gauleiter. "Gau" means district, "leiter" means leader. That gauleiter will have about five hundred thousand people in his district, the city and the townships surrounding. There are one hundred sixty of those gauleiters. Under each gauleiter there are one hundred more subgauleiters and under those subgauleiters there are another on hundred subgauleiters, and under each of the one hundred there will be another subgauleiter, until finally you get down to the point where you have a Nazi leader for each fifty people in Germany.

Before Hitler makes any change in policy he has the ground prepared by calling in the one hundred and sixty gauleiters, giving them an inkling of what is coming. They in turn get their subgauleiters and the subgauleiters get their subgauleiters until the whole Nazi organization has been informed, then they go out and work on every German and prepare him for this right-about-face in political principles and strategy.

Then the newspapers break it, the radio takes it up as well as the moving pictures, all a part of this great Nazi propaganda machine. The groundwork having been laid by the organization, they are prepared for this right-about-face. There is your explanation of how Hitler and his Nazi leaders can reconcile the German people to an absolute right-about change in Nazi policy.

My wife and myself and my three boys arrived in Bulgaria on the 21st of March 1940. I will give you just a little sketch, something like the one I gave at the Zembo Mosque the other night, probably a little different. You see, ladies and gentlemen, I regret to say that I cannot tell you the most interesting things. That is why I cancelled a series of articles which the Philadelphia Inquirer was kind enough to ask me to write. I may not say any nice things about any of the people over there because if I did the Germans would throw them into concentration camps. I cannot talk intelligently or fairly, but I do give credit to those people who fought against this Nazi terror. For that reason my talk will not be as interesting as it would be if I could give you all the facts, but I will do as well as I can without hurting innocent people over there.

We arrived in Bulgaria on the 21st of March. On the train down I tried to remember all I had learned in three weeks of study in the State Department before I went over. I tried to conjecture whether we would find to be true what the people were saying, whether it was true in Bulgaria that the army was pro-German, the King pro-Russian and the people pro-English. That was a famous saying before I got into Bulgaria.

One of the amusing things that happened to me after I arrived, I had an air mail letter to send the day I arrived in Bulgaria. I went to mail it myself to be sure the letter was put into the mail box. I went up to what I thought was a mail box. A Bulgarian passed by and I held up the letter, and he went like this (indicating), so, I went to what I thought was another mail box and another Bulgarian passed by and went like that (indicating). I did that four or five times and finally I gave up and gave it to a clerk to mail for me. About a week later I learned that when a Bulgarian means yes he goes this way, and when he means no he goes that way.

The King was away at the time I arrived and I waited ten days. You have no official status until you present your credentials. I presented my credentials in a very colorful ceremony. When you call on the King you bow as you go in the door, you bow in the middle of the room and you bow again when you get up to the King. He answers every bow, then he answers you in French, which is the diplomatic language. I read my credentials in English and the King answered it in French. We talked about America. In that talk he told me an amusing story about his father, King Ferdinand.

The Bulgarians were freed from Turkey about 1875 by the Russian Tsar Alexander. Prince Ferdinand was the first Prince. Then in 1908 he became King. He would have been the greatest king in the southeastern part of Europe if the Germans had won the last war, but he bet on the wrong horse.

He was a great naturalist, and after the Bulgarian Army collapsed on the home front because of lack of supplies and munitions and started to mutiny from the Greek to the Roumanian fronts, he was warned that the mutinous soldiers were approaching his palace, and to hurry with all possible speed to a waiting automobile in order to escape.

King Boris told me this story himself. As he was running out through his garden to get into the car he saw a very rare butterfly. He rushed back into the palace to get a net and for fifteen minutes chased that butterfly all over the grounds while the noise of the approaching mutinous soldiers could be heard getting closer and closer. He finally caught the butterfly and handed it over to an attendant, got into the car and hurriedly escaped. That butterfly is in the museum in Sofia today with a sign telling where it came from.

My first duty after calling upon the King and presenting my credentials was to call upon my fellow diplomats. The Foreign Minister was always very fair to me and never lied to me. The foreign diplomats were all unanimous that no trouble would come to the Balkans, that Hitler did not want another front, he was fighting the French and English on the Western front, he did not want another front, the English did not want another front, and the Balkans were perfectly safe. That was true of all the diplomats. They thought the Balkans were perfectly safe. Then Mussolini, against the wishes of the Italian people, against the wishes of the Italian King, against the wishes of the Pope, got his Caesar complex and decided to attack Greece. The day he attacked I shall never forget, all the Bulgarians cursed Mussolini for that. He did it absolutely contrary to the wishes of the Italian people. But he had the tanks, the machine guns and the airplanes, and he could tell them what he wanted them to do. They had no means of resisting him. They attacked Greece and started all the misery and suffering in the Balkans.

I received a telegram from Bill Bullitt. I had asked him to telegraph me from Paris any time the situation looked bad. He telegraphed that day and I sent my wife and three boys back home. I am very glad I did because only two weeks later Italy declared war, it was very hard to go home in any other way except through Genoa.

About this time, German fifth columnists began to come in. They came in as tourists, as businessmen, as entertainers. They came in in every conceivable guise. They roamed everywhere. The Hotel Bulgaria, the most modern hotel in the Balkans, was filled with them. We had a saying over there, which later on proved to be true, if you wanted to get a message for information into circulation, in the quickest possible time, the best way to do it was to throw it into the waste paper basket in the Hotel Bulgaria. It would be in the German Legation inside of two hours. I later learned that was true. Those German fifth columnists came down there in order to mix with Bulgarians, pour out their propaganda and undermine every element of democracy that was there. They would buy up all of the newspapers. If they found anybody who had democratic theories, things would happen to that man that were very unpleasant. He would be discredited in some way by a frame-up. Their ways were very subtle, very effective, very unfair and very disgusting. One should say Nazis and not Germans because there are only five million Nazis who are running things in Germany today. Anything is all right that will help Germany, lies, murder, theft or any other crime. That is the reason I have warned in a number of speeches that they might use poison gas. The minute they think they can gain something by the use of poison gas, the fact that it is not civilized won't stop them for a moment. I have very good information to the effect that they are building up large stores of poison gas, cylinders, bombs and shells. They will use it if they become desperate. It will be a terrible thing, a new kind of gas. If it touches any part of your flesh, it eats it away. This new gas is not directed particularly against the lungs but against any exposed part of the body. It will eat the clothes right off your body. It is a terrible form of gas, and when they use it, it will be a signal that they are in the last throes of desperation, because they know the Allies will retaliate with the use of gas also.

In regard to food supplies over there, conditions grow steadily worse. In the countries they conquered by force of arms, Greece, Poland, Czechoslovakia they debased the usual rate of exchange. They put out worthless marks which they turned out on the printing press, and buy up all the supplies in those countries. For instance, they went up to Norway and looted all the fur farms, took those furs and sent them down to Bulgaria and Roumania and exchanged them for food and the things they needed. When I left there on Christmas Day last, the people were really suffering. Each week there would be a different shortage. One week it would be bread, another week it would be meat and another week it would be vegetables. The last week there was no salt, and it is really hard to get along without salt. One of our legation went up to Budapest to bring some. Without salt, food tastes like bran. That three weeks without salt was really worse than lack of food because without salt your food is absolutely tasteless.

The war went very badly for the Italians because the Greeks were fighting for their homeland. The Greeks were inured to fighting up in their mountains. The frost bites were terrible. They fought heroically in defense of their own homes, and they defeated the Italians, whose hearts were really not in it. You cannot have people put up much of a fight whose hearts are not in the fighting. The hearts of the Italians did not back up Mussolini in the conflict he had started. The war went from worse to worse. It was a terrible blow to Axis prestige, and it was realized that it was only a matter of time before Germany would have to come down and rescue Mussolini.

By this time the Germans were swarming all over Bulgaria. They were testing the bridges to see if they would carry the big guns. They were building pontoon bridges over the Danube, they were preparing to come into Bulgaria and from there to go down into Greece.

As an instance of how the Gestapo works and their vicious propaganda, in that little difference of opinion I had in the cafe over there with that German, after it was over the Germans tried to hush it up for two reasons; first of all, their man started it, and secondly, he got the worst of it. They tried to hush it up, but when they found it was getting beyond them, the Gestapo went to two brothers who were entertainers, dancers in the cafe and said to them, "If you will testify that the American Minister started this, that he was drunk and disorderly, we will give you a contract at double the price in Munich for a whole year." These two acrobats were in perfect condition,—I don't think they ever took a drink in their lives. They were so pro-American and so anti-German, they thought very fast. If they said, no, they would not do it, they would be sent into the concentration camp. If they said they would do it, they would be discredited by the people of the country which they loved. So these two men thought very fast and said, "We were too drunk to remember anything about it."

The Germans brought out the story that this man was a poor business man with his wife. As a matter of fact he was not with his wife, he was with a Bulgarian girl. I do not know whether he had a wife or not. He was not a business man; he was a fifth columnist. He was one of those Germans engaged in testing the bridges to see if they would carry the big guns down to the Greek border.

On thing that makes me absolutely certain we cannot lose this war is that there are only four million Facists out of a total population of forty-five million Italian people, and they are so utterly disgusting, and their propaganda is so very filthy from the American point of view. They said that the President of the United States has written a book—this is to stimulate the lagging morale of the German people—in which he advocated that as soon as the Allies won the war every German man, woman and child should be sterilized so that they could not have any more children. That was published by every German radio, every German official newspaper—I heard it again and again and again.

They also say that if anybody is against them they must be of Jewish origin, nobody could be against Nazism unless he was Jewish. They say Roosevelt's real name was Rosenfeldt and my real name was Earlstein, and we both had our names changed.

The most disgusting thing I heard was on Christmas Eve, the day before I left, on the official Italian radio in Rome.

I say to you, ladies and gentlemen, the Almighty Creator of this universe will not allow people like these to win when they resort to tactics like this. The official Rome radio, in German, undoubtedly engineered and operated by the Germans, said that a German high ranking official just before we declared war, was in Italy.

This official said to an Italian Count, "Count, I like your country, very much, but there is one thing I do not like, and that is there are not enough prostitutes."

The Italian Count answered, "We really don't need them, we have so many American women living in Italy."

Ladies and gentlemen, people like that cannot win; the good God above us won't let people win who resort to such tactics.

We forget the millions of personal tragedies, but I would like to tell you of one.

This is not really the most serious tragedy but it gives you an idea of how they work. I was coming down from Budapest in a plane that is run by an airline that is something like our T.W.A. Theirs is called the Lufthansa. Sitting there were two very nice looking people, a man about forty and a girl about twenty-seven or twenty-eight. They were very much in love. They looked like Scandinavians, as they were very blonde. He looked at her very appealingly. All the world loves a lover and I felt very kindly toward them. They got off the plane at Sofia. I heard him speak bad German. I could not hear her. So I thought they were probably Scandanavians. I did not see the man for three weeks. Then I saw him at a cocktail party given by the British Legation. I asked who he was. They told me he was a British official on diplomatic work.

I spoke to him and said, "I saw you on the plane." I told him how attractive I thought it was to see two people so fond of each other. His face turned red and he took his hat and coat and left the British Legation.

I turned to the first assistant in the British Legation and I said "What in Heaven's name have I said; what tactless thing did I say? I cannot understand." He told me the man was a British official and he met this German girl and fell very much in love with her. After two months they decided to get married. For some technical reasons they wanted to go to Sofia. When the girl arrived in Sofia she found a telegram stating her mother had been badly injured in an automobile accident, she was at the point of death and she must return at once. Very tearfully she said good-bye. She said she would be back as soon as her mother got better or died; she would come back as soon as she could.

She arrived in Berlin and found there was nothing wrong with her mother. They threw her into one of the most brutal concentration camps. This fellow could not bear to have this girl in a concentration camp. There are millions of these personal tragedies, most of them worse than this one.

The German troops arrived in Bulgaria the last day of February just a year ago. They came in over three or four pontoon bridges across the river swarmed into Bulgaria and took things over. The first duty of a diplomat is to get the news to his government. I tried to get the news out, but each time I was turned down, all the wires were cut and there were no connections. So the news came out in other ways than through me. I was blocked in every way I tried to get the news out. That was the case also with the members of the Press. From then on the Germans began to pour into Bulgaria with their terrific military machine.

With reference to the German military machine, one of the elements that makes it so powerful is the relationship between the men and the commissioned officers. In some respects it is the best I have ever seen. For example, among the British there is a distinct social line of demarcation between the officer and the enlisted man,—too much so in my opinion. In the Australian army there is none of that social line of demarcation. They have no discipline at all, which works against them, although they are very brave fighters.

The German enlisted man looks up to his commissioned officer like a little boy looks up to a big brother, and the big brother looks down on his little brother. It is very different from the old fashioned militaristic discipline; it is very effective; it is one of their great strengths. I saw this German military machine pour through Sofia to the Greek border. It was a terrific example of efficiency and cold blooded ruthlessness. Everything was arranged for them all over Bulgaria. They had depots for food. Every bridge was tested before they came down. They knew every airfield and knew just how much traffic it could stand. They had everything catalogued with absolute accuracy. On and on they poured day and night, in an unending stream, with big guns, little guns, motorcycles, every type of automobile carrying troops. I saw American cars that were at least fifteen years old. There were French and Belgian automobiles, automobiles from every occupied country. They kept going night and day. I kept on sending telegrams to our Legation at Athens as to what was going on.

Then came the Jugo-Slavians coup-d'etat. However, before I come to that I want to tell you something about the departure of the British Legation. When they saw that Bulgaria, about the tenth of March, permitted the Germans to use Bulgaria as a jumping-off place they broke relations with Bulgaria. The Bulgarians were coerced, they could not help themselves, and I have sympathy for them. They did not play the heroic role of Czechoslovakia, because they would be left in ruins just like Poland was.

They had a large pile of luggage on the station platform with somebody watching it. If anybody attempted to take those bags away they would have been arrested, but if somebody brought some additional luggage and added to it nobody said a word. I accompanied one of the members of the British Legation, together with one of the members of our Legation, to the border just as a gesture of friendship to see that every courtesy was given. We got down to a town about four miles upon the Turkish border. There the British luggage was examined by two Turkish officers in charge. They found the two bags. They can not be blamed for their conduct, and yet it came very close to developing into a terrible tragedy. They found two bags wrapped in old newspapers containing what they thought were storage batteries. Storage batteries were bringing a big premium at that time, and were hard to get. So they put the two storage batteries back with the rest of the luggage.

So they got to Istanbul. The British minister and his daughter came in and the luggage was piled in the lobby of the hotel. They asked the British Minister for their passports. As soon as you go to a hotel in Europe you turn over your passports to the police. He turned over their passports, and the police said they would return them in a minute or two. The British Minister's daughter, a very impetuous and very attractive girl, did not like to be kept waiting. She said, "I can get the baggage when I come down." She and her father started up the stairs and got up to the first landing when a bomb exploded. It was one of the storage batteries. It killed eight people and wounded fifteen. The hotel was damaged to such an extent that they were still making repairs when I went through there in January. It was a frightful thing. An English girl had her legs blown off, one was killed instantly, several others were killed and a number were badly injured. It blew a hole through the floor into the cellar and everybody in the lobby fell through this hole and was injured.

The man who had the other bomb heard about the explosion and asked what it was. He suddenly realized that he had this unaccounted for storage battery. He went very calmly to the hotel, picked up the other battery and walked with it out to a place where nobody was. He went about fifty yards, stopped somebody and told him to bring the police. He told the police not to let anybody go near the bomb. The bomb never did explode, but that Englishman certainly showed very cool courage after the other one exploded, because he could naturally reason they would both explode about the same time. Up to this day nobody has ever learned who put the bombs in the luggage. It was a very terrible atrocity.

Well, a short while after came the Jugo-Slavian coup d'etat. The minute Jugo-Slavia decided that it must join the tri-party pact, that is Italy, Germany and Bulgaria, the people revolted against it. The agreement was never made. They broke the decision of the ministers, and then Germany decided that Jugo-Slavia must be brutually and ruthlessly punished.

In all this misery and suffering and death the action of Count Teleki stands out as a wonderful example of decency. A few weeks before he had made a pact of eternal friendship with Jugo-Slavia, Hungary and Czechoslovakia. The Germans at the time, thinking that Jugo Slavia was going to join the tri-party pact, did not object. When Jugo-Slavia kicked over the agreement made by a couple of their ministers and refused to abide by it, the Germans asked and received from the Foreign Minister permission to send German troops through Hungary to attack Jugo-Slavia.

Count Teleki wrote a letter to the Regent of Hungary in which he said:

> "I recently requested permission to send troops through Hungary to attack Jugo-Slavia. We are a flat country, we have no defense against their tanks and aeroplanes, we have no air force. They can destroy Budapest overnight, they can destroy all our country. My country comes before me, Hungary cannot refuse this German demand, but I am the instrument who made this pact of friendship with the Jugo-Slavians and my honor does not permit me to survive this great dishonor".

He went home and shot himself through the heart. I consider suicide a terrible thing, but I think Count Teleki was very wonderful.

Following this coup d'etat of Jugo-Slavia a stream of troops went through south to the Greek border, and at least three quarters of them turned northwestward, and for about two weeks, night and day, a procession of this terrific German machine went in two directions, one to the Greek border and one to the Jugo-Slavian border. There must have been at least five hundred thousand German troops on the Greek border and as many on the Jugo-Slavia border, Hungary and Bulgaria.

One of the terrible things in this war is the absolute lack of chance of the small countries to put up a decent fight. In the last war a small country could hold out for months or maybe a year and make it very uncomfortable for the large nations, but today with airplanes, the frightful stukas, with their death dealing bombs, and tanks, the little countries are hopelessly outclassed and it is just absolutely silly for them to resist, although Greece and Jugo-Slavia most heroically did so.

I will never forget what the Jugo-Slavian Minister said to me the day they refused to join the tri-party act and had the bloodless revolution in Belgrade. He said, "Jugo-Slavia has sealed her doom, but it is going to be a glorious doom", and he was right. In a German plane I passed over Belgrade 500 feet up about three weeks after the bombing of Belgrade. The stench from the dead bodies made me absolutely ill. It was horrible; twelve thousand people were killed and at least six thousand were where they could not get at them.

The Hungarians and Roumanians hate the Germans. Then you ask why the Hungarians and the Roumanians are fighting side by side with the Germans in Russia. The Hungarians were coerced into it. They only sent forty-five hundred Hungarian troops against the Russians. The Roumanians, while they hate the Germans, also hate Russia for taking Bessarabia away from them. They have about three hundred fifty or hour hundred thousand troops in Russia, and they have taken perfectly frightful losses.

I told an incident to an American reporter in Ankara. Ladies and gentlemen, you may have read this,—it was told to me by a Roumanian who was in a position unquestionably to know. He said a German captain in the regular army came back from the Russian front very badly mangled. He was taken to a hospital in Roumania and when he came out of the anesthetic he only had one leg and one arm. He started to curse Hitler in a remarkably strong voice. A Roumanian officer and some soldiers in the hospital took up the cursing, and the whole hospital became pandemonium of yells and shrieks against Hitler. Ten minutes later a representative of the German intelligence took out the German captain and the Roumanian soldier and under the window where everybody could hear and some could see, shot them to death. This gives you some idea of how the Nazi machine works.

To show you the hatred of the Roumanians and Hungarians for the Germans, only last November I was in one of the large clubs in Hungary with a very prominent Hungarian. There were about thirty-five people eating there—remember this is one of Germany's allies. He called out in a very loud voice so that everyone could hear him, "What is the latest news from Europe's No. 1 gangster, Adolph Hitler"? This was said loudly enough so that all the people in the club could hear it.

A day or two later I came down to the Danube to cross from Roumania to Bulgaria. I missed the boat. The boat had left ahead of time, thinking that nobody was coming, and I was pretty sore. There was a Roumanian general and some of his staff there. He said, "Mr. Minister, there is an official German boat down here and if they know who you are they will surely take you over." I was plenty sore; I had to get to Sofia and I said, "I would rather swim the Danube than ask those damn Germans to take me across." The minute I said that I realized I might have been indiscreet, but this Roumanian General shook hands with me and patted me on the back. That gives you an idea of how the Roumanians feel about their allies, the Nazis.

The Bulgarians never broke relations with Russia. King Boris very wisely knew and realized that the Bulgarian people were eighty-five percent pro-Russian, and if they sent an army against the Russians, the army would largely desert. You must remember that canditions change. What is true today may not be true tomorrow, but if Russia should offend Bulgaria they might send an army there to fight—they have very strong nationalistic feelings—but if they send an army into Russia, the Bulgarians would desert or mutiny, in my opinion.

The Bulgarian members of the legation were watched every second of the time and were followed by police cars, everywhere they went. I remember a Russian military attache who went to a diplomatic affair. The Bulgarian policeman had an engagement with his wife to do some shopping and he did not want to break the engagement. So he took out his pen knife and stuck it into the attache's tires, knowing that he could not get away, could not fix his tires for another two hours.

The Bulgarian general staff had absolute confidence that the Germans could overrun Russia in a very short time. They were certain of it. One Bulgarian general said to me, "It will be just an expeditionary force." The Russians did not do very well in Finland because they used the divisions garrisoned at Leningrad, and that was not the corps d'elite or the picked men of the Russian army. The Finns made a very fine showing against the Russians; they showed them where their weakness was just as the Mexican border showed us our weakness before we went into the World War.

When Japan declared war on us, there was undoubtedly an agreement between Germany and Japan and Italy to declare war on us. We had always been Bulgaria's friends, we had fed them, we educated them and we had saved them from being partitioned after the last war. Greece, Roumania and Turkey would like to have apportioned Bulgaria but we saved them and they were very grateful. The last thing in the world they wanted to do was to declare war on us.

After the Germans declared war on the eleventh of December, that afternoon the German field marshal and the German minister called on the King. They said, "Look here, you have gotten back all the territory you lost in the last war without firing a shot, you must show your solidarity with us and declare war on America and England. They can't get at you. You must show your solidarity with us. If you do not do it, we will take away all the territory that you gained and give it to Mussolini and stop all our exports." Bulgaria was coerced into declaring war. The shock to the Bulgarian people was terrific. If Germany lost the war, they thought of what would they gain, and they were sick at heart. I have never seen a sicker people in my life, and they knew that the declaration of war on America would be a terrible blow to them.

This is the way the Germans work. Bulgaria is a very poor country compared with us, although one of the richest in the Balkans. A German agent went to a lot of school boys and gave each of the students a sum of money to go down and smash all the windows in the American legation, "to show that Bulgaria hated the Americans." I was sitting in the legation. We took turns, and it was my turn to be there. One man stays in the legation at all times. I heard the shouting outside and the crashing of windows. They broke every one of the fifty-five windows in the legation. I went downstairs and got my shot-gun with some duck shells. They hammered on the door. If they broke into the legation, I had a right to shoot them because it was American territory. I thought of shooting out the window at them but realized that I might be on dangerous ground in doing so. The police came just before the door broke down, and grabbed about fifty of the boys. They were shouting: "We are ready to fight America." The King was furious. He said, "All right, you are ready to fight." He took them and put them doing the lowest work that a soldier can do, and he put them there for a couple of years. He said, "If you want to fight, here you are, go ahead." Then the King turned out every glazier, every person who knew anything about glass in the whole of Sofia. They worked all night long, and by daylight every window had been fixed. So Sofia the next day could not see any trace of this incident paid for by the Germans.

That is the way they work and spread their propaganda. They spread the news that Bulgarians had smashed the American legation because of their hatred for America. The Bulgarians were broken hearted at being forced to do that.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, I am about to finish with a short, brief summary of my experiences over there. The dominant characteristic of the Nazi regime in Germany, and to a lesser extent the Fascist regime in Italy, can be described in one word, and that word is "terror," terror which is present day and night. Sofia and Bulgaria were far better than most of the occupied countries. If the Gestapo or secret Bulgarian police received an anonymous letter that a man was an enemy to the Nazis or to the Bulgarian regime, he would disappear. Upon an anonymous letter, remember. He would be put in jail and nobody would know where he was. His family could not inquire about him. If they could find no justification, if they could find no proof that the anonymous letter was true, he would be released after five or ten days. In the meantime his family would have no idea whether they would ever see him again or where he was.

What we are fighting against, Americans, never forget, can be summed up in one word, and that word is "terror." The people are just bugs in Germany, merely bugs to be experimented upon in the laboratories. Ever present, day and night, is terror, and that is what we are fighting against Somebody said, "What caused this war?" Churchill used a very fine phrase about it. He said, "Hitler, that monstrous product of wrong and shame." That is a broad statement, but it is the truth. When this war is over and we have won—and we must win—there can be no appeasement for the hatred of the Nazi leaders for us. The one obstacle in the way of their world domination is America; they realize we are the people who are blocking them. They know they would have won the war if we had not first of all given help to our Allies and are now coming in.

If they get control of Europe and Germany can control Japan, the East Indies and Asia, Germany can work unmolested in the shipyards of Europe, and can attack us from both sides. Where do you think we are going to be? Americans will realize there can be no negotiated peace. Either this world is going to be Nazi or it is going to be democratic. There can be no half way about it.

Lincoln said, "This country cannot exist half slave and half free." Neither can this world exist half Nazi and half democratic where we can have life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. It must come to an absolute showdown. The world must be either democratic and fair or Nazi and filled with terror.

When the war is won, we must not let this horrible thing happen again. We and some of our allies must see to it that there is absolute universal disarmament; we have got to police the world and see that world peace is maintained or it will happen again. We did not learn from the last war. Pray God that we remember that we must make it impossible for this horrible thing ever to happen again.

Ladies and gentlemen, I only wish you all had been where I was and had seen what I saw. You would more fully realize what we are fighting against and the great danger we are in now after having seen the efficient, merciless German machine, as I saw it. I only wish you all had been over there and could realize the real danger we are in today.

I said before that the reason I went into the Navy is that I want to fight the Nazis and the Japs; I do not want to fight Republicans. Ladies and gentlemen, we have a two-party system here, which is right. In time of war we cannot get rid of that two party system, and we do not want to get rid of it. The two party system means competition, and competition always means that everybody is on their toes to do better. But I say to you we must have a certain kind of truce. Let us Democrats have only constructive criticism of the Republicans. When we think they do wrong, let us propose something better, and if they do right, let us give praise to the Republicans; and let the Republicans do the same to us.

Ladies and gentlemen, in closing I think the feeling is that we are all in the same boat, and that there is only a hairbreadth's difference between Democrats and Republicans, as compared with the frightful difference between Nazi terror and democracy. That is true today more than I have ever known it to be in my life. When Governor James, an old time opponent of mine, and the Republican members of the House and Senate come here today and give me this very great honor, they do so because they know that I am not here as a Democrat, but I am here as an American, just as they are Americans.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 2, 1942.

A MESSAGE TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Reporting the Highlights of Pennsylvania's Effort in the National Defense Program

From

Immediately Prior to the Declaration of War Against the United States by Japan, Germany and Italy

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The United States is a great transcontinental rectangle of some 2500 miles by 1200 miles. Within its borders, on the eastern seaboard, is a smaller rectangle which measures about 300 by 150 miles. This smaller rectangle is our Pennsylvania.

Within this Pennsylvania rectangle are found the most priceless resources belonging to that greater land rectangle, the United States. In Pennsylvania's area are found those things and those people upon whom those of the larger area absolutely depend for their security and welfare—to an utterly incredible extent.

In Pennsylvania live a dominant share of those men and women who are the world's greatest artisans and craftsmen and who possess the specialized skills so vital to the Nation. In Pennsylvania are the people, the resources and the enterprise upon which the United States has builded and grown great.

Therefore, when we of Pennsylvania, the latter day inheritors and custodians of grave responsibilities, think in terms of our Commonwealth's share in the National Defense effort, we must first realize that ours is a stewardship to the Nation as a whole—out of all proportion and therefore virtually incomparable with any other state or geographical subdivision of the United States.

To say that Pennsylvania is the keystone which holds up the arch of the states which form the Nation is simply to reiterate a household axiom which has obtained since colonial times.

This, then, was the point of view with which we approached the entire problem of Pennsylvania's resources and manpower in America's war effort. Because of this approach and because coming events had cast long and sinister shadows before, Pennsylvania was "on the alert," to borrow a military phrase, well in advance of the emergency period and the subsequent declaration of hostilities.

When men are no longer able to settle their disputes by ordinary means and must resolve their differences by force of arms, it is obvious that the winning side must have developed the best teamwork, responding the most competently to the directions of leadership.

It was clear to this Administration that Pennsylvania's resources and manpower could best be utilized as a single unit on a great team of forty-eight states. To use football terms, this philosophy naturally finds Pennsylvania in a fullback position, responding with all its power and drive to the signals called by the quarterback—not in getting off-side or in motion before the ball is snapped, not in playing up to the grandstand, and in not attempting to call signals.

Pennsylvania is the fullback on this National Defense team because it ranks second in industry of all the states in the Union and in forty important industries it ranks first. It is the most important mineral producing state. It produces a fifth of all the energy in the United States. It has a forty thousand mile network of State highways and fourteen trunk-line railroads. Its heavy industry is the third greatest in the world. It is one of the most important agricultural states. It is diversified almost beyond comprehension and has 10,000,000 citizens.

This is our responsibility to the Nation and the world, staggering to the imagination and shared by every Pennsylvanian alike. This war is not of our making but this war is now the responsibility of sons and daughters of the Old Commonwealth even as past wars have been the burden of our ancestors.

Like all the other states in the Union, Pennsylvania's protection rests with the armed forces of the United States under the direction of the President of the United States. Pennsylvania's job, as a state, is to provide internal protection for herself and her citizens, under Federal coordination, and as one of the states upon which the government draws for that of which an army or navy is made, Pennsylvania's duty is to respond competently to every call. While there has been some misunderstanding elsewhere on this subject there is no misunderstanding in Pennsylvania.

Detaching the cumulative processes by which Pennsylvania's artisans and resources had been put into play as events turned the world into a battlefield, Pennsylvania's all-out effort may be dated as having begun in July, 1940, following a series of conferences at the Executive Mansion.

In these conferences the broad outlines of Pennsylvania's participation in the obviously impending state of war for the United States were fully discussed.

During the next week cabinet officers and responsible authorities were given the outline in general.

These further conferences set in motion a series of studies which resulted in basic, over-all mobilization programs being drawn up which could cover any eventuality. Experts, analysts, tacticians and executives pored over these plans until far in the night.

By September 1, 1940, all possible was in readiness. The Selective Service program was re-planned, revitalized and placed in readiness.

The program of a State Guard to replace the National Guard was established. Civilian defense was gone into by research experts who compiled complete handbooks covering all phases, largely based on Great Britain's experience. Also received were plans for the mobilization of everything from education to private aviation. Pennsylvania was ready to carry the ball when the signal was called.

At this stage of the developments it is well to remember that throughout the nation had arisen assorted groups hoping by various means to seize control of the essential services, even including authority, in time of crisis.

The plans met these groups and agencies with the most direct method of attack—by building each of the national defense efforts on a firm foundation.

In this connection it might be pointed out that this Commonwealth has had to back-track not one single defense effort nor has it had to break up or withdraw from any defense program which it has started.

During the first week of September, 1940, we went into action on perhaps the most important front of all—Selective Service—in anticipation of the proclamation of the President of the United States calling for a registration of all men of the United States between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-six. The President made this proclamation on September 16th and the registration was directed for Wednesday, October 16th. A small group of men called into service from the military and various departments of the Capitol gathered together to carry out the work and form the nucleus of Pennsylvania's now magnificant state-wide Selective Service system. With their sleeves rolled up they met in a small room in the State Capitol with a few borrowed desks, a few typewriters, and a corps of stenographers borrowed from all the departments on Capitol Hill.

Lieut. Col. Benjamin F. Evans, Deputy Adjutant General, was given the task of carrying out the program pending the appointment of a State Director of Selective Service. Small though it was, this small group functioned with machine-like precision.

Pennsylvania was divided into 422 board areas in conformity with the tentative provisions of the National Selective Training and Service program and in order to set up the establishment I directed that board members should be selected initially by committees including the county commissioners of each of the sixty-seven counties and the Superintendent of Schools of each county and the President Judge of the Common Pleas Court of each county. This decision was made in order to insure absolute impartiality and a non-partisan, non-political set up. The Pennsylvania Constitution provides for minority representation in all county commissions.

While the advisory committees in each county were working on the personnel of the boards, which I was subsequently to recommend to the President, Selective Service Headquarters in Harrisburg went about getting the mass registration.

Here again we called on the counties to effect the registration by using the regular election machinery already in existence and the election places as the registering places.

A meeting was called of all the county commissioners of Pennsylvania, their duties explained to them and on September 18th I issued the first Selective Service Proclamation. Bids were ready for the gigantic printing program within a few days.

On September 25th I appointed one of America's great educators and executives to be the Director of Selective Service in Pennsylvania, Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of Lafayette College, Easton, Pennsylvania. Doctor Lewis took this post without compensation. The next day advance copies of Selective Service regulations began to come to Harrisburg from Brig. General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Executive and subsequently to be National Selective Service Director. During this two-day period, permanent headquarters for Selective Service were established in the Governor's Office suite in the Main Capitol building.

The wisdom of this selection of Doctor Lewis was best expressed in a letter from General Hershey a year later, on December 15, 1941, after Doctor Lewis had found it necessary to be relieved from duty, after a year in service, so that he could again devote his full time to the affairs of Lafayette College:

"It was a very great pleasure to see you all and to participate in a well-deserved tribute to a man (Dr. Lewis) who has done a magnificent job."

On October 1, 1940, I issued the Registration Proclamation. This proclamation called for closing schools on Registration Day, thus more forcibly bringing its significance to all Pennsylvanians. The 5,100,000 forms necessary for Pennsylvania's registration were ready and in the process of distribution that same day.

Following through on the policy of decentralization, I called on the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania to furnish the names for the examining physicians of the 422 local boards and on the President Judges and Presidents of the Bar Associations in each of the counties to furnish the names of the legal advisors to registrants and the government appeal agents. On October 1st the Medical Society sent its list. On October 11th all of the agencies designated had completed their tasks. The recommendations for the 1266 board members, 422 examining physicians and 422 government appeal agents, were sent to the President for his approval on that date. Pennsylvania was one of the first states in the Union to complete this task.

The response to the program for registration was such that on October 14th, the President of the United States was advised that Pennsylvania was ready and fully prepared for the registration. On October 16th registration proceeded without incident. Every Pennsylvanian who participated did his full and utmost share, reflecting credit on all of us.

When the registration figures had been tabulated, it was found that the Keystone State had not only set a record in efficiency but had led the Nation, except for one state, in the number of those registered. There were 1,170,574 Pennsylvania men registered on that day and it was found that Pennsylvania, without exception, was operating the most important Selective Service Headquarters in the United States.

This brought unstinted praise from Washington. The first requisition for soldiers was received on November 4th. They were delivered by the Local Boards at the time and places indicated without delay or incident whatever. Thus was begun Pennsylvania's great Selective Service System, which now numbers 7000 persons assigned, and which has established record after record in effectiveness and economy of operation and which was to lead the way, at the request of National Selective Service Headquarters, in important changes and innovations.

During the year just passed it established the famed Pennsylvania plan which became the model for the Nation and was urged on other states by the Selective Service System. This plan eliminated the physical examination at the induction station and provided for final type physical examinations prior to induction with a waiting period between the two, thus ending the unhappy situation of inductees being rejected physically after being called to the colors.

C. A. Dykstra, National Director of Selective Service, wrote to the people of Pennsylvania on November 1, 1940, after the Registration tabulations had been completed:

"May I take this opportunity of thanking you for your State's splendid contribution to this National effort. Thousands of public-spirited citizens working under your direction have made this possible. I know full well that I can count on your continued cooperation."

At the end of the first year General Hershey wrote the State Selective Service director on December 15, 1941, in part, as follows:

"You and your staff have conducted the operations of the Selective Service System in your State in a highly commendable manner and in a spirit of cooperation that has been a source of real satisfaction. Based upon your past record, I am sure you will accept the increased responsibilities . . ."

It is fitting and proper to add that the cooperation given by national headquarters of the Selective Service System has been not only satisfactory, but altogether outstanding. It is especially worthy of note that Brigadier General Hershey has responded to Pennsylvania's efforts with the finest kind of direction and understanding of our problems.

The next test of the adequacy of the preliminary planning came with the call of the National Guard into active duty and the necessity for the mobilization of a State Guard to replace it. The plan for this mobilization had been completed even before the Federal Act authorizing states to organize a State Guard was approved October 21, 1940.

Preliminary organization was immediately commenced and a State bill implementing the Federal act was submitted to the regular session of the Legislature. When the State bill was passed and approved on March 19, 1941, Pennsylvania's schedule was complete down to the last detail of the uniforms, even including the type of insignia which would be worn on the coats of the men. Brigadier General Robert M. Vail, the Acting Adjutant General, was designated as Commander of the State Guard which was subsequently given the official name of Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps by the General Assembly. Formation plans were released February 26th and tabulations of strength and equipment released on February 27th, location of units was announced on February 28th and the appointments of regimental commanders for the three State regiments were announced on April 2d.

By April 17th officers in the lower commands were being appointed. Enlistments were commenced on May 26th and were completed within thirty days.

On June 12th uniforms were being received in quantity; on July 25th the 30 calibre Lee-Enfield rifles were received from the Federal government; within a few days the State had purchased light machine guns and other equipment for heavy weapons work.

On October 7th, General Vail reported that the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps was uniformed, trained and ready for active duty. Full strength was established, all officers commissioned and assigned, and companies housed in armories. With precision, Pennsylvania had created a standing army of two thousand officers and men and was the first state on the record so to advise the United States Army.

Thus it was that when the Third Corps Area of the United States Army called on Pennsylvania to guard military objectives, primarily vital bridges, after Japan's declaration of war on the United States, Pennsylvania met the call. The State Guard was called out in full on December 8th and has already established a real record of service.

Initial appointments of officers were made only from officers or ex-officers of the Regular Army, National Guard, Reserve Corps, Navy or Marine Corps, and they were in no instance advanced more than two grades over the rank held. As of today the State Guard is so self-sufficient that it is producing its own officers from its own enlisted ranks, as was the National Guard policy.

Naturally, the defense duties of the Department of Military Affairs have been without number but the best to illustrate the multiplicity of services, unheard of publicly, is this excerpt from a letter, dated June 4, 1941, from Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy.

"On behalf of the Navy Department I wish to extend my sincere appreciation of the valuable assistance rendered by the State of Pennsylvania in extending the use of the facilities of the State Military Reservation to the Marine Corps."

In this particular instance Indiantown Gap was temporarily made available to the Marine Corps for its basic school for six weeks beginning April 14, 1941.

Pennsylvania's leadership was well established. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, on March 27, 1941, announced that only 27 or 28 of the 48 states were in the process of creating State Guards and he named only four of these states as deserving of commendation in the "material progress which was made"—one of the four he named was Pennsylvania.

In the early days of the 1941 Legislative Session, the General Assembly took under consideration one of the State's most far reaching defense efforts, in the form of an act creating the State Council of Defense. This act was passed and approved on March 19, 1941, with the provision that the Governor was authorized to call the State Council into being by proclamation "in time of emergency or public need."

The State Council consists, in addition to the Governor, of Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis, State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General F. Clair Ross, Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livengood, Jr., Acting Adjutant General Robert M. Vail, President Pro Tem of the Senate Charles H. Ealy, Speaker of the House Elmer J. Kilroy, and three citizens, one appointed by the Governor, one by the President Pro Tem and one by the Speaker. They are, in the order given: Mrs. William J. Clothier, Dr. Webster Newton Jones and Hon. Leo A. Achterman.

Pennsylvania is one of the few States with its Defense Council membership stipulated by the law. Incidentally, this thus far has assured minority party representation on the Council. Such a policy has aided Pennsylvania's war effort, in my opinion, and given us a sounder basis for the work than is found in those states where the Council operates merely as an adjunct of the Governor's Office and its membership is selected solely by the Chief Executive. The Pennsylvania Council's service and power are of vastly greater proportion because our Council represents the people through the Governor, the General Assembly, and the fiscal officers.

I issued the emergency proclamation on April 17th and almost coincidentally the announcement of the appointment of Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, as Executive Director of the State Council of Defense, was made by the Council. Once again Pennsylvania turned to an outstanding and recognized college president to do a big job. Doctor Marts is president of Bucknell University.

The calibre of Doctor Marts' work is perhaps best expressed in the words of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, National Director of Civilian Defense, when he wired under date of December 10, 1941, requesting permission to place Doctor Marts in charge of the entire Third Civilian Defense Region, including Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia:

"He has his organization in good shape. He has a splendid grasp of the responsibilities and the addition of Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia would not be too burdensome."

The first mass meeting on National Defense, which was to be the forerunner of thousands of others throughout the State, was held under the supervision of the State Council on May 7, 1941. The State Council members, Doctor Marts, and their associates rolled up their sleeves and went to work with characteristic Pennsylvania vigor. The first tangible evidence that Pennsylvania had again assumed leadership in organization came on September 5, 1941, when Mayor LaGuardia reported to the Nation that there were 2866 defense councils in operation in the United States. On this day Pennsylvania had 500 councils of defense under the State Council, or roughly one-sixth of the entire number of defense councils in all of the United States.

The initial test for this far-flung organization came in the drive for the collection of scrap aluminum throughout America, a job for the State Councils in each of the forty-eight states under the direction of the Office of Civilian Defense. This was the initial trial on which the strength of the work which had been done could be proven. Pennsylvania received first word of the drive on June 27th and went looking for the metal scrap in every nook and corner.

On September 30th the tabulations of the work done by each of the states were announced. The official publication of the Office of Civilian Defense said of the aluminum drive results:

"Second highest state was Pennsylvania with the recorded total of 900,000 pounds." The nearest state below Pennsylvania was Massachusetts with 699,150 pounds collected. The only state which exceeded Pennsylvania was New York with its substantially greater population. However, when the figure was broken down it was found that Pennsylvania had gone ahead of New York in the poundage of pots and pans collected per dwelling with a total of .358 pounds collected per dwelling as against New York's .286 per dwelling.

Consistently, Pennsylvania continued making firsts, seconds and thirds in cooperation as each phase—and there are almost countless phases—of the civilian effort developed. This is witnessed by two examples of excerpts from Mayor LaGuardia's letters:

"I have just received your proclamation on the Civilian Defense Act, for which I want to thank you. This is the first proclamation I have received from a Governor carrying out the request of the President." (October 29, 1941).

"The United States Office of Civilian Defense wants to express to you our deep appreciation of the patriotic services rendered by the Pennsylvania State Defense Council, the local defense councils and other organizations in your State in helping to develop and man the Civilian Aircraft Warning Service . . . the success of this project augurs well the success of our entire Civilian Defense Program." (November 18, 1941)

Pennsylvania now has 610 councils of defense working under the State Council of Defense through a carefully established chain of command, handling the entire civilian effort apart from that with which the Army or Navy is directly concerned.

Under these councils today are nearly 200,000 persons actively at work in administrative, precautionary and protective services. Including these persons now operating the structure, more than a quarter of a million are enrolled and ready for duty and one million have taken the Red Cross first aid course.

Of interest is the following excerpt from a letter under date of December 12, 1941, from Colonel Clifton Lisle, Director of the Third Civilian Defense Region and Coordinator for the United States Army, when he was ordered to a new assignment and was relieved from duty in Baltimore:

"I take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the cooperation shown me in this office in matters of civilian defense. I have received every assistance from Doctor Marts and your Council of Defense, and I feel sure my successor will meet with the same cooperation."

Excerpts from the speech of Mayor LaGuardia in Harrisburg on the occasion of the State Defense Rally under the auspices of the State Council, Friday, November 14, 1941, will illustrate the success of Pennsylvania's program of teamwork. The Mayor said, in part:

"I want to thank you personally . . . for your excellent leadership . . . in taking hold of the civilian defense work in appointing competent, capable executive such as Doctor Marts.

"Here is the State of Pennsylvania, one of the largest states in the Union, there is not now the slightest doubt but what the program will be fully carried out and that come what may the people of Pennsylvania will be able to take care of themselves.

"Here in Pennsylvania you have so many centers that are attractive and tempting targets to an enemy and that is why the people of this state should be indeed grateful to the vision, the knowledge . . . at this time in meeting this situation and being prepared if it comes."

When an apparent crisis in Washington arose on the subject of petroleum and Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, as Petroleum Coordinator for National Defense, issued a nationwide call for a reduction in the consumption of gasoline, Pennsylvania fitted itself into his call, in so far as was necessary, within forty-eight hours.

The Petroleum Coordinator announced his program on August 11th for the conservation of gasoline and that same day Guy K. Haslet, Advisor of Liquid Fuels Tax Auditors, Department of Revenue, was designated as a liaison representative between Doctor Marts and Secretary Ickes.

Pennsylvania's participation in this effort functioned without incident until Mr. Ickes announced that the shortage was not as severe as contemplated and that the "voluntary rationing" which had been in effect was no longer needed. While this agency is no longer operative, it is nevertheless ready for recall at a moment's notice.

The following excerpt from a letter under date of August 8, 1941, from the Office of the Petroleum Coordinator gives the reaction to Pennsylvania's work:

"May I express the sincere appreciation of this office for your cooperation in the petroleum conservation program.—Ralph K. Davies, Deputy Coordinator."

The latter part of September, 1941, aeronautical plans for civilian pilots were again revised and on December 8th, with the information at hand that the Office of Civilian Defense had completed the plans for the establishment of a Civil Air Patrol, the State program took effect.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania lost the services of Lt. Col. J. Victor Dallin, its Director of Aeronautics, who had been called to active Air Corps duty, and William L. Anderson, a private pilot, plane owner and airport operator, was designated to be the Acting Director of Aeronautics. Shortly thereafter Mr. Anderson was named Wing Commander for Pennsylvania in the Civil Air Patrol by the Office of Civilian Defense.

The organization of a Civil Air Patrol, the Federal plans for which had not yet arrived, progressed well. By December 16th Acting Director Anderson reported that the initial steps in the formation of the Pennsylvania Wing of the Civil Air Patrol had been completed.

By December 31st, Acting Director Anderson further reported that the C. A. P. was ready for limited active duty pending completion of a state-wide chain command at which time it would be ready for full field duty. At the same time it was disclosed that the State staff and group commanders for the entire Commonwealth had been appointed and were functioning down the line.

On January 6th, Major General John F. Curry, National Director of the C. A. P., announced that Pennsylvania stood seventh in the entire Nation in the formation of the Civil Air Patrol, despite the fact that in the middle of the emergency it had lost its State Director. This announcement was made at a tri-state meeting of C. A. P. officers in Harrisburg. The General indicated that among the larger states Pennsylvania was foremost, pointing out that some states with only a handful of airports as compared to Pennsylvania's 170 airports, 5000 pilots and 2500 flying ships, had been able to organize slightly faster. He also pointed out that Pennsylvania had more private flying ships per pilot than any other state in the Union.

After Pearl Harbor, instructions from Washington flew thick and fast to the forty-eight states. The rubber shortage called for immediate action and at the request of the Office of Price Administration, tire rationing was commenced on December 18, 1941.

It was concluded by the State Council of Defense that the areas in which the Selective Service System had been set up should also be used as areas for the tire rationing. The Commonwealth was advised that as of January 5, 1942, these tire rationing points would have to be established. This information came on December 21st. With such rapidity did Pennsylvania respond, that this telegram was received on December 26th:

"Much impressed business like manner in . . . tire rationing problem in Defense Council Tuesday. We have no worries about Pennsylvania. Many thanks. Frank Bane, Office of Price Administration.

The suboffice for control of tire rationing has been functioning since December 24th with the appointment of T. Elmer Transeau, Director of Highway Safety, Department of Revenue, as the Director of Tire Rationing, under the Council. So carefully had this job of organization been done by the State Council and so carefully had the selections for the tire rationing board personnel been accomplished that when the next rationing order came to Pennsylvania—the rationing of automobiles—the Council was in a position to superimpose this same duty upon the already established duties of the tire boards. A sudden order freezing all automobiles and light trucks in the United States until they could be rationed on a priority basis was issued on Thursday, January 1st, and in the early dawn Pennsylvania Motor Policemen delivered copies of the freezing order to all Mayors, Burgesses and Sheriffs in the Commonwealth, who in turn were asked to use their local police to deliver copies of the Federal freezing instructions to all automobile dealers within their subdivisions.

On February 9th the State Council was advised by the Office of Price Administration that the tire rationing program had been accomplished so "quickly, adequately and efficiently" that the rationing of other commodities should follow the same general pattern and the same machinery should be used.

This letter concluded with these words ". . . tell you again how much we have enjoyed working with you in setting up necessary rationing machinery throughout the United States, and how much we have appreciated the enthusiastic cooperation which we have received from . . . the Council of Defense."

The Council of Defense on February 18th designated Mr. Transeau as State Rationing Administrator to handle the entire rationing program for the Commonwealth.

Into this over-all National effort Pennsylvania has day by day provided the full resources of her State agencies. Long prior to the emergency, Pennsylvania's Secretary of Commerce, Mark S. James, had developed the Commonwealth's industrial pooling system which has been copied throughout the Nation.

Shortly after the industrial pooling went into effect to bring about a maximum effort by the giant machines of the State's workshops, the Department of Commerce had also given me, and I in turn sent it to Washington, a complete inventory of the State's industrial and business resources and facilities. Pennsylvania was the first State to do this.

The Department laid out a program of taking national defense work into areas where there were idle workmen, rather than taking idle workmen to defense plants. This program could be accomplished with the least social and economic disturbance.

Pennsylvania's Motor Police have almost tripled their work and the accomplishments of this Department are outstanding among the states. The network of communications of the State Police has been used time and time again for military purposes, and the policemen have never failed to accomplish any defense mission to which they have been assigned.

Other State departments were prepared when they were called on. As each new State agency was developed in the National effort, State departments contributed their personnel until the new agencies could undertake the task of carrying on, on their own. The already established facilities functioned admirably when National Defense duties were superimposed upon them—such as the manner in which the Department of Highways managed the network of military roads and the plans which it has to keep them open when they become the only routes between military objectives; or the manner in which the Department of Agriculture on an instant's notice placed its entire Farm Show facilities at the disposal of hundreds of Federal troops who suddenly arrived in Harrisburg one afternoon on an emergency trip and had no shelter; or the way the Department of Forests and Waters provided the Army with its net-work when the Army made a sudden call for it.

Particularly impressive has been the work of th Department of Public Instruction which has trained more than 250,000 persons in vocational and industrial operations for National Defense. The multiplicity of duties which have been placed on this Department, and which this Department has effectively carried, are almost without number, including Pennsylvania's participation in the physical education program in cooperation with the State Council of Defense; public works reserve administration, community facility administration and conservation of cultural resources.

Obviously, in the time of emergency, decisions must be made not on the basis of what we would like but on the basis of facts as we find them. Whenever decisions have been necessary in this Administration which even approached the borderline of expediency, I have made it a point to be sure that all interested persons would understand the situation.

Such, for example, was the case when the Federal-approved Model Anti-sabotage Bill died in committee in the lower house of the General Assembly thus leaving the vital manner of plant protection and private guards to protect these plants in uncertain status. When the emergency arose, Pennsylvania was thereby caught unprepared, but we met this crisis to the best of our ability by digging into the law books and patching together a framework set-up by which auxiliary police could be called into existence with old World War laws of the 1917-1918 period as could be utilized.

By resurrecting these laws and by availing the Administration of all the powers possible, a suboffice was established in the office of the State Council on December 13, 1941, for the commissioning of auxiliary policemen for the duration of the emergency, whose prime purpose is to guard plants and private properties engaged in work of national importance.

The need for this establishment is best shown in the fact that within fifteen days after the office had been opened it had received thirty thousand applications for such police commissions from private employers, particularly such as railroads and utilities, from Mayors and Burgesses. By January 9, 1942, some three thousand of these commissions had been issued after each applicant had been carefully scrutinized and each application certified to by the agency asking for the commission.

It presently appears that from thirty to forty thousand of these commissions will be found necessary. The commissioning power under the old law rests in the hands of the Governor and the State Council serves as the agency under which the applications and the necessity therefor are determined.

These are the highlights of the actual executive administration by the responsible officers of this Commonwealth and the State Council.

The full story of devotion, loyalty, responsibility and trustworthiness would require many volumes if an attempt were made to give credit to all of those persons and agencies and services who are affiliated with the coordinating and control agencies established under the jurisdiction or operating in liaison with the State Council of Defense. The story of the air raid warning services with outposts, filter and information centers, constitute a prime example of one phase of this. The Red Cross achievements and service constitute another tremendous phase.

Obviously, this report simply scratches the surface of the all-out State effort. Much information which I would like to bring to your attention has, since Pearl Harbor, become confidential or restricted information. Calls are being made upon our manpower and facilities through Selective Service and other agencies, which are the greatest in our history. I can only say upon this, that no matter how great the call for anything which this Commonwealth possesses, the Commonwealth has arisen and met the call and will continue to do so.

Pennsylvania marches forward, a proven teammate on America's all-out team of states.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

HOUSE MESSAGES

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

RESOLUTION URGING REDUCTION OR ELIMINATION OF TOLL CHARGES

Messrs. SHAPIRO and CROWE offered the following resolution which was twice read,

In the Senate, March 3, 1942.

Whereas, The Nation is now engaged in a great war taxing the utmost capacity of its economic resources; and

Whereas, It is the duty of all loyal citizens to aid the Federal Government in the prosecution of the war effort; and

Whereas, The Federal Government is expending large sums of money in the transportation of its vehicles and equipment over various toll bridges throughout the Nation; and

Whereas, Such toll bridges are in existence in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, some being owned by individuals and private corporations and others being under the jurisdiction of joint authorities or commissions controlled by this Commonwealth and adjoining states; and

Whereas, A great saving would be effected in favor of the Government of the United States if the aforesaid toll charges would be reduced or eliminated for the duration of the national emergency; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the aforementioned private bridge companies and corporations are earnestly exorted and requested to enter into arrangements with the War and Navy Departments of the United States, whereby toll charges for the transportation of vehicles and equipment operated by the United States Government be reduced or eliminated for the duration of the present national emergency; and be it further

Resolved, That it is the suggestion and recommendation of this body, in so far as the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is concerned, that the bridge commissions and authorities controlled by this Commonwealth and adjoining states, enter into arrangements with the War and Navy Departments of the Government of the United States, whereby toll charges for transportation of vehicles and equipment be reduced or eliminated for the duration of the national emergency; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to toll bridge authorities, commissions and companies under the jurisdiction of and within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, including joint toll commissions and to the War and Navy Departments of the United States Government.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, reserving my right to object, I would like to ask the sponsor of this resolution as to whether or not in some cases we have not pledged those toll receipts to support bond issues, and in that event, what is our status under the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this, of course, is not a law, it is only a suggestion to those commissions, which can waive the toll charges, that they do so. If in any case there are pledges of the income which would prevent such a reduction in toll or its entire elimination, of course it would not happen.

Present available information is that the government would save many millions of dollars, in fact, probably a billion dollars a year, if these concessions would allow trucks to move across bridges within the state.

The answer to the question of the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, is that where it can not be done, of course, this resolution would not apply.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President I think that I might object, not from a malicious spirit, but I would like to make some inguiry myself, and I think it might be helpful to all of us to have the resolution in print before us.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I have no objection to that, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. There having been objection, the resolution is referred to the Committee on State Government.

RESOLUTION URGING PRESERVATION OF VIRGIN FOREST

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, on behalf of my colleagues, Senator Chapman and Senator Stiefel, who have joined with me—I desire to present this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

This resolution covers a situation in Pennsylvania which I think we all should strive to preserve. In the County of Forest we have some of the original virgin timber of Pennsylvania, and it is proposed, at least the subject is being given consideration by the Federal Government, to erect numerous dams in that vicinity, which if consummated will spoil one of the beauty spots of Pennsylvania.

To our minds, Mr. President, this is rather a quixotic scheme and we believe that it should be opposed and some other proposition adopted in its stead.

Messrs. STEVENSON, CHAPMAN and STIEFEL offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 3, 1942.

Whereas, The magnificent tract of virgin pine, comprising approximately 6,200 acres, known as Cook Forest Park, in the vicinity of the little town of Cooksburg, at the intersection of Jefferson, Forest and Clarion Counties, represents the last priceless heritage of the Forest Primeval in Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The Cook Forest Association was formed nearly fifteen years ago to save this priceless tract of forest-cathedrals from the lumbermen's axe and preserve it as the property of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, Through the untiring efforts and perseverance of said Cook Forest Association, its initiative and devotion to vision and purpose, a sum of $250,000 was raised by public subscription, of which about $10,000 was raised through tiny subscriptions made by school children throughout the Commonwealth, to thus match the appropriation of about $400,000 provided by the General Assembly of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The Cook Forest Park created in 1927 by Act of Assembly is one of the outstanding recreational grounds of Pennsylvania and one of the priceless possessions of our Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The Clarion River Power Company having failed in the past to build a dam on the Clarion River, which flows through Cook Forest, is again renewing its efforts under the pretext of present need for hydroelectricity; and

Whereas, A new proposal has been lately advanced before the Federal authorities by the Clarion River Power Company to build a dam approximately 250 feet high, which would flood the major portion of the forest, destroying the virgin timber, except that which is on higher ground and rendering the site useless for recreational purposes; and

Whereas, This proposal originally listed by the Clarion River Power Company as a flood control measure and now advocated by it as a defense project is totally untenable since hydroelectricity is now abundant in Western Pennsylvania, let alone that a long time would be required to build the dam, impound the water and build the power plants which would be fed by it; and

Whereas, It has been amply and ably demonstrated that if it were absolutely necessary to dam the Clarion River for the generation of hydroelectricity and flood control, two smaller dams would accomplish the purpose without sacrificing the primeval Cook Forest Park; now be it, therefore

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania memorialize each member of the Congressional delegation from Pennsylvania to oppose the proposed erection of the dam on the Clarion River, which will result in the inundation and destruction of the Cook Forest Park; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate forward copies of this Resolution to each member of the Congressional delegation from Pennsylvania.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection. The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution,

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting against the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the Senator from Philadelphia will be so noted.

HOUSE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 10, (Senate Bill No. 39), entitled:

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 21, on third reading, entitled:

money under certain conditions for such purposes, providing for the repayment thereof, and ratifying confirming and validating appropriations heretofore made for said purposes.

be recommitted to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 25, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section thirteen Article three of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows

Section 1 The following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof

Section thirteen of article three is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 13 No law shall extend the term of any public officer or increase or dimniish his salary or emoluments after his election or appointment or fix or regulate the compensation of appointed officers and employes of local governments other than school districts

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, this joint resolution proposes to amend article three, section thirteen of the Constitution. That section and article of the Constitution now reads:

"No law shall extend the term of any public officer or increase or diminish his salary or emolument after his election or appointment."

It would seem that the section would prohibit the Legislature from enacting any law that would increase or diminish the salary of a public officer, or to increase or diminish the term of a public officer. Generally we know the meaning of the term public officer, and this particular section has been applied repeatedly to laws passed by the General Assembly which tend to increase or diminish the term or the salary of a public officer. It applies to members of the General Assembly; it applies to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; it applies to all his Cabinet Officers; it applies to all county officials; it applies to all township officials; it applies to all school district officials, in fact it applies to all officers who are denominated public officers.

In the year 1903 the General Assembly passed an act increasing the salaries of the judges of the Supreme, Superior and lower courts of this Commonwealth. The State Treasurer of that time refused to pay the increased salaries on the theory that the act was unconstitutional, and that it contravened this particular article and section of the Constitution. He contended that judges were public officers and covered by this article and section of the Constitution. That dispute between the State Treasurer and the judges went before the Supreme Court itself. Here then we had a case where the Judges of the Supreme Court were called upon to determine whether they should receive this increase in salary or not, and whether they were public officers under the meaning of this article and section of the Constitution.

Mr. President, it may be alarming to some, and not alarming to others, but I would say that to the individual with a sober mind, a well balanced individual, he would presume that a judge is a public officer and therefore would come under the prohibition contained in this article and section of the Constitution, but I view the decision with amazement, as I think many other citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania view the decision. The Supreme Court held that they were not public officers under this article and section of the Constitution. They said in part:

"The provision of article three, section thirteen of the Constitution, that no law shall extend the term of any public officer or increase or diminish his salary or emolument after his election or appointment, has no application to the judiciary and can not be read into the judicial article which refers to a separate and coordinate branch of the government."

Well, Mr. President, if we apply that reasoning to our Constitution, then this section does not apply to county officers, because whenever you inspect the Constitution of this Commonwealth you find that article fourteen of the Constitution deals with the subject of county officers, and so, therefore, if article fourteen of the Constitution does not contain a prohibition against acts which would increase or diminish the term or salary of a county officer, then we could enact laws to increase or diminish the term or salary of a county officer, but that same Supreme Court has held in their own case that this article and section of the Constitution does not apply to them, because they are dealt with exclusively under an article of the Constitution, while with the next breath they decide that this section does not cover the case of a county officer, notwithstanding that the same reasoning applies to county officers.

In my opinion, the decision of the Supreme Court was a judicial monstrosity, but it now remains on the books of this Commonwealth and I think that while we have this article and section of the Constitution for amendment, I think that we ought to correct it so as to make it apply to public officers, all of them, and to clear the conscience at least of the Supreme Court in this matter that they are not public officers. They are public officers. There is not an individual, there is not a citizen, a taxpayer in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, who does not believe that a Judge is a public officer. Certainly they are public officers. It was simply a strained and unique judicial construction placed upon the Constitution in order to exclude them from this prohibition.

Mr. President, I have prepared an amendment to this bill, and I would want to add the words "judge or" at the end of line seven of this resolution. With that in mind, I ask unanimous consent to offer this amendment at this time to this bill, but before that amendment is read I would like to insert in the record the case of Commonwealth ex rel the Attorney General vs. Mathues, appellant, found in volume 210 Pa. at page 372.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend, Section 1, page 1, line 7, by adding at the end thereof after the word "any" the following: "judge or"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President and members of the Senate, this joint resolution is in my opinion a very important resolution. We hear a great deal about home rule, especially during elections. During elections I have yet failed to hear any candidate for office state that he is not in favor of home rule.

This resolution has been sponsored by the Local Government Commission, which has strenuously adhered to the principle of home rule ever since the Commission was established, and this resolution, if finally it should become law, would prohibit the legislature from fixing or regulating the compensation of appointed officers and employes of local governments, other than those of school districts. We excepted the school districts, because the state does contribute to the cost of operating our schools. It does seem to me to be a fair proposition that if the state is not going to contribute towards the compensation of officers and employes of local governments that we should not here in Harrisburg regulate salaries of local government employes. That is all that this resolution attempts to do.

I do not know whether I want to agree or disagree with what the Senator from Fayette attempts to do. I can see an argument against his proposition. All other officers, all other state officials, other than judges, hold office for no longer a term than four years. We might have this situation, if we were to incorporate in this amendment the Senator's idea, that a judge might be elected to office and one year after he is elected, the Legislature might decide, in its wisdom, it is a good thing to increase the salaries of Judges. If the Senator's amendment were to prevail, a Judge elected after the Legislature acted would receive the increased salary, and another Judge who had been elected for only one year or for six months or any period of time prior to that would not be able to receive the increase in salary, but that I am not concerned with, and I know that the sponsors of this resolution are not concerned with it, and for that reason, as I say, I am not passing upon the merits of the Senator's proposed amendment. I would suggest to him that the same proposition might properly be taken care of by offering his amendment to article five, section eighteen, of the Constitution, which provides as follows: "The judges of the Supreme Court and the judges of the several courts of Common Pleas, and all other judges required to be learned in the law, shall at stated times receive for their services an adequate compensation, which shall be fixed by law, and paid by the state. They shall receive no other compensation, fees or perquisites of office for their services from any source, nor hold any other office of profit under the United States, this State or any other State."

For those reasons, Mr. President, I would ask that the amendment of the Senator from Fayette be voted down.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—12

Barr,	Frey,	Lanius,	McQuiddy,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	McCreesh,	Reed,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Ruth,

Dent,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I am going to be forced to vote against this resolution, chiefly by reason of the words "officers and" in line ten. I can understand why the legislature should not fix the compensation of employes of local governments, but when we abdicate our power to fix the salaries of officers who are in control of the local governments and who will fix their own salaries thereafter, I feel that is fundamentally unsound, and therefore I am going to vote against this resolution.

And the qustion recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—40

Cavalcante,	Kephart,	Reed,	Ruth,
Farrell,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I voted for this bill because I think the time has come when local governments should be given the right to fix salaries for their own employes. I regret, however, and want to note of record that this bill does not go far enough. It only deals with appointed employes and not with elected employes. This legislature, time after time, has told local governments how much they shall pay their elected officials, without knowing whether or not they can pay that much or whether the officials are worth more or less, and it seems to me a waste of time, to amend the Constitution to provide only that we shall not interfere with local governments to the extent of appointed officials.

I hope, Mr. President, before this bill goes through the legislature, that somebody will agree with me and have it amended in the House.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 35, as follows:

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 31, on second reading, entitled:

An Act making available the services of recipients of general assistance under certain circumstances by permitting them to earn a limited amount of money in work essential to the prosecution of the existing war in which the United States of America is engaged without forfeiting their right to assistance or any part thereof.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 4:00 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President on behalf of Senator Barr, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. COLEMAN on behalf of Senator Barr, from the Committee on County Government, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 21, entitled:

An Act authorizing certain political subdivisions to make appropriations for the payment of expenses of local or district councils of defense within said political subdivisions and for the protection or preparation for the protection of the health, welfare and safety of the civilian population of said political subdivision during emergencies resulting from air raids, blackouts or sabotage; regulating the manner of payment of expenses or local and district councils of defense; authorizing such political subdivisions to levy taxes and borrow money under certain conditions for such purposes providing for the repayment thereof and ratifying confirming and validating appropriations heretofore made for said purposes.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Bucks will proceed.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, on behalf of the Senator from Bucks, I desire to express to the President of this body his appreciation of the gracious invitation extended to him yesterday to pronounce the invocation at the meeting of the Senate. The Senator from Bucks was not so much flattered by the invitation as he was overwhelmed and flabbergasted, and it was with great relief he welcomed the action of the President of the Senate in transferring the honor from his shoulders to the competent shoulders of the Senator from Berks.

May I suggest to the presiding officer that if in the future he intends to call upon the Senator from Bucks to pronounce the invocation, in the absence of the Chaplain, that he give him due notice in order that the gentleman from Bucks may prepare a fitting invocation, one of which he might be proud and one by which the Senators might benefit.

Therefore I am not sure at all whether or not the reputation of the Senator from Bucks has been benefited or otherwise by the invitation extended by the President of this body but I want to assure the Senator from Berks when he pronounced this beautiful oration at the beginning of the session that as an invocator the Senator from Bucks is not proud of his extemporaneous ability. Thank you very much.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 3

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 3, entitled: was defeated finally, February 25, 1942.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine, section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, further regulating indebtedness of political subdivisions.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I voted "nay."

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I voted "nay."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to motion?

Mr. WOODWARD. Perhaps the less I say the better. I just want to make one point, that I believe the majority of the Legislature favors a graduated income tax, which is bound to come sooner or later, and I simply want to remind the Senate that Senator Ruth succeeded last session in passing, a constitutional amendment for a graduated income tax, and if he succeeds at the next session, it goes before the people in 1943. The people will probably vote it down, if they have to pay both an income tax and a personal property tax. No intelligent voter wants to do that, but if we hold out the hope that we are going to repeal the personal property tax, it makes it much more likely that Senator Ruth's income tax amendment will succeed, and therefore I submit to the Democrats and Republicans that this proposed Constitutional amendment of mine is an ally of Senator Ruth's income tax bill and I hope there will be twenty-six votes for it. It has to go through another session, by the way, and if any of my friends want to give me a compliment this time, he can turn around and vote against it the next time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WOODWARD, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—23

Bartlett,	Ealy,	Ruth,	Tyler,
Becker,	Edmonds,	Scarlett,	Wade,
Carr,	Geltz,	Shapiro,	Watkins,
Crider,	Homsher,	Snowden,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	Letzler,	Tallman,	Woodward,
Deitrick,	Mallery,	Taylor,

NAYS—13

Chapman,	Haluska,	Lanius,	Miller,
Coleman,	James,	McCreesh,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Thomas,
Farrell,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Dear Lord and Master, we feel the need of Thy cheering presence today. Be Thou very near to each one within this House of Representatives.

Help us Lord to dare to be brave, to dare to be true. May we attach our faith to better things than appear in this imperfect world, and walk with Thee, our God. We know that there must be something more, something finer, something beyond our sight, therefore we beseech Thee to translate this hope into assurance and experience through our faith in a living God. As Thy children, may we make it a daily practice to place our trust in Thee. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. WEISS. RESOLUTION No. 13.

In the House of Representatives, March 2, 1942.

Whereas, The Governor of this Commonwealth and the State Council of Defense have cooperated in the appointment of local draft and tire rationing boards throughout the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The activities of said boards have expanded beyond the original purpose of their creation, and will, in the future, be called upon to act on matters affecting the daily lives of all the citizens of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, It is imperative in matters affecting the general welfare of all our citizens that such appointed bodies and boards be truly representative of all the citizens; and

Whereas, It is a matter of common knowledge that labor, which represents the greatest portion of our citizenry, has not been proportionately or even adequately recognized in the appointments to said boards; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby requests the Governor of this Commonwealth and the State Council of Defense to fully reexamine the membership of all local draft and rationing boards and make such changes as are required to provide proper representation thereon for labor; and be it further

By Mr. KNOBLE. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 14

In the House of Representatives, March 2, 1942.

The long hours of service provided for the public by gasoline stations are a serious deterrent to national defense and to the early start of our military offensive.

The man power necessary to keep these stations open for the convenience of the public deprives the nation of many hours of effort that could be used in war work.

The electric current used in gasoline stations during the hours of darkness offsets the saving of current brought about by the adoption of the new War Time and provides a beacon for the convenience and guidance of enemy bombers.

The operation of these stations at night is unnecessary for the traveling public and contributes nothing to the public good, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concurs) that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby requests His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, to issue his proclamation calling upon the owners and operators of all gasoline service stations and outlets to immediately cease the operation thereof between the hours of seven o'clock, p. m., and seven o'clock a. m., War Time and, if necessary, to use the full war time powers of his office and those of the State Council of Defense to compel full compliance therewith and be it further

Resolved that a copy of this resolution be immediately transmitted to His Excellency, the Governor, by the Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. POLEN and PETTIT offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 3, 1942.

Tuesday, March 3rd, marks the eightieth birthday of the Honorable Perry E. Wright, well known member of this House of Representatives from Greene County.

Mr. Wright was born in Wind Ridge on March 3, 1862, the son of John M. and Hester A. Caseman Wright. He was married to the former Lizzie Ferrell, who died January 22, 1941. He has four children.

Mr. Wright was postmaster at Wind Ridge from 1911 to 1913, and from the year 1936 to the year 1939 he was the register and recorder of Greene County.

During his long life, Mr. Wright has been active in civic and religious matters and, in 1924, was named by the State Sabbath School Association as a delegate to the World Sabbath School Convention at Glasgow, Scotland.

The attainment of the age of eighty years is an occasion always worthy of note, and it is particularly fitting that the House of Representatives pay homage to one of its members who, having attained that age, is able to serve as an example in his youthful spirit and optimistic outlook; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby felicitates the Honorable Perry E. Wright on his eightieth birthday, and wishes him many more prosperous and useful years; and be it further Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House furnish a copy of this resolution to the Honorable Perry E. Wright, as a small token of their good wishes.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. Wright.

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is one of the most embarrassing as well as most gratifying moments in my short life. Embarrassing because the House is made up of 206 members, all of them with the title honorable preceding their names—that is fine; it is embarrassing to me because everyone is younger than I and they have accomplished more during life than I, for which I am thankful for each one of you. I am pleased with that, and I am gratified to be associated with a body of men like this. I believe there is no finer in Pennsylvania or anywhere else. I am especially proud at this time in my life to be a member of a body like this.

I am always a little frightened when I get in front of the "mike" here. I have to stand with my feet a little apart so I won't annoy my neighbors with the rattle of my knees. I had about an hours advance notice of this resolution and I have prepared a few things to say to you which I hope will be gratifying to you. I have learned a little something from them myself.

Life is not a matter of years, in fact I never tried living my life by the calendar. What is this imaginary line, dividing life in two, a line between yesterday and tomorrow, it is very real and deadly, like the equator, but we never know when we have crossed it.

But I believe that one of the finest things the Creator did for us, was to give us just one day to live at a time, each day to bear its own burdens as well as carry its own blessings.

To walk over so long a span of years, as I, watching the whirl of events, the doings and undoings of men, the result ought to be serenity, freedom and kindness.

I believe in life, brief, broken and often bitter though it be, because, it gives me truth to seek, love to win, beauty to adore and a chance to do a little good for my fellowmen.

One of the greatest lessons of life to me is, to learn to take people at their best, not their worst; to look for the divine, not the human in them; the beautiful, not the ugly; the bright, not the dark; the straight, not the crooked side.

Looking for the best in every one with whom we come in touch, is real friendly service. My friends, isn't it fine to live in a land where we have such a splendid existence, and can render such fine service to friend and neighbor.

I am reminded of a hymn I learned in my childhood, "Time is winging us away to our immortal home, life is but a winters day, a journey to the tomb."

But my friends, age is not winter after summer, port after voyage, peace after battle, it is going on and still believing.

After all, why not trust life, knowing that the giver of life has brought us to where we are, and will have us in his keeping when the night falls.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my sincere wish to you is that 1942 will be the happiest year in all your life, because all sorrow makes the days so long and the nights so dark. But if the year does not bring you everything you want, may it leave your hearts unbroken and you in a mood to face the coming years with courage and a smile.

CONGRATULATIONS EXTENDED

The SPEAKER. Last evening this House honored one of Pennsylvania's distinguished sons. Today the Chair has learned that another well known and respected Pennsylvanian, a member of this House, who has been in the front line of service for his State for a considerable portion of his life, has been honored by his many friends through the circulation of petitions to place his name on the Republican ticket for a State-wide office.

This, of course, means that he will not be a candidate for his old seat in the House which he has held for nine consecutive terms. For eighteen years the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, has occupied the same seat, except during the time he served as Speaker of the House. Nine times the people of his County have reelected him.

It will seem a strange place without Ellwood Turner. We will miss his genial smile and ready wit. Last but not least we will miss his Delaware County sausage and buckwheat cakes.

Ellwood, you are a credit to your State and to your party. The Chair will always cherish the warm friendship that has grown with the years of our Legislative service together, and extends to you his best wishes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, at the close of the 1939 Session I made a farewell address, not as cogent, not as instructive as that one famous farewell address of Washington, which was the guide for the youth of the Nation throughout the years.

I had not anticipated at that time that I would again stand for election to this House. However, I did return and I would almost be tempted to return again to serve ten consecutive terms in order that when I arrive at the age of my good friend, Perry Wright, I might be able to write my memoirs of twenty years in the House.

However, my friends have felt that I should make an effort to go elsewhere, which will preclude filing my petition as a candidate for the Legislature. Eighteen years almost I have been in this House, and during the last ten years I have spent a large part of the time, perhaps fifty per cent at least of it, if not more, in Harrisburg. It will seem strange to me not to be thinking of coming back to the House; it will be with sincere regret that I shall not have the opportunity to occupy one of these seats.

I remember back in one of the Sessions, about 1933 or 1935, that we had a representative from Erie by the name of Barber, who used to taunt me a good deal, and once in a while got under my skin because in those early days I was apt to let fellows get under my skin. I have taken such a beating from the Republicans in recent years that I don't mind what is said. But anyway I used to answer him always by saying I held the key to seat No. 15 and that I expected to hold it until I voluntarily surrendered it. So perhaps it is the better part of valor to be discreet and be able to surrender it and keep that boast by not seeking to return to the House.

I shall hate to leave that old seat. It has been many heartaches on my part, many discouragements and some triumphs.

The seat was picked for me by an old Delaware County legislator who thought in my youth as I came to the House that I might perhaps be able to make some speeches. Of course you men know that he was disappointed in that and I have made very few speeches here. However, he thought it was a good rostrum from which to address the House, and in that I think he was absolutely correct.

If I may be pardoned for the personal reference, I have worked, if for anything, to better the procedure, the standards of the House and to maintain its position as one of the coordinate branches of the Legislature.

If I have accomplished anything in the eighteen years—and I realize how little one does accomplish—I hope that is one thing for which I may be given credit. It has been a long task and it will be a longer one. Other men must come along, and other men will come along who are imbued with the same ideas as those early colleagues of mine whom I will never forget, that little band that sat on this side of the House when we didn't have many Democrats but we had divisions in the Republican ranks—that little band who sat here and who had a sincere interest in government and who had a sincere desire to see better government, to better the processes of the House and to maintain its prestige.

As I said before, to the credit of my opponents on the other side of the House, they too in their turn brought men here who had the same ideals, and it has been gratifying to see many of the men who have come into leadership of the House on the other side gradually, as they have grasped the atmosphere of this place, as has our Speaker, arisen to the occasion and have taken their place in the ranks of the many who are battling for something more than partisan advantage, or something more than the temporary advantage of legislation passed or defeated, but were thinking in the broader and the finer terms of a legislative parliamentary body, without which democracy can not survive.

One of the regrets, if I may take just a few minutes of your time, one of the regrets that I shall have if I have to sever relations with the activities of the state government will be that I shall pass out of the work of the Commission of Interstate Cooperation of the Council of State Governments, and of the great endeavor they have made in this country to save the states. The Council of State Governments is doing a marvelous job today, a job without which I am convinced this war can not be efficiently carried on, but a job which also goes deeper into the roots of government and into the future of this country than the immediate prospect of winning the war.

The Council of State Governments has been able to set up an agency that is the ambassador of the forty-eight states, the coordinator of the forty-eight states and likewise a mediator with the Federal Government in the terrific concentration of powers in the Federal Government because of the war effort and because of the necessity of the emergency. If the war goes along for any length of time many thinking men realize that the powers of the state governments would be gradually sapped, and that state lines will gradually disappear and that state government will sink into innocuous desuetude, if I may use a cumbersome term, and that when the war is over we will have one great centralized government without all the benefits which our forefathers saw and which we realize in the division between the powers of the states and the federal government.

If that centralization of terriffic power which has been brought into the Federal Government should fall into evil hands we shall have fought this war in vain, we shall have fought to rid the world of dictators, to rid the world of the Nazi and the Fascist idea, and as Governor Earle pointed out to us last night we shall have failed because we shall have lost our liberties here at home. And the only means by which we can ever hope to get them back, the only balance wheel that we have, as I see it, is this combination of the forty-eight states in the Council of State Governments, and our ability to build strong state governments to resist that great centripetal force that draws us now into the centralization of power in the hands of the Federal Government because of the necessities of the emergency with which we are faced.

I have been a member of the Board of Managers of the Council of State Governments for a number of years. I think it is one of the finest pieces of work in which I have ever been engaged. I should like to work along with it during this war. If the fortunes of election settle upon my banner perhaps I may have a chance, but if it does not I shall leave that work with the deepest and most profound regret.

I cannot say that I view with a great deal of alarm the fact that I am going to part with many of you, because in the eighteen years I have been here I have found that membership in the Legislature builds a sort of friendship that is outside of and beyond party lines. As I go out around Pennsylvania and as I am here in Harrisburg I meet old members of the Legislature, and there seems to be a tie and a bond between us, and I know that no matter what the future may hold for me, there will remain that same tie and bond between you and me as members of this legislative body.

No matter what our differences may be politically, no matter how we may battle here on the floor, when we meet away from it there is always good, hearty friendship between us, a desire to be and meet with each other and to have the opportunity to hash over old times.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your very kind words.

I thank the House for listening to me longer than perhaps I should have talked.

Mr. Farrell asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Warren, Mr. CHAPMAN.

Mr. JAMES asked and obtained leave of absence for himself for tomorrow, March 5, 1942, if there is a session.

Mr. KEPHART asked and obtained leave of absence for himself for tomorrow, March 5, 1942, if there is a session.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is informed there will be no session of the Senate tomorrow.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to say a few words under this order of business.

It seems to me that unless we get something to work on in the Senate, that we all might as well ask leave of absence. Of course, we all know that these are trying times, we are at war, and the uppermost thought in the minds of the American people today is the preservation of the republic, but why should we kill and waste time sitting around these Legislative Halls if we are not doing anything? I am willing to sit here, if we have something to do, and work through the morning, work during the afternoon, and work into the night, but I am not willing to stay here and do nothing, to waste my time in idleness. It is a disgrace upon a public office holder to go along as we have been going along in this Assembly for the last several days, sitting here hour after hour doing nothing, and at the same time we have boys in uniform coming in the door and wondering why the Assembly is setting here in idleness.

Yesterday morning we had several hundred young high school students here. They stood along the back rail there for some considerable time while we sat here doing nothing. This morning we had a recurrence of the same situation, a group of young people here, and we were doing the same thing, sitting here in indolence and idleness.

I say, Mr. President, that is not the American way to act in a time of an emergency like we have today. People look up to public officials and it is up to us to lead the way, show the way in this emergency, and I think it is a disgrace for any man to be held here in idleness, when he could be doing something back home that might assist in winning this war. Some may say, we have not anything to do back home. Well, then, I say we ought to get something to do back home. Some will say we ought to stay here until the five weeks are up. I say that is un-American. If we are going to win this war, we have got to be consistent with a program, we have got to put our shoulders to the wheel, we have got to do something to show the people, the general public, that we are doing our part in this grave emergency. If we continue to sit here in idleness, I am sure we will incur the wrath of the people of Pennsylvania and we will deserve it.

I say, Mr. President, if we have nothing to do, why, let us adjourn sine die, and if we will have something to do later on let us recess, but let us decide today that we are not going to sit here in idleness any longer. It is not a proper program during this emergency, it is absolutely un-American, and I for one am not going to be a party to any program that will keep the Assembly in session week in and week out in absolute idleness.

Mr. EALY. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REED. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. Does the Senator favor a recess of the Senate to await propositions that might come up and require the suspension of laws, or does the Senator favor passing bills on subjects which we now have, and then adjourn sine die.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman from Somerset, I am in favor of doing anything that will aid the country and the state in this season of emergency. If we have work to do here tomorrow, I am willing to stay here all day tomorrow; if we have work to do here Friday, I am willing to stay here, but I am not willing to stay here and do nothing.

Now, if the Senator from Somerset assures me that he has a program that will be ready in a week hence or two weeks hence, I would be willing to say, let us recess until that time, but I want to have definite information that we will have a program at that time, that we can sit down and work on expeditiously and efficiently, and complete it in record time. If it is the purpose of the Senator from Somerset to bring before this body legislation that is necessary for the winning of this war, then I am willing to stay here an indefinite period, if it is necessary, in order to complete that program, but if we have not anything to do, I certainly am in favor of adjourning sine die at any time.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the Senator from Washington really did not answer the question that I asked him. I am asking him what his view-point is on the matter, whether we ought to pass specific bills in relation to suspension of powers, or a modification of present acts, and then adjourn sine die, or whether we should recess from time to time to meet situations which may arise, taking care of those which we now know of.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Somerset can lay before this body the laws that he wants suspended, I would say that we should then proceed immediately, but that is the same old story that has been going on for two weeks, and we do not have anything yet.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the Senator from Washington has not answered the question.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, how can I answer any question so indefinite? If the gentleman will tell me the laws he means to suspend, and will lay them on my desk, then I will answer the question.

Mr. EALY. I am asking this question really for information. I want to say that I had prepared for introduction today a resolution adjourning this Senate sine die, but I can not find very much sentiment on either side of this legislative body for doing that, but preliminary, of course, to adjourning, my thought was that we should pass specific laws, change any situations which are not compatible with the war effort, but the thought that I had in mind in asking this question was to get the viewpoint of the gentleman from Washington on whether we should pass all these acts that we now know about and then adjourn sine die, or whether we ought to recess.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I have much faith in the gentleman from Somerset, and if he introduces a resolution to adjourn sine die I would say he would know what he is talking about and I would vote for it on the assumption that he is sincere in the matter, and as President Pro Tempore of this Senate he knows what he is doing.

Mr. EALY. There has been some question in the papers as to my viewpoint about the suspension of laws. I understand there is one bill prepared for introduction today modifying or changing some specific law in order to help the Federal Government in the war effort, and there may be a good many other subjects, a number of other subjects, on which bills I think will be introduced and put into the Legislature for passage. In fact, I believe the House has on its Calendar, if I am not mistaken, one bill of that character, but the question that is puzzling us is whether we should pass all these acts that we have in mind and then adjourn sine die, or whether we ought to recess from time to time. My own viewpoint is we ought to pass these acts that we know of and then adjourn sine die, but I can not get enough sentiment for that viewpoint on either side of this House, and the Senator from Washington has declined to commit himself on that.

If we are going to pass specific acts and still not adjourn sine die, then it seems to me we can well take a few days more and get these things in better shape, but if we are going to adjourn sine die, which I think we could do by staying here and working, then we should get these bills in immediately.

On this question of suspension of laws, I think the Governor's viewpoint about this is not entirely correct. Looking at it from a legislative standpoint, I have felt that the Legislature is a coordinate branch of the government and therefore we must under our Constitution retain the power of having control of these matters. We have now the case, for instance, of the Secretary of Labor and Industry, giving him the right to suspend certain labor laws, and hours of labor where it would create hardship. That is one definite thing, but the provision in the Constitution, which the Governor mentions as giving him authority for suspension of laws, appears in the Bill of Rights, and was put in there not to grant more authority to the executive but to limit executive power. It goes back to the time of the struggles with the Stuart kings of England, when William and Mary were installed as King and Queen of England after the Revolution of 1688. They agreed to this provision in the laws which said that the regal authority should not have the power of suspending laws without the consent of parliament, and that has followed in the Bill of Rights of all the states. So, this provision is not one which may be cited as giving the executive more power but as limiting that power, and in asking the question of the Senator from Washington, I merely wanted to get his viewpoint as to which was the better procedure, whether we should clean these up and adjourn sine die, or whether we should clean up as much as we can and then recess.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, if I have not made myself clear, I certainly agree with the Senator from Somerset. If there is a program, we should clean it up, stay here until we do complete it and then adjourn sine die.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in listening to the discussions here as to what to do or what not to do, I just want to call attention of the Senate to the fact that one of the most important items in the Governor's call was the matter of unemployment compensation, and the very first day of the session I introduced a part of the program, following it up the next day with the complete program.

There are now in the Committee on Labor and Industry twelve distinct and separate bills covering the entire field of unemployment compensation. By their own agreement and by the bill introduced last year, Senate Bill No. 80, the Republican majority has agreed to eleven of those bills, but here we are in the third week of the Special Session, called here primarily for reapportionment, and secondarily for unemployment compensation, and yet there has not been one committee meeting called of that committee.

Now, Mr. President, I understand that the Secretary of Labor and Industry is going to put his own bill in which will take up all the matters that are covered in these twelve bills, but why did we have to wait three weeks if they had any intention of getting out of here within the four week period, why was not that committee called together, why were not these bills discussed, why were they not kicked out of committee and brought out here on the floor where we could act upon them? I venture to say that in the bill which will be introduced under the direction of Mr. Hines, that, other than the sponsorship, there will not be ten per cent of difference in the bills that I have introduced and the bill introduced by Mr. Hines, and you connot get that bill through under a two week period starting now, so you can not go home next week if you are going to pass an unemployment compensation law, you can not even do it in a four week time limit, you have got to stay overtime to get the bill through, and that is nobody's fault except the Republican majority of the Senate of Pennsylvania, which failed to act on the subjects called for by Governor James.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am inclined to disagree with the distinguished representative from Westmoreland. I think he put his finger on a very important part of this Special Session when called to our attention that on the first day of the session he introduced certain bills on unemployment compensation which, by the way, I understand are in the Committee on Workmen's Compensation and not in the Committee on Labor and Industry. The agenda to the Governor's call came out the day we came into session and there were fourteen points, as I recall it, added to the proclamation originally issued by the Governor no sooner was the session called to order by the Presiding Officer than the gentleman from Westmoreland had bills ready to introduce on the agenda, which indicated that he knew more about what was in the Governor's call than some of the folks in the Republican party.

Now, Mr. President, the matters in the agenda to the call were a surprise, were absolutely new material to a lot of us, and I for one resent the suggestion that we are not working while we are down here. I will admit that sometimes down here on the floor it looks like a seventh inning stretch, but there are a number of members of the Senate who are working, who are trying to complete this program, and I will say in all fairness that the gentleman from Westmoreland is one of them. There has been a lot of discussion, and a lot of conferences have been held on various types of legislation; we are trying to complete the things that should be done here.

I want to take issue with the very distinguished gentleman from Somerset as to what we should do with reference to delegation of power. He has been very interested in trying to find out what bills or what Acts of Assembly should be restricted or suspended or abrogated during this national emergency. Yesterday some of the subjects were suggested to us.

I for one am perfectly willing to stay here and clean up or abrogate or suspend or restrict the acts or specific subjects as they are presented to us, and then, if we clean up the subjects that are known to us, at that time I for one am in favor of our taking a recess and coming back here one week out of each month until our terms expire on December 1st, rather than adjourn sine die and perhaps be called back in the middle of the summer to do some things we never dreamed of at the time we did adjourn.

I think it would be far more in keeping with what has been referred to as this national emergency if we would remain subject to call at least one week out of each month, in order to take care of any matters that might come up, because from day to day, week to week, month to month, there will be subjects upon which we as the legislative body should act I am absolutely opposed to delegating legislative authority, even under the constitutional authority cited by the gentleman from Somerset, to the Chief Executive of the state or a legislative committee or to the Council of Defense.

I want to say, Mr. President, in doing that I am not reflecting on the integrity, ability or consciousness of those three bodies. I appreciate the fact that our Presiding Officer is a member of the State Council of Defense, I appreciate that the President Pro Tempore is likewise a member of that same council, but, Mr. President, I would much rather have the Legislature function as a Legislature than to pass the buck to some other organization.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, this seems to be the place and time for a frank and honest expression.

The gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, stated a while ago that he was trying to get the opinions of the members of this Chamber as to their thoughts and attitude on this session. Personally I feel, and now I am speaking for my proposed minority party of Pennsylvania, I feel that if we should adjourn sine die we will be compelled to come back to another Special Session before the year is over. I think we should clean up what we have before us now and recess, and be ready at a moment's notice, anytime throughout the year of 1942. We are in a state of war, we cannot delegate powers to the Chief Executive entirely, and it is our duty, our patriotic duty, to come back upon any call for a session.

That, Mr. President, is my expression, my opinion, that we should recess after this or next week, and be subject to call at any time.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, there have been some remarks made on the floor of this Senate relative to the handling of bills that are supposed to have been referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry, but which as a matter of fact were referred to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

As the Senator from Allegheny County, Mr. Walker, has explained, these bills were introduced on the very first day of the session and they covered the subject matter from beginning to end by a series of bills. All of those bills were referred to my committee. There were very many other important matters that were pressing; I do not need to tell the officers and members of this Senate what those other matters have been. I do wish to make the remark, however, that I understood that the Governor had called us together and had a specific program, and I had understood that those matters were particular administration recommendations.

Mr. President, I want to make the statement to this Senate that no bills that could be fairly said were administration bills were introduced in this Senate, covering the mater of unemployment compensation that we have just been referring to; that is the only subject in the call that there were no suggestions made on. You can readily understand why all of these matters were not covered. The Attorney General has been very ill, the department has been over-worked, and this subject was not given attention, as I understand it, by either the Democrats or the Republicans.

I want to say to this Senate that neither the Senator from Westmoreland or any other Senator, or any citizen, or any officer has asked me to call a meeting of the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, for the purpose of considering any bill that has been before us. I have spoken on this matter a number of times to officials high in office and to Senators and so on, realizing the importance of the matter, all the while wanting to render service and not to interfere with the program, and I want to say here that I have never been absent since I have been a member of the Senate, I have never been behind at the time it was to be called, and I have never had anybody say to me that these bills were proper and correct or that I have been negligent, or why I was not doing this or that or the other. It has annoyed me to a considerable extent, because we were not getting action, but as I said before, I knew full well why the so-called administration bills were not prepared; it is unusual of course, we understand why it has happened in this emergency that these matters were not all prepared, and I want to go on record as saying I have not a bit of criticism for either the Attorney General's office or the Governor himself on these matters, and I have no criticism of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, although he has not asked me to call a meeting or he has not said to me that I was negligent for holding these bills. These matters have been talked of in our Caucus and may have been talked of in the Democratic Caucus.

Mr. President, I hold in my hands not only the bills that have been introduced by the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, but the bill that has been introduced by the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, and I want at the proper time in the order of business today, to report these bills from my committee, and I would like very much if the Senator from Westmoreland and the Senator from Philadelphia would take notice at this time that I shall report all of these bills at the proper time today, when given an opportunity by the Chair, with the idea that they should be rereferred to some other committee, as has been indicated to me, the Committee on Labor and Industry is the proper committee, or any committee that the officials of this Senate think they ought to go to.

I want to say further that I have been told that there is a bill to be introduced, or perhaps two or three bills, covering this subject, and I want to be free to express my opinion on them at this time. I do feel however, that the Senator from Westmoreland should at least give us a chance to get together and try to work it out harmoniously and make a proposition, and I think we will do that. I am sure he is only anxious to get some action and have something done, and to that end I am not making excuses, I am making an explanation so far as the Senate is concerned, and if anybody wants to criticize me for holding these bills, when nobody asked me from the top to the bottom, and no bill known as an administration bill has been put in my hands, it is alright with me.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to call the attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that we are still under the heading of leave of absence.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I at least have received some action, although it is a mystery to me how a chairman of any committee can report any bill out of a committee at any time for any purpose whatsoever, without having a meeting of that committee.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 11, (Senate Bill No. 40), entitled:

An Act to further amend section eight hundred twenty eight of the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "Vehicle Code," authorizing the Secretary of Revenue during the period of national emergency, to suspend the operation of certain provisions of this act relating to school buses, when such provisions conflict with priority claims for material.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

BILLS RE-REFERRED

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, in compliance with and carrying out the statement that I made a few minutes ago, I wish to report from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation the following Senate Bills for the purpose of carrying out the arrangement that these bills be re-referred to another committee, perhaps the Committee on Labor and Industry. They are Senate Bill Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 22, 23, 24, 32 and 34.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I might suggest that this is slightly irregular. The committee members are the ones to determine whether or not bills that are put into a particular committee should be reported out or re-referred by the Chair for any particular reason, and not the chairman of the committee, who as much as told us he has not been asked to hold a meeting.

Since when do the members of the Senate have to ask committee chairmen to hold meetings of their respecti committees? I think we all understand parliamentary procedure and the functions of the chairmanships of committees. I do not believe it is necessary for a chairman to get up and say he has not been asked to hold a meeting, and then take a bill, without giving any consideration to the members of that committee as to whether or not they feel the bill ought to be re-referred by the Chair, and deliberately and dictorially hand them out and say, here they are, Governor, turn them over to any committee you want, throw them to the wolves.

Mr. President, I am particularly interested in this legislation. A great deal of it deals with the men in the armed forces, protects their rights under the unemployment compensation law, and these bills should not be bandied and thrown around at the caprice and whim of any one man in the Senate.

Mr. REED. I might state to the gentleman from Westmoreland that precedent was established yesterday when the Committee on Judiciary General reported a bill out without even calling a committee meeting.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. For the information of the gentleman from Westmoreland I wish to say to this Senate and to the Chair that I was instructed by the majority of my committee to do this very thing.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, since when have the rights of the minority been forgotten in the Senate of Pennsylvania? I am a member of that committee and entitled to consideration by the chairman, as is any other member, when important legislation is given to us. What are we running here anyway?

BILLS RE-REFERRED

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 4, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (i) of section four of the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (1937, P. L. 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," by further defining employers subject to the provisions of the act.

with the request that it be re-referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

He also, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 5, entitled:

An Act to amend clause (s) of section four of the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (1937, P. L. 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," by further defining the term "total unemployment" as used therein.

with the request that it be re-referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

He also, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 6, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (u) of section four of, and to add section four hundred seven to, the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (1937, P. L. 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," further defining the term "wages" and the rights of employes in military or naval service.

with the request that it be re-referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

He also, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 7, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred four of, and to add section two hundred nine to, the act approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (1937, P. BILL INTRODUCED

Messrs. FARRELL, HEYBURN, and WALKER read in their places and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 41, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897, 1937) entitled, "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies, with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis, requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons, providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation, providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies, creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties," changing the provisions thereof and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate take a recess for one hour, so that the Committee on Labor and Industry may hold a meeting.

Mr. MILLER. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I must call attention to the fact that the chairman of that committee is not here, the committee has not been organized for this session, nor are there printed copies of the bills to be considered.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would suggest that the secretary read the name of the members of the Committee on Labor and Industry.

The Secretary announced the membership of the Committee on Labor and Industry as follows: Senators Thomas B. Wilson, Heyburn, Chapman, Thomas, James, Henry I. Wilson, Tyler, Carr, Homsher, Dent, Jaspan, Haluska, McQuiddy, Barr, and Ealy, ex officio.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like to advise my colleague, the Senator from Westmoreland County, that we were aware of the fact that the Chairman of the committee is not present, but the Vice Chairman, who acts in his place when the Chairman is absent, Senator Heyburn, has called a meeting of the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I suggest that the Vice Chairman who is calling this meeting kindly secure copies for all members of the committee of the legislation to be taken up at the meeting.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I might say to the Senator from Westmoreland, he may use my copy and I will do without one.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, that is not the point I am trying to make. We have been here three weeks and we have had all of this legislation and it has not been considered, and now, because a bill has a yellow back instead of blue back, we have to meet in five minutes and kick it out on the floor.

Mr. HEYBURN. It has only been ten minutes since the Senator from Westmoreland demanded action, and now he is getting action.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, we got it at Pearl Harbor, but I do not like that kind of action.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for one hour.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I want to just say a word about this bill. This is an attempt to deal with a problem that is considered in a bill introduced by the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher, Senate Bill No. 14, relating to suspension of a law which has become misleading at the present time because of war conditions. This bill relates to one subject, namely the use of metal for tags by various departments of the state; it deals with more than the automobile tags, it deals with the Game Commission as well.

I understand there has been notice served by the Federal Government that the quota of metal that can be assigned to the state is less than ten per cent of that used last year, and so, under the circumstances, some method of dealing with this situation is necessary.

Mr. President, the bill is very short and my voice is very weak, and I have asked my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Walker, if he would not be good enough to read the bill for the information of the Senate.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have been requested by the gentleman from Montgomery to read this section of the bill:

"Section 1. In order to make large quantities of metal available for use in the manufacture of materials and supplies for war use, the provisions of any acts of assembly requiring the use or display of any plate or tag as evidence of the registration of any vehicle or the payment of any registration fee or license fee by any person, copartnership, association or corporation, is hereby suspended insofar as such acts require that such plates or tags shall be constructed or manufactured of metal and such acts are hereby modified so as to permit the department or agency of the State government issuing or requiring the use or display of such plates or tags to specify the use or display of plates or tags manufactured of material other than metal or to provide for the addition or attachment to plates or tags heretofore issued, of some mark or substance clearly evidencing the renewal of such registration or licensing and the payment of the fee required therefor."

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EDMONDS read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 42, entitled:

An Act to suspend and modify existing law providing for and requiring the use of plates or tags as evidence of the payment of any license or registration fee insofar as such laws require the use of plates or tags manufactured of metal and by authorizing the use of other material in whole or in part.

MOTION TO READ BILLS THE FIRST TIME

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that all bills reported from Committee be read the first time.
Mr. MILLER. I second the motion, Mr. President.
The PRESIDENT. On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am just as eager as the gentlemen on the right for action on all important legislation that comes under the call of the Governor's proclamation, but I do think and I shall insist that all action shall at least be within the limitations of the Constitution, until such time as the people in their wisdom should see fit to change the provisions of the Constitution.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 41 has been called for consideration and at this time I stand upon a point of order and object to consideration of Senate Bill No. 41, for the reason that the bill was introduced in this Senate at exactly ten minutes after two p. m., and at two-fifteen p. m., this Senate took a recess for one hour. We again convened at three-fifteen and it is now twenty-five minutes of four p. m., and I am informed that this Senate Bill No. 41 is not printed.

May I ask his Excellency, the President of the Senate, if I have been given correct information on that point, that the bill is not printed.

The PRESIDENT. A bill can not be printed until it is read the first time, and the motion is that the bill be read the first time.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am seeking information whether the bill is printed at this time.

The PRESIDENT. As far as the Chair knows, the bill is not printed.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am standing on the point of order and object to the reading or consideration of this bill upon first reading, for the reason that it is in violation of article three, section two, of the Constitution which reads: "No bill shall be considered unless referred to committee, returned therefrom and printed for the use of the members."

I am objecting to consideration of this bill on first reading.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is advised that the bill has not been printed. The bill will be prepared for the first reading Calendar.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Now, Mr. President, I am in confusion, the same as a lot of people are in confusion in the United States right today. Have we considered this bill or has it not been considered?

The PRESIDENT. It has not been considered.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Very well, sir; I take it that the Chair has sustained my point of order?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct. The Chair simply wants to state that what we have been doing is following custom, and of course, a lot of the bills have been passed irregularly, if that is the way to put it, but nevertheless the record appears that each went through in regular order, in a constitutional manner, and you cannot go back of that.

If you want to establish that precedent it is entirely up to the Senate and not to the Chair, who will preside and carry on according to the rules of the Senate and the Constitution.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, March 9, 1942 at 4:00 o'clock, p. m. Eastern War Time.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 3:37 o'clock, p. m. Eastern War Time until Monday, March 9, 1942, at 4:00 o'clock, p. m. Eastern War Time.

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1942.

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Motor Police, working under trying conditions, have and continue to perform their obligations to the citizens of this Commonwealth in a manner that ranks with the best in the Nation; and

Whereas, Members of this Legislature recognizing their needs and conditions introduced House Bill No. 1956 at the 1941 Regular Session, which provides for automatic wage increases for all such motor police who had been on active duty for three years; and

Whereas, While said bill failed to receive the Legislatures consideration, the result was that examinations were held in July, 1941, enabling such motor police to attain the rank of private first class; and

Whereas, Eight months have now elapsed since said examinations and no official results have been published, preventing many motor policemen from acquiring the rank and pay to which they are entitled; and

Whereas, Because of the lack of opportunity provided to said motor police to keep up with the increased cost of living many are leaving or about to leave the service to the detriment of the bureau and the citizens of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Notwithstanding this threat to the bureau, the Commissioner and other State officials have not made the slightest effort to remedy this situation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Commissioner of Motor Police be required to inform this House immediately of the status of the examinations given to members of the Motor Police in July, 1941, noting those who passed the examination and such information indicating when raises in rank and pay have or will be made.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. RESOLUTION No. 16.

In the House of Representatives, March 3, 1942.

Whereas, A serious shortage of scrap metal is now hampering the operation of the Nation's steel mills and imperiling the defense effort; and

Whereas, Throughout the United States and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, large quantities of scrap metal exist around the average home in the form of junk and abandoned articles which could be collected by an organized campaign; and

Whereas, The collection of such available scrap metal in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania could be promptly and efficiently conducted under the supervision of the various district councils of defense; and

Whereas, The collection of such scrap metal would not only relieve the current shortage, but would, upon its sale through the ordinary channel of commerce, return to the district councils of defense substantial sums of money which could be used for purposes of facilitating the work of such councils of defense; and

Whereas, The operation of such a plan for the collection and sale of scrap metal, and the consequent revenue derived therefrom, might obviate the necessity for political subdivisions to impose increased tax levies for defense purposes; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives request the State Council of Defense to inaugurate, through the various district councils of defense, a program for the collection and sale of scrap metal, so that the defense effort may be immediately strengthened, and the local political subdivisions of the Commonwealth ultimately benefited; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the offices of the State Council of Defense by the Chief Clerk of the House.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Messrs. RAUSCH and AUKER.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 17.

In the House of Representatives, March 3, 1942.

Whereas, The Nation is now engaged in a great war taxing the utmost capacity of its economic resources; and

Whereas, It is the duty of all loyal citizens to aid the Federal Government in the prosecution of the war effort; and

Whereas, The Federal Government is expending large sums of money in the transportation of its vehicles and equipment over various toll bridges throughout the Nation; and

Whereas, Such toll bridges are in existence in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, some being owned by individuals and private corporations and others being under the jurisdiction of joint authorities or commissions controlled by this Commonwealth and adjoining states; and

Whereas, A great saving would be effected in favor of the Government of the United States if the aforesaid toll charges would be reduced or eliminated for the duration of the national emergency; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the aforementioned private bridge companies and corporations are earnestly exorted and requested to enter into arrangements with the war and Navy Departments of the United States, whereby toll charges for the transportation of vehicles and equipment operated by the United States Government be reduced or eliminated for the duration of the present national emergency; and be it further

Resolved, That it is the suggestion and recommendation of this body, in so far as the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is concerned, that the bridge commissions and authorities controlled by this Commonwealth and adjoining states, enter into arrangements with the War and Navy Departments of the Government of the United States, whereby toll charges for transportation of vehicles and equipment be reduced or eliminated for the duration of the national emergency; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to toll bridge authorities, commissions and companies under the jurisdiction of and within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, including joint toll commissions and to the War and Navy Departments of the United States Government.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 9, 1942

The Senate met at 4:00 o'clock, p. m., E. W. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, our mighty fortress and our sure defense, deliver us from the bondage of fear that under Thy protecting wings we may come to trust. So establish us in faithfulness to Thy will that, being confident of Thy mercy, we may pursue our appointed course, and come to the end of life's road in peace.

While our feet must press a road that is oft times steep and rough; while the burdens laid upon us may be heavy to the point of exhaustion; while so much of life seems futile and our best efforts produce only the trivial, let us not grow despondent, remembering that we are not alone, and that "underneath are the everlasting arms." With such companionship and the guarantee of such support we can not fail.

We pray that Thy wisdom will generously endow the members of the senate, to the end that they may lead the people of the state in righteousness and justice, and thus advance the kingdom of God in this part of Thy world.

We pray for our nation in this time of trial, that she may overcome all her enemies and continue to be the favored and happy land whose God is the Lord.

Remember with Thy blessing the President of the United States, the Governor of this state and all those who exercise authority.

To Thy great name shall be all praise, both now and forever. Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland may proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, under introduction of new bills, I have a rough sketch of an act that would call for unemployment compensation on partial payments, but after what happened to me last week here, I do not like to invite the same kind of an occurrence, so I will invite the Republican members of the Senate to introduce a bill on partial payments. If they do not do it by next week, then I will introduce it.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 3, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine, section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, further regulating indebtedness of political subdivisions.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 3 is fast becoming what might be called a Finnegan Bill, it is off again, on again and gone again and today it is going once more.

I hold in my hand a Calendar of Bills for today and all the bills are marked O.K. except this one of mine, which is marked P.P.C. which means pay and party call or Postponed Calendar.

At the proper time I expect to move that this bill be placed on the Postponed Calendar. If I wanted to dramatize it, I would move that it be stricken from the Calendar, but it at least has appeared on the Calendar of the Senate anyway, and it is very nice to see it on there and it would help, I think, the appearance of the Calendar.

While conducting these rites, Mr. President, I want to make a few remarks in appreciation of the assistance that I have received. I might mention the fact that I have twenty-five Senators that might vote for it.

I was highly honored by an invitation from the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis and the Democratic Caucus, to appear before them. It was quite unusual for a hard boiled Republican to appear before the Democratic Caucus, and I appreciate it very highly. I made a splendid argument, I thought, and I think I won one vote probably, by so doing.

During the interval since we adjourned last week I have really tried to—well, explore this bill. I have a friend named Mort Witkin, who is President of the City or County Commissioners of Philadelphia, and who knows quite a lot about politics and he knows his way around and I consulted him about this bill and he said "drop it," he said, "drop it, it will cost me a lot more to pay income tax than just to say this, and I interviewed the collector of this tax, Wallace Bromley and he told me a story involving a former Senator who got six thousand dollars commission or fee and the County Commissioners held it up because he was in arrears in the personal property tax and he has not gotten the money yet. I should not mention that, I suppose, because he was formerly a member of this body.

I wish to thank especially Senator Carr, who had the nerve and loyalty to move for reconsideration of Senate Bill No. 3, and I would like also to thank Senator Taylor for seconding the motion of the gentleman from Butler, Senator Carr. I regret the Senator from Dauphin, Senator Taylor is A.W.O.L.—I do not know where he is.

Therefore, Mr. President, thanking all my friends for their support, I might say that it would be possible perhaps to get two more Democratic votes,, but I do not like to ask for them because one depends on a former gift of a bottle of Jamaica Rum, and the other upon the fact that I am curing a Senator of Conjunctivitis, and that does not seem to me a sound basis for asking for their votes.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WOODWARD. Therefore, Mr. President, with regret, because the bill has intrinsic merit, I move that Senate Bill No. 3 be placed on the Postponed Calendar.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it is amazing sometimes to figure what and how wonderful a democracy is, that there are so many things that can be done to it and it may still survive.

I listened with regret to the suggestion of the gentleman from Germantown, Dr. Woodward, that he was about to move for the recommittal of this bill, or that it be placed on the Postponed Calendar, which is another method of saying that it will not pass.

I should like to place on the record the facts concerning this bill and its importance. In the City of Philadelphia the borrowing capacity is based on the assessed value of real estate plus the assessed value of personal property; that is, what the appraisers say the personal property of citizens in the Commonwealth of Philadelphia, if I may put it that way, the Metropolitan City of Philadelphia, is worth. As a result of that dual basis there has grown up in Philadelphia a huge debt, used in times for the purposes of spending money, making available the spending of this money, by the borrowing capacity.

No business man borrows money on any assets except those assets which are his and will stay with him, and when his assets change his borrowing ability changes. In Philadelphia today, this year, the present property values of citizens might total three billions of dollars; tomorrow they might move to Montgomery County or Allegheny County or somewhere else, and the value of that personal property might depreciate over night; the market, as it has done, might drop fifty points; and yet the borrowing capacity of the city remains the same.

The purpose of this bill was to give to the City of Philadelphia and other communities in Pennsylvania a stable basic borrowing capacity, based on the real estate valuation, so that when the owner of real estate sold, the real estate was still there, whereas under the personal property tax when the owner of personal property moved out, the basis of the borrowing was no longer there, but the borrowing went on the same.

In addition to that, so long as people were taxed on personal property there could never be an income tax, because the people who were paying a personal property tax certainly would not vote for an amendment to the Constitution to permit an income tax, because they would be paying both a capital tax, which is all that a personal property tax is, because you pay it whether there is any income or not from the personal property, and they would also be paying an income tax on that personal property which brought an income.

Therefore the first step, which accomplished two things, was to abolish the personal property tax as a basis for borrowing capacity. This proposed amendment to the Constitution, Mr. President, would have been that first step and it would have put every city, as I see it, every municipality upon a sound basis for the purpose of basing its borrowing capacity, and would have prevented in times of high valuation the expenditure of city moneys, county moneys for purposes which were, as we have seen, non-essential.

To treat this bill as a step-child and as a means of making facetious remarks to me seems rather offensive personally, because it is an important piece of legislation and if it is not to be passed, that is the will of the majority and that is the way it should be, but I do not like to see legislation in times like these treated in this way.

The second step that this bill would have accomplished would have been the elimination of what to my mind is an unfair tax, I have always felt that way, a tax based purely upon capital, a capital tax bearing no relationship to the question of income. Today mortgages in Philadelphia, many of them, do not pay any interest and yet the holders of those mortgages must pay the eight mills tax. Stocks and bonds do not pay interest and yet they must pay the eight mills tax. An income tax to me is a proper tax. I do not care what the size is of the income tax which may be necessary for the state or the nation; if I earn the money I am willing to contribute my share. The only tax that the average sensible citizen complains of is when he is asked to pay a tax and he has no available funds with which to pay it. Certainly a man who has a thousand or a million dollars invested in mortgages and gets no interest on them is in a sad plight when he is asked to pay eight per cent of that as a tax, and therefore I say it is in effect a capital tax.

We could have imposed and we could have an income tax if the personal property tax had not been on the books, and you can not get it off the books until you take it away as a basis for borrowing capacity, and so I should like to record my protest first, against the dropping of the bill, and, secondly, the way in which the legislation has been treated.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I am thoroughly in accord with an editorial which appeared in one of the Philadelphia newspapers, from which I quote:

"CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

"About the first thing the State Senate has done in recent years after convening is to receive three bills from Senator Woodward looking to amendment of the Constitution.

"One would authorize graded taxation; one would consolidate the City and County of Philadelphia, and the third would base county borrowing capacities on real estate values alone instead of on personal and real property values combined.

Running true to form, these oft-rejected triplets were the first three proposals to go before the Senate in its present session. The Governor had not listed them among his reasons for summoning the session, but in amending the Constitution a special session is not limited to subjects within the Governor's call.

"Considering everybody's preoccupation with other things, it is perhaps surprising that the amendments should get any attention at all. Yet the one about borrowing power actually passed three readings in the Senate and went down to defeat in vote on final passage.

"War days aren't especially favorable for constitution changing. History shows, however, that the urge for change becomes strong after a war. It was powerful after the Civil and first World Wars, and will probably be strongly in evidence after this struggle."

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
It was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 16, as follows:

An Act to provide relief in cases where fiduciaries are in military service authorizing the court to appoint a substituted fiduciary pro tem in such cases or to allow the remaining fiduciaries to act authorizing security to be entered by and compensation paid to such substituted fiduciaries pro tem and regulating the powers and liabilities of the fiduciary in military service and of the substituted fiduciary pro tem

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Definitions When used in this act

(a) The term "fiduciary" shall include an executor administrator trustee under a will deed or declaration trustee durante absentia guardian of the estate of a minor weak-minded person or habitual drunkard and committee of a lunatic

(b) In military service this shall include fiduciaries who are members of the armed forces of the United States or of any allied or associated power or who are detailed by proper authority for duty with such armed forces

Section 2 Whenever and for so long as any fiduciary is or shall be in military service the court having jurisdiction of the accounts of such fiduciary shall have power in its discretion

(a) To authorize the co-fiduciary or co-fiduciaries if any to exercise all of the powers of such fiduciary whether discretionary or ministerial or

(b) To appoint a substituted fiduciary pro tem to act in place of such fiduciary and to authorize such substituted fiduciary pro tem to exercise all of the powers and discretion of the fiduciary in military service

Section 3 The relief authorized by Section 2 of this act

may be granted upon petition of any party in interest including the fiduciary in military service or any co-fiduciary It shall not be necessary to secure the joinder of any other party in interest in such petition but notice of the presentation of the petition shall be given to all parties in interest who are sui juris at such time and in such manner as the court may direct by general rule or special order

Section 4 Any substituted fiduciary pro tem appointed under the provisions of Section 2 of this act shall enter such security if any as the court may direct and shall receive such compensation as the court may allow Such substituted fiduciary pro tem shall be subject to the same duties and responsibilities with respect to accounting and otherwise during the period that he holds office as the fiduciary in military service would have been if not in such service

Section 5 Any decree entered pursuant to the provisions of Section 2 of this act shall remain in force until revoked by the court upon cause shown and no act done by any substituted fiduciary pro tem or co-fiduciary or co-fiduciaries while such decree is in force shall be impeached on the ground that a fiduciary was not in or had ceased to be in military service

Section 6 So long as any decree entered pursuant to the provisions of Section 2 of this act remains in force the fiduciary named therein as being in military service shall exercise none of his or her fiduciary powers or discretion and shall be under no liability for any acts or omissions of the substituted fiduciary pro tem or of any co-fiduciary or co-fiduciaries during that period Provided That nothing contained in this act shall relieve a fiduciary who enters military service from liability for the administration of the estate before the entry of a decree under the provisions of section two of this act and upon the reinstatement of such fiduciary or at such time as the said court deems meet such fiduciary may be required by said court to file an accounting of his administration of said estate

Section 7 The court appointing a substituted fiduciary pro tem under the provisions of Section 2 of this act shall have the same powers of control removal discharge and settlement of the accounts of such substituted fiduciary as are conferred upon it by existing law with respect to other fiduciaries

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill makes no provision for the payment of any money to a fiduciary named by the person who created an estate or created a trust. This bill does not provide that there must be evidence that the person who is in the military service can not perform his duties.

This bill is a blanket bill authorizing the court to appoint a substitute fiduciary without apparently giving the fiduciary protection or notice, because in my opinion this bill is intended to cover a situation where the fiduciary is in the service and can not be reached, when he can not get the notice referred to in section three, although he is an interested party.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that if this bill is to be passed provision ought to be made to protect the situation where a man in the military service can perform his duties. There are many such men who are stationed in Philadelphia, at the local navy yard or at local armories, and who might be able to perform their duties, even though in the service, and it would seem to me some provision in a measure of this kind ought to be made to protect them, because after all, this bill is upsetting the intention of the testator or the creator of the trust, and under those circumstances I shall vote against the bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to register my criticisms on this bill. It appears that the primary purpose of the bill is to provide revenue for the various Councils of Defense established by the Act of 1941. The bill proposes to permit the various municipal sub-divisions to make appropriations for the purposes mentioned in the bill, and then provides the power to levy additional taxes in order to meet the appropriations.

My criticisms and objections to the bill are several. Take section two, it gives the political sub-division the power to make appropriations in like manner as provided by law for the making of appropriations.

Well, Mr. President, we who know the law and its provisions on appropriations, know that it says that a political sub-division draws up a budget and in that budget it sets forth the appropriation that it intends to make and the purpose for which the appropriation is made. After that the budget is advertised and any taxpayer of that municipality or sub-division may file his protest and objection.

Mr. President, if the bombs begin to fall on this particular municipal sub-division, probably they might have time to make the appropriation, and they might not; they might need the money immediately and the Japs or the Nazis might not wait for that political sub-division to make its appropriation and to go through the usual red tape of making an appropriation before they start dropping the bombs.

That same criticism applies to section three, clause (b), which provides that if the Council of Defense or the municipal sub-division requires equipment that exceeds a certain price, they must follow the same procedure that they follow under the law in purchasing material of the same price.

Well, that means that if a contract for equipment requires advertising and the solicitation of bids, I say to you gentlemen again that maybe the Japs and the Nazis will not wait until notice is given and the contract let out on bids; the appropriation might be needed immediately.

On page four of the bill, section three, it also provides that any gift or grant of money made to a local or a district Council of Defense or to a political sub-division for the payment of expenses incurred shall be paid into the treasury of that political sub-division and then paid out according to the usual way of paying money out of the treasury of the political sub-division.

Well now, Mr. President, up to this time there have been gifts made to many local Councils of Defense in this state and those Councils of Defense have already spent part of that money, even though it was not paid into the treasury of that political sub-division. What is the status of gifts already made and part of which have already been spent?

In section six of the act all appropriations or expenditures heretofore made by political sub-divisions are ratified, confirmed and validated, but what about the expenses already incurred and paid out of this gift money that is in the hands of these local Councils of Defense? When will that be ratified or confirmed, or will the persons who received those gifts and spent part of them for supplies and other materials for the Council of Defense, will they be surcharged or will they have to be accountable to the municipal sub-division for that? I think that Section 6 should be amended to include that.

There is another very serious objection and criticism to this bill. The defense of the civilian population of this Commonwealth is also the duty of the Federal Government and the Federal Government has already appropriated one hundred million dollars for this very specific purpose and there is no doubt in my mind that vast appropriation will very shortly be allocated to the various states for the purposes mentioned in this bill. Does this bill make provision for that allocation?

We had a similar case in our public assistance law, in all those grants to which the Federal Government makes contribution. In our public assistance law we had a provision that if the Federal Government would allocate any money to our state that it would be paid into the state treasury and then we provided how that money would be spent or re-allocated.

As I have stated, Mr. President, I feel that of the one hundred million dollars appropriated by the Federal Government, part of it at least will come to the State of Pennsylvania, and this bill makes no provision for the receiving of that money and how it should be applied.

I have to members of this Senate already suggested that this bill should contain a section that if federal money is allocated to the State of Pennsylvania that this bill should provide that that money is to go into the state treasury and then re-allocated to the local Councils of Defense, as the State Council of Defense might see fit and proper.

Another very serious criticism that I have about this bill is this. I would have no objection to giving the political sub-divisions the power to make appropriations out of their general funds for this purpose, but this bill goes further, it says you may make those appropriations and we will then give you the additional power to levy additional taxes in order to meet that appropriation.

Members of this Senate, there is considerable spending of money by political sub-divisions for non-essentials, and I say that the apparent burden that is going to fall on the American taxpayers to meet the expenses of this war is going to be so tremendous that we ought not to allow an increase of the taxing power, or that this bill should give the political sub-division the power to make the appropriations out of their general funds; let them cut down on the non-essential expenditures that they make at this time, if we must do without something, if we are going to win the war, if we are going to defend our civilian population, and this ought to be one sacrifice.

All of us know, Mr. President, that the present burden of taxation on real etsate is enormous and the federal government is scheming and figuring out how to add additional income taxes upon us. This load is going to get too heavy, it is going to get too heavy, and many of them will not be able to stand that load, and I level this criticism against this bill because I honestly believe that we ought to give the political sub-divisions the power to make appropriations out of their general funds, but we ought not to give them the additional power to levy taxes or borrow money in order to meet that appropriation. Let them do without probably a load of amesite or the employment of two or three persons on the roads to scrape down the banks or to do nothing, and save money to meet that appropriation and not burden the real estate owner, the taxpayer, with this additional tax.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the thing that appeals to me at this moment is that this bill when it started out gave the local communities the right to levy additional taxes, if necessary, to meet whatever contingencies that might arise. However, as the bill now stands amended, there is only one person that is going to pay the entire cost of any amount of money that will be spent for local defense, and that will be the home owner. I submit the home owner, in most instances, would be the one to suffer most, and all of us know that if the enemies win, none of us will have homes or anything else, and under such an argument, of course, we could go into a bill that would confiscate all our properties and still be justified in so doing, if the only bugaboo that they would hold above us would be the defeat of our Nation.

However, Mr. President, I feel very strongly about the matter, in that it will mean additional taxes to the home owner, and the home owner alone. There is nothing in this bill to provide funds other than by direct taxation on real estate, insofar as the communities that I represent are concerned.

I call the attention of the Senate to this fact, because some of them are working under a misapprehension and do not realize that this is an additional home owners' tax being placed upon the home owner locally. You can figure it out from any angle that you care to and you will find that is the only answer to solve this problem opposed by this Legislature.

I take this position, that the matter of local defense is a matter for the Federal Government and the State Government. What are we going to do in Pennsylvania by setting up appropriations through our local subdivisions? We are going to say to the southern states and to the western states who do not do this, that their moneys for local defense will come from the Federal Government, from appropriations made by the O.C.D., and we in Pennsylvania will take care of it ourselves. We contribute to the Federal Government a larger amount than any state in the nation outside of New York, yet we will suffer from the passage of this legislation, that is, the people of this state. There is nothing in any law that prevents any local municipality from taking care of repairs and whatever damages may be done, from whatsoever cause they may come, and we do not need any special legislation. You are going to find, gentlemen, that when you pass this appropriation bill or this enabling act, you are going to find heavy appropriations made to local Defense Councils and it says here that this money can be used to defray the expenses of that Council, mind you, to defray the expenses of that Council, and there is nothing, no law, no regulation whatsoever that tells that local Defense Council how many employes they can have or whether or not they can be paid.

I say to you, Mr. President, the State of Pennsylvania has a surplus of over one hundred millions of dollars from taxes already assessed and collected against the taxpayers of this state, and they should take whatever amount is necessary out of that one hundred millions of dollars now resting in the State Treasury and provide the money for the local authorities to appropriate for local defense, if necessary. We should take the money that comes from the Federal Government, our right and just share, and we should take the money which has already been collected for specific purposes and has not been spent.

I say to you that the only thing that one hundred millions of dollars is going to be used for is a political football in the November election, to show how much money has been saved. I want to say to all of you, I do not care how you vote on the bill, because, under the guise of war hysteria, we often go along and vote for legislation that in our saner moments we would not vote for. We are here in this Senate the protectors of the local taxpayers, under any and all circumstances, I personally may be hurt by some application of this; but it is not fair and it is not just, and I still say that the local home owner should not have to suffer the further burden of taxation under the circumstances.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Speaker has directed me to announce that he has appointed the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, as Speaker pro tempore during his absence this evening. The Speaker is attending a dinner at the Executive Mansion given by His Excellency the Governor in honor of the Superior Court.

MR. LOVETT IN THE CHAIR

PRAYER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Rev. August Jung, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church of Phialdelphia, is the guest here today of the gentlemen from Philadelphia, Mr. Rooney and Mr. Hersch, and will give the invocation this evening at the invitation of the Chaplain of the House. The Rev. Jung is the father of Erwin O. Jung, one of the employes of the House.

The Rev. August Jung offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, the Father of Our Lord, Jesus Christ, and through Him, our Father, we approach Thy throne of grace and mercy. We pray Thee to deliver us with Thy divine presence and blessing.

We know Thee as the Creator and the Governor of all the world, and especially of this, our blessed country, the United States, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Lord, the representatives of this state are assembled here this night in session to take up their tasks and their duties.

If at any time a man's knowledge, wisdom and executive ability were insufficient and inadequate to cope with the problems on hand, it is now that time. Lord, Thou knowest we are engaged in one of the greatest and most cruel of wars that ever engulfed mankind in this civilization.

Our own welfare, freedom and manner of living are at stake. Be pleased, we ask of Thee, dear Father in heaven, to give wisdom, power and executive ability to the leaders of our nation and of the states; to our Honorable President, Franklin D. Roosevelt and to his counsellors; to our Honorable Governor, Arthur H. James, and his counsellors, and especially Thy servants, the representatives of our state, that they may know the things and do the things which will lead to ultimate victory, and a righteous, lasting and if possible, speedy peace, so that once more mercy and truth will meet together and righteousness and peace will kiss each other.

Bless and protect, we ask Thee, dear Father in heaven our boys in the Army, the Navy and the forces in the Air, they who fight the ruthless enemy on land, sea and in the air; keep them in the hollow of Thy hand, and if it is Thy will give them victory and bring them back safe and sound.

Forgive us, Our Father in Heaven as individuals and as a Nation all our sins of omission and commission. Cleanse us from all selfishness and unrighteousness through the blood of Thy dear Son Jesus Christ.

We pray that Thy holy spirit may lead us, and especially these Thy servants in the paths of peace and righteousness in such a way that soon peace may be established and prosperity and good will may reign supreme.

All the glory and honor to Thee, Father, Son and Holy Ghost. All these things we ask in the name of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. VERONA. RESOLUTION No. 18

In the House of Representatives, March 9, 1942.

Whereas, There has been in existence in the City of Pittsburgh an organization known as the "Chatham-Wylie Cigarette Club"; and

Whereas, Said organization was formed for the purpose of sending cigarettes and other gifts to the men serving in the armed forces of our country; and

Whereas, It is generally recognized that the business and earnings of such transportation utilities have increased tremendously as a result of the increased business activity created by the present emergency; and

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. REGAN. RESOLUTION No. 20.

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1942.

Ever since the start of the war in the far East between the United Nations and Japan, which was set off by the treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, the Japanese tide has swept forward relentlessly engulfing many of the vital outposts and bases of our allies and ourselves in the Pacific Ocean and the China Sea.

The one inspiring light shining through the darkness of an almost unbroken succession of military reverses, made possible by Japanese treachery and secret preparation, has been the glorious defense of the Philippine Islands exhibited by the American and Filipino forces under the command of General Douglas MacArthur.

Although crushed back into the narrow confines of the Bataan Peninsula by an overwhelming superiority in numbers and equipment and although lacking in air and naval support, the brilliant military tactics and inspiring leadership of General MacArthur, together with the courage and resourcefulness of his men, have repulsed every Japanese attempt to gain complete control of the Philippine Islands.

At a time when American prestige as a military and naval power has suffered in the eyes of other nations as a result of the attack on Pearl Harbor and the seizure of Wake, Guam and Midway Islands, General MacArthur's resistance of every Japanese attack on his small but undaunted force serves notice to all the world that American courage, persistance, determination and military ability are more than a match for any opponents, and that once adequate supplies are flowing from our great industrial machine, final victory is inevitable.

The continued resistance of General MacArthur and his men over a period of three months and the repeated heavy losses they have inflicted on the Japanese attackers have served the further invaluable purpose of gaining military time for the allied nations by forcing the Japanese to divert large quantities of men and materials to the Philippines which would have been used in pressing other campaigns to a conclusion.

General Douglas MacArthur's masterful conduct of the defense of the Philippines is another fitting step in a long and distinguished military career, and he serves as an eloquent example of the type of fighting man produced by the world's greatest democracy; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives pay tribute to General Douglas MacArthur and his American and Filipino forces for their inspiring and successful resistance of Japanese aggression in the Philippine Islands, which has proved to be of inestimable benefit to our Nation in the present war, and which will become one of the most glorious sagas in our national history; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House transmit a copy of this resolution to General Douglas MacArthur as soon as this can be done.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 5

Mr. CORDIER called up House Resolution No. 5, Printer's No. 13.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1942.

Whereas, The present system of this Commonwealth for assistance to dependent children, aged persons and other persons who need assistance was established in the year 1937, on the principle of enabling such persons to maintain for themselves and their dependents a decent and healthful standard of living; and

Whereas, In spite of the steadily rising cost of every item going to make up the vital necessities of life, especially during the past several months, the amount of assistance allowed under the act of 1937 has not been increased over that established during the first year of the system's operation, when the cost of commodities was extremely low; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby place itself on record as favoring, recommending and demanding for the unfortunates of this wealthy sovereign state an increase in the amount of public assistance that each receives, commensurate with the increase in the cost of living in the particular community in which he or she resides, based on the best available Federal, State or local surveys and statistics; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, and to the Secretary of Public Assistance, each member of the State Board of Public Assistance, and the chairman of each county board of assistance.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker. The resolution before the House provides for an expression of opinion by the membership on the question of the inadequacy of General Assistance and other grants by the Commonwealth and occasioned by the balloon-like rise in the cost of living during the past several months.

The State Department of Public Assistance is in the possession of sufficient power to raise these grants and they have passed a resolution recognizing the increase in the cost of living and the inadequacy of the grants. The Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance has also admitted the rise in the cost of living and inadequacy of these grants. I have been consistently fighting since last June to bring about increases in this field but, despite the action of the State Board and the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance, these grants have not been increased and there is no definite indication that they will be increased.

We who are assembled here come from every section of the Commonwealth. We represent, as a whole, the entire State. We have a moral obligation to give an expression of opinion both as to recognizing the problem and to insist upon corrective measures being taken. People who receive these grants are human beings like you and I, but find themselves in their present unfortunate condition through no fault of their own. Are we to continue to give them crumbs when all manner of decency demands that we give them a full loaf of bread? Should we shunt their pleas aside? Or should we recognize them as a vital part of the strata of our American life, and uplift their spirits? I believe there is a mass of evidence that can be presented to bear out the need for these increases.

I will not burden you with a great deal of statistics. However, Mr. Speaker I have here an index of the cost of goods purchased in large cities of Pennsylvania in a survey issued by the United States Department of labor, the Penna. Department of Labor and Industry and other statistics.

Mr. Speaker I ask unanimous consent to send these statistics to the desk to have them included in the record of my remarks without burdening the House with a lengthy statistical oration.

I respectfully urge the members of the House to vote Aye on this resolution and give it its full expression.

REMARKS EXTENDED

Mr. CORDIER asked and obtained unanimous consent to have his remarks extended in the Legislative Journal as follows:

Increased General Assistance Grants

The 1941 regular session passed an appropriation of $106,000,000 for all forms of public assistance. To this was added an additional cushion of $15,000,000 to be used for public assistance at the discretion of the Governor if the finances of the Commonwealth permitted.

This appropriation for the biennium was made at the request of the Department of Public Assistance based on a diminishing total caseload of 291,545 cases or 582,737 persons.

While the caseload of the categories from June 1941 to the present has remained relatively constant, the cases and persons on general assistance has dropped respectively from 110,962 cases and 243,806 persons, to 72,000 cases and 134,000 persons.

This reduction in general assistance has naturally reflected itself in the expenditures by the department which dropped from $6,464,000 for the month of June to approximately $4,800,000 for the month of February—a decrease of about $2,000,000 a month.

Of the original appropriation of $106,000,000, there has been expended to date, for all forms of assistance, about $50,000,000, leaving a balance as of March 1, 1942, of approximately $56,000,000, which would become exhausted in forty-six weeks, or about January 16, 1943, if the present rate of expenditure of $1,200,000 per week was continued.

However, should the present rate of decrease in general assistance cases continue, with employable cases absorbed by the war effort, then we can assume that general assistance will be reduced to the bare unemployables of approximately 50,000 cases. This would reduce the weekly expenditures by at least $100,000 and tend to prolong the present appropriation balance for public assistance far beyond the middle of January, and possibly to the end of April.

We are here concerned with the present living costs of those on general assistance. The budgetary grants, which were only 80 per cent of subsistance requirements in 1935, become extremely inadequate at the present time with our increased cost of living. It is hard to realize how the average, general assistance case of approximately two people can exist on the present weekly grant of slightly less than $5.00 per case.

While it is true that there was a slight increase in cost of living in 1937 it approximated only one-third of the present increase, and prevailed only during the third quarter of 1937, rapidly receding back to the 1935 level.

The cost of living based on a 1935-1939 average of 100 gives us a present living cost of about 112.0; with food at 113.1; rent 107.9; fuel, electricity, ect., 104.0; furnishings at 115.8; clothing 114.4; and miscellaneous at 107.1.

It is unfair to say that the present cost of living being about 98 per cent of the 1926 average requires no revision of the schedules of grants in public assistance. These schedules when made were not based on the living costs of 1926, but on the living costs of the depression years of the 1930's.

The present schedules for Philadelphia gives a family of five $13.40 a week which includes $7.00 for food; $1.90 for clothing; $2.25 for fuel; and $2.25 for shelter. For one person the grant is $4.75 a week made up of $2.00 for food; 40 cents for clothing; $1.00 for fuel; and a $1.35 for shelter.

Since it is estimated that the present appropriation for public assistance will carry us well passed the next regular session of the legislature without making use of the $15,000,000 contingent, then any additional fund required for assistance, due to increased grants, can readily be met by the legislature as it has done in all years passed since 1933.

There can be no sudden demand on the relief resources of the State, because the industries of Pennsylvania are not of those classes to be appreciably affected by war priorities, nor has there been any indication of a sudden or violent stoppage of WPA.

REPORT OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR ON LIVING COSTS

This was issued on October 15 of last year and we all know that there has been many further increases in the bare necessities of life since that date. This shows that in Pittsburgh, for instance, the cost of food went up 11% during the year; clothing went up 14%; rent, 6%; fuel and electricity, 7%; and house furnishings, 15%. The comparison of other Pennsylvania cities is about the same average.

I also have here a statement by Mr. Louis G. Hines, Secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry, which was issued on November 17 of last year and which deals with the changes in the cost of living in Pennsylvania, for the year up until September 15 of last year, and I quote from this statement:

"The period from the middle of June to the middle of September of this year marked the fourth consecutive quarter during which living costs increased. The index of changes in the cost of goods purchased in six Pennsylvania cities as compiled by the Bureau of Research and Information of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry reached its highest level since 1931. Further increases in the cost of living are to be anticipated since it climbed only 9.8% from June 15, 1939 to September 15, 1941, while wholesale prices increased 21.2% over the same period of time, according to the United States Department of Labor statistics. The variation in rates of increase among the several groups is significant because it represents a distinct change from the behavior of prices to this time. During the first several quarters since the defense program got under way no appreciable change took place in the cost of living. The first substantial increase took place during the quarter ending June 15, 1941 and was confined almost entirely to the food group, but extended in some measure to other groups also. These increases in groups which normally show little, if any, change in prices illustrate how the current upward trend in prices is taking hold of all important items in the family budget.

"Compared with September 15, 1940, costs were higher on September 15, 1941, by 4.4% for fuel and light; 9.3% for clothing; 10.7% for house furnishings, and 14.9% for food.

"In the City of Scranton, for instance, from September 15, 1940, to June 15, 1941, the cost of food, according to this index, was increased 13%; clothing increased 10%; fuel and light increased 3%, and house furnishings, 15%."

Mr. MELCHIORE. Mr. Speaker, I don't believe in speeches. You haven't heard me make many, but I feel I must rise to call attention of this house to a situation that cries for correction.

I speak of relief to the unemployed of Pennsylvania. Oh, I know with booming defense industry we're not supposed to have unemployment, if you listen to the words of the long-faces with bulging bank accounts, but I don't have to tell you gentlemen how many of your own constituents you know personally who are unable to find a job with a living wage perhaps because they are physically unable to stand the gaff of high pressure production methods.

We have them, gentlemen, and it seems to me everyone of us is pledged morally to see that they live—and I said live—not merely exist.

I know what some of my worthy opponents may say, that may bring up that old chestnut about pampering the unemployed. Well, the Republican James administration can answer that one by its own figures which demonstrate the eagerness with which the so-called pampered unemployed, quit the relief rolls in the past year or two when job opportunities arose.

I'm speaking now of those who just can't leave the relief rolls and again I refer you to the Republican James Administration whose investigators bear that out.

The people on relief will tell you sincerely—the county assistance boards, the boards themselves mind you, will tell you—and the State Board of Assistance will tell you, that the grants we are making today to the needy are inadequate.

All of us know that prices have risen tremendously, we with incomes have felt the pinch. What do you think is happening to the unemployed man, who often has to support himself and a family on something like $5.00 a week. Try it, gentlemen, try it yourself.

I say it's high time we do something about it. I'm not just talking to hear myself talk, on this subject. Bear with me a moment, and let us look at the record.

Personally, gentlemen, I think Pennsylvania is out of step, and I want to know if we are going to sit idly by and let the situation continue.

REMARKS EXTENDED

Mr. MELCHIORRE asked and obtained unanimous consent to have his remarks extended in the Legislative Journal as follows:

INCREASED GENERAL ASSISTANCE GRANTS

The 1941 regular session passed an appropriation of $106,000,000 for all forms of public assistance. To this was added an additional cushion of $15,000,000 to be used for public assistance at the discretion of the Governor if the finances of the Commonwealth permitted.

The cost of living based on a 1935-39 average of 100 gives us a present living of about 112.0; with food at 113.1; rent 107.9; fuel, electricity, etc., 104.0; furnishings at 115.8; clothing 114.4; and miscellaneous at 107.1.

There can be no sudden demand on the relief resources of the State, because the industries of Pennsylvania are not of those classes to be appreciably affected by war priorities, nor has there been any indication of a sudden or violent stoppage of WPA.

New York State recognizes the need for higher grants to meet present day conditions. Increases have been granted to 40 per cent of the case load. Increases have been made from seven percent in the small case category to 25 per cent in the city of Syracuse. The State is making a complete survey of all areas with this sort of thing in mind.

New Hampshire has granted increases in certain sections. Ohio is cognizant of the problem, too, and is waiting only for the legislature to handle the problem when it meets. The Governor of Vermont has set up a committee to go into the situation there.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

RESOLUTION

Mr. VanALLSBURG offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 9, 1942.

Whereas, Hundreds of industries in Pennsylvania are shifting from normal consumer production to war and defense production, thereby necessitating the employment in many instances of thousands of new and additional employes; and

Whereas, Certified copies of birth certificates are required for all employes as a requisite for employment; and

Whereas, It is imperative that everything possible should be done to remove all conditions which retard in any way the prosecution of the war production program; and

Whereas, Copies of birth certificates could be issued with dispatch locally where birth records are available, without being obliged to apply to the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Harrisburg; and

Whereas, It is very urgent that employes and prospective employes should be able to secure a certified copy of birth certificate promptly and conveniently;

Therefore, Be It Resolved, if the Senate concur, that the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby requested to direct and instruct the Secretary of Health to authorize the local Registrar of births in such cities as the Secretary of Health may designate, to issue certified copies of birth certificates to all applicants born in those cities since 1906, and whose birth certificates are of record in the local office.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this Resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Governor of the Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The resolution lies over for printing under the Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. RUSH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, because of the conditions throughout the world today, due to the war, and because of the fact that we have certain requests before this General Assembly of Pennsylvania, I would like to give a brief history of the organized labor movement in this country and its connections with the birth of the United States of America, and just a few of the connections between the organized labor movement and America as we know it today.

The most authentic records of the past events prove that industrial organizations had their beginning, and were in successful operation before the American Colonies were declared free and independent states. These earlier organizations were known under various names such as companies, societies, associations, etc. They were unlike guilds of European countries at that time, inasmuch as they had no mystic ceremonies, signs, passwords, etc. Many of these organizations were composed of both employer and employe, on strictly business basis, for the purpose of the regulation of wages, prices, and other trade matters. These organizations were incorporated generally under the Colonial Government and were given extended powers relating to their trades.

During the Colonial Period many of the colonies enacted laws for the provision and regulating of industrial and economic conditions that would seem very strange at this time. The Colonial records of Massachusetts furnish evidence of the fact that wages of carpenters and skilled mechanics in 1630 were fixed by law; the wages of laborers were regulated by Constables. In the Massachusetts laws at that time, carpenters and bricklayers were paid two shillings a day and any workman taking more, or any employer paying more were subject to a penalty of the law. The hours worked were measured by the rising and setting of the sun.

In the archives of Connecticut it was shown that in 1677 the law prescribed the price for mending shoes, 7½ pence was the lawful charge for wooden or common heels and the same price for putting on soles.

In the year 1700 the Assembly of Pennsylvania fixed the weight of a loaf of bread and required the baker to stamp his name and the lawful weight of the loaf. In 1787 New York passed a similar law and the lawful price for a loaf of bread being 7 coppers for a two pound loaf. In the year 1724 a group of carpenters formed an organization known as the Carpenters Company of Philadelphia. This organization has maintained an uninterrupted existence to this day. It came into existence about forty years after the landing of William Penn and about fifty years before the declaration of American independence. This is, without doubt, the oldest industrial organization in continuous existence in America, and its records present a remarkable story of industrial movement in the country. The principals of the organization were to establish a uniform standard of measurement, wages, and prices, that every one concerned may have the value of his money and every workman the worth of his labor. They set up a committee to meet with the employer and to make a study of the cost of products of the carpenters, to establish a uniform scale of prices which is very similar to the working scales of the labor unions of the present day.

We have heard a lot in recent months about the costs of the entrance fees for joining labor unions. Allow me to show you, from historical records, that in many cases the members of these early labor unions paid a higher initiation fee, or entrance fee than is paid at this date.

From the year 1724 to 1763 the entrance fee for membership in the Carpenters Company was one pound, ten shillings; in 1763 it was increased to two pounds; 1769 it was increased to four pounds, again in 1787 to six pounds; 1795 there was a change from sterling to federal money and the entrance fee was fixed at thirty dollars. In 1805 the fee was raised to forty dollars. In 1829 to sixty dollars, in 1852 to eighty dollars, and in 1857 an applicant for admission was required to pay an entrance fee of one hundred dollars, and today, in 1942, the entrance fee to the Carpenters Union in the Philadelphia area is only seventy-five dollars.

On February 3, 1768, the Carpenters Company, or what today would be known as a Carpenters Union purchased the land on which Carpenters Hall now stands in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The original lot was sixty-six feet on Chestnut Street and extended back 255 feet. The land purchased was subject to an annual ground rent of 176 Spanish Milled Dollars and the Carpenters Hall was erected in the year 1770 and the Carpenters Company held their first meeting in it on January 21, 1771.

When the people of this country were forced to throw off the yolk of British oppression delegates were commissioned by the American Colonies to assemble in convention in the City of Philadelphila and adopt such measures as would induce England to recognize and respect the rights of the American Colonies. The seat of the Colonial Government of Pennsylvania was at that time in the city of Philadelphia, and when the delegates from the Colonies arrived they were warmly welcomed by the people and escorted to the City Tavern on Second Street, Philadelphia. It was the general impression that the convention would assemble in the Legislative Hall of the State Capitol. However, these halls were denied these delegates and when it became known it caused much resentment. In this emergency the carpenters union, or Carpenters Company as it was then known, unanimously placed the use of Carpenters Hall at the disposal of the delegates and on the fifth day of September, 1774 the first meeting of the Continental Congress assembled in Carpenters Hall and commenced deliberations that resulted, on July 4, 1776, in declaring the Colonies free and independent.

The British, on September 26, 1777, took possession of Philadelphia and the British Army was quartered in Carpenters Hall. However, they were forced to evacuate on June 18, 1778, after occupying Carpenters Hall for eight months and twenty-three days. This labor union hall was the rallying point for the patriots during the Revolutionary Period and the meeting place of organizations and committees that were intimately connected with the stirring events of that time. The convention appointed by Congress to draw a constitution assembled in Carpenters Hall in May, 1787. Their deliberations were behind closed doors and at the end of four months, September 27, 1787, they agreed upon a constitution for the United States of America and so, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, from these records, official, we find that this Great Country of Ours was conceived and born in a labor union hall and this great document known as the Constitution of the United States of America was also written in a labor union hall.

At the close of the Revolutionary Period when peace was declared, a contract between the States was sealed by the adoption of the Federal Constitution in the year 1788. Grand celebrations were held in all the principal cities of the country in honor of that event. In all these celebrations trade organizations took the most prominent parts. Freeman's Journal of Philadelphia in an issue of July 9, 1788, printed the name of forty-five trade organizations that participated in the celebration of the American Independence and the adoption of the Federal Constitution in the City of Philadelphia on July 4, 1788.

I would like to mention the names of these organizations at this time for the benfit of some members of this House who were very much surprised to learn that labor organizations existed over sixty years ago. The organizations taking part in this celebration 154 years ago were house carpenters, cordwainers, coach painters, cabinet makers, chair makers, sail makers, house painters, weavers, bricklayers, tailors, wood turners, wood carvers, gilders, coopers, coach makers, blacksmiths, whitesmiths, nailsmiths, gunsmiths, coppersmiths, goldsmiths, silversmiths, jewelers, potters, hatters, wheelwrights, printers, bookbinders, saddlers, harness makers, bakers, press molders, curriers and tanners, upholsterers, barbers, engravers, plasterers, masons, brewers, brush makers, stay makers, comb makers, plane makers, sailors and draymen and according to the description in Francis Hopkinson's "Annals of Philadelphia" the trade organizations that appeared on that occasion wore regalia and embellishments with the insignia of their crafts. The painters displayed the motto "Virtue alone is true nobility". The tailors' motto was "By Union our Strength Increases." The carpenters' motto was "Justice and Benevolence."

In McMaster's History of the people of New York he says journeyman carpenters at Philadelphia had a union of their trade in that city in 1791 which was known as the Union Society of Carpenters. These organizations having been in existence many years prior to that date.

A large reception was tendered to General George Washington, the First President of the United States, on the occasion of his visit to the City of Boston in 1789. The Pennsylvania Gazette, a newspaper of that time, mentions the fact that there were twenty-two trade and union organizations who appeared in public procession at that celebration.

In the year 1841 some twenty-six or twenty-seven years before the institution of our free public school system there met, in the City of Boston, Massachusetts, delegates from some twenty labor unions, in convention. At this convention there was adopted a resolution proposing the setting-up of a free public school system such as we have today and for their efforts these delegates were stoned out of the City of Boston because they had the temerity to suggest such an unheard of thing. Organized labor has taken the lead in many of the advancements of the people of the United States and are responsible for many of the laws on our statute books today that when first proposed we, in the labor movement, were termed radicals and called similar names, and yet today, after enactment of such legislation, the citizens of the United States would not allow such legislation to be repealed.

I would like to say to you that in a convention of the American Federation of Labor held in Atlantic City in the year 1926, our leaders foresaw the economic depression that hit this country a few years later and proposed that the Congress of the United States enact Legislation that would correct certain evils in the Banking Business and the sale of Stocks and Bonds. Labor pointed out that unless this was done that the World would face the greatest panic of all times. These pleadings fell on deaf ears, Congress said what does Labor know of economics, and refused to pass the requested Legislation and you know what happened in 1929, The Stock Market Crash followed by the worst bank failures and depression the world ever saw. It was not until President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected and took office that measures such as were proposed at the Convention of Labor in 1926, were adopted and carried out and we are only now receiving benefits of those proposals, and while the Banking interests agree those measures saved their businesses yet they still refuse to concede that labor knew what they were talking about.

Today we are in a war. No one realizes more than labor the seriousness of this war or that the only way to win it is by sacrifice. No one is more directly affected by this war than we in the Labor movement. Our Sons, Our Brothers our relatives are bleeding and dying tonight on the Battlefields to preserve our Democracy, and we at home are going to see that they have the equipment and supplies to fight with. We have already voluntarily given up certain in-alien rights, we have pledged the United States of America and all our allies through the President of the United States that we would give up our right to Strike for the Duration of the War, and the Report of Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins for January 1942 shows this:—The Moratorium on strikes is better than 99% effective. In January 1942, man-days of idleness in all strikes amounted to .06 percent of the total worked as compared with .08 percent in December 1941 and these represent only about 1/3 as many man-days of idleness as in January 1941, there were 32,500 workers involved in 155 strikes in January 1942.

I point out this fact because the public press likes to publish in glaring headlines that Labor is hindering the defense of the country every time there is a labor dispute no matter what the cause or who is at fault. Let me point out that from reports of the Department of Labor that against the .06 percent of time lost from labor strikes that the time lost from accidents in defense work was twenty times as great and time lost from sickness was thirty times as great as time lost from strikes. We find that delays in defense work due to the employer have been so great that delays from strikes fall into insignificance in comparison.

Senator Aiken said; coming from official Washington, from June, 1940, to May, 1941, 150,000,000 man-days were lost to defense by employers negotiating with the Government, while in the same period only 2,450,000 man-days were lost to defense by labor negotiating with the employers. Illustration of the employer delay was in the airplane industry. In June, 1940 Congress made an appropriation for 4,000 airplanes. On August 9, two months later, Secretary Stimpson said that only thirty-three of these planes had been contracted for and the cause of the delay didn't lay with the Army or the Defense Commission but the Companies were waiting to be sure the legislation they sought would be enacted before they sign contracts. As proof of this the legislation they wanted passed the House on August 29, 1940, and within one month after the passage of the Legislation in the House guaranteeing their profits 3,282 bombers and 1,897 pursuit planes were contracted for worth $540,000,000. We here had a delay in the production of our most vital weapon caused by the employer which amounted to far more lost man-days than all the strikes since the beginning of the defense program. Another serious delay is due to a steel shortage. Early in the program the President of the United States urged expansion in the steel capacity of plants so that new plants might be ready for operation when needed. Steel companies refused, claiming their capacity was adequate. At a conference of Steel executives called by the OPM, November 11, 1941, after calling the Steel companies to task for not complying with Government orders, (because right up to that date the companies postponed defense orders to serve their own customers), Mr. A. D. Whiteside, Chief, Iron and Steel Branch, OPM, said "You are delinquent on defense requirements of a 30 days' supply of steel." And this statement was made by Rear Admiral Land, Chairman, U. S. Maritime Commission, "14 ship ways were idle in October, 1941 due to the steel shortage" and "At the present time (November 11, 1941), we have a steel plate deficit of 80,000 tons and of the steel delivered much of it cannot be fabricated because it is not being delivered on schedule, this deficit alone is equivalent to 30 cargo ships." These delays caused by the Steel Companies, (the employers) is many, many times the delays caused by all the strikes since the beginning of the defense program (the above taken from transcript of above mentioned conference pages 17-52). Many employers have not hesitated to cause enormous delays in defense to protect their profits or business relations. These are only a few of the many delays caused by the employer. I can stand here and cite you dozens more from the records but we don't hear much about them but when we of labor cause a relatively small delay to protect our own interests and ask for a living wage commensurate with prices of the times, we are made the scapegoat for all delays and the anti-union forces seek to rob us of our rights, our power to deal with the employer management on an equal footing to win progress and security. To place any limitation on our rights is to sacrifice our freedom.

We have in these United States of America the best form of Government in the world, other countries have followed our examples, we are charged today with the protection and preservation on that Government. We shall never allow that form of Government to become a dictator form. That's what our men are fighting and dying for at this very moment to prevent, we of the Labor in these United States know what has happened in the Dictator Countries, and we are not going to allow that to happen here we know it means sacrifice not only for Labor the creators of wealth but sacrifice for those who control that wealth as well, they too must give up the enomorous profits, profits which were greater in 1941 "after taxes than they were in the lush years of the late 1920's, or any years since" (Statement from Standard and Poor's).

One of the most effective ways of destroying any country is to destroy the faith in that country and to undermine the morale of its people. The most efficient weapon of the fifth columnist is by doing these things. What would weaken the faith of our people more, or what would undermine the morale of our people more than to take from them those things guaranteed by the Constitution and the laws of our State and nation. We have three distinct branches in our form of Government, in both the State and Nation, the Executive, Legislative and Judicial, today we are in war to preserve that form of Government and yet we have the Governor of this Commonwealth asking the Legislature to surrender to him the Legislative Branch, to allow if you please a Council under his domination and his chairmanship to perform the duties assigned to the Legislative branch of the Government. Asking we who have been elected to office to do this job to give him and his State Council of Defense the right to say what laws shall be in effect and in force. When Hitler rose to power in Germany that was what he asked and got and you see what misery he caused the world. I am not accusing Governor James, of being a Hitler or even a fifth columnist, I am only pointing out that we cannot be true to our task for which we were elected, we cannot be true to America, or most of all to those men who are now fighting, bleeding and dying this very minute to preserve these very things, if we here in Pennsylvania grant the dictatorial powers asked of us.

Mr. Speaker, and members of this House, I said we of Labor know what this war means, I said we are sacrificing to win it, we are "all out" in the true sense of the phrase, not only are we giving up hard earned rights, our pleasures and privileges but we are doing a great job in financing the war as well. Through President William Green, of the A. F. of L. two months after the attack on Pearl Harbor, the membership of the A. F. of L., pledged the purchase of a billion dollars in Defense Bonds, by the time he made the pledge to the nation or the middle of February last, over $200,000,000 of bonds were already purchased or pledged by the various branches of the A. F. of L. by the affiliated Unions, and this amount does not include bonds purchased by individual members. A few examples are International Ladies Garment Workers, $25,000,000 worth by its members the first 6 months of 1942. Brotherhood of Electrical Workers $8,006,277, Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers, $5,000,000, Boilermakers Int'l. Union, to date $10,000,000. Meat Cutters & Butchers Workmen, $1,000,000. Pittsburg Central Labor Union, in Pittsburg District, $30,000,000. Los Angeles CLU, $300,000 by Local Unions, many times that by members, District of Columbia CLU, already purchased $460,000. While returns for the Phila. District is not complete from returns now in estimates show about $50,000,000 from that district and time don't permit me to go on but this is a picture of what we are doing in this line. I have not been able as yet to get figures from the C.I.O., but I know they are doing as much as the A. F. of L. We are supporting in a big way the Red Cross, Navy Relief, USO United Charities, Civilian Defense, and all other relief agencies. Many of our civilian members were killed or captured when Wake Island and Guam fell. Over 200 of our members of the Carpenter Unions were killed at Wake Island that we now have records of and many more are prisoners in Japan, yet in spite of these records Labor is hounded and berated by Employers, Labor haters and the press. I urge all who are as interested in winning this war as labor is to bear these truths always in mind in your deliberations.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 10, 1942

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

To the only living God, the evidence of whose existence is all about us and within us, we bow our heads in adoration and in gratitude for all Thy mercies. The gift of life which Thou hast given to each of us, and which Thou hast cast for us in pleasant places, calls for our gratitude. If we fail to express that gratitude in words may we express it in deeds of kindness to those who are less favored, and thus imitate our great Exemplar, whose life is summed up in one luminous sentence, "He went about doing good."

May Thy Holy Spirit inspire us with good intentions, then give us wills strong enough to execute such intentions, that our consciences may be void of offense before God and man.

Guide, we pray Thee, the deliberations of the Senate that the best interests of our state may be advanced, while freedom under law, and justice tempered with mercy, be maintained.

Hear our prayer for our President and our Governor. May wisdom and strength be given them to guide the ship of state through the troubled seas and bring it to the desired haven of peace.

In the name of the Prince of Peace, our Lord and Savior. Amen.

An Act authorizing the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the approval of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries of the City of Philadelphia to suspend for a limited time the operation of laws regulating or relating to the movement and anchorage of vessels carrying or having on board certain explosives insofar as the same relate to fixed ammunition or ammunition which contains the projectile and the explosive in one container or shell.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 12, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the sixth day of August, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one (1941 Appropriation Acts, page 98), entitled "A supplement to the act approved the sixteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred forty-one (Appropriation Act Number 12-A), entitled 'An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one,'" by increasing the appropriation to the Department of Justice for the parole work of the Board of Pardons.

go over in its order temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 5:00 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Somerset will proceed.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to offer a resolution, but before offering it I wish to make a statement.

There were some of us who feel all the work of this session could be ended before three o'clock next Tuesday, that is, within the first month of the session. There are others who feel that the Legislature should remain in session, at least for a time, to determine more fully questions which may arise in connection with the war effort. I still think that if we would remain in session all the rest of this week and the first two days of next week, we could finish up.

One of the reasons for not carrying over into a recess session is the fact that all the per diem employes under the present law would be paid even during the time that the Legislature is in recess, unless, under the act of 1939, the two Houses would take action to discharge their employes during the recess period, from month to month, or for whatever period it might be.

If those employes are not discharged and this session should continue for several months, then the cost of the extra time would really be more than if the Governor should call the Legislature back into another Special Session later, if it became necessary.

In order to get the viewpoint of the two Houses on this matter I therefore offer the following resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

Mr. EALY offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 10, 1942.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That in the event the General Assembly shall recess at any time during the present special session for a period of more than one week, the respective Houses shall take appropriate action to discharge all per diem employees during such weeks as the General Assembly shall not be sitting.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, to be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to immediate consideration of the resolution? Are there any remarks?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, this is a new subject to us. It is something we ought to ponder about a little. These employes, if they are discharged, their future would be rather uncertain and they do not know whether they ought to go into other employment or whether they should wait for a call to come back at some future time, and it puts them in a rather difficult position.

I would like to have an opportunity to discuss this resolution before it is acted on, with the members on this side of the House.

Mr. EALY. Of course, the Senator from Allegheny has a perfect right to object to immediate consideration of the resolution. I might say that the per diem employes are not in a certain position now. Suppose we should get through and adjourn finally next Tuesday; then they would be out of this employment, and it also appears, from what has taken place in this session, a good many employes have resigned, as there have been vacancies, which have been filled with new appointees. That would probably happen again.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, if we adjourned next Tuesday, as it has been suggested we might possibly do, then of course this resolution would not be necessary.

Mr. EALY. No, Mr. President.

Mr. McGINNIS. I would suggest that this resolution lay on the table so that we can take it under consideration.

Mr. EALY. If the Senator wishes to do that and objects to immediate consideration it will have to lay over until tomorrow.

The PRESIDENT. As the Chair understands the request of the Senator from Allegheny, it is that the resolution be laid on the table, from which it can be taken at any time.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I would not object to the resolution being called up tomorrow.

Mr. EALY. I will call it up tomorrow if there is now objection to immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT. There is objection to immediate consideration and the resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, could the resolution lay on the table and not be sent to committee? Is that a proper motion?

The PRESIDENT. Under the rules, if there is objection, a resolution must automatically be referred to committee. It could be reported out tomorrow.

Mr. BARR. Then, Mr. President, perhaps the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, may desire to withdraw his objection and ask that the resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. It has been referred to the Committee on Rules.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, in order that the record may be kept straight in connection with the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Allegheny, I am not quite sure I understand just what is the situation here, whether my colleague from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, objected to immediate consideration. Just what is the situation.

The PRESIDENT. It is equivalent to that. The Senator from Allegheny stated that he desired to give the resolution consideration, and this is the only way in which that can be done. His first request was to lay the resolution on the table, but under the rules, if it is not desired to consider the resolution immediately, it must be referred to a committee.

Mr. GELTZ. Then, Mr. President, it has been referred to a committee?

The PRESIDENT. That is right, the Committee on Rules.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suggest that since this is a very important resolution, what can be done is that the gentleman from Allegheny could withdraw his objection to immediate consideration; it then can be considered and a motion made to lay the resolution on the table.

The PRESIDENT. That is right.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Then it could be considered tomorrow without further action by the committee.

Mr. GELTZ. Before that is done by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, I would like to say that if such a motion is made to lay the resolution on the table, I will ask my colleagues to vote against that motion. I think the procedure which has been followed is the correct procedure, to have the resolution referred to committee.

RESOLUTION URGING OBSERVANCE OF MAY DAY

Mr. CAVALCANTE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 10, 1942.

It has been a custom in the United States and in other countries throughout the world to observe the first day of May as May Day, and to mark such observances by various kinds of celebrations.

A decade ago the American Legion organization in Fayette County inaugurated a new and more appropriate observance of the first day of May, by staging a parade and celebration in the name of Americanism.

The first day of May has since been annually observed and celebrated as Americanism Day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other groups, both in Fayette County and throughout the Commonwealth, and it has been the custom of the Governor of the Commonwealth to issue his proclamation signifying the observance of Americanism Day.

The present world crisis constitutes a serious threat to those American principles of life and government, which were established with such great sacrifice and which have since been maintained and protected so valiantly, thus making particularly significant and appropriate the observance of May first as Americanism Day in the year of 1942; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation signifying May 1, 1942, as Americanism Day, and calling upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations to hold celebrations of this day in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth the full realization of the benefits, privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania further urges all persons in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to join in a real American celebration of May 1, 1942, as Americanism Day.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. STIEFEL, from the Committee on State Government, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 42, entitled:

An Act to suspend and modify existing law providing for and requiring the use of plates or tage as evidence of the payment of any license or registration fee insofar as such laws require the use of plates or tags manufactured of metal and by authorizing the use of other material in whole or in part.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. FARRELL, from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 46, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the approval of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries of the City of Philadelphia to suspend for a limited time the operation of laws regulating or relating to the movement and anchorage of vessels carrying or having on board certain explosives insofar as the same relate to fixed ammunition or ammunition which contains the projectile and the explosive in one container or shell.

Mr. CRIDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CRIDER, from the Committee on State Government reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 40, (House Bill No. 11), entitled:

An Act to further amend section eight hundred twenty-eight of the act, approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety; regulating the use of highways, and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians, and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth; providing for the titling, including liens, encumbrances, and legal claims; registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees; prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, the Department of Highways, peace officers, mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof, owners of vehicles, and garage keepers; providing that records are admissible as evidence; imposing upon owners, counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, within the Commonwealth, liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles; imposing penalties; imposing certain costs upon counties; providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees, and miscellaneous receipts; making an appropriation and providing for refunds;" authorizing the Secretary of Revenue, during the period of national emergency, to suspend the operation of certain provisions of this act relating to school buses, when such provisions conflict with priority claims for material.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. REED, from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 37, entitled:

An Act relating to air raid precautions, including blackouts; conferring certain powers and duties upon the State Council of Defense, local and district Councils of Defense, political subdivisions, members of certain municipal and volunteer agencies and civilians necessary for the safety, defense and protection of civilians and property in the Commonwealth; providing for the mobilization, coordination and use of certain municipal agencies and volunteer agencies, including their personnel and equipment; providing for immunity from liability for injury or death to persons or damage to property under certain circumstances; and providing penalties.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to call attention of the members of the Senate to page twenty-nine of the History of House Bills and Resolutions, Serial No. 18, Resolution No. 7, presented in the House by Representative Homer S. Brown, and ask that each one of the Senators read it before we take up tomorrow the resolution which was introduced by the Senator from Somerset. I think this would be a good time to do that, as some of my colleagues probably might not be familiar with that resolution. It is Serial No. 18, Resolution No. 7.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I suggest that the gentleman from Allegheny tell us the contents of the resolution.

Mr. BARR. It is a request by Representative Brown that the General Assembly should recess instead of finally adjourning for the duration.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. KNOBLE. RESOLUTION No. 22.

In the House of Representatives, March 10, 1942.

The immense sums of money already appropriated by the Federal Government for the purpose of successfully carrying on and concluding the war in which we are now engaged have been and are being largely spent to the benefit of the larger communities in the Nation.

The smaller communities and the districts in which the small farms are located have not shared in the benefits that flow from new defense plants and government spending.

These communities and districts are largely producing the food that is necessary to the vitality of all the citizens and in them is found patriotism of a high order.

The advantages offered by these smaller communities for the placement therein of defense plants are far beyond those afforded by and in the densely populated districts.

The people in these rural communities have had their markets removed by reason of the enlistment of their sons in the services of the Nation and by the treck of their workers to higher paying jobs in defense plants in larger communities.

These people, however, are loyal and patriotic and they are ready and willing to do their full share in the crisis that confronts the Nation regardless of their isolation; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that those charged with the placing of manufacturing plants by the National Government or any of its agencies for the production of articles of warfare are hereby memorialized to take advantage of the opportunities and benefits offered by the rural communities as sites for location and erection of such plants; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution shall be immediately forwarded by the Chief Clerk of this House to the President of the United States and to the Secretary of the Army and the Secretary of the Navy.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. SHEPARD. RESOLUTION No. 23.

In the House of Representatives, March 10, 1942.

Whereas, On the 1st day of February in the year 1865, the 38th Congress of the United States of America adopted, and President Abraham Lincoln signed, a Joint Resolution proposing the 13th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, whereby slavery and involuntary servitude were forever abolished within the United States; and

Whereas, The proposing of this Constitutional Amendment to the Legislature of the several States marked one of the most enlightened and far-reaching steps in the history of our Democratic form of Government; and

Whereas, The ultimate abolition of slavery and involuntary servitude effected by the adoption of this Constitutional Amendment was of inestimable benefit in welding our people into a strong and unified Nation; and

Whereas, There has now been introduced into the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, a Joint Resolution (No. 267), requesting President Franklin D. Roosevelt to proclaim Feberuary 1st as "National Freedom Day." and to invite the people of the United States to observe that day with appropriate ceremonies and thanksgiving; be it therefore

Mr. WRIGHT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, since the Governor has signed the reapportionment bill and it is now a fact, and we must recognize it, we in Greene County are separated from our nearest ally, Fayette County, by the Monongahela River. We did not like being separated from our congenial neighbor, Washington County, but I have learned in my short life that if you do not get what you like in this life that you must learn to like what you get, and we are determined to like our new Fayette County neighbors.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker I would deem it a great favor if you would delegate our good brother, the Honorable Marshall Shepherd, "The leader of the sheep," to come to Green County and lead the community singing of that old familiar and lovely melody, "There's One More River to Cross."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a special parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his special parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I just want to inquire whether that is "Green River" or not.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, that he is very alert.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Dalrymple for Mr. POLASKI for today's session.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. RILEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 11, 1942, at 1 p. m.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, when we approach Thee in the attitude of prayer may we have the desire to worship Thee in spirit and in truth; otherwise we shall not know how to pray to Thee as we ought.

We pray for faith to belive that Thou art the rewarder of those who seek Thee. We believe that Thou art ready to endow us according to our needs, and we pray for wisdom, for courage, for strength and the will to endure, that we may accomplish Thy purposes concerning us today.

Give wisdom to the men in authority in our nation, courage and the will to endure to the men in all branches of military service, and victory over all our enemies that thereby Thy glory and Thy kingdom may be advanced in our day.

Direct this session of the Senate that all its decisions may have Thine approval.

In the name of Christ our Lord. Amen.

REPORT OF THOMAS JEFFERSON BICENTENNIAL COMMISSION OF PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I have a report of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentenial Commission of Pennsylvania, which was created by Senate Concurrent Resolution.

This Committee presents the following report and requests that it be spread on the minutes of the Journal.

Thomas Jefferson was president of the University of Virginia. We have asked the presidents of the prominent colleges of Pennsylvania to become members, and thirty-five of the presidents in Pennsylvania have agreed to serve on this committee. The committee has unanimously selected Dr. Johnson, of Temple University, as Chairman, Governor James has accepted the honorary chairmanship for the Commonwealth, and Dr. John Weber, of the University of Pittsburgh, Secretary.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I am proud to state that under the leadership of Dr. Chapman, the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania, has evolved an elaborate program for the celebration of the two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of Thomas Jefferson. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania through our Commission has set an example which will, no doubt, be emulated by other sister States. During our conference with Dr. Fiske Kimball who is a member of the United States Commission for the celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of Thomas Jefferson, we have been told that Pennsylvania is leading the entire Nation in its work which is being done preparatory to the celebration of the Bicentennial on April 13, 1943. Dr. Fiske Kimball, the authorities of the University of Virginia and the authorities of William and Mary, were unanimous in their approval of our work.

Bearing in mind that Thomas Jefferson considered his connections with the University of Virginia and his work done in connection therewith as one of the greatest attainments of his life, our Commission felt that the creation of a State-wide Committee of educators will be one of the most fitting tributes to the memory of Jefferson's Immortal Genius. The response to our invitation from Pennsylvania's outstanding educators was most encouraging and stimulating. The State-wide Committee consisting of educators only will indeed mirror all sections of Pennsylvania and will thus cement all elements of our citizenry in its participation in the celebration of the Bicentennial. The unanimous selection of Dr. Robert Livingston Johnson, President of Temple University as Chairman of the Committee, and of Dr. John Weber as Secretary of said Committee, clearly shows how well the work of the Committee is balanced and spread all over Pennsylvania.

In addition to the State-wide Committee, the Commission has now proceeded with the creation of local Committees and towards that end created Thirty-seven District Jefferson Bicentennial Celebration Committees. At the head of each District Bicentennial Commission, there will be selected outstanding citizens, who in the opinion of the Commission will command the cooperation of the citizenry of the District. Towards that end, the membership of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission will consult the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives in the hope that their good judgment will help us to select outstanding educators and men of culture in each district who could be placed at the helm of the District Committee.

Our preliminary report covers only part of our plans. Some of our plans, although very ambitious may have a tendency of conflicting with our present National efforts. Such plans will, no doubt, be held in abeyance until such time that the war effort will not be jeopardized by them. Thus we intended to proceed with the printing and distribution of a Jefferson Commemorative Stamp, the proceeds whereof could be applied towards the erection of a replica of Monticello in Harrisburg that would house a library or another institution of culture. The concensus of the membership was for the postponement of this plan since it was felt that the sale of Jefferson Commemorative Stamps may jeopardize the sale of Defense Stamps.

May I embrace this opportunity and voice my admiration for the fine spirit of cooperation that permeated and permeates the membership of this Commission. Each member of our Commission is fully cognizant of the fact that if our work is crowned with success, the citizenry of Pennsylvania will fully realize the greatness and significance of the cardinal principles laid down by Jefferson and his co-workers at the dawn of our Republic. Ofttimes we proceed with our work hesitatingly, fearing that at crucial times like these, there are more important tasks that command the efforts and devotion of each American. However, we realize that when peace comes on earth and the world will be relieved from the talons of the aggressors, our pople will need spiritual tonics that will imbue them with the fervor of rededication. And so the membership of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania appeals to this august body to lend us its undivided support in order that our work may inure to the advancement and progress of the great people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I present the following report and desire it to be spread upon the minutes.

III. PRELIMINARY PLANS ALREADY COMPLETED BY THE THOMAS JEFFERSON BICENTENNIAL COMMISSION OF PENNSYLVANIA

A. Apparata for the Planning and Celebration of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial in Pennsylvania.

To make the celebration of the Two-hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of Thomas Jefferson in Pennsylvania wide-spread, all-embracing and penetrative, the Commission decided upon the creation of the following apparata, designed for both the planning and the celebration of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial in Pennsylvania.

1. STATE-WIDE JEFFERSON BICENTENNIAL COMMITTEE OF PENNSYLVANIA

At its third meeting held at Charlottsville, Virginia, on September 25th-26th, 1941, the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania, decided to create a State-wide Jefferson Bicentennial Committee of Pennsylvania, to consist of educators only, preferably Presidents or representative members of faculties of Pennsylvania's Colleges and Universities accredited by the State Council of Education, in order that said Committee may evolve plans for the celebration of the Bicentennial, participate in the State-wide Celebration on April 13, 1943, and above all act in an advisory capacity to the Thirty-seven District Celebration Committees which will be established throughout Pennsylvania.

Jefferson always considered his services to the University of Virginia as the greatest attainment of his life, and therefore the membership of the Commission felt that the creation of such a State-wide Committee of educators will in itself constitute a tribute to the memory of this immortal genius.

The Commission further decided that the Governor of Pennsylvania by virtue of his exalted office should be invited to serve as Honorary Chairman of the State-wide Committee, and that the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Chairman of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission be invited to serve as members of the State-wide Committee.

In recognition of the great work done by Dr. Fiske Kimball of Philadelphia, who is one of the most sympathetic and learned scholars in Jeffersonian draftsmanship and architecture, in the preservation and recovery of Jefferson's beautiful historic house and estate at Monticello, Virginia, the Commission decided to extend an invitation to Dr. Fiske Kimball to serve on the State-wide Committee. As a member of the United States Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, Dr. Fiske Kimball would thus bring his ripe experience and guidance and would link the State-wide Committee with the United States Commission for the Celebration of the Two-hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of Thomas Jefferson.

To expedite the creation of the State-wide Committee, the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania decided that both the Chairman and the Secretary of the State-wide Jefferson Bicentennial Committee should be appointed by the Commission.

Accordingly, invitations to serve on said State-wide Jefferson Bicentennial Committee were forwarded to the Presidents and representative members of faculties of the following Colleges and Universities, accredited by the State Council of Education:

Albright College; Allegheny College; Beaver College; Bryn Mawr College; Bucknell University; Carnegie Institute; Cedar Crest College; Chestnut Hill College; College Misercordia; Dickinson College; Drexel Institute; Dropsie College; Duquesne University; Elizabethtown College; Franklin and Marshall College; Geneva College; Gettysburg College; Grove City College; Hahnemann Medical College; Haverford College; Immaculata College; Jefferson Medical College; Juniata College; Lafayette College; LaSalle College; Lebanon Valley College; Lehigh University; Lincoln University, Marywood College; Mercyhurst College; Moore Institute of Art; Moravian College; Moravian College for Women; Mount Mercy College; Muhlenberg College; Pennsylvania College for Women; Pennsylvania Military College; Pennsylvania State College; Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science; Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Art; Rosemont College; Seton Hall College; St. Charles' Seminary; St. Francis College; St. Joseph's College; St. Thomas College; St. Vincent College; Susquehanna University; Swarthmore College; Temple University; Thiel College; University of Pennsylvania; University of Pittsburgh; University of Pittsburgh Extension; Ursinus College; Villa Maria College; Villanova College; Washington and Jefferson College; Waynesburg College; Westminster College; Wilson College and Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

B. Commemorative Book on "Jefferson and Pennsylvania."

The Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania assigned to Senator Israel Stiefel of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the task of securing the cooperation of historians in Pennsylvania and elsewhere, in marshaling, collating and editing literary materials that may appertain to the multi-faceted activities of Jefferson in Pennsylvania, preparatory to the publication of a Commemorative Book on "Jefferson and Pennsylvania."

The Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania is planning a meeting within the next few weeks with the representatives of the American Philosophical Society of which Thomas Jefferson was a President and a leading creative spirit. The purpose of said meeting is to arrange for a Joint Sponsorship of the contemplated publication, as well as the participation of the American Philosophical Society in the Jefferson Bicentennial Celebration in Pennsylvania.

C. Certificates of Participation.

The Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania will issue Certificates of Participation attesting the work and spiritual contributions of the participants in the activities of the various State-wide and District Committees. These certificates will blend Jeffersonian motifs with a rich Pennsylvania background and will be printed with great artistry and detail.

D. Jefferson Commemorative Stamp.

The Commission planned to proceed with the printing and distribution of a Jefferson Commemorative Stamp, the proceeds whereof could be applied towards the erection of a replica of Monticello in Harrisburg that would house a library or another institution of culture. However, the concensus of opinion of the membership was for a temporary postponement of this plan since it was felt that the sale of Jefferson Commemorative Stamps may interfere with the sale of Defense Stamps.

CONCLUSION

The Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania is proud to state, on the basis of its foregoing First Preliminary Report, that it laid the ground work for the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Celebration in Pennsylvania, and also set the pace for similar plans and activities in other sister States. Whether we will still be at war in 1943, or the dove of peace will bring tidings that the deluge is about over, a celebration in honor of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of Thomas Jefferson will bring us back to the fundamentals of our great republic and will imbue us with the spirit of the great immortals who in hours of stress and tribulation firmly stood at the helm of our country and brought us to the calm harbors of peace, progress and prosperity.

In the Senate, March 11, 1942.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That in the event the General Assembly shall recess at any time during the present Special Session for a period of more than one week, the respective Houses shall take appropriate action to discharge all per diem employes during such weeks as the General Assembly shall not be sitting, except such per diem employees as at the adjournment of this special session would be transferred to the regular payroll of the Commonwealth.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

A motion was made by Mr. LETZLER and Mr. EALY,

That Rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I feel that this resolution is premature. We have been here for several weeks. We were called here by the Governor to do specific things. He outlined what he wanted, and I think it is our job to stay here and either concur in his recommendations or suggestions, or to turn them down. I have observed this of our Governor, during the last session, long before war was declared and during the period that war has been declared, that if there ever was a patriotic Governor, it is Governor James. Long before many of us felt there was a real danger, Governor James was alert, and in the last session I felt that Governor James did everything he could to have us face what we are facing now.

I might criticize the Governor for not having had surveys made before he dumped these requests in the special call in our laps. I feel that if he had had proper surveys and had given some encouragement, some help and some advice to both Houses, we would be much further along. However, he did not do that.

Mr. President, I feel that this resolution at this time is, as I said, premature. I am not so sure we will decide that we will have a recess, but I think that should be decided after we have finished our business here, or when we get near the end. Bills have been introduced to cover some of the subjects but not all of them. I feel that it is the opinion of both Houses regarding the request of the Governor, concerning point number one of the supplemental call, for legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this nation is, or may become, engaged, that blanket authority be given to somebody, such as the Council of Defense, will not pass either House. I think both Houses are ready and willing to give to any department right now practically anything that they want regarding suspension of laws in their department, and I understand that a number of the departments have made specific requests that certain laws be suspended affecting their departments.

Mr. President, inasmuch as we are at war, I hope there will be no politics on either side of this House; there has been very little so far and I am very proud of it, and I feel that we should first do this job that the Governor asked us to do. I am sure that he was sincere about it; I am sure that he thought every item was very important. If we do not agree with him on some of them, let us bring them up and turn them down; if we feel they are good laws, let every one of us in both Houses get behind the legislation and put it through, but to put this resolution through here today, seems to me to be like a resolution putting the cart before the horse. It is premature and perhaps confuse the issues a little bit. After we get through here and do our job, or towards the end of our work here, I might agree to this resolution, if we agree to a recess, but it may be that after we do this work that has been handed to us by our Governor, that then we should decide whether we shall recess or adjourn. At that time we will be in better position to decide whether we should recess or adjourn, and at that time we should be in better position to decide whether the employes should be laid off during the interim or kept on.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I believe I can concur with my colleague from Allegheny County, Senator McGinnis, on almost every point which he has raised, other than the fact that he says that this resolution is premature. I see nothing premature about the resolution, for the reason that the resolution does not provide for a recess next week or the following week or at any definite time, but it does do one thing, it indicates that we have reached a conclusion that because of this war emergency we are not going to be in a safe position to adjourn, and that we feel that what will be necessary will be to recess from time to time so that anything which might arise or occur as an emergency can be taken care of by the Legislature.

Mr. President, because of that, we do not feel that we are or would be in any better position two or three weeks from now than we are today, insofar as what might arise two months or six months in the future, but we do feel that since it is our opinion that it is going to be necessary to recess from time to time, we should state our position and our program, in that, when we do take a recess, we believe that in order to save a material expense to the Commonwealth that our program should be set forth in this resolution.

Therefore, Mr. President, at this time I move the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, before putting that motion, I would ask leave to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Senator Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MALLERY. For my own information, Mr. President, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Allegheny whether the passage of this resolution would preclude final consideration of all legislation that is before the Legislature.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, passage of this resolution does nothing much more than to declare our policy. It would have no connection or would it in any way tend to interfere with consideration and passage of all matters of importance which have been brought to our attention at this time. In addition, it would in no way interfere with our being in a position, in two months from now or six months from now, to consider any other matters which might arise as an emergency.

Mr. MALLERY. In other words, there is no thought of adjourning immediately.

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. DENT. Of course, Mr. President, there is nothing much anybody can do but vote for this resolution, because it happens to be one of those political strategy moves. We all know, of course, it is just to get in good with the newspapers and so on, to show who is trying to take their two hundred and fifty dollars, with their backs turned to it, and who is taking it looking at it.

To me it is not a question of discharging employes. It is a question of whether it is the decent, just and honorable thing to do. We have, I suppose, about two hundred persons on the payroll in the General Assembly, or more, and you are saying to them, "Now, you can not go back and take an important job while we are waiting to see whether we are going to make up our minds to pass this sixteen point program; you can go back home and when we call you, you have got to be Johnny on-the-spot and come to Harrisburg and work while we are making our minds up."

The most important thing I see in the whole program is the matter of setting aside certain laws. Every person here knows that at any time during any emergency the Governor of the Commonwealth, the President of the United States, or any person in authority can set aside any law. Abe Lincoln did it, Thomas Jefferson did it; Andrew Jackson did it; they all did it when the time came. You have to do it if it is necessary and I do not care how many bills you pass here, you will never be able to foresee an emergency to be covered by any particular legislation.

I say, Mr. President, that this General Assembly could have stayed in session two weeks and if it had approached it in an intelligent manner, such as the House tried to approach it, and if the departments of the government here in Pennsylvania would give their cooperation to the members of the General Assembly, as they have been asked to do, in two weeks we could clear up everything that is before us.

If the Republican majority had not dilly-dallied with the unemployment compensation amendments, that bill would have been passed in the Senate and would have gone over into the House by now. You have to have another week or ten days to pass unemployment compensation laws and everything that is in this bill is already covered in legislation which was introduced the very first day of the session.

You expect these employes to go back home and get jobs in defense, where they should be, if we are in as bad condition as we think we are and as we know that we are. They have to go back home and get jobs in defense. What are you going to do? Are you going to call a session on Friday and say to the employes, you have to be back here on Monday and say, to hang with defense, we have got to go to Harrisburg a couple of days while the Senators and members of the House sit around and twiddle their thumbs.

You are making a great patriotic gesture, taking the pay of a five dollar a day employe away from him, because we have not got the courage to say that this bill is no good, never was any good and never will be any good and let us go home, or if the bill is good, let us pass it.

You are going to come in here once a month. Your attendance here today shows how many members will be able to attend and hold on to their seats and try to do the job that has to be done.

Sure we will vote for the resolution, and it will disappoint the majority if it passes.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, has this resolution been printed?

The PRESIDENT. Under the rules of the Senate it has not been printed and it will not be printed unless there is a motion to that effect, concurred in by a majority, in which event the resolution would be printed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, of course, I have not had a copy of the resolution and I would like to put the horse before the cart and make a real resolution of it, if we are going to vote on it.

I have kept off this floor during this session because I did not want to inject politics into it, but I know that the Republican majority is at loggerheads with the Governor and I would like to be the one to help pull their chestnuts out of the fire. I think they have a job to do and ought to stay here and do it.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not want to agree entirely with what my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, has said with regard to recess and adjournment. I felt that we could have finished the session within a month. I tried very hard to get the work done so that we could recess, but after consultation with some of the leaders of the House this morning, I am convinced that it is impossible for us to adjourn finally or even determine on a recess before next Tuesday.

The only way, however, to get the feeling of the House on the proposition is by a resolution or vote in some manner. I feel that we can finish up in a week or two and adjourn finally. I do not want to say at this time that I am in favor of recessing from month to month. That matter may be determined later.

There is nothing wrong with this resolution. It just determines what the House and Senate think about this proposition, if it should come to the point of adjourning from month to month or from two weeks to two weeks.

I remember that a few years ago when Senator Hoffman was President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the question came up of adjournment for perhaps over a month and he tried very desperately to get a bill through in order to prevent employes who were here and who were not rendering any service from being paid during that interim period. He did not succeed; he could not get it passed, try as he would.

It would seem to me that there is no reason whatsoever why an employe should be paid for services during a period that the Senate is not here and is not coming here.

As to the question of keeping their jobs, most of those people, or some of them, are working in other jobs right now, and those who have employment or are offered employment can resign. As I said yesterday or the day before, the Senator from Warren has reported out numerous appointments to fill vacancies, and no doubt if we recess for a period of weeks or months we will have a great many more vacancies to fill, so the passage of this resolution merely determines policy in the event a recess is taken.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I would like to correct a misunderstanding which I am afraid the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, has left in the minds of those present, as to his charge that the Republicans dilly dallied in connection with unemployment compensation. For the information of the Senator and those present, the Republicans in the Senate were not forewarned that unemployment compensation would be in the call of the Governor; the Senator from Westmoreland evidently must have had some information.

Immediately upon convening, in this Senate a subcommittee was appointed by the Republican caucus to draft an unemployment compensation bill in line with the liberalization called for by the Governor in his call for a Special Session.

The Senator from Westmoreland did, it is true, introduce some twelve bills covering unemployment compensation liberalization, but when we pieced the twelve together, like a crossword puzzle, we found that there had been a lot of changes in the language, which had been requested by the Social Security Board and the Department here in Harrisburg.

We also found that the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, had removed, probably by mistake, the penalty for strikes. I have been in conference with several labor leaders over the last two or three weeks and not one of those labor leaders has indicated to me that he wanted the strike penalty removed.

I think we all agree, Mr. President, that the time has come in America when we must get down to work to lick those dictators, and if we do not, we might find ourselves in a pretty serious difficulty. There are more things at stake today—and I am speaking for myself and not the Republican caucus—there are more things at stake today than closed shops or anything else; all that we hold dear in America is today at stake on foreign battle fields, and I say I am pretty sure the gentleman from Westmoreland must have made a mistake when the strike clause was removed because you see, Mr. President, with that clause removed, and I say this, those people who want to strike are vastly in the minority, the great majority of American working people are as patriotic as any employer. There are some employers who try to make money in this emergency and there may be some employes in labor who try to make money in this emergency, to which they are not entitled. We are in this position, that if the bills introduced by the gentleman from Westmoreland had been enacted, that minority could strike at any time and immediately go upon the unemployment compensation fund, which, of course on the face of it would be a very serious mistake.

That is one reason, Mr. President, it took quite some time for this sub-committee to work on this bill. It is one of the most involved subjects to confront any Legislature at this time. and it is one that could not be settled in a matter of a few hours.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do no think we are on unemployment compensation, but for the information of the Senate I just do not like to have things said that are not quite true. You see, Mr. President, the strike feature was not left out by any bill I introduced. I just did not amend that section of the law, and so if you pass every bill I put in, it would not affect the strike feature whatsoever. The strike feature remains in the law because I did not tackle that particular section of the act, and, incidentally, speaking of the strike feature, I might ask you to ask the Secretary of Labor and Industry, Mr. Hines where in the entire course of his career as Secretary of Labor and Industry he has injected the strike clause into unemployment compensation. He has paid unemployment compensation in every major strike in Pennsylvania without making them wait six weeks, for political reasons.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I enjoy the extreme pleasure at this time of being able to speak for myself alone, and on a topic of this kind it is really a help.

I think patriotism is a relative term and in times like these I will not undertake to question any man's patriotism nor to define the meaning of the word patriotism, and, therefore, I think that is best left out of this discussion.

I have seen no evidence of politics in this resolution, in its birth, or in the way it has been carried through to its possible maturity here in the Senate; on the contrary, I understood from the remarks of the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, yesterday, that the resolution was offered for the purpose of bringing to a head discussion on the subject of whether we shall adjourn, finish our work and adjourn definitely, or whether we shall recess from time to time.

In arriving at a determination of that question the cost of each proceeding is one of the items which will determine our action. The members of the majority of this body feel that to call a Special Session, if I understand it, may involve an excessive amount of cost. I am assuming that everybody in this body wants to finish their work and go home. I do not think there is any politics in that at all, because that is the natural inclination of people who have a job to do, and want to do it and are interfered with, adequately doing that job by some other matters which must be given attention.

We have a divided attention now and all of us want to get through with our public duties as quickly as we can and go back to our private and our other public duties, to do what we can to save this democracy.

That being so, Mr. President, I have been thinking about the resolution and the question that it should raise in the minds of all of us. I am not concerned about these employes any more than the government of the United States is or should be concerned about any individual in this country today. They will have to take the consequences of the situation just the same as we and our children, our brothers and our families will in the whole picture.

I think the issue might have been focused much better if this resolution had said it is the sense of this resolution that we shall recess from time to time and to stay in session during the emergency, but if the Legislature does recess for any period longer than one week, then the employes on the payroll shall be dismissed and reappointments made when we convene. That is not serious but I make this statement for the purpose of the record, so that if it is necessary in order to bring the issue it may be focused better.

Now, Mr. President, what about that proposition? Shall we recess or shall we finish our work and adjourn? I have been watching the session, I have not had the privilege of being here from the beginning, but I have been watching what has been going on since and I have been noticing my own reactions and I have been listening to some public reactions. One of the reasons I would advance against recessing is that the public is already tired of our hanging around here and doing nothing. That does not mean that I criticize you or anybody else for doing nothing, but the fact is that we are doing nothing. The fact may be that we cannot do anything, but that reaction of the public will get greater and more vociferous as time goes on. We can not come here week after week and debate and do nothing. If this resolution should result in recessing from time to time, calling us back, we have another practical proposition, because I doubt very much whether you will be able to get the members of the House to come back time after time. I am afraid you are going to get this kind of a situation—because membership in the House will be multiplied by its members—we do not get the attendance that we should have and we will get less as time goes on, and the House will be in the same position.

Why should we recess? Only because there has been a request in the call for the Special Session that we consider the question of transferring to the Governor through a particular committee the right to suspend any law. I have listened and I have talked to people, I have asked questions of members of this body, I have asked questions of peoples who are actively participating in one way or another in the war effort. I have said, what is there in our laws, what is there in the situation that might create an emergency that would require our action? Nobody has pointed out any single law or single situation that might occur that might interfere with national defense. I have concluded in my own mind that, as this war is going on, the Federal Government has in my opinion sufficient authority to pay attention to any local or state law that might interfere with the prosecution of his war to a success.

I have been told that there is a new law about medicine, the requirement that doctors who may be needed for service in the government, that that law as worded today would interfere with the Federal Government getting the physicians that it needs. The answer, Mr. President, in my opinion, after I have looked at the law, is that that will not interfere in any way. First, we did not make the law covering qualifications of physicians for the Federal Government, we only make it for Pennsylvania. The Federal Government could take any of the men who have studied medicine, set up its own standards, and say, we will accept you for the army.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, under existing laws, requires certain collegiate years or equivalent, and you can do that—instead of four years, eight successive semesters, two in each year, they can say continuous semesters, including summer courses, so that your course would be three years instead of four years, as the equivalent of a four year college education.

This law we just put in about barges coming up the river with dynamite has been observed more in its breach than anything else. We have had that law on the books for fifty years, but it did not interfere in the last war, it did not interfere with barges coming up the river.

I understand that the House, through a committee, has requested each of the heads of the various departments to make an investigation and tell them what existing laws might interfere.

Nobody has given them anything serious. As a matter of fact, the longer we continue here the more we increase law interference. For instance, we passed the other day a bill giving localities the right to make appropriations for local defense and to impose taxes for it, but we provided in that law the very thing that we are talking about here that will interfere, because we said that this local defense might require gas masks, might require them to buy some sort of defense for air raids, but they can not buy it unless they comply with existing laws relating to the purchase of materials.

If we continue in that fashion here we will never get out of here, because next week we will have to come back and amend the law or give somebody the right to suspend it. The longer we stay here the more confusion we create.

It is my conclusion, generally speaking, that lawyers and lawmakers lead to confusion rather than to clarity. I do not think we need this legislation, if we have confidence in the President and in the national government. The river bill that we passed, the Supreme Court of the United States has just said that this river is a navigable river and the Federal Government can make laws controlling conduct on that river even in peace times. How much more will that be so in war time.

I have reached the conclusion, Mr. President, that if the emergency is so great that we have to pass a law, then the amount of money it costs is cheap compared to the confusion, the chaos and the disrepute that this legislative body may fall into by hanging around here, being uncertain as to when we will come here and what we will do.

Who is going to assume responsibility during those recess periods of determining what is the situation or what should be done? Nobody knows if there is anything in the laws now that indicates an emergency situation.

We know what is going to happen in this war, what will occur that will create an emergency situtaion. We know that we may be bombed, we know that we may be wounded, we know that we may lose children, we know that we may lose brothers and sisters and we may have damage to property and we may be attacked. All of those things we know.

There are many and sufficient minds in this Senate—I will not call them leaders—to say what is there in the law that will prevent the Federal Government, because of our laws, from taking proper steps to protect us.

Gentlemen, I am talking as sincerely and seriously as I possibly can, because I can concede to you the same unbiased interest in this subject I feel I have myself. I do not think workmen's compensation has any place in this discussion or what the Republican Party feels about workmen's compensation. I will disagree with you on that, I suppose, as long as I am a member of this legislative body, and as long as I have the thoughts I have my views and my aspect of the situation, but that has nothing to do with this, and I give you credit for being able to approach a proposition of this kind seriously and sincerely, and I have approached it on that basis.

I will not vote for this resolution, not because I do not think you ought not to offer a resolution, but because I think the members of the House and you in the Senate ought to know my views on the subject, because I am reflecting my own, and the views of people I meet and their attitude towards what our attitude should be.

I am afraid if we continue on we will make a spectacle of ourselves rather than add to the picture and clarify it, and I hope this resolution will be defeated, I hope it will be defeated by both the Senate and the House—or maybe it had better be passed and go over to the House and have discussion there, but in any event, I hope the final verdict will be that we shall do the work we have to do and give no such powers as have been asked here to anyone in this situation, because that kind of power, as I have read that bill, might create more danger and more injury to the Commonwealth than it will do good to the national government in this emergency.

I am going to vote against it, with no feeling in the matter of resentment for its being brought up; on the contrary, with commendation to those who bring it up, that we should at least have submitted to us for our consideration, we of the minority and you of the majority, all of us, openly and publicly, the problem which confronts us, and have our debate on it.

I do not think I am talking too long on this subject. I would like to hear the opinions of others, because this is one thing on which my opinion can be changed by discussion and listening. I am willing to listen to any reasons which may be advanced as to why this suggested method of handling the situation should be adopted. Up until now I have heard none as to why we should recess now. As I have said, no light on the situation has been pointed out, and I dislike to visualize the picture of what will happen in the House and Senate when we come back here from time to time sitting around waiting to amend a law which we think may affect national defense.

I think more bitterness and politics will be engendered in that situation than will ever arise from our meeting the situation now and having the courage of our convictions and acting accordingly.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, this resolution does not say we are going to recess. Maybe I misunderstood it. I thought the resolution called for a recess. All the resolution says is "if we recess."

Mr. GELTZ. That is right.

Mr. DENT. What is the resolution for? Can we not do that when we recess, can we not decide what to do with the employes? What is the idea of putting the resolution in now, saying if we recess we should do this? I think we are putting the cart before the horse. In fact I do not think we even have a cart.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I would like to have the resolution, as amended, read again before the vote is taken.

(The resolution was again read by the Clerk).

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I merely want to suggest, in line with what the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has said, if we pass this resolution it will be some incentive to the House and Senate to get down and finish the work, so that we can get out of here definitely.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this debate, but I just want to read into the record a strike-out in Senate Bill No. 41, Printer's No. 22, by the gentleman from Westmoreland, and again I want to say it probably was a mistake, but I want to read the strike-out, which is as follows:

"If the employe's total unemployment is due to a voluntary suspension of work resulting from an industrial dispute then he shall be ineligible for compensation for a further waiting period of three weeks"

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not print the bills. Here is the original.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I want to say in connection with the last remarks of the gentleman from Westmoreland, this resolution does, in my mind, have a positive bearing on the question of whether we should adjourn or recess. Personally, I do not propose to vote for any recess of this Senate body wherein employes will be entitled to leave here and receive pay for seven days a week, and go out and work somewhere else for five days a week.

I want to say further, in connection with the previous remarks of the gentleman from Westmoreland, with regard to these employes, that he takes the stand that they are compelled to come back here and work for this Senate. This is the United States of America, not Germany, and no employe so far has been compelled to work anywhere that he does not desire to work. Any employe of this Senate is free at any time to go out and find employment elsewhere, and if, during a recess of this Senate, he finds employment in a defense industry, certainly it would seem to me it is the patriotic obligation of that employe to remain in that defense industry rather than come back here and take one of these jobs that are available in the Senate.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, we have wandered pretty far afield from the subject matter contained in the resolution, and I am glad my good friend, Senator Kephart, asked to have it re-read, because my mind was not sufficiently retentive to retain the language, but as it was re-read there is a clause in there that leaves some doubt in my mind, and in order to have it clarified I would like to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader, if I may?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Majority Floor Leader if the resolution is adopted by the House and the Senate, whether or not that has the effect of removing a per diem employes from the payroll at the expiration of one week's time during the period of recess?

Mr. GELTZ. No, Mr. President, I would say it does not.

Mr. COLEMAN. The language of the resolution, as I recall it, says that the House and the Senate shall take such appropriate action as may result in the discharge of the employes. Am I to understand, Mr. President, that will require an amendment to the existing law which created the per diem employes, which would necessitate a five day session of the Senate in order to have it passed?

Mr. GELTZ. That understanding is not correct, Mr. President. It could result in that, but it need not. It could be done by resolution of each House.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I would like the Majority Floor Leader, who is an able lawyer, to correct me if I am wrong. I have seen instances where we have done something by resolution and at a subsequent session had to validate it by an act of the General Assembly. I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny if we can discharge the employes by the adoption of a resolution, and if we can, why is it necessary to incorporate in the language of the resolution that the House and the Senate shall take such appropriate action as may be necessary to discharge employes.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I believe these employes to which we are now referring were hired in this session by resolution, in accordance with the act of Assembly. Therefore, they can be discharged by resolution in either the Senate or in the House, or both.

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to ask one more question, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna may proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, is it not the understanding that the present employes will serve for the 1943 session, the first two weeks of that session under the existing law?

Mr. GELTZ. Either the first two weeks or the first ten days, unless discharged; I am not sure which it is, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, it seems to me there is more in this resolution than meets the eye. The Federal Government is constantly stealing away from us, the sovereign states—once sovereign states—our former rights and privileges. One evidence of that is the fact they have taken over our employment offices and federalized them. Each step may look quite easy, but the next step is to federalize unemployment compensation. That is a live question, and as you all recollect, it brought a protest from the Governors of forty states in Washington against the federalization of unemployment compensation. Now, in that argument the federal people and I think one of the leaders of the C. I. O. held up to scorn, perhaps, that the states were not sufficiently interested to hold Special Sessions, that there were only two states that had Special Sessions of their Legislature. We have a Special Session and I am arguing in favor of hanging on to it to preserve whatever we have left of the sovereignty of Pennsylvania.

I would like to quote from President Lincoln:

"It has long been a grave question whether any government, not too strong for the liberties of its people, can be strong enough to maintain its existence in great emergencies."

We are in a great emergency and the question is, shall we stick up for our state rights or shall we hake the easy way and go home and hand everything over to Washington.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I want to explain, Mr. President, that if this resolution finally comes up, after we agree to stay in recess, that I am going to vote in favor of not incurring expenses of employes, as I was discussing this resolution only from the point of view that it was submitted for the purpose of focusing attention on the problem facing us.

I do not know, and that is the reason I did not discuss it, whether or not you can by resolution discharge a person whom you employ in a Special Session, because I do know the Dauphin County Court has already decided that you can not discharge persons who have been appointed without paying them for the balance of their terms. Now, whether that will apply to a Special Session, I do not know. That involved a regular session, and I think many of us here in the Senate are familiar with that situation, but whether you can do it by resolution or not, I am opposed to paying people when we recess, just because they happened to be appointed at the beginning of the session, if we find it necessary to recess from time to time. There is no reason why employes here should receive more money than the legislators themselves, and that would be the effect of that situation, if the per diem employes were to be paid and we should continue to recess.

I am not talking about the merits of the resolution as it is drafted and as it meets the eye, I am speaking about the situation which it reflected, but when a bill comes up or a resolution comes up directly after we have agreed to recess from time to time, I shall vote against paying the employes and in favor of a resolution to drop them from the payroll.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—38

Barr,	Dent,	Letzler,	Stiefel,
Bartlett,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Taylor,

Dear Father in Heaven, teach us the lesson of humility this day in order that we may love Thee more and serve Thee better. Yea, Lord, guard us from arrogance, lest we offend our fellow-neighbor and friend and imperil our own souls as we boast of our privilege of fellowship with Thee and of our greater loyalty to Thee.

May we honestly prove our hearts and discover our own faults, not only in the eyes of man, but before Thee, our God, and thereby come to follow Thy loving counsel unto the salvation of our own souls. We know in what authority Thou dost speak; help us to honor Thy authority in all that we say or do this day. For Thy name's sake we pray. Amen.

Whereas Constant inspection replacement and repair of said facilities will minimize the danger and the damage that may be caused thereby it is therefore declared to be the policy of this General Assembly that in its considered judgment the public good and general welfare of the citizens of cities of the first class require legislation relating to the prevention of such damage by sabotage and air raids therefore

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 25, entitled:

An Act to further amend section twenty-one of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred fifteen (P. L. 900), entitled "An act to provide for the immediate registration of all births and deaths throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by means of certificates of births and deaths, and burial or removal permits; requiring prompt returns to the Central Bureau of Vital Statistics as required to be established by the State Department of Health; and, in order to secure prompt and faithful registration of births, marriages, deaths, and diseases, of practitioners of medicine and surgery, of midwives, nurses, and undertakers, and of all persons whose occupation is deemed to be of importance in obtaining complete registration of births, deaths, marriages, and diseases throughout the State, as provided in section ten of an act, entitled 'An act creating the Department of Health and defining its powers and duties,' approved the twenty-seventh day of April, nineteen hundred and five, and providing penalties for violations of this act," by directing the Department of Health to maintain branch offices in certain cities of the third class for the filing of birth and death certificates; authorizing such offices to issue certified copies of said certificates and make searches of their files; providing that such offices be supplied with duplicates of certain birth and death records now on file in Harrisburg; imposing additional duties upon local registrars in such cities and prescribing fees.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Polaski, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLASKI. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand this bill was introduced to correct what the gentleman considers a defect in the method of issuing birth certificates. Is that correct?

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, I do not think there is any defect in the method of issuing birth certificates. My only idea is that the process now in effect is very slow, and I introduced this bill merely to expedite it.

Mr. McMILLEN. Another question, Mr. Speaker. Will the gentleman please explain to this Assembly why he writes in on page five of the bill, section twenty-one the words "in all cities of the third class located more than two hundred eighty-five miles by highway."

Mr. POLASKI. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I will try to explain that. In the first place we in Erie have felt we are perhaps more in need of such a branch than any other third class city in the Commonwealth. Erie has perhaps at this moment twenty-thousand workers employed on purely defense projects. Erie, as you know, has the second largest General Electric plant in the world, and this plant alone is going to employ by the end of this summer fifteen thousand employes on defense. That is only the G. E. plant.

Besides the G. E. plant we have the National Erie, the Erie Forge & Steel and the Bucyrus Erie and also fifteen or twenty plants of large size which will all be engaged on purely defense work as soon as they are able to turn over for that work. Most of them are partially operating on defense work now, and we felt for this reason that the need was greater in our territory than any other third class city.

Just to bring this fact out more clearly, I believe Mr. Dalrymple, myself, Mr. Cook, Mr. Ziesenheim and Mr. Van Allsburg from Erie have brought perhaps more applications for birth certificates to Harrisburg, to Mrs. Cohen and others than all the other third class cities combined. I think the facts will bear that out.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman mind telling this Assembly how many he has brought?

Mr. POLASKI. How many I have brought?

Mr. McMILLEN. Yes.

Mr. POLASKI. I have a list here in my pocket, or rather I have lists, Mr. Speaker. I would say that I have from four to five hundred names on these lists, all coming from the city of Erie, and this is my work alone and this does not include the other Representatives from Erie.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have a list of nine hundred in my files, merely from a little rural county.

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, this does not affect rural counties. This affects only Erie, a third class city.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, one more question. Will the gentleman try to justify his position on this thing as to why he should not include all of the cities of the third class if we are going to pass a bill? Why not give all the third class cities of the state of Pennsylvania the same rights that the people of Erie are asking for?

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, as I said, we felt that we have more applications by far than all the other third class cities combined, and in addition we do not want to create additional work, because we felt that the work coming probably from the other third class cities can be attended to here in Harrisburg.

Also, if such a request had been made in the Special House Committee I think that House Committee would not have allowed this bill to come out, but it somehow must have pleased all the members of the committee.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, that will be all.

Mr. Speaker, this particular bill does not look justifiable to me personally. I may be wrong. It seems to me that if we are going to extend this privilege to one third class city, we should give that same privilege to every other city of the third class. I am absolutely opposed to any type of legislation that is so centered on one particular point and does not take into consideration the rest of the state. It seems to be that we have gone along here for a period of four weeks now, and this particular type of legislation is about the only thing that has gotten on the floor. It seems to me that we ought to disband and go home. That would be much better than passing this type of legislation. Personally I feel the bill should be defeated.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not arise to speak directly against the bill. I merely want to point out to the House this, that there is undoubtedly a great opportunity to assist this whole question of the tie-up in Vital Statistics because of the unprecedented load, by some decentralization. I do not believe this bill is the right way to go about it.

A plan has been suggested,—I believe I can reveal this to you,—a bill has been suggested or a plan has been suggested by my colleague from Erie, Mr. VanAllsburg, which, if it is possible to work out will accomplish what the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Polaski, seeks under his bill, and it, I think will be of greater benefit to the state as a whole. This of course may take care of one particular community, but in the plan which has been suggested, I think tremendous help will be given to the whole question of delay in Vital Statistics. I believe it will help the people to get their birth certificates more quickly, more easily than any other way.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, I might say that the resolution,—it was only a resolution that was introduced by Mr. VanAllsburg, would place any possibility of taking care of the third class cities at the tender mercy of the Bureau of Vital Statistics. Of course I think every member of this House has had his experiences with that Bureau, and I doubt that what Mr. VanAllsburg proposes is going to solve the problem.

Perhaps decentralization may be needed, but we are certainly not going to accomplish it by resolution or wishful thinking hoping that somebody is going to come to the rescue.

The manner in which Mr. Polaski has approached the problem is a definite and positive method in which to approach it. If the other third class cities need it, I am surprised that some effort was not made to include them when the bill was on second reading. It just seems to me that they are doing a little shadow boxing and not making a real effort to do anything.

Erie has a pressing problem, and as a result Mr. Polaski has endeavored to solve that problem. If other cities have it, it is surprising that the members were not aware of it before this time. The bill was on first reading and then on second reading, one would have thought at least the matter would have crept out on second reading. I think someone has been dilatory, coming at this late time and saying "What about the other cities? We have an answer to the problem" when under that proposal, the third class cities will be at the mercy of the Bureau. I think positive action should be taken. If Mr. VanAllsburg has a solution to the problem, let him write it into a bill and let us see it.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I simply rise to reply to the challenge that somebody has been dilatory. Mr. VanAllsburg has studied the matter and he will answer that, but perhaps I can just say something for him that he can not say for himself. Mr. VanAllsburg has been diligently at work and has been making the necessary inquiries and seeking the necessary information upon which to base a program, and it is a question in our minds whether it is necessary to do it by legislation or not.

Mr. VanAllsburg has consulted the Attorney General's department. A committee was at work on this question this morning, and I am certain that before another 24 hours goes by we will have something very definite for you on that line. That has nothing to do with the question of whether they were dilatory or whether there should be amends. The pure question is still whether we should try to set up a program for one city when we are working on an over-all program.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 18, Printer's No. 5, was passed over at the request of Mr. TURNER.

REQUEST FOR RECESS

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I asked that House Bill No. 18 go over for the present to give me an opportunity to call a brief caucus of the Republican members of the House.

If it is not convenient for you, Mr. Speaker, I will not make the motion at this time, but if it is convenient I would like to ask for a fifteen minute recess to give the Republican members of the House an opportunity to meet in the House Caucus room immediately.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would ask the indulgence of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner until we have finished the calendar. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Delaware.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TARR. RESOLUTION No. 24.

In the House of Representatives, March 10, 1942.

It has been a custom in the United States and in other countries throughout the world to observe the first day of May as May Day, and to mark such observances by various kinds of celebrations.

A decade ago the American Legion organization in Fayette County inaugurated a new and more appropriate observance of the first day of May, by staging a parade and celebration in the name of Americanism.

The first day of May has since been annually observed and celebrated as Americanism Day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other groups, both in Fayette County and throughout the Commonwealth, and it has been the custom of the Governor of the Commonwealth to issue his proclamation signifying the observance of Americanism Day.

The present world crisis constitutes a serious threat to those American principles of life and government, which were established with such great sacrifice and which have since been maintained and protected so valiantly, thus making particularly significant and appropriate the observance of May first as Americanism Day in the year of 1942; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation signifying May 1, 1942, as Americanism Day, and calling upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations to hold celebrations of this day in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth the full realization of the benefits, privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania further urges all persons in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to join in a real American celebration of May 1, 1942, as Americanism Day.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, this is one of the most important subjects upon which we are called to act at this session of the Assembly, and while I have read and studied the bill and formulated my own impressions of the effects it would have, I can not be so sure from reading or study of the bill what the intent of the sponsors was in setting forth certain provisions, and I would therefore like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask whether there are a number of provisions in this bill which were in Senate Bill No. 80, which was considered at the last regular session and which were cut out by the present sponsor of the this bill.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. There are, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I should like to ask, Mr. Speaker, whether it is not a fact that the clause relating to the succession of interest of the employers was in Senate Bill No. 80 and was subsequently dropped in the regular session, and is now reinserted in this bill?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the section was deleted from Senate Bill No. 80, and frankly its insertion in this bill was only done to satisfy those persons who insist on legal phraseology. We have another section of the Act which from a practical standpoint covers all the possible aims that that clause could possibly cover without having to go to a lawyer to find out what it means.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that the clauses covering Military and Naval Service were in Senate Bill No. 80?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker, they were inserted by the Senate. There were two or three bills submitted by Members of this House at the last session, independent of the House's Unemployment Compensation Bill, and there seems to be unanimous feeling throughout the membership in the House that such provision should be included in the bill and it should stay. There was no disagreement between the Senate and House on that score.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, in looking over the bill I find some twenty-six sections copied word for word from Senate Bill No. 80 which were dropped from the bill in the last session and which are now reinserted. Would the gentleman say I was wrong in my count?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I didn't think it was twenty-six. My recollection was that Senate Bill No. 80 had twenty-two sections and that we deleted most of them, and then of course, if you knew the history of the bill after the passage in the conference committee, we felt that a great number of those matters could be cared for because they only provided for certain administrative changes that made the bill more easily workable. We felt that by some of the provisions of this bill we could try to cut down some of this confusion in the administration of the bill. I don't remember whether twenty-six was the correct number or not. It may be.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, that number is so high in proportion to the number of the provisions in the bill that I would like, if the gentleman will, for the benefit of the House, to explain in what respects the bill is different from last year's Senate Bill No. 80?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the present bill on its controversial subjects is the same as Senate Bill No. 80, as amended by the committee on Unemployment Compensation of this House. I am talking about the real controversial subjects, partial payments and the liberalization of benefit payments.

As to most of the administrative changes, the little things, they are practically the same, and the intent of the authors of the bill this session was to put those things into the act because we knew that the Senate would insist on having them anyway, and we frankly say that many of them can work and are decent.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I still would like to have an explicit explanation of what the differences are, the controversial differences.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, by controversial differences does the gentleman mean real fight?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. That's what it is, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Well, Mr. Speaker, the real fight is contained in the speech that I made on the floor of this House at 3 o'clock one morning in the last session. To recap very briefly, I said at that time the Governor insisted at the opening of this Assembly that he wanted to liberalize the Unemployment Compensation Law. So his Senators, I assume with his approval or knowledge, tried to liberalize the benefit payments by taking the minimum of seven dollars and fifty cents and making it eight dollars, and leaving the maximum at fifteen dollars, where it was.

He also, I think generously, agreed to increase the amount of benefits per week from thirteen dollars to fourteen dollars, and I believe, to reduce the waiting period from three weeks to two.

Our idea of liberalization was that the minimum payment should be ten dollars a week, the maximum payment should be twenty dollars a week, that the waiting period should be one week and the maximum period of weeks should be sixteen, and the interim percentage of payments should be sixty-six and two-thirds and not fifty per cent.

At that time I said there were approximately one hundred fifty million dollars in the unemployment compensation fund. The cry was raised that we were going to wreck the fund by spending all the money. I said then the fund was going to get greater and greater and become topheavy. What I said was going to happen did happen. As of three weeks ago the Unemployment Compensation Fund had two hundred thirty million dollars, and the unemployment claims for the week, three weeks ago, were paid entirely out of interest on the fund, and the principal of the fund was not touched. So it seems to me I was not too liberal when I proposed ten dollars and twenty dollars rather than eight dollars and fifteen dollars, and that that change could not possibly have harmed the fund.

I further pointed out that by spending that money we were going to keep many people from going on relief, people who would have to apply for relief on account of the waiting period of three weeks plus two weeks for administrative handling, and sending the first check to the unemployed person at home. So that all the liberalized payments which we fought for on this side and which were rejected on the other side, form a basis of severe controversy.

The Governor said on the rostrum at the beginning of the session that he wanted a liberalization of unemployment compensation,—that is what he said when he was here,—so I tried to find out really what he meant by it. If you really want to know, if you will indulge me a moment, I will get a copy of the Senate bill and I will explain what he means by it.

In Senate Bill No. 41, Printer's No. 30, they talk about rate and amount of compensation in Section 404, and going on further and reading on Page 44:

> "Compensation shall be paid with respect to each eligible employe whose benefit year began prior to July first one thousand nine hundred forty-two in accordance with the provisions of this act prior to that date and with respect to each eligible employe whose benefit year begins subsequent to June thirtieth one thousand nine hundred forty-two and who is totally unemployed and is not disqualified under any provisions of this act at a weekly rate and for a number of weeks to be determined in accordance with the following provisions by reference to Table I if the balance in the Unemployment Compensation Fund is in excess of one hundred million dollars or to Table II if the balance in said fund is one hundred million dollars or less as set forth in the tables in this section.
> "(a) Where an employe has a full time weekly wage his weekly benefit rate shall be that rate which appears in "PART C" and which is on the same horizontal line as the interval in "PART A" which includes such full time weekly wage except as otherwise provided in subsection (b)
> "(b) Where an employe has a 'full time weekly wage' but (i) the total wages earned by such employe during the first eight out of the last nine completed calendar quarters immediately preceding his benefit year are less than the minimum amount in "PART B" which appears on the same horizontal line with the interval which includes such "full time weekly wage" or (ii) in the opinion of the department the application of such "full time weekly wage" would be arbitrary or would operate to adversely affect the amount of compensation otherwise payable to such employe his weekly benefit rate shall be that rate which appears in "PART C" and which is on the same horizontal line as the interval in "PART B" which includes his 'highest quarterly wage"
> (c) Where an individual has no "full time weekly wage" his weekly benefit rate shall be that rate which appears in "PART C" and which is on the same horizontal line in "PART B" as the interval which includes his "highest quarterly wages"

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I was going to interrupt the gentleman to say that that part of the answer was not in response to my question.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I think that the question was that the gentleman wanted to know what the controversy was, and I was trying to give the gentleman my simple mathematical formula by saying that it should be a ten dollar minimum and a twenty dollar maximum.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, my question was only to bring out what were the controversial features in this present bill. In addition to those which have been mentioned I notice two others. One is that it decreases the minimum eligibility requirement.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, to a flat one hundred dollars.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, and another one is the partial plan.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman, was that in his bill in the 1941 session?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. It was, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. In other words, Mr. Speaker, the bill as far as the controversial features were concerned, is the same bill as the gentleman had introduced last year, House Bill No. 868?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, plus some of the material features in Senate Bill No. 80.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. But the controversial features, Mr. Speaker, are the same in House Bill No. 868?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I should like to ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, if he has the copy of the letter from the Unemployment Compensation Bureau to Mr. Loomaw which was written to him April 14th, 1941, showing the additional cost which the gentleman's plan would place upon the Unemployment Compensation Fund?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I have the letter, but not here. I have a rather extensive file on that subject, and that letter is in that file, but I do not have it here.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman remember enough from it to say that I am quoting correctly when I say that in the total the increase of cost of the gentleman's House Bill No. 868 which is substantially the same in these features as the present bill, would have cost the fund over and above what it already did cost, in 1938 the sum of seventy-two million dollars?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. In 1939, fifty-two million dollars?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. And in 1940, thirty-seven million dollars?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I believe those figures are right. I am just wondering if that was in addition to what was spent or in total.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, that would have to be in addition.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Because I remember in 1937 the collections were seventy-five million dollars and we could hardly spend all of that.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, in 1938 we paid out more than the contributions of the employers amounted to.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker. I think the actuary was so far off he could have spent twice as much for liberalizing, and I think the figures are right. My impression was that they would be total amounts rather than additionals.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. It couldn't be, Mr. Speaker, the amount was less.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Well, then, Mr. Speaker, I am not certain about it; the gentleman is probably right.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. And then, Mr. Speaker, that shows that during those three years we would have spent an additional one hundred fifty million dollars out of the fund, and that does not include the partial payment plan which the gentleman has in his bill.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have any figures to show what the drain on the fund would be as a result of this partial plan?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I do not have them here, I am sorry, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Did the gentleman get the figures from some other source, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. As a matter, Mr. Speaker, I did make a request of the Department to furnish the figures, but they were not able to furnish them to me. I am not sure I have those figures.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman get the figures from any other State or authority that has compensation?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I did have figures at one time, Mr. Speaker, that the impact on the fund would not be terrific. What they are now I do not know. I would be happy to submit them to the gentleman on Monday.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I have some figures which I will give later. This day plan that the gentleman has in his bill and which we have been discussing, is a partial plan. Does the gentleman know whether that is in effect in any other State or territory?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I do not believe it is, Mr. Speaker. I think it is an improvement over what is used elsewhere but I do not believe it is in effect in any other State or territory. As a matter of fact they tell me over at the Bureau that the effective day plan as outlined in this bill would be the simplest possible formula that could be used to apply a partial plan system.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I am inclined to think, Mr. Speaker, it would be the simplest in a different meaning of the word. I would like to ask the gentleman a question under this partial plan, for my own information. Is it possible under that plan that a man can work four days a week every week in the year and in addition to receiving his weekly wage, receive because of that additional day that he did not work, ten additional weeks from the Unemployment Compensation Fund?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. No, Mr. Speaker. To receive compensation eligibility a person must accumulate five effective days, and five effective days does not count unless he has less than three total days of employment. So it would be utterly impossible for anybody to work more than three days and still have compensation.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. My question, Mr. Speaker, was that a man worked four days.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman then is using seven days a week?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. No, Mr. Speaker, I said a man working four days a week could get one effective day for unemployment compensation.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman wants to take four from seven, yes, but that is not the intent of the act.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. It is the result of the act, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, it could be stretched to mean that.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. That is not stretching, Mr. Speaker. Under that act a man could still have one effective day, which would result in eligibility for ten additional weeks in the year of unemployment compensation.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Except, Mr. Speaker, that he limited it in the whole as the amount of compensation which he can receive.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. I have one last question to ask the gentleman, if he will. Will the gentleman admit that if Senate Bill 80 had not been dropped in the last session, that the employes in the state of Pennsylvania would have received in the past year, unemployment compensation in an amount estimated to be from seven to ten million dollars?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I will admit that, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will admit that I did not drop it, and the Senate did.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I cannot admit that, Mr. Speaker. We voted non-concurrence here.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Neither can I, Mr. Speaker. It was shot there, was buried here.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. That is all, Mr. Speaker. To pick up where the interrogation left off, I might say,—

The SPEAKER. Was that interrogation?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I was in doubt myself, Mr.

Speaker, sometimes along there. I would like to say that the answer I received last is certainly an evasion of the facts. The House could just as well have gained the provisions of Senate Bill 80 rather than get nothing if they had been so disposed. I say it was a result of their attitude of not being willing to take half a loaf rather than none that produced the result that the people of this State lost an estimated eight to ten million dollars during the last year.

I want to go on just a little further in that same illustration, Mr. Speaker. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, referred to the day three weeks ago when the Governor was in here and said that the Republican party had made efforts to liberalize unemployment compensation in the regular session. I recall that that was met by some whistles and jeers on the other side. The statement is undoubtedly correct, and makes me wonder if those who jeered and who whistled realize that we could at least have had the benefits of Senate Bill 80 without throwing the entire program out the window.

We made an effort then to liberalize unemployment compensation, and we are making a further effort this year to do so. This bill demonstrates by including most of Senate Bill 80 that they could have been wrong.

In discussing this question of unemployment compensation, the amendments fell into one of three groups. Either they are the clauses that make our laws conform to the Federal requirements and the Social Security Law. These are unopposed and are non-controversial. There is a second series of clauses that are non-controversial and in clarification of the law. Nobody on either side of the House could oppose any of those provisions.

Certainly the features of those two classes should have passed the Legislature last year whether we passed the controversial features or not. Certainly we feel that they should be passed at this time regardless of what happens to the controversial features.

In regard to the controversial features, when you attempt to liberalize any plan, it is my feeling that you must compare it with other plans, and when you make that comparison let us look at the entire plan, not isolated features of it. I am willing to state that this bill meets my entire approval as to the conformative clauses and in regard to the non-controversial clarification and defense. However, it is not good in its controversial features, and I lay particular stress on this partial payment or the five day cumulative week. The gentleman from Philadelphia has admitteтd that according to his own information the drain on the Unemployment Compensation Fund over the period of 1938, 1939 and 1940 amounted to one hundred fifty million dollars.

According to information I can get as regards this additional factor of the five day partial plan there will be a drain, an estimated figure running from eighty to one hundred million dollars a year. In other words, if this feature was adopted along with all the other legislation we would wipe out the entire fund in one year.

They have partial plans in other states, but, in every one of them if you will examine the records you will find that there is some other feature made to offset that feature of partial payment. In thirty-nine out of the forty-eight states that have the partial payments they have a merit system which stabilizes employment and helps to make up this lack in this partial payment plan. Out of those thirty-nine states, most of them have raised the minimum requirements, so that almost everybody would be excluded who would be included in this act. In some instances they must have earned fifty-two times their minimum weekly compensation rate, in other words they must have earned three hundred dollars in other states. Ours is down to one hundred dollars.

In every case there is some compensating factor to wipe out the differences between them and this partial payment plan.

In that connection I think that there should be a partial payment plan in Pennsylvania. I am not opposing it just because it is a partial payment plan, but I say there is not sufficient background to put into this bill to prevent it from being a drain which would ruin the fund completely.

This Unemployment Compensation Fund is large, two hundred thirty million dollars, but the Members of the Legislature are trustees of this fund for the benefit of the workers of this state. We all would like to be liberal and take care of everybody that comes under it, but we dare not take a chance of making provisions that are such that the worker in the future, who may in two or three years find themselves out of a job and apply to the fund for compensation and find that the cupboard is bare. We cannot let that happen, and any question of doubt must be resolved in favor of those who in the future will have need of it; we must not disturb it without rhyme or reason for anyone who happens to have use for it. We all have some use for it.

This feature alone in my opinion is so destructive to the fund that it offsets all of the good features, and if this bill were up now for final enactment I would be compelled by my conscience to vote "no" on it in order to protect the future. However, we all know that this bill is going into conference; we are not guessing that it will go into conference, because in the Senate it is up for final passage now. So therefore I say that I am going to vote in the affirmative, and I am going to ask every other Member on this side of the House to vote in the affirmative, but only on the condition that this record shows that by this affirmative vote we are not approving the plan in its present form.

The partial payment plan, as I say, is so serious that it would destroy the entire fund, and we only are voting in the affirmative on this side in order to move this along on the path of legislation so that we can finally arrive at a safe and sound liberalization which will at the same time protect the future workers.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I shall, Mr. Speaker. May I give answers like the gentleman did, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell me if he has read the Senate version which is being acted upon today; what the minimum and what the maximum payments will be under the Senate Bill?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I can give my recollection of those, Mr. Speaker. I will say to the gentleman, that I studiously avoided referring to the two bills in order not to confuse the present one, and if the gentleman intends later to state what they are, I would rather have him do that.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I do not know what they are, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. In my recollection, Mr. Speaker, the minimum is increased from seven dollars and fifty cents to eight dollars, the maximum is not changed, but the period is extended to eighteen weeks, and the waiting period is cut down to one week.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. That is enough, Mr. Speaker. I wish to thank the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose.

Mr. Speaker, I quite agree with Mr. Rose that if this liberalization of payments were to wreck the fund, we should not pass the bill and I would be the last one to propose that we do pass any bill that would wreck the fund. I think this fund is very important to us for very selfish reasons, because some of us may desire to return at some future session, and should there be another recession economically a terrific load would be cast on the State for the purpose of providing funds to pay for relief again.

I always like to feel that we should not have to do this in a week, but we should have sufficient time to take up the slack and give us a chance to move around to evolve and pass a proper and a fair tax program. I am satisfied that this will not wreck the fund. I am sorry I do not have my file with me, but I did not think there was going to be any debate on the subject today. May I point out, however, that the Governor said once he wanted a liberalization; he said twice he wanted liberalization. I don't know if the Members on the other side of the House really know what the Governor wants, because if he means by liberalization one half dollar increase in the minimum, with the addition of a few more weeks, then the Governor is giving us the same old gold brick that he tried to palm off at the last Session.

Liberalization means liberalization of the law to the extent it can be liberalized under present conditions. After all we passed this act originally in 1936. At that time the minimum payment was seven dollars a week and the maximum payment fifteen dollars. Almost six years and a half ago, that may have been a minimum amount of money for someone to live on temporarily. Everyone must admit that the price of cost of food, clothing and everything else which a person is required to have has gone up considerably during that time, to the extent of possibly twenty-five percent or more higher than it was in 1936 when we passed the act originally. So that to give someone an additional two dollars and a half of a minimum and an additional five dollars of a maximum is certainly not being so liberal with the needs of the people that we have to worry about it and have to wonder whether our consciences can stand the shock of so meeting the needs of the people.

After all, we are trustees of the people's money. I think any person who is the recipient of a trust fund has a right to come to the court or come to this Legislature and say, "I need more money to live on." I read in the papers a short time ago about an heiress in New York who was receiving the sum of fifty thousand dollas a year and who was going to petition the court for seventy-five thousand dollas in order that she might properly live. It seems to me that the people should have the right to come to the Legislature, if not to the courts, for an additional two dollars and fifty cents a week or five dollars a week. I do not think we are being very liberal. I had my personal feeling on the matter as to what to do, but after a discussion with various members on my side of the House, I came to a figure which I thought reflected a fairly level basis of opinion.

When the gentleman from Cambria talks about clarification and simplification, he is not talking about liberalization. You cannot buy groceries with clarification, and if you try it the answer would be simple; it is simplification in itself. You cannot pay for it with clarification; you have to pay for it with liberalized payments. We want to get a little more money in the hands of people who unfortunately must have it if they are thrown out of work. In these days in a good many of our industries no one knows how long his job is going to last.

The gentleman talked abut the merit system. Whether or not the merit system is in effect in many of our states and may be working, I don't know, but I do know in those states where it is working that the industrial and economic complexities are not in any degree near what they are in Pennsylvania. There is no such diversification of industry; there is no such diversification of commerce. My own personal feeling is that the merit rating will come in the future, but that the plan requires some further time for proper study and an ample study to make it an equitable and fair rating system. We do provide in the bill that the Bureau shall have the duty of studying the merit system. Today if we were to put in effect a merit system plan, the effect would be that industry would be a house divided, Your great industries on the one hand, your utilities, your insurance companies and banks would be yelling for some sort of a rating system because their employment is stable, while on the other hand the construction industry and coal mining industry would not want a merit rating system because normally their employment is not stable.

I think we can get to it some day but right now the partial payment plan is workable. You members of the House will recall the fight and battle we had in the House and Senate last year for a bill. You remember we got nowhere. The House and Senate closed up shop and went home. A few days later there appeared charges, sensational charges, in the Evening Bulletin in Philadelphia to the effect that the unemployment compensation fund had been defrauded of millions of dollars. These charges were contained in a letter sent by the Deputy Attorney General in charge of the legal affairs in connection with the distribution of that fund. This letter was written to his superior and copies of the letter were sent to Mr. Hines and to the Governor's Office. The letter complained that there were millions of dollars stolen by fraudulent claimants, employes in Pennsylvania. His letter was dated April 1st while we were still in session, and not a word to this Legislature about preparing a sufficiently accurate bill or law. The Joint State Government Commission decided it was going to look into the matter and see if it could not make some sort of a suggestion for an accurate law. I said then I did not think they should tell us that this must be the law, that if I were a member of the commission I would not have the effrontery to do so and say what we found to be so must be so. We conducted an investigation. We had numerous hearings in Harrisburg; we listened to experts from all sides; we listened to the large industries; we listened to small industries; we listened to the executive director—ex and also listened to the executive director—present. We listened to the federal authorities, several employes in the acturial department. We were getting along very nicely except that every once in a while somebody called somebody else something that related to the personal problem.

During all that battling I was worried about one thing, "Could we cure that fraud?" That was the primary purpose of our investigation. Then came Singapore, and the Governor stood on the rostrum here and said, "Singapore is here." The Joint State Government Commission, now being in session decided they wouldn't continue any hearings, at least not for the present.

One thing we developed was that this gigantic fraud, this so called fraud, eighty percent of it might not have occurred if the partial payment plan had been in effect in Pennsylvania.

The department supplied the figure of approximately eighteen thousand cases in this so called fraud, and we discovered that about thirteen thousand of those cases of so called fraud were committed by a claimant or by a person who had only partial employment. When a man loses his job he at least gets unemployment compensation, he gets fifteen dollars a week, but if he gets a job the next day for only one day, for three dollars or for four dollars or for five dollars, or whatever he might receive, he then loses that fifteen dollars a week. It was therefore natural for a lot of them to think and to get the idea, because of lack of prosecution, when they needed the money, they would borrow if from the State, and if they got caught they could make restitution voluntarily when they took them to court. It was only natural for these people, when they felt desperate and had to get money which they thought belonged to them, to come to the State and borrow the money. This has been always referred to as a so called fraud, but I think that is a misnomer, because I do not think anyone would willingly, intentionally and maliciously steal money from the State. They were poor people and because they were compelled by economic necessity, they did as they did, and they did so because if they got a job for five dollars they would lose fifteen dollars, not through any fault of their own. Now they come not to the courts but to the Legislature for relief. They felt if they could get a job for a day or two, maybe their employer would like their work, and might give a steady job to him. Maybe lots of times the employers could not get any other fellow to do this work at five dollars a day. So these men would take the five dollars a day and in addition would get their unemployment compensation money. This is insurance money, it is not a charity fund, and if we had that plan really it would be impossible for millions of dollars to be stolen from the State.

This was quite a large statement to make. In the first case there was no prosecution of employers who did not do things they were supposed to do under the law. There was some prosecution but not very much. We intend to do some things at the next regular session. We intend to do some things that will probably place a burden on the worker, and also some thing which will probably place a burden on the employer, in order to eliminate fraud entirely. In this connection let me state that under the partial payment plan the increasing of the benefits from ten to twenty dollars is a good lift but it should be more.

Let us take a case which happened a short time ago. There was an automobile salesman who was making fifty dollars a week. He lost his job. He was still able to sell cars but could get no cars to sell. He comes in under the unemployment compensation plan and gets fifteen dollars a week. He had been living fairly decently with his former salary of fifty dollars a week, and was forced upon losing his job to try to make both ends meet on fifteen dollars a week. If you gentlemen think it is easy to do so, just try it. This man naturally thought by waiting on a table in a restaurant or by tending bar or doing some janitor work or any other kind of decent work, he might be able to get a little more money and in that way live somewhat like he had been accustomed to live when he was making fifty dollars a week. That is what I am trying to drive at. We can stop fraud. But I hope I do not get the answer I got last year in a conference committee. After two weeks of wrangling with one of the Senate members, I finally said, "Can't we get anywhere on this thing?" One of my brother members on the committee looked up at me with his clear blue eyes and said, "Rube, you are too social minded." I hope that is not the attitude here today because in our study and in our investigation in the Joint State Government Commission, everyone agreed that the question of unemployment compensation should not become political because anyone who uses politics in the unemployment compensation problem eventually will tie the noose around his own neck. I was trying to find something out about the fraud and it was almost the unanimous opinion and there was no denial that if we had a partial payment plan, we would have less fraud by a considerable degree. That is the reason I am saying I am so stuck on the partial payment plan.

I have not dwelt upon any of the points involved in the merit system but I do think we should study it and wait until we have a proper experience in Pennsylvania. I think that no one should apologize for voting for this bill. I think it should be sent over to the Senate and possibly the lightning might strike them and they will listen to reason. They might pass the bill, at least I hope so.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I recognize that we are a little off the subject, but I would like to come back for just a moment and point out that a hasty examination of the Senate Bill discloses that I did not give all the liberalization features and that there are others that neither of us have mentioned. However, my hope is to close my side of this debate with this statement; I have been given to understand since noon today that the gentleman from Philadelphia has indicated a willingness to sit down with Members on this side of the house and go over the matters and see what we can work out by way of liberalization and compromise if necessary.

Unemployment Compensation certainly, as I have said, should not be partisan, and the offer of the gentleman is an indication that he agrees. I say, therefore, if we can maintain our differences of opinion without getting into partisanship over them, which we may very well do, that through him and through other members on this side of the House we may reach a new plan without partisanship. I certainly pledge my efforts, all out to that end.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's statement, from what I get, he is against the act, but he is going to vote for the act, and the reason he gives is that it will be financially impossible to carry out the provisions of the act. Is that true?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman went back and forth a couple of times in his statement. I will summarize it by saying that I feel that this one feature in its present form would be ruinous, but nevertheless I am going to vote to move it along in its legislative path hoping that the combined study and combined efforts on both sides will enable us to reach a better plan.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman seems to say, though, that it will be ruinous to the fund.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Oh no, Mr. Speaker, I say this plan would be ruinous to the fund on the basis of estimates which I can get on the effect of draining the fund. I have one idea in mind now that might be a solution that I hope will be a solution, but this is not the time to present it.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman conversant with the railroad unemployment act?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Conversant, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TARR. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that most of the members know of the fact that the unemployment act which is now federal and which has been since 1937, pays partial payments, and the benefits are much higher than those proposed in this case. They are much more liberal. We know that out of a fourteen day period they consider a ten day work period, and if a man works nine days, he can get unemployment compensation for one day. That fund is not only solvent but it is healthy after four years. How can the gentleman reconcile that fact with the federal fund that operates in forty-eight states.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, in reply to that question I would say that I believe the statements of the gentleman are correct that it is more liberal, but there is a tremendous difference between a railroad unemployment act covering only one industry, controlled by experts who have made studies and who have been working this thing out slowly to a point where they now have some degree of perfection and our situation. That degree of perfection is something we are striving for and we are nowhere near it. We are dealing with all types of industry, with no control of one industry over another industry. I say we can reach that point, but not in one fell swoop.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is from an industrial county and he is undoubtedly acquainted with the fraud charges that were made last year. Does the gentleman not think that if we were to pass this bill in its present form it would eliminate almost one hundred percent of these fraud cases?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I will not go so far as to say one hundred percent. It is not the only way that it can be done. Any partial payment plan will eliminate a large percentage of them, but I think other plans can be worked out that will not wipe out the fund as I believe this one will.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, there has been much debate on the question and I am just going to close by saying that I believe it is a good bill. I believe that the authors of the bill have spent much time and study on it. I believe that it will correct the evils that now exist. I sincerely believe and sincerely hope that when the bill reaches the Senate it will be given as much consideration and as much time as has been given it by the authors. We of the industrial sections in the State need an unemployment compensation law which will solve the problem, and after all these years I believe I can safely say that on the Democratic side we are going to vote for the bill, not because it is election year or not because of other things, but because we are sincerely convinced and we believe this is the best bill for Pennsylvania.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1

McKinney,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

In the Senate, March 11, 1942.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That in the event the General Assembly shall recess at any time during the present special session for a period of more than one week, the respective Houses shall take appropriate action to discharge all per diem employes during such weeks as the General Assembly shall not be sitting, except such per diem employes as at the adjournment of this special session would be transferred to the regular payroll of the Commonwealth.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, commenting on the resolution that was just read, that has been adopted by the Senate, may I state that I am convinced that it is a bit of window dressing or perhaps some shadow boxing.

I learned that the Senate was about to consider this particular resolution, and I was in conference with some of the Senate leaders and inquired of them their reason, or their desire to pass such a resolution at this time. I contend that if we had decided or if we do decide to recess that necessarily it would be satisfactory, but I was desirious of learning why at the present moment they wish to consider or pass such a resolution, and I then learned that they were writing policy. Can you imagine, Mr. Speaker, writing policy? Certainly we have never thought of operating this House or the Legislature with excessive expenditures, and if we are to recess we certainly do not intend to burden the Commonwealth with unnecessary expenditures. Such a policy as they endeavor to write, the people of the Commonwealth have a right to assume that we are conducting ourselves in accordance with, but Mr. Speaker, I say if the Senate does wish to write a policy, then let them write a policy of work; let them write a policy by which they decide we have a job to do here and let us get down to work and do it.

Many of the subjects included in the Governor's special call are receiving attention and action. One subject alone will perhaps retain us for some length of time, that is the first subject included in paragraph one of the supplemental call. That is the subject relating to the suspension or the modification of certain laws of this Commonwealth that may prove a hindrance or an interference with the war efforts.

The Governor, I am assuming,—I have every right to assume—tried to pick out only the subjects he felt needed the immediate attention of the legislature, and here is a subject that certainly does need attention. It needs our studied attention, and the Governor made his call sufficiently broad that the legislature was not interefered with or hampered in its approach to the problem.

Very true, the Governor has his own ideas as to how the subjects should be approached. He felt that it should be handled by a special body, the State Council of Defense, who after hearings on the various laws would recommend to him the suspension or the modification of particular statutes.

Now, that was his theory of approaching the problem, but it did not mean for one long second that was the only method in which you could approach the problem. You could do your own studying if you wished. You could approach the problem as you saw fit, that is, as the Legislature saw fit.

It is regrettable of course, Mr. Speaker, we were not furnished with a list of the laws right up to the present time, because of the importance of which we were finding difficulty in the prosecution of our war efforts. It would have been much better had we received that at the beginning.

What has the Senate done in relation to that particular problem? The Governor's thoughts were expressed, I believe, in Senate Bill 14 introduced by Senator Homsher. I inquired of these same Senate leaders "How are you going to approach that problem, or are you going to run away from it, because I am serving notice on you that this House will not run away from its problems. We have been called here by the Governor to consider serious problems and we propose considering every one of them before we leave, or before we recess." The people of Pennsylvania have every right to expect that we are going to give attention to those problems, but we are not going to put out feelers to see what they think without studing and without endeavoring or attacking the problems.

We know what will follow immediately after the adoption of this resolution; it will be followed by a recess resolution. The Senate if it wishes may run away from the problem, but this House proposes to stay and to act on the problems.

I asked these Senate leaders "What is going to happen to Senate Bill 14?" And in their language they told me it was a dead duck. In other words they mean it will never see the light of day, and I do not mean to say, Mr. Speaker, that I am here championing or espousing Senate Bill 14. On the contrary I am opposing it, but that does not mean, Mr. Speaker, that because I am opposing Senate Bill 14 I do not believe that the Governor did not lay before us important subjects, particularly paragraph 1 of his supplemental call.

I am convinced that there is a real need for legislation on that subject, and I am also convinced that the House and Senate should act and should determine what is needed.

If the Senate, Mr. Speaker, had spent more time at working and less at wondering when, where and how they were going to quit, we would be farther on our way toward accomplishing what is needed in this state.

Then, Mr. Speaker, since of course from the beginning I was opposed to the measure that was proposed by Senator Homsher, and because I have not received any intimation as to what particular laws might need change or modification, and since nothing was forthcoming from the Governor's office to further elaborate or throw light upon this particular message, I felt that it was essential and necessary that we do ascertain what laws needed modification or suspension. To that end, Mr. Speaker, I wrote to the Secretaries of the various Departments as well as the Commissions that administer our laws.

Mr. Speaker, this entire discourse may take some time, but I do feel that the Members of this House have every right to the information which I possess. They have every right to know what the departments have to say on the subject, because, Mr. Speaker, we are not going to recess at this time. We are going to perform our duty, we are going to proceed to legislate where legislation is needed under the call.

This, Mr. Speaker, is the letter I referred to:

> "The Governor, in his supplemental proclamation convening the extraordinary session of the General Assembly, included among other subjects "Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become engaged.
> "I am writing for the purpose of ascertaining from you what laws pertaining to your department, or what laws administered by your department, in your opinion, need modification or suspension. Where modification is necessary I would appreciate your indicating to what extent the said law should be modified.
> "Due to the fact that it is our intention to expedite this legislative session your prompt attention will be greately appreciated."

May I say, Mr. Speaker, that all of my letters were answered with the exception of one, and the particular department that did not reply I am convinced from my knowledge of it very likely has no law that it administers that is in any manner interfering with the successful prosecution of the war, and I presume that is the reason I received no answer in that instance.

I do wish, however, Mr. Speaker, to read into the record the replies from the various departments, for it will throw light on the subjects which we must consider. True, we may not agree with the Department heads after we have considered them, and may refuse to modify or suspend, but at least, Mr. Speaker, we should take positive action; we should not run away. We should stay here and complete our job. We can say "no" where we feel "no" is the answer, and where the answer is "yes", we should use our judgment and modify or suspend according to the dictates of that judgment, but I repeat, Mr. Speaker, we should not run away, we should not engage in window dressing and shadow boxing. We should have courage at this time. The Governor has requested courage; I think he has shown courage in his call, and we should meet it with the same kind of courage.

In relation to the letters, the first was from the Department of Justice and is to this effect:

> "In view of the Attorney General's absence from the office because of illness, I am replying to your letter to him of February 25, 1942, in which you request a list of the laws pertaining to, or administered by this department which need modification or suspension, in view of the present war emergency.
> "In view of the fact that this department is charged with the legal work of the Commonwealth there are few laws which are directly administered by it. I am unaware of any present need for modification or suspension of such laws.
> "On the other hand this department is fully aware of the fact that there are many laws administered by the other departments, boards and commissions of the State government which may need modification or suspension during the present war. Before the current session of the General Assembly convened, Attorney General Reno endeavored to ascertain from the various departments, boards and commissions, just what laws administered by such agencies required suspension or modification. It soon became apparent that it was impossible to foretell just which laws might need such suspension or modification in view of the war effort. Experience up to that time had revealed that the need for suspension or modification was developing day by day.
> "Accordingly, it became apparent that it would be possible to submit to the Special Session of the Legislature a few bills calling for suspension or modification of certain laws but that such a procedure would be far from adequate to meet the ever present emergency, in view of the fact that the need for suspension or modification of of other laws would consantly occur from day to day.
> "Under these circumstances it was determined that the most adequate way to meet the entire situation would be for the Legislature to authorize the State Council of Defense and the Governor to suspend or modify any law which might hinder, impede, delay or interfere with the successful prosecution of the war by the Government of the United States. It was felt that this authority was absolutely essential in order to enable this Commonwealth to meet any emergency which might arise until the General Assembly convened in 1943. This plan is now embodied in Senate Bill No. 14."
> Very truly yours,
> (S) "E. RUSSELL SHOCKLEY,"
> Deputy Attorney General.

May I state that I regret that in his letter he did not see fit to disclose to me those acts which they have already learned need modification. However, I have written requesting such information and asking for a report of the study of the Attorney General insofar as it was developed.

Then from the Auditor General:

> "In reply to your letter of February 25, 1942, in which you ask if, in my opinion, certain laws pertaining to this Department should be modified or suspended, there is no change that I would wish to suggest at this time.

"Thanking you for your kind interest in this matter."

(S) "F. CLAIR ROSS"

From the Department of Commerce:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of February 25th inquiring what laws pertaining to the Department of Commerce, or what laws administered by this Department, need modification or suspension.

"At the present time, there does not appear to be any laws which need modification or suspension."

(S) "MARK S. JAMES"

From the Department of Labor and Industry, and Mr. Speaker, this is very interesting:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of February 25 in which you inquire what laws pertaining to our department, or, what laws administered by our Department, in our opinion, need modification or suspension inasmuch as the Governor, in his supplemental proclamation convening the session of the General Assembly, included among other subjects 'Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged.'

"I have no recommendations to make along this line as none of the laws administered by this department, in my opinion, need modification or suspension at this time."

(S) "LEWIS G. HINES"

Mr. Speaker, he has been modifying and suspending for some time, I think on the basis of an opinion given to him by the Attorney General, an opinion with which perhaps not too many attorneys would be in accord. I am not criticizing, for instance, the women's forty hour law. Certainly essential work in defense industry has been increased to forty-eight hours, and he should have suspended or modified it or however you approach it. If it was needed, it was proper, but certainly this House should take time out to see that things are done within the conformity of the act and the law. I do believe that we were entitled to a fairer statement than the one I received in this matter, because I know of other problems that are facing his Department now needing modification or suspension of the law. He unfortunately says he knows of none.

From Military Affairs:

"This is to acknowledge with thanks your letter of February 25th."

"At this precise moment I know of no laws pertaining to the Department of Military Affairs, or laws administered by the Department of Military Affairs which need modification or suspension in connection with the successful prosecution of the war."

"However, with the Nation at war and with the enemy bringing the conflict to our very shores I am unable to say how long the situation described in the paragraph above may obtain. It is altogether possible that at a moment's notice the necessity for such modification or suspension might arise."

"Therefore, I respectfully urge your serious consideration of the Governor's proposal with the view to meeting unforseen emergencies which may arise at any moment in the future."

Very sincerely,

(S) "R. M. VAIL,"
Acting Adjutant General.

From the Pennsylvania Motor Police, and this is interesting.

"This is in answer to your letter of the twenty-fifth concerning proposed legislation."

"While I can visualize possible situations that could occur during Wartime that might make it expedient to temporarily suspend or alter the condition of laws and regulations, I can not at this time think of any special case."

Department of Public Assistance.

"In reply to your inquiry of February 25, I do not know of any laws affecting the Department of Public Assistance, or any parts of the Assistance Law itself, that currently need modification or suspension because of the prosecution of the war."

"It is impossible, of course, to predict what particular phase of our activity might subsequently be in conflict with essentials of the war program. It would appear extremely sensible to me that some provision be made whereby any legislative requirements binding on this Department could be modified or suspended if subsequently found to be in direct conflict with the successful prosecution of essential war activity."

You will note all these letters from the Department heads say in affect "Oh, we agree with the Governor."

From the Liquor Control Board:

"Your letter of February 25 is at hand, asking what laws pertaining to the Liquor Control Board need modification or suspension insofar as the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged is concerned."

"We know of no present necessity for any changes in these laws. We cannot, of course, forsee the future."

From the Department of Health.

"I have before me your communication of February 25th, making inquiry relative to any "Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged."

"After a careful survey of the laws now on our statute books and the Advisory Health Board Rules and Regulations governing the administration of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health, I have arrived at the conclusion that we need no suspension or modification of existing laws and that the bassic law creating the Pennsylvania State Department of Health gives the Department broad powers and same were effectively carried out during the last World War. Of course, we cannot foresee all emergencies which may arise in the near future. However, I am willing to stand on the present Legislation governing this Department."

And then a group of letters, Mr. Speaker, that are in the category where they try to visualize what might happen, and after all saying in effect, "We see no need of changes at the present time."

From the Department of Banking.

"I have your letter of February 25, 1942, in which you request my opinion as to the law or laws administered by this Department which might require modification or suspension during the war emergency."

"As of today, I know of no laws administered by the Banking Department which need modification or suspension, but because of the rapidly changing circumstances it is difficult to predict what relief will become necessary from time to time."

Some difficulties which may arise are as follows:

1. The Department of Banking is now required under various laws to examine banking institutions, building and loan associations, small loan companies and credit unions at least once in each year. Because of war service and other possible shortage of manpower, sufficient personnel to make examinations in accordance with the laws may be unavailable. It might therefore become necessary to establish longer intervals between examinations until personnel is again obtainable."

2. Banking institutions and building and loan associations must operate under carefully proscribed laws in making mortgage loans. Under some circumstances in defense areas it might become necessary to modify some of the existing restrictions in order to facilitate the erection of vitally needed defense homes or plants. Such a possibility does not seem real at this time but it is a possibility.

3. Loans to one person or one corporation may not exceed 10% of the unimpaired capital and surplus of the banking institution (except an additional 15% may be loaned if such additional 15% is secured by collateral having a value at least 20% more than the liability so secured). Loans to directors, officers or employes are limited to $1,000.00 except that additional amounts may be loaned if secured by readily marketable collateral of at least 120% of the excess loan. Although there is no indication of the necessity of modifying these provisions at this time, the necessity of financing defense or war activities may make such modification advisable or necessary in the future.

4. The legal reserves which banking institutions are reguired to maintain might have to be modified so that more funds may be invested in government securities, should the need arise.

5. The establishment of branches by banking institutions is now carefully controlled by law. It might be necessary to modify limitations upon location of branches insofar as banking services might become necessary temporarily in defense or related war activity areas.

6. Existing law severely restricts and in most cases prohibits the disclosure of information in the files of the Department of Banking unless ordered to be disclosed by a subpoena of a court of record or under other sharply limited circumstances. It might be necessary in order to facilitate the activities of the various intelligence services and other investigating services of the government to make information available without subpoena."

"To summarize, there is, in my opinion, no immediate necessity for a modification of any of the above mentioned laws or any other laws pertaining to banking. However, it is impossible to foretell whether circumstance may arise in the near future which will make a modification of any of the aforesaid laws wise or necessary."

Then from the General State Authority

"In reply to your letter of February 25, 1942, requesting to know if any of the present laws under which The General State Authority is operating need modification due to the National Emergency, I might state that the powers granted to The General State Authority are quite broad, and, in my opinion, are sufficient."

"I will say, however, that certain regulations by other Departments, and whose approval we must receive for all plans and specifications before advertising for bids, are quite stringent and increase the cost of construction and also require materials which are practically impossible to secure at this time."

"I refer particularly to the regulations of the Department of Property and Supplies as to their Electrical Code. The General State Authority has always taken exception to these regulations. A number of prominent Engineers in the State have gone on record to this effect and if some way could be found that the standards of the Insurance Underwriters Association could be followed instead of the more expensive and elaborate standards of the Department of Property and Supplies, I am sure it would expedite or enable construction work to proceed which would possibly otherwise have to be deferred until after the passing of the present National Emergency."

From the Insurance Department

"Due to the absence from the City of Commissioner Taggart, I am acknowledging your letter of February 25, 1942. You will realize my ideas are my own and not those of the Commissioner with whom I have had no chance to consult."

"I doubt if our insurance laws will interfere with the prosecution of the law but already the restrictive conditions of a war time economy are interfering with our prosecution of the strict statutes and regulations which have seemed very reasonable during peace times."

"The insurance code includes very exact procedure by all those corporations and individuals supervised thereunder. Curtailment of materials, particularly paper, and the loss of the armed forces of trained personnel by insurers, by agents, by accounting firms which make reports for such insurers, and even, perhaps, by the Department itself may produce situations which will make it difficult or impossible for the Department to adhere strictly to our peace time law enforcement."

"I cite just one example: there are others and there will be many:

"The statute imposes a fine of $100 per day for annual statements filed after March 1st. One fraternal body which has always had its work done by an accounting firm advises us the report will not be ready by March 1st due to the personnel situation. You can imagine our position if we have to fine such fraternal bodies."

"You ask us to suggest 'to what extent the said law should be modified.' To modify the law might destroy it. Moreover, I know that Commissioner Taggart has endeavored to administer and not to legislate so I know he would prefer to accept and not to suggest legislation."

(S) RALPH H. ALEXANDER,
Deputy Insurance Commissioner.

Letter from the Milk Control Commission,

"Your letter of February 25 was received today. The Milk Control Commission fixes the price of milk to producers, to consumers and necessarily the handling margin of the milk dealers and thereby effects the interests of the largest farm industry of the State, the dairy farmers and some 4,000 milk distributors and their employes and upwards of 10,000,000 consumers in Pennsylvania."

"It is inevitable that the different activities of the Federal Government, particularly in relation to war measures, will affect the work of the Milk Control Commission through the activities of Federal agencies, particularly the Office of Price Control, the Office of Production Management and the Surplus Marketing Administration. The work of these branches of the Federal Government is just getting under way. In many cases it has not been developed sufficiently for us to be able to determine what complications may arise and what adjustments need to be made that would require "Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged."

"We wish to be in position to extend the fullest cooperation to the Federal Government in the carrying out of measures that will aid in the prosecution of the war."

From the State Treasurer,

"In reply to your letter of the 25th, may I state that at this itme I can not conceive of any statute relating to the administration of the Treasury Department that needs modification or suspension to the end that we may more efficiently prosecute the war that we are now engaged in."

"However, I feel that I should call your attention to the fact that no provision was made during the 1941 session of the General Assembly for the payment of dependent benefits under the Act of June 7, 1917, P. L. 600, as amended, other than from its general appropriations to the various departments. Because of the increasing number of such employes entering the armed forces of the United States, it seems to me that provision should be made for the payment of these benefits out of a separate appropriation, or from an additional appropriation to the Department of Military Affairs."

From the Department of Internal Affairs,

"In reply to your communication of February 25th permit me to say that in view of the present emergency and the uncertainty as to the future course of events, I am unable to tell you specifically what laws administered by this Department may be likely to impede the defense effort."

"The Bureau of Geological Survey, presently engaged in important research work relative to the production of Pennsylvania crude oil so badly needed for our war machine, the Bureau of Standard Weights and Measures, and the Bureau of Statistics, are the three Bureaus in this Department where we might reasonably expect to find some conflict between present laws and the speeding up of work that will accelerate the National Defense program."

From the Department of Forests and Waters,

"Reference is made to yours of February 25 and March 4, inquiring as to what laws administered by this department need suspension or modification. I understand, of course, that you refer only to such enforcement as interferes with the prosecution of the war."

"At the moment I have no recommendations to make with respect to specific laws. None appear to be obstacles in the path of the war effort as yet."

"However, the Water and Power Resources Board has found it necessary in some instances to relax in the enforcement of its rules and regulations with respect to stream encroachments and stream crossings, the modification consisting of permitting certain things to be done during the emergency, but with a condition attached to the permit requiring removal of physical structures and materials when the emergency ceases."

"Thus far only certain rules and regulations must be modified. However, with the increasing number of such cases I can forsee the almost certain possibility of the need for suspension or modification of the laws of this department."

"Having no knowledge of what new conditions may arise, it is quite impossible to predict now what law or laws may stand in the way of an all-out prosecution of the war.'"

"Unless the Legislature chooses to remain in session "for the duration," it would seem to be wise to create some such machinery as the Governor has suggested, to cope with emergencies as they arise."

"To my way of thinking, the objective is more important than the method. We have but one objective: To prosecute and win the war. If a law stands in the war of contributing to this objective surely the Legislature can clothe some agency with authority to clear the national highway of effort of that obstruction. Should we fail, Hitler will have proven to be right. He said "democracies cannot function in time. I conquer them while they debate and are under the yoke of inflexible laws."

However, I point out in his letter, they have apparently been able to operate without any difficulty.

The next group of letters, contain more concrete suggestions and indicate the problems that we will have to reach.

First from the Department of Agriculture:

Replying to your letter of February 25 regarding "Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged", I wish to state that I do not favor any change in the fundamental law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

As you well know, the Department of Agriculture is the enforcement agency for may laws enacted by the General Assembly. In several of the Bureaus of the Department of Agriculture, we already encounter difficulty because small businessmen cannot secure materials to enable them to comply with strict requirements of law.

I would favor sufficient modification of our regulations, to be controlled by some designated authority of the Legislature, specifying a limited time of effectiveness in particular cases, but only as a war measure.

Sincerely yours,

(S) "JOHN H. LIGHT,"
Secretary of Agriculture.

I have written to him asking the instance and the subject and once we are informed by the Secretary that subject can certainly be attacked.

From the Public Utility Commission:

I acknowledge receipt of your letter of February 25th, advising me that, "The Governor, in his supplemental proclamation convening the extraordinary session of the General Assembly, included among other subjects "Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become engaged," and inquiring as to what laws pertaining to this Commission, or what laws administered by this Commission need modification or suspension.

I would not care to state at this time any particular laws needing modification or suspension now, as it would be difficult to suggest to what extent they should be modified or suspended. I desire, however, to call to your specific attention certain specific matters which might cause us some concern in the near future.

1. The War Production Board has recently issued a circular designated L-31, relative to the use and extension of the use of natural gas and natural gas mixed with manufactured gas. This applies to all utilities in the State of Pennsylvania furnishing natural gas and natural gas mixed with artificial gas. Under the laws of the Commonwealth, this Commission is charged with the regulation of a great many of the matters set forth in Order L-31. I understand that an Order similar to Order L-31 has been prepared, but not released, relative to the extension of the use of telephones. The regulation of telephones is also a part of the duties with which this Commission is charged by law.

2. A Tire Rationing Board recently refused to issue a new tire to a trucker authorized to haul steel, unless he would agree to haul a return load from the point of destination to the locality from which he started. This he could not do, even though the hauling of the steel was important, as he had no return rights on his trucker's certificate. It is my understanding that under the law the regulation of truckers, the commodities hauled, etc., are within the jurisdiction of this Commission, and we could not modify a right granted without a hearing which would take some time.

3. Demands are being made by military authorities upon our truckers to immediately haul commodities for which they are not authorized by their certificates.

4. Should defense of our Country require longer runways at airports, or the construction of new airports, the immediate removal of high tension and other wires might be necessary, and we may not have jurisdiction to effectuate that purpose.

5. Demands already have occurred for bus service for the transportation of workers, occassioned by the inability of the workers to use their own cars for lack of tires, where no bus carriers operate whom we could order to render the service. As a consequence, our laws and regulations relative to the transportation of persons and property for hire might be thrown into some confusion.

6. Federal authorities have requested our assistance in investigating utilities outside of our Commonwealth, and we may not have the authority and jurisdiction to render such assistance, by reason of the fact that the investigations will be made for Federal purposes, rather than to regulate the affairs of any utility within the limits of Pennsylvania.

Very truly yours,

(S) JOHN SIGGINS, JR.,
Chairman.

From the Department of Revenue:

In answer to your letter of February 25, asking what laws pertaining to this department or what laws administered by this department, in my opinion, need modification or suspension in view of the war situation, I do not feel I can give you any comprehensive information along this line citing special laws. I would, in all likelihood, omit some subject which might become most important.

It seems to me the situations which might arise and directly affect this department would be brought about by blackouts and other precautions surrounding air raids or air raid alarms; priorities in ordering materials such as for motor license tags or supplements or substitutes therefor; regulations whch might further effect safety on the highways or protection from Fifth Column activities or sabotage. You will notice these suggestions cover the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and the Bureau of Highway Safety for the most part, but there may be unexpected conditions which would demand immediate change or suspension of laws having to do with these bureaus which I cannot now anticipate or which may demand modification or suspension of the laws affecting some of our other bureaus including the Bureau of Aeronautics, Bureau of Liquid Fuels Tax, Athletic Commission or any of the tax bureaus under our jurisdiction. Therefore, it would be impossible to itemize all the conditions which might present themselves on any of these subjects.

It is my opinion the safest procedure would be to allow the State Council of Defense some general authority by which it could promptly and effectively meet any set of circumstances or conditions which might suddenly arise. This would be in the best interests of National Defense and the protection of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, its citizens and their property.

Sincerely yours,

(S) WALTER J. KRESS,
Acting Secretary of Revenue.

From the Department of Mines:

Your letter of February 25, requesting to be informed with respect to any laws administered by this Department that may interfere with the prosecution of war efforts, and which should be modified or suspended, has been received.

No doubt, because of the war and the many restriction placed upon different materials, obstacles will be encountered by the mining industry that could easily be overcome provided legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws is enacted.

For example, the bituminous mining law requires the operator of a mine in which more than four workmen are employed to engage the services of a certified mine foreman. Because of this requirement, hundreds of small operators purposely keep their working force below five. If, during the duration of the war, this requirement could be modified to permit the operator of a mine employing as many as ten workmen to operate without the services of a certified mine foreman, it would provide jobs for many men in several hundred small mines throughout the bituminous region of Pennsylvania and, at the same time, substantially increase the production of coal. A law to correct this condition was introduced during the last session of the legislature. It passed the Senate but failed in the House.

Other laws, such as those requiring the certification of transportation employes, machine runners, electricians, etc. may become obstacles in the path of production. Men filling these positions are mostly in the draft age, and with the present laws standing rigidly in the way a serious situation is very apt to develop.

There is another law which limits to one the number of apprentices a certified miner may have working with him for the purpose of learning the business of mining. It also specifies that an apprentice shall have two years of mining experience before he is entitled to a miner's certificate. These and other such requirements will, I am sure, interfere with the production of coal during the present emergency.

We are passing through a period of our national history when men are constantly confronted by a choice between the deadly letter of the law or its life-giving spirit. In times such as these, with all the stress and strain of a great national emergency, the public welfare may be seriously affected in the absence of legislative action to protect the public interest in the complexities of modern industrial operations.

Our choice, during these times, should not be confined to the rigid enforcement of statutory rules that will work hardship in many cases. A flexible administration of legislative policies that can be far more effective and just should be permitted during this emergency.

Yours very truly,

(S) RICHARD MAIZE,
Secretary of Mines.

From the Department of Highways, and this is interesting because the subject I understood they were mostly interested in apparently was not considered of great importance by the Secretary, that is in relation to the mileage of trucks. He states:

In reply to your letter of February 25, 1942, asking us to indicate what laws administered by this Department need modification or suspension due to the present emergency, we respectfully call your attention to the fact that the Federal Authorities have already asked us to take certain steps which we could not take because of statutory provisions defining the powers vested in the Department of Highways.

The Department of Highways has been asked to vacate certain roads and highways within areas taken over for military or naval purposes and to close certain roads and streets in areas where industries were being constructed or operated to provide urgent needs for our Army and Navy. The military or naval authorities have also requested this Department to build or repair certain highways which are not on the State highway system under a plan for reimbursement and although all of these matters may require some additional legislation, it is further felt that no present statutory requirements should interfere with our desire to fully co-operate in the present war effort.

The highways and bridges of Pennsylvania are a vulnerable part of the facilities which are vital to our national defense. Invasion, bombings, or acts of sabotage may require that immediate action be taken to construct or rebuild highways and bridges. The movement of troops, supplies or implements of war may require immediate activity by this Department and although no one can foresee what the future may be, it is very seriously felt that the Department of Highways should not fail to meet an emergency because of laws which provide a mode of procedure which may prove costly and disastrous. Statutory requirements for advertising, purchase of materials, labor regulations, condemnation of property and other requirements, the effect of which cannot be foreseen at this time, may prove to be an aid to the enemy.

This Department does not favor the abandonment of laws which have been enacted to establish an adequate system of State Highways and to safeguard the expenditure of the Motor License Fund, but it does appear that the Legislature should take effective steps to authorize the temporary suspension of any law which interferes with an all-out effort for defense. We trust such a result will be achieved by the present special session.

Very truly yours,

(S) I. LAMONT HUGHES,
Secretary of Highways.

May I state that bills are being prepared to cover that instance.

From the Fish Commission:

This will acknowledge your letter of February 25th.

An Act of the Legislature passed at the last session prohibits all fishing in trout streams from 5 p. m. April 14th to 5 a. m. April 15, E. S. T., and I have written the Attorney General's Office asking for an opinion as to how we should interpret this with the War Time now in effect.

An Act of the Legislature passed in 1937 gives the Fish Commission authority to set up rules and regulations governing size, season and number. I talked the matter over with our representative in the Attorney General's Office, and if an emergency should arise requiring the closing of any body of water, I don't believe our present law would cover except to set it aside as a nursery area.

Sincerely yours,

(S) C. A. FRENCH,
Commissioner of Fisheries.

From the Game Commission:

In response to your inquiry of February 25, at the moment we know of only one problem which confronts the Game Commission that will interfere with the prosecution of the war because it involves the maintenance of public morale. The details of this problem have been laid before the Governor and the Department of Justice.

We are not certain that all the problems which may arise with reference to the functions of this Commission as related to the prosecution of the war can be visualized or anticipated at the moment, and if some machinery, for example such a plan as suggested by the Governor, could be set up to handle problems as they arise from time to time, it would be advantageous to all concerned.

If we can be of further assistance, please advise.

Cordially yours,

(S) SETH GORDON,
Executive Director.

With further reference to our letter to you of yesterday relative to suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of the war, please be advised that just this morning the representative of one of the largest steel trap manufacturing concerns in the country came to our office with another unforseen problem.

Under the provisions of the Game Law all traps or deadfalls used to catch fur-bearing animals and predators must be marked "with a metallic plate or tag" bearing in plain English the name and address of the owner. The concern in question has been manufacturing the required tags in large quantities for its own customers, as well as those of numerous other concerns. He now tells us that because of the war demands it seems impossible to obtain the required metal for tags, and that some non-metallic substitute must be used for the duration of the war.

Just how the problem can be adjusted we are unable to determine at the moment. We are bringing it to your attention merely as another example of the unforeseen questions which arise from day to day, and the need for delegating proper authority to some agency to handle them.

Cordially yours,

(S) SETH GORDON,
Executive Director.

From the Department of Welfare:

In reply to your letter of February 25 in which you request our opinion as to the need for Legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this Nation is, or may become, engaged," I would make the following suggestions:

Act No. 230, P. L. 1935 requiring that all hospitals having "100 beds or more receiving any appropriation from the State shall at all times have in attendance at such hospitals at least one licensed physician or resident interne who shall have graduated from an approved medical college or approved osteopathic college if such hospital be an osteopathic hospital," should, for the emergency, be modified to such an extent that no hospital receiving State aid be denied same because of its inability to meet the requirements of this act.

This is the only act of Assembly administered by this Department which affects our hospitals. However, in the amended medical practice act—Act No. 345, 1941—it is the opinion of this Department that certain provisions affecting our State-owned general and mental hospitals, as well as State-aided hospitals, should be relaxed in several ways:

1. Under the existing law only licensed physicians are permitted to sign death certificates. Occasion may arise where otherwise qualified medical school graduates who, because of the emergency have not been able to complete their interneship, would be the only ones who could make a death certificate.

2. I can visualize a situation in which the demands of certain hospitals could be met by the employment of medical school graduates who would neither have had the opportunity of taking the State Board examinations or of completing their interneship, by modification of the requirements of Act No. 345 or the setting aside of rulings by the State Board of Medical Licensure.

3. I would further suggest that reciprocity between the States regarding employment of physicians and/or nurses be given a wider latitude compatible with safety.

I trust the above suggestions may be helpful.

Very truly yours,

(S) E. ARTHUR SWEENY,
Secretary-of-Welfare.

From the Department of Property and Supplies:

In reply to your letter of February 25th, the following is our opinion regarding "* * * suspension of modification of our present laws that interfere in the prosecution of any war of which this Nation is or may become engaged."

We are daily encountering difficulty in securing bids, as well as deliveries of material, due to restrictions placed upon manufacturers, by the Federal government, due to the exigency in obtaining raw materials that enter into the manufacture of numerous products that we purchase, which are essential for the perpetuation of the present war.

In accordance with the present law, there are many instances in the lapse of time between the inquiry for bids and the awarding of contracts that material has been commandeered, and the contractor cannot be compelled to discharge his obligation. These conditions are daily developing into a serious situation, and unless some method of suspension or modification of existing laws be granted by the present Legislature, for the emergency period, we are apprehensive of the outcome of the State government's activities.

For your information and perusal, we quote from a letter received on February 19th from the War Production Board in Washington.

"It is suggested that State purchasing departments dispense with usual practice of asking for bids from suppliers for supplies for the institutions in the State.

"Rationing plans are now being made, and when complete, all users of sugar will be rationed, including State institutions."

We suggest only such deviation, from existing laws, as will eliminate interference in securing materials which are vitally and essentially necessary for the various Departments, Boards and Commissions, mental and health institutions, wherein life or death or the prosecution of crime and military activities or any other emergency are involved.

In view of the above, it is impossible for us to advise the exact manner in which the present laws should be modified, but we hope that the Legislature authorizes at this session a suspension or modification of existing laws which will permit us to secure materials promptly whenever we are confronted by problems of shortages.

We sincerely appreciate your request for our cooperation for the proposed Legislation, and hope that the above information will be of some assistance to you in your decision on same.

Sincerely yours,

(S) WALTER G. SCOTT,
Acting Secretary of Property and Supplies.

From the Department of Public Instruction:

This acknowledges your letter of February 25, 1942. At the present time it appears that the work of the Department of Public Instruction would be expedited by emergency legislation relating to the following topics:

1. General authorization to make temporary adjustments in length of school day, periods and number of days for schools to be in session, closing of schools in emergencies, promotion and graduation of pupils, payroll alterations under special plans of administration, assignment and reassignment of teachers, employment of noncitizens under certain conditions, standards and specifications of school buses, and liberalization of authority to grant farm and domestic work permits.

2. Authorization for examining boards to waive preliminary educational and training requirements when emergency conditions demand.

3. Authorization to make such state teachers colleges as may be desired available for trade, vocational and defense education.

4. Extend military service leave benefits of Act 282 of the 1941 session to cover employes who, because of transfer from one district to another, have served less than one year in the district when listed or inducted into service.

5. Adjust 1941 legislation regarding definition of rights and obligations of members of the School Employes' Retirement System who are State employes engaged in active military service.

6. Adjust 1941 legislation by providing for payment into the School Employes' Retirement Fund by the Commonwealth for State officers or employes who are members of the School Employes' Retirement System.

I am not sure that items four, five and six are included in the call of Governor James.

Sincerely yours,

(S) FRANCIS B. HAAS.

And now, Mr. Speaker, it to me is apparent from the reading of these letters that the membership of this House can ascertain with a reasonable degree of certainty laws that do need modification, and certainly we have no other duty than to proceed with our study, proceed to the introduction of measures that that study indicates should be introduced and the last thing we should be thinking of is recess.

After we have completed that work, then and only then need we think of a recess or an adjournment and the mechanics in relation to it. I repeat again, Mr. Speaker, that we do not propose running away from our problem; we propose staying here and doing the work, and we hope that the Senate will show the same spirit and activity.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Monroe has very properly consumed a considerable amount of time in placing before us the answers to these letters, and I would hesitate to take the time of the House now for any extended remarks, but I do feel that in justice to my colleagues on this side I should say something in pursuance to the remarks made by the gentleman from Monroe.

The gentleman from Monroe spoke of the action which this House will take, and his thought is in accord with the action of the Members on this side of the House at the caucus today, and the unanimous feeling and opinion of the Republican Members of this House is that we have no desire to run away from the job, that we believe immediate steps should be taken to develop, what has seemed to me since the beginning of the session, a program that should not be a partisan program on the part of the Republican Members of the House, but it should be a program on the part of both sides in this emergency.

I think if I have stood for anything in this House at least from the time I have been here, I have continually fought for economy in government, and in what opportunity I have had to demonstrate my sincerity in the matter I did effect economy, but I have never felt that the people of Pennsylvania measured legislative results entirely by the amount of dollars and cents that were spent on a legislative session, and while I know that the taxpayers, burdened as they are by the great war taxes that they are paying and will have to pay, want every relief they can get and they want every economy effected, I do not believe the taxpayers of Pennsylvania want us to quit and go home without having done the job as well as it is possible to be done. They would rather expend whatever is necessary than to have us short-change them by an unfinished or unintelligent approach to the problem.

Mr. Speaker, this question of emergency powers has agitated the legislature and the general public the last three weeks, since the legislature was convened. I have had some familiarity and some contact with the problem. I have seen it from the standpoint of other states. It is perfectly true that a large number of states have deemed it necessary to grant emergency powers to their Governors to suspend or revise laws, running all the way from general powers covering certain phases and activity in New Jersey to the whole gamut of practically all the subjects in Massachusetts, to a different approach to the problem in Rhode Island, where they have given emergency powers to the Governor with reference to health regulations and legislation in reference to the taking of property, and a great many other activities that may be necessary in the war emergency.

It has seemed to me as I have assimilated the subject that it is a subject which divides itself into two parts. The question of emergency powers pertains first to what you might call civilian protection. In New York state and several other states they are more concerned with emergency powers in the event of some catastrophe or the need of protection against some catastrophe which arises under what I call civilian protection. I am not so much concerned with that angle of it.

Our State Council of Defense has pretty wide powers. We have set up a lot of agencies to deal with emergencies, and if we were to have air raids or a series of them, or if we were to be actually invaded, the Governor already has the power under the Constitution, almost unlimited power in case of invasion or threat of invasion of our Commonwealth.

In the second place, our Army would more than likely take care of the situation and martial law would exist, and almost everything could be done that was necessary to be done in the protection of the people, so I have not been so much concerned with this problem as it concerns civilian protection.

I believe that inasmuch as we have investigated the situation, and certainly the replies of the Departments indicate that they too have not been able to conceive in a great many instances the things that may occur in the next few months, I have agreed with my colleagues in the Council of State Governments in their proposition that some place some emergency powers should be granted, but that it should be restricted to certain specific subjects, and then upon those subjects some broad powers should be given for suspension.

However, if my colleagues do not agree with me on that,—and I mean when I say my "colleagues" both in the Senate and in the House and on both sides,—if they should not agree with me, then the only thing I wish to say is that we should approach it from the standpoint which the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman has suggested today, in other words find out all the things which are deemed to be necessary to be revised or suspended, and deal with them specifically.

I am afraid, however, that sitting as we do now and knowing only the things as they arise, we are not seeing where the present laws restrict and where the rub comes, where the brakes should be put on the laws that now create bottlenecks or delays, where they may hamper this great question of national defense.

When I raised that question with some of the men from some of the other states, with which we are concerned here, that is, laws which pertain to the general activities, business, industrial and other activities of the people, they have simply taken the bull by the horns in those other states and suspended or revised the laws to suit themselves. In one instance by agreement on the part of the Governor and the legislative leaders feeling that it was all right to do it.

That of course is not a good precedent to set, and is not a proper way to operate a government. Therefore I think our way of approaching it is a far better way.

The gentleman from Monroe has forgotten another phase of this problem with which I have been much concerned. I might say when the gentleman from Monroe said there had not been study in certain quarters of some of these questions, that cannot be said of the Republican members, because almost the whole Republican group is divided into a number of committes that are studying the problem.

The result of one of the studies of those committees is evidenced, I think, by the remarks of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose, just made a short time since on the floor of this House. We have other committees that are studying these problems, and one of the most important groups is that dealing with problems of our counties, our townships, our boroughs and our cities.

In the conference which we had in New York a week ago, one of the difficulties I had with the men there discussing these problems was to get them to understand that there was a multiplicity of municipal problems which arise because of the war, and which in some instances are impeding the war and the defense efforts, and that in those instances we needed the consideration of legislative bodies as to whether we should place the power some place to suspend, or whether we should specifically deal with them.

As the solicitor of a municipality I find constantly, almost daily, that there are problems arising in the minds of the public officials that there are restrictions, such as restrictions on bidding or purchases over five hundred dollars, and I am certain in the next few months as we go more intensely into this war effort that we are going to find that there will be many problems that we connot conceive of today.

New York State, for instance, has found that one of the great problems is that of water supply, which would require municipalities to interchange water supply. Perhaps in the interior of Pennsylvania you haven't thought so much about it, but if you lived along the Delaware River where a bomb dropped almost anywhere would hit a war industry, it is a very vital problem at the present time, and the necessity arises to arrange for interchange of water supplies, so that if one be destroyed there may be the possibility of leading in another to keep defense industries going.

I have talked longer than I anticipated, but I have thought by doing so I could show that there are a multiplicity of problems which we could not conceive of before we leave this session, and as far as I am concerned I am staying as long as anybody is here, up until final adjournment and until we have given every possible angle of these problems proper study and determined how we can deal with them. You may find within a few months there may arise new problems that may make you feel sorry you did not perform your duty while you were here, and I will say that on this side of the House there will be no difficulty in keeping the Members here and at work. They are divided into committees and are now working on these problems, so that they will be able to act. They will be ready to meet the issue.

We have not felt that it was necessary for us to take any action on war powers until after we saw just exactly what was going to happen to the measure which was introduced in the Senate, and also as I said I think a week ago in this House, until we knew what was going to happen in the meeting in Washington last week in the bill drafting Council of State Government, which had expected to discuss this same subject. They laid down general principles, but as far as drafting anything on which we might act here, I do not think it was very much of a guide.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. FISHER offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 11, 1942.

The House of Representatives learned with sorrow of the death of Jack M. Willoughby, prominent citizen of Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, who died Thursday, March 5th, 1942, after a long illness.

Mr. Willoughby was born September 25th, 1885, the son of Frank and Sarah (Morrison) Willoughby. He was educated in the Huntingdon public schools, and spent his entire life in the vicinity of Huntingdon.

During his life he was interested and active in numerous civic and religious affairs. He was one of the county's ablest historians, being a charter member and secretary of the Huntingdon County Historical Society.

He long was interested in politics, and gave liberally of his time and organizing talent to the Republican Party. At the time of his death, he was Chairman of the Huntingdon County Republican Committee.

Mr. Willoughby was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Huntingdon, Sons of the Revolution, and of Mt. Moriah Lodge, F. & A. M., therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives mourns the passing of a true gentleman and distinguished citizen; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be mailed by the Chief Clerk of the House to Mrs. Alvin Waite, Mrs. R. S. Allen, both of Huntingdon; Mrs. C. W. Bird of Detroit, Michigan; and Clair H. Willoughby of Huntingdon, sisters and brother of the deceased, as a token of the House of Representatives sympathy for them in their great bereavement.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. GERARD offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 11, 1942.

The House of Representatives has learned with sorrow of the passing of Matthew A. Dunn, of Allegheny County, who died on February 13, 1942, at the age of 56.

Mr. Dunn, born in Braddock, Pennsylvania, gained fame as the "blind legislator from the Twelfth district" and was elected to and served in this House for three terms from 1926 to 1932. In 1932 he was elected to Congress and was re-elected in 1934, 1936 and 1938.

He was known and will be long remembered as the champion of the weary and downcast and during his entire public career, he expended his talents and energy in prodigious fashion in behalf of legislation calculated to aleviate suffering and aid to the underprivileged.

His unceasing efforts in this regard, however, so undermined his health that he was obliged to retire from office without seeking reelection; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby acknowledges the lasting contribution to society of the late Hon. Matthew A. Dunn, who lived and died in the service of mankind; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transcribed and transmitted to his widow, Mrs. Minnie Rudolph Dunn.

RESOLUTION

Mr. MUNLEY offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the Rules.

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1942.

Vol. 26. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 16, 1942. No. 13.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 16, 1942

The Senate met at 4:00 o'clock p. m., Eastern War Time. The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

O God, we see Thy majesty and Thy power in the universe for it is Thy creation; we know Thy love for it is all about us and within us. We pray Thee that we may stand in awe of Thy majesty and power and be sincerely grateful for Thy love. So impress us with a sense of obligation that gratitude may rise from every heart.

We thank Thee for this favored land to which Thou did'st direct our fathers and empowered them to possess. They bequeathed to us a goodly heritage, not a heritage of land only but the heritage of godly character. May we hold both as sacred trusts and transmit them to our children unimpaired.

We pray for all officers and men in every branch of our armed service. Comfort the sorrowing loved ones of those who have died; heal the wounded and alleviate their suffering. Hasten, we pray Thee, the coming of a righteous peace.

Strengthen the hands and encourage the hearts of the President and of all those in authority.

Make us a united and God-fearing people that we may magnify Thy great and holy name. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. MALLERY read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 52, entitled:

An Act to aid in the prevention of sabotage by making the larceny of articles rationed by the Federal Government and necessary in national defense, a felony and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in presenting this bill, I desire to make a few preliminary remarks in explanation, because I think this bill may help to solve a problem which has been vexing this session.

You will remember that the Governor has asked us to give blanket authority to a certain committee for the purpose of suspending or modifying certain laws which may interfere with the progress and with the defense of this country.

I discussed the question last week, and on the way home I thought that if someone could solve the problem by answering the objections of both sides, that we might get somewhere, and so I thought over the objections of both sides, and important amongst them was the fact that we did not want to set a precedent by delegating authority to modify or suspend laws to someone other than the Legislature. The thought then was to call special session, and the objection to that was the cost.

Mr. President, I think that what I suggest will at least answer both objections. I have no pride of authorship in the bill. I have drawn the bill myself, and having been hurriedly done, it is probably not in the best shape, and there may be some suggestions to amplify or reduce the bill, but I submit it to you for your consideration with this explanation:

It provides that this Legislature shall appoint a committee which shall be known as the Joint Emergency Legislative Council, that the committee shall consist of all of the members of the House and all of the members of the Senate, and that the committee of the Senate shall be presided over by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and the committee of the House shall be presided over by the Speaker of the House, that it shall meet only upon the call of the Governor, and that this committee, upon the passage of this bill, shall appoint an executive board of five members from the Senate and five members from the House, whose duty it shall be to confer with the Governor, department heads and such other persons as in the Governor's opinion may be necessary for the purpose of ascertaining what may be necessary and a program for carrying out the purpose of this act.

To meet the objection as to expense, this bill provides that the members of the committee shall receive no compensation except mileage and actual expenses in Harrisburg, limited to ten dollars per day. The bill also provides that the action of this committee shall be by a majority vote, and only those persons who are present shall be entitled to their expenses.

Mr. President, it strikes me that the Executive Committee can cover the objection which the Governor raised in his statement that most of us received last week, that there may be some matters that can not be discussed openly.

The bill also provides that the regular employes of the Senate and of the House shall be the employes of the committee, without extra pay. It authorizes this committee to adopt such rules as may be necessary to facilitate the conduct of its work, and it also provides that bills need only be printed once, that is, resolutions—the committee will operate by resolution. The committee may meet jointly or separately as the rules may provide.

Mr. SHAPIRO read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 53, entitled :

An Act authorizing the suspension or modification of the operation of laws either in whole or in part under certain circumstances during the existence of a war wherein the United States is engaged; creating a Joint Emergency Legislative Council and an Executive Board; imposing duties and conferring powers upon the Governor of the Commonwealth the Council and the Executive Board; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. WALKER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 16, 1942.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 23, 1942, at four o'clock p. m. and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 23, 1942, at nine o'clock p. m.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

MEMORIALIZING THE GOVERNOR TO SUMMON NON-PARTISAN COMMITTEE TO STUDY PROBLEM OF ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 16, 1942.

The threat to Pennsylvania in the St. Lawrence Waterway is a war as well as a peace time danger and is so real to the State's welfare and to its basic industries that the full extent of it should be ascertained by expert investigation.

The consummation of this dream would inflict double punishment on the Commonwealth. Not only are the taxes of Pennsylvania used to build such projects, but later, through competition with water power the dollars of investment, capital, wages and railroad rates are impaired.

The coal mines of the Commonwealth would be crippled and the loss of coal tonnage would seriously affect the railroads.

No comprehensive study has been made of the paralyzing effects on the mining industry and on the railroads that would result from the operation of the proposed waterway, and it is now time that such study should be made in order to obtain definite facts upon which to base intelligent opposition to the construction of the project, therefore be it

Resolved, By the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that His Excellency the Governor is hereby requested to summon a non-partisan conference of capable Pennsylvanians, who could plan the raising of sufficient funds to employ experts and engineers to study the paralyzing effects not only on the mining industry but the railroads of this State, once the generation of power on the St. Lawrence starts competing with power generated by steam from Pennsylvania coal as suggested by a Harrisburg newspaper, and that the results of any such study shall be reported to the Governor before the next session of the Legislature, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be immediately transmitted to the Governor by the Secretary of Senate.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on State Government.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 12, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the sixth day of August, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one (1941 Appropriation Acts, page 98), entitled "A supplement to the act approved the sixteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred forty-one (Appropriation Act Number 12-A), entitled 'An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one,'" by increasing the appropriation to the Department of Justice for the parole work of the Board of Pardons.

be postponed for the present.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 46 the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there were two bills on our Calendar which I had hoped would have been acted upon today, but in view of the fact that they are not going to be acted upon today and are postponed, I should like to make a statement for the record, since I may not be here when these bills are acted upon.

Mr. President, the 1939 legislature passed what was then called the Parole Law, setting up a new and advanced method of dealing with the old and serious problem of rehabilitating criminals through parole, while at the same time providing proper protection to society. Governor James vetoed that bill on the ground that no money had been appropriated by the legislature to pay for the cost of administering the act. Fathered by the same group who were interested in the passage of the first act, the 1941 legislature passed, and the Governor on August 6th approved, an act dealing with the same problem in the same enlightened manner and appropriated the necessary funds to carry out the provisions of the act. This is the act of August 6, 1941, P. L. 861, known as the Parole Law. The same legislature, to complete the program, also reduced from three-hundred-sixty thousand to one-hundred eighty thousand, the two-year appropriation to the Department of Justice so as to cover the expenses of the existing Parole Board only until the new Parole Law became effective. Section 36 of that Parole Law provides:

> "It shall be the duty of the Governor, in the manner herein provided in this Act, to appoint the members of the (parole) board on or before the first day of October 1941 . . . The Board as so constituted shall immediately thereafter set up the system herein provided for and make the necessary appointments of its officers, clerks and employees. To this extent this Act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment, but in all respcts it shall become effective on the 1st day of June, 1942."

Notwithstanding the mandatory provisions of this section, the Governor has failed and neglected to appoint the Board although more than six months have passed, but instead he now proposes the postponement of the Parole Law so that the appointments to the Board need not be made until on or before June 1, 1943, and the effective date changed to October 1, 1943.

The reasons assigned by the Governor to support this program are: "First, that we have been requested by our national leaders to postpone new functions until after the present emergency."

Second, "that doubt about certain provisions in the Parole Act already have been raised and certain amendments to the Parole Act suggested for submission to this Special Session".

Third, "Civil Service provisions in the Act would have the effect of freezing the employes and that the postponement would therefore provide a 'chance to save one series of jobs for the boys now at the front' ".

Fourth, "That there are not now available men with sufficient qualifications to act as members of the Parole Board."

As against this proposal the public press has carried not only the protests of the sponsors of the bill, but also the expressions of many of those public spirited citizens who have devoted a lifetime to the study of this serious social problem, indicating their almost unanimous disagreement with the Governor's proposal and the validity of the reasons advanced by him in support of his proposal.

I suggest, Mr. President, that in order to act intelligently on the Governor's request it is necessary to review the past in order to see the setting in which this proposal lies. Does it come in good faith or does it follaw a pattern of dodging issues time and time again? Let us look at the record.

Arthur H. James became a candidate for office of Governor in the Spring of 1933; at that time he was a member of our Superior Court, a highly respected Court comprised of men of learning, ability and integrity.

Arthur H. James retained his membership in, and accepted his pay as a member of that Court throughout the primary and the general election campaign in which he actively participated, absenting himself from his judicial duties during that time; even after his election and down to the moment of his induction into the office as Governor he continued as a member of that Court. All of this in direct violation of Canon 30 of the Code of Ethics of the American Bar Association which reads as follows:

> "A Judge who become a candidate for a non-judicial office shall sever his connections with the judicial office by resignation, in order that it cannot even be said that he is using that power and the prestige of his office to promote his candidacy or the success of his party."

But this Judge postponed his resignation to almost the very moment of his induction to the office of Governor and tendered his resignation as Judge to himself as Governor in the same breath that he swore to uphold the laws and the constitution of the Commonwealth and the nation.

That was the beginning of a series of dodging issues by postponement. The record shows that as Governor of this Commonwealth:

1. He postponed fulfillment of his campaign promise to reduce the burden of taxation.

2. He postponed the presentation of the State budget to the legislature in direct violation of Article 6 of the Act of August 9, 1929, P. L. 177 which provides that:

> "As soon as possible and not later than four weeks after the organization of the General Assembly the Governor shall submit a State budget."

When the Governor presented this budget, seven weeks after the organization of the General Assembly, he did so with this euphonious statement: "In compliance with Article 6 of the Act of April 9, 1929, P. L. 177, I have the honor to lay before the General Assembly the State budget for the fiscal biennium from June 1, 1939, to May 31, 1941." Parenthetically I should say here that the Governor then saw to it that he would be plagued no more by that law; therefore, he caused the then Republican controlled legislature in that same session to amend the Act so as to remove the time limit altogether.

(See the Act of June 6, 1939, P. L. 250).

3. He postponed balancing the 1939-41 budget and accomplished it by short changing the relief requirements and by borrowing fifty million dollars from special funds, making a Special Session to meet relief requirements inevitable.

4. He postponed for two years the operation of the Mental Health Act, the effect of which Act placed for the first time on the Commonwealth, the sole responsibility for the care and maintenance of the mentally ill. This law represented twenty-five years of unrelenting effort on the part of a number of socially minded and public spirited citizens to place the State in its proper position in the treatment of this unfortunate group of our citizens.

5. He postponed for two years the operation of the laws granting assistance to financially overburdened school districts by appropriating to them monies to pay for:

A. Salaries to Supervisors of Special Education.

B. The cost of student transportation.

C. Tuition for certain high school students.

6. He again postponed meeting the full requirements of Public Assistance in the Special Session of 1940, and refuses to meet the situation by short-changing relief and borrowing thirty-seven million dollars from special funds.

7. He postponed the repayment of these borrowed funds until June, 1941, creating a doubtful legal obligation on the next legislation.

8. He again, in 1941 postponed reducing the tax burden in the 1941-1943 budget, this time in the face of concrete evidence of rising revenues as a result of the national defense program.

9. He made an unsuccessful effort to again postpone the operation of the Mental Health Laws and the laws granting aid to the school districts.

10. He postponed the appointment of the Civil Service Commission, a legal duty imposed upon him under the Act of August 5, 1941, P. L. 752 which was enacted into law by the legislature reluctantly and after much opposition, only because the legislature was told by the Governor that the whole system of Unemployment Compensation and Public Assistance would otherwise break down and the State would lose millions of dollars.

11. He postponed the appointment of this Commission although he was required under the law to appoint the Commission "within thirty days after the effective date of the Act," which was August 5, 1941. The appointment being made only after great criticism and pressure on March 9, 1942.

12. He postponed and has not yet made an appointment to fill the vacancy in the office of Secretary of Revenue.

13. He postponed and has not yet made an appointment to fill the vacancy in the office of Secretary of Health.

14. He postponed and has not yet made an appointment to fill the vacancy in the office of Liquor Control Board.

15. He postponed and has not yet made an appointment to fill the vacancy in the office of Milk Control Commission.

This, Mr. President, is the setting in which lies the proposal of the Governor to postpone the effective date of the operation of the Parole Law, bills to carry out that proposal being on our calendar today.

This setting represents a continued persistent practice of postponing, delaying and refusing to carry out the duties imposed upon the Governor by law, obviously for purely personal or political reasons, or both. And I am afraid that this last proposal must be placed in the same category. Examine with me, if you will, Mr. President, the reasons advanced:

First, "We have been requested by our national leaders to postpone new functions until after the present emergency . . ." Since when is the administration of paroled criminals a new function? On the same theory no existing governmental function could be improved no matter how great the necessity or how meritorious the improvement.

Now, as to the second reason, namely that "doubt about certain provisions in the Parole Act has been raised . . . One of the bill's sponsors came to me for explanation of certain amendments which he wished to have submitted to this Special Session . . ." Even if this were so, experience has shown that every law, no matter how thoroughly and carefully framed will develop in its operation, the need for change. As a matter of fact the need for this whole law developed from defects discovered in the operation of the existing Parole Law. In addition to that let me quote you what the Governor said when the original Parole Act was vetoed by him. Remember, if you will, that the same group of public minded citizens which prepared the 1939 vetoed Act also prepared the 1941 Act. This is what the Governor said: "This bill is the result of much study, consideration and labor by a commission of eminent and outstanding men, presided over by Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr., of the Court of Common Pleas No. 2 of Philadelphia County, who deserves public encomium for this perfectly coordinated piece of legislation which represents a definite forward step toward solving the problem of rehabilitating persons convicted of violations of our criminal statutes."

Further, if there were specific and valid amendments, why the secrecy concerning these amendments? It would have been far better to have had included in the call the proposed amendments to the Act rather than to seek the postponement of its operation.

The third reason, that the Civil Service provision of the Act would, in effect, freeze the employees and thus exclude a chance to save a series of jobs for the boys now at the front, is even less tenable, for if the Governor is sincere in his desire to look after the boys at the front he should have had the courage of his convictions for he could have asked for a suspension of the Civil Service provisions. If he was sincere and did not feel that he could ask for the suspension of the Civil Service provisions, then he should have asked for an indefinite postponement of the whole Act, at least until the war was ended, for, what assurance has the Governor that this war will be over and the boys will be back by June or even October, 1943?

Such untenable reasons justify the assumption that it is not the boys at the front for whom the Governor is concerned, but on the contrary, it is the boys in the back—back home, the present political appointees occupying positions with the local parole agencies who are the real objects of his grave concern.

The fourth reason, namely, that "qualified men are not available as members of the Parole Board" is ridiculous. I want to state here and now that notwithstanding my differences with them in matters political and economical I have met many men in the Governor's own party who have the qualities and in many cases the highest qualifications for any office to which the Governor may have appointive power. Even if these men have been alienated, I suggest to the Governor that in the interest of a great public and necessary reform it would be far better to name some of these able men, certainly less dangerous than the practice of re-appointing time after time to public office men who have four or five times in succession failed to receive the approval of this Senatorial body.

Mr. President, I shall cast my vote against this proposal because I do not intend to place my stamp of approval, unimportant as it may be, upon the consistent violation by any Governor of his oath of office, just because it may suit his personal or political convenience.

Never before, in my experience, has a Governor so deliberately and consistently ignored the duties imposed upon him by legislative enactment. Such misconduct strikes at the very foundation of our form of government. Without us, and by his own inaction, through his one-man government, he has already accomplished the postponement of the Parole Act. Therefore, his request to this legislature for an additional legalized postponement is so obviously insincere that I am forced to the conclusion that it is not an amendment to the Act, but legislative absolution for his violation of that Act which he is seeking.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, March 16, 1942

The House met at 9 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, as we attempt to do what we can to be of service to others, we would ask Thee to guard our hearts from bitterness and discouragement if our efforts are misunderstood, misinterpreted, or even not well received. Perhaps we need further preparation. We pray Thee, help each one of us to discipline ourselves in the art of being patient, even as the lowly Galilean, who suffered most from those He loved best, for whose redemption He gave His very life.

Realizing that only men of clear purpose and unfaltering conviction can win victories, help each member of this House of Representatives, to so discipline himself as to be able to say with the Psalmist: "I waited patiently for the Lord, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry." In Thy name we pray. Amen.

Mr. CORDIER offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LEONARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to protest the campaign of abuse and petty sniping now being indulged in by a great newspaper chain and various columnists in other units of the press, the object of which is to belittle the National Administration and particularly our Commander-in-Chief, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. I protest, in the blessed name of Americanism, this criticism based on faulty premise and in its intent completely destructive of the best interests of our country, beset as it is by the most powerful and frighful foes the history of his world has produced. I protest this prostitution of the freedom of the press to the whims of small-souled individuals who cannot submerge their social and economic peeves in the holy task of preserving our freedom as a great Nation and as individuals—men and women and children created in the very image of Almighty God. I protest the temerity exhibited by one William Randolph Hearst who, inside a full-page patriotic border, presumed to prod the Commander-in-Chief, and the fully competent military strategists of the United States Army, Navy, and Air Force, into embarking on a fool's errand which would bring upon our armed forces a terrible and frightful defeat, and cost the lives of thousands of American men and boys. I protest the impudence which attempts to use the glorious name and achievements of General Douglas MacArthur, and his brave men in the fox holes of Bataan, in such unfitting manner. I protest the insolence with which that full-page spread imputed to Congress, the Army, the Navy and Air Force, and the multitude of ordinary citizens who have placed trust and confidence in the chosen leaders of our embattled country, that we have deserted our heroes with deliberate intent. I protest this unjustified and uncalled for outburst for what it is—unworthy of any man, woman or child who is privileged to use the name American. I call upon the great force of public opinion to call down its just wrath on the heads of anyone and everyone who would debase our God-given Democracy to the satisfaction of personal animosity, undisguised political abuse, or to provide an outlet for Roosevelt-haters to vent their spleen against the great man who is our President and our Commander-in-Chief in this terrific fight to preserve our liberties in a free world.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, last May 5, 1941, a bill was passed in this House recognized as House Bill No. 292, Printer's No. 418, at which time one hundred and thirty-six men of this House voted aye and forty-three men voted nay. The Bill finally reposed in the Public Utility Committee presided over by Senator Mallery where it died a very lovely death. However, since that time, gentlemen, I wish to call your attention and particularly to those men in this House who voted "aye" on this Bill, that it has finally been adopted. It was advanced on the floor of this House as being a safety measure, as being something necessary to the preservation of the carriers, the railroads. I realize full well today in this national emergency, this national defense program under which we are operating, that many oil tankers have been sunk off the shores of this country. At that time, May 5th, in debate it was shown that by use of oil lanterns much of the necessary oils and lubricants of this country could be completely done away with by a flagman or brakeman who should stumble in the completion of his duties.

Therefore, I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of the men of this House, that is one hundred and thirty-six who voted for this bill because, gentlemen, it has become an actuality today.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to read into the record the agreement which was entered into by all the railroads that traverse this section of the Eastern Seaboard and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. I shall also read into the record the appendix showing that this agreement was signed by many railroads, including the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and others.

> This agreement is entered into between the carriers listed in Appendix "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof, represented by the duly authorized "Eastern Carriers" Committee signatory hereto, as party of the first part, and the trainmen and yardmen employed by said carriers covered herein and represented by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, signatory hereto and party of the second part, by its duly authorized Committee consisting of W. P. Kennedy, Vice President, U. D. Hartman, James Powers, E. F. Swan, W. F. Donoghue, and W. E. Easler.
> 1. The railroads will permit the use of white electric hand lanterns by trainmen and yardmen.
> 2. Trainmen and yardmen will be furnished white electric hand lanterns by the particular railroad on which employed upon deposition with that railroad the sum of $2.00 each.
> 3. Deposits for lanterns secured from the railroad may be made by trainmen and yardmen by depositing cash therefor or by signing a deduction order for the amount to be deducted from their pay checks on the current payroll.
> 4. When a trainman or yardman leaves the service, either voluntarily, by discharge or by death, or those retaining employe relationship but not in active service, the lantern may be returned to the railroad whereupon the amount of deposit made when the lantern was issued shall be refunded to him or his estate or heirs.
> 5. Replacement of lanterns issued by the Carrier will be made by the railroad without cost to the employe under the following conditions:
> A. When worn out or damaged in the performance of railroad service upon return of the lantern.
> B. When stolen while employe is on duty without neglect on part of employe.
> C. When destroyed in the performance of duty.
> 6. Employes will not be compelled to purchase lantern from the railroad but may purchase it from other sources of their own choice, provided, however, that any lantern so purchased must conform with the standard prescribed by the railroad.
> 7. The electric lantern, bulbs, and batteries must be of a standard prescribed by the railroad, and the lantern must be equipped with not less than two white bulbs for instant use and a provision for a spare white bulb to be carried in the lantern.
> 8. Trainmen and yardmen who, prior to the effective date of this agreement, have provided themselves with electric lanterns and have used them in the service of the railroad may continue to use them, if they so desire, until they are worn out, provided such lantern is of a satisfactory type and contains two serviceable white bulbs for instant use and a provision for carrying a spare white bulb in the lantern.
> 9. After the effective date of this agreement, each traniman and yardman must (subject to the provision of paragraph 14 hereof) provide himself with an electric white lantern, meeting the specifications set out in paragraph 7.
> 10. Each railroad will maintain at convenient locations a supply of batteries and bulbs to be drawn by trainmen and yardmen as needed to replace those worn out or broken without cost to the employes.
> 11. The railroads will continue to use oil burning lanterns with red globes for flagging, but they will continue their efforts to have developed an electric lantern that will be satisfactory for such service, and if and when one is developed the party of the first part will then enter into further negotiations with the party of the second part representing trainmen and yardmen with respect to its adoption for flagging service. When such lanterns are adopted for flagging service, they will be furnished by the railroads without expense to trainmen and yardmen.
> 12. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen accepts this agreement as a final and complete disposition of the use of electric lanterns subject to the provisions of paragraph 11.
> 13. All agreements, with respect to the use of electric lanterns by trainmen and yardmen, now in effect and which have heretofore been entered into between any railroad or railroads signatory hereto and the representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen are hereby cancelled.
> 14. In the event that due to conditions beyond the control of a railroad it becomes unable to obtain a sufficient quantity of such electric lanterns, batteries or bulbs for the purpose and forth herein, the railroad shall thereby be relieved of compliance with the provisions of this agreement to the extent that such inability makes it impossible to comply herewith.

15. This agreement shall become effective as of March 31, 1942, and will remain in effect for a period of two years and thereafter subject to thirty days' written notice given by one of the parties to the other.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE SALVAGE AND DISPOSAL OF WASTE PAPER

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, on behalf of the committee ppointed under Senate Resolution No. 10, I herewith sub-nit a report of the committee. There are two resolutions hich accompany the report, which I shall submit later.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE APPOINTED UNDER SENATE RESOLUTION No. 10

The Committee reports after having spent two days in isiting all or part of the filing rooms, storage space and eneral offices of the following departments:

Executive Department
Auditor General's Department
Property and Supplies Department
Secretary of Commonwealth Dept.
Legislative Department
Treasury Department
Welfare Department
Public Utility Department
Department of Revenue
(With particular attention to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles
Bureau of Corporate Taxes
Bureau of Personal Property Taxes)

In these visitations with Department Heads and others ho had charge of particular Bureaus or Rooms, we were nstantly confronted with the question of who should ake the decision as to how long old papers in files ould be kept. It was very evident that the Depart-ent Heads in justice to themselves do not want to as-me the responsibility of destroying old records which ay or may not be called for at some future date.

nclusions:

I. Two purposes were mentioned in the original Resolu-n, namely:

1. Securing of waste paper to be used in the National Defense effort.

2. The making available of steel files which would not need to be replaced at this time when steel and other products used in their manufacture is so badly needed in the Defense effort.

The Committee learned that in addition to these two, there was a third purpose which might well have been mentioned in the original Resolution, namely:

3. Availability of office and filing space to the different departments of the Commonwealth.

II. The Committee feels that immediate action in this matter is of very vital importance to the entire National Defense effort, and at the same time, hasty action might cause irrecoverable loss. The Committee also learned that there now exists a law which might well be used to make available the present files, secure the waste paper and also vacate large amounts of storage or filing space badly needed by many of the Departments for current records.

In the Administrative Code, Sec. 524, added June 21, 1937, P. L. 1865, there is a provision reading as follows:

> "Disposition of Useless Records.—Except as otherwise provided by law, whenever any administrative department, board or commission shall have an accumulation of files of correspondence, reports, records or other papers, which are not needed or useful in the transaction of the current or anticipated future work of such department, board or commission, and which date back a period of four years and more, it shall be the duty of the head of such department, board or commission to submit to the Executive Board a report of that fact, accompanied by a concise statement of the condition, quantity, and character of such papers. If the Executive Board shall be of the opinion that such files of correspondence, reports, records or other papers, or any part thereof, are not needed or useful on the transaction of the current or anticipated future work of such department, board or commission the head of such department, board or commission shall place such files, or any part thereof, as the case may be, in the custody of the Department of Property and Supplies, and such department is hereby authorized to dispose of the same as waste paper, in the manner prescribed in this act for the sale of unserviceable property: Provided, however, That the Executive Board, with the approval of the Department of Public Instruction, may direct that any such files of correspondence, reports, records or other papers, or any part thereof, that are of historical interest be turned over to the Department of Public Instrucion for preservation for historical purposes."

This does not include such departments as the Auditor General, State Treasury, Secretary of Internal Affairs, and the Legislative Branch.

Therefore, our report includes two recommendations:

1. That a Resolution which we have prepared and is ready for introduction be sent to each Department Head calling their attention to the immediate necessity for their efforts in connection with Section 524 of the Administrative Code.

2. Another Resolution directing that the matter be assigned to the State Government Commission to make a complete study and report to the next Session of the Legislature with remedial legislation.

RESOLUTION URGING ECONOMY IN USE OF PAPER AND CONSERVATION OF SPACE

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, The committee appointed under the provisions of Senate Resolution Number 10, to investigate the salvage and disposal of waste paper in the various departments of the State Government in order to make available more filing space and more paper for defense purposes, has filed its report; and

Whereas, Said committee has recommended that immediate action be taken by those in charge of said departments to fully observe and carry out the mandate of the Legislature as set forth in Section 524 of the Administrative Code; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the belief of this Senate that much of the paper now occupying valuable and necessary filing space in the files in the different governmental departments is useless and of no value and that a strict compliance on the part of those in charge of such files with the provisions of the Administrative Code would make available a great amount of filing space and many tons of waste paper; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate shall immediately transmit to the head of each department of the State Government, copies of the report of the committee and of this resolution.

RESOLUTION URGING CONTINUATION OF STUDY PROPOSED IN RESOLUTION No. 10

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, The committee appointed under the provisions of Senate Resolution No. 10, to investigate the salvage and disposal of waste paper in the various departments of the State Government in order to make available more filing space and more paper for defense purposes, has filed its report; and

Whereas, Said committee has recommended that immediate action be taken by those in charge of said departments to fully observe and carry out the mandate of the Legislature as set forth in Section 524 of the Administrative Code; therefore be it

Resolved, That a further study of the problem as begun by the committee if continued, would result in great profit to the Commonwealth and that such study and investigation should be undertaken by the Joint State Government Commission; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of Senate Resolution No. 10, together with copies of the report filed by the committee appointed pursuant thereto and of this resolution, shall be forwarded to the Chairman of the Joint State Government Commission by the Secretary of the Senate.

An Act to amend Section 36 and to repeal Section 37 of the act approved the sixth day of August one thousand nine hundred and forty-one (P. Section 2 Section 37 of said act is hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to this bill. We have a phrase here that the Senate will be at ease and we have been very much at ease on this question in the Republican Caucus—I am not disclosing any secrets.

The argument is used by the Republicans that nobody in any part of the State is excited about the repeal or at least postponement of the parole bill. My answer to that is that Republican Senators, being the last vestige of capitalism are on the rise, what we call the rise of life. I could perhaps further describe it as the higher walks of life, and in their daily contacts are not apt to be bothered with criminals, and therefore they do not hear the gossip. I am in a position to hear that gossip more than they.

We have in Philadelphia a noted criminal lawyer, formerly a member of the State Senate, the Honorable John R. K. Scott. If you commit a murder you had better have him to defend you; also if you go into his office you have to be a little careful about your personal possessions, because of the character witnesses that are there.

Well, Mr. Scott, for whom I have considerable admiration, has talked to me about this postponement of the parole bill, and I think he knows more about criminals and criminal law than all the Republican Caucus put together, and he has urged me to rise in opposition to the Governor's postponement, which I am now doing.

I also hold in my hand a telegram from Judge Gordon, which I will read at the conclusion of my remarks.

What strikes me as inconsistent is that in this Republican Caucus, the secrets of which I am now revealing, not only in caucus but elsewhere, we have discussed over and over again our pride in the legislative function of government, and measures to suspend laws to give the Governor power, perhaps blanket power or perhaps only partial power, to suspend laws, and we have given great lip service evidencing the prerogatives and pride of the legislative branch of the government.

If that is so, Mr. President, it seems to me very inconsistent, to say the least, that, having in 1939 formally passed this parole bill and then, because through some slight error on someone's part there was no appropriation included, the bill would not work without an appropriation and therefore it had to be vetoed.

With practically that same bill, which Judge Gordon and Judge Ralph Smith of Pittsburgh, who is a very prominent character now, and other people who know about this thing and worked hard on this bill, and the Senate and the House having passed the parole bill in 1941, and the Governor having signed the parole bill, it seems to me strange, to say the least that we, having been at ease here so much, have acquired the habit of complacency, that we complacently sit here and support the Governor in the postponement of the parole act.

If this parole bill stood in the way of winning the war, all right, I would be very glad to have it postponed, but I fail to see that it has anything to do with winning the war. In fact, my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart, who is a little like the Governor in conjuring up the terrible things that will happen in any blackout, wants to increase the penalty for unutterably named crimes in such a time like this. To postpone the parole acts seems to me to be an act of folly.

I have no personal knowledge of the Board of Pardons. I know our Honorable Lieutenant-Governor is a member—he seems to be hiding behind his desk at this moment but he is there—and the Attorney General is a member, as is the Secretary of Internal Affairs a member, and also Miss O'Hara is a member. I believe this is the Board of Pardons.

They may be one hundred per cent perfect, but I am opposed to all ex-officio boards; in fact I am opposed to all boards; I think boards and commissions are just a mistake. But the Pardon Board is a pretty serious matter and these men serve without extra salary, they are called ex-officio member of the Pardon Board.

As I understand it, we have in Philadelphia a judge who is very severe; he does not belong to either of Harry Shapiro's courts, he is in one of the earlier courts, and he gives very, very stiff sentences, very heavy sentences, but he is always careful to send the prisoner not to a state institution but to the couny jail because after having won applause for the severity of his sentence, he knows darn well in a very short time he can get the man out of the county jail and paroled, but if he confines him to a state institution then of course he loses control and the prisoner goes before the Pardon Board.

I never have met the Conway brothers at all; I know they are criminals, I have heard their names mentioned as embezzlers, and they were put in the penitentiary for a good long time, and in a remarkably short time, somehow they came out of the penitentiary on parole.

Therefore, Mr. President, I say we should not indulge in complacency in this bill. It is awfully hard to go against the Governor's wishes, but I expect to do so and I would now like to read this telegram, in closing, from Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr.

"Hon. George Woodward, Harrisburger Hotel, Harrisburg, Penna.

"Passage of the bill to suspend operation of parole act would in my judgment work a grave harm to the administration of criminal justice in Pennsylvania. Funds for the new board are already available. The increase in crimes and disorders that always accompany war call for increased administrative vigilance and efficiency for their control and suppression and to deliberately reject the concededly best available weapon in the fight against our internal public enemies is unwise and indefensible. It is unbelievable that competent men cannot be found for the new board from among the millions of citizens of our Commonwealth. I sincerely hope that in the public interest the pending bill will be defeated.

JAMES GAY GORDON, JR."

I thank you for your very close attention.

Mr. REED. Mr. President and members of the Senate, this bill is on the calendar for the purpose of postponing the effective date of an act passed by the General Assembly in the 1941 session. At that time I opposed the bill, I voted against the bill, and I gave my reasons at that time for so doing.

One reason was that the bill is unnecessary. We have under the Constitution of Pennsylvania a section which authorizes the Governor through the Pardon Board to hear all petitions for commutations, for pardons and for the consideration of the lessening of sentences in the field of criminal jurisdiction. That Board under the Constitution has done well. I have tried many criminal cases in my time, I have appeared a few times before the Board of Pardons, and I know from experience as a lawyer that the Pardon Board has done good service.

We have another act on the books today which provides for the consideration of lesser crimes by the various courts in the Commonwealth. In other words, our various judges have the power, under an Act of Assembly, to consider the commutation and the lessening of sentences in criminal cases. Under the Constitution and under this Act of Assembly we have broad powers to deal with the question under controversy. That is one reason I gave at that time and I give that reason again at this time.

Another reason was that the bill entailed a great expense. I say at this time conservatively, from an investigation and from talking with people who seem to know, that to set up this agency will cost at least one million dollars, and after that it will cost in its operation from five hundred thousand to seven hundred fifty thousand dollars every year, because under this act there are ten agencies to be set up throughout the Commonwealth, and each agency has the right to name its own officials, its own employes, and I can readily see, under a rereading of this bill today, that that sub-agency can appoint almost without limit the employes it chooses. This is an expensive proposition, Mr. President, and that is the second reason I gave at that time and I do not retreat from that reason at this time.

The third and chief reason is that this bill will not lessen crime. As I understand it there are two kinds of criminals, two classes of criminals, those who enter crime as a livelihood, and I say from study and investigation of crime that when you catch a criminal of that class and you sentence him to an institution and later on you release him, almost invariably that man goes right back into a life of crime, and we have a setup today that will take care of those cases. The Pardon Board constitutionally is constituted for that purpose.

The other class is the petty crimes or a crime committed on the spur of the moment by some person who otherwise is all right, and we have in those cases proper agencies to hear and determine the cause. I say that this bill will not in any way lessen crime.

Now, Mr. President, have conditions changed from last August? Is the country in the same shape today as it was then? I answer you that a great change has taken place. At that time this republic was at peace and today we are at war. Is that war serious? Ask yourselves that question. I say that there is too much disinterest in the nation today over this great war. Our leading citizens will tell us that this is the worst war that this nation has ever been engaged in. We are sending from all over the Commonwealth fine young men to fight this war, that we might have democracy in the future. We send sons, we send fathers, and we send brothers; are we going to tolerate in America today and in this great Commonwealth an increase in crime, when our boys are dying on foreign soil for the preservation of democracy? Are we going to tolerate criminals on the street, as there are in our cities today, attacking women, grabbing pocketbooks, knocking down citizens? Are we going to set up another agency that will pamper criminals at this time? You shall never do it with my vote.

You may say we have judges in favor of this bill. Yes, I know those judges, and I speak truthfully when I tell you that I have talked to many of our judges and they have told me people whose children, whose boys and whose brothers and fathers have gotten caught in the net of crime, bother me all the time, want me to be easy, want me to let them out. I say to that kind of a judge, that kind of a man, if he does not want to take the responsibility he does not have to be a judge. I am tired of listening to judges who are afraid to assume the responsibilities of the office. We have many judges who, if a criminal comes up before him, he has the courage, old fashioned American courage, to do his duty. This parole bill is one of the agencies that will increase crime and I do not care if there are certain judges that are in favor of this bill; I still am against it.

Who is Earl G. Harrison? I have a booklet from a man by that name, and he goes on to tell in the interests of public charity what we should do in this instance.

Is Earl G. Harrison working for the public good or is he working for private good? Is he working unselfishly or is he working selfishly? Those are the questions I would like to ask. If he is working for the public good, if he is striving to assist the people of his district, then let him go down to Philadelphia and start at the beginning. There is much work for public charity organizations to do. Let them not wait until a man is in some criminal cell, let the public charity organizations start at the beginning, teach the children the danger of crime, the seriousness of loafing in places where crime thrives. If the public charity organizations are what the name imports, then their duty is back home teaching young people the dangers of crime.

If you want to lessen crime in this Commonwealth and in this nation teach the young people at the beginning; do not wait until the mothers' tears fall upon your breast after those children are in some penal institution.

I am even told that there are lobbyists here working for this bill, and I say the same to them, if they are working for public charity they too ought to go back home and get at the roots of this problem, teach the young people at home the dangers of crime, teach them to shun the agencies that lead to crime, teach them to war against all of those many activities particularly that exist in the cities that foster crime. They have no business here in that respect.

Now, my friends, we are at war. I repeat, it is a serious war. At this time we are about to receive rationing cards for sugar, we are already on a rationing system for rubber, we are about to have gasoline given to us in limited quantities, and while those activities are progressing, in order that we might prepare ourselves for victory, we are told by almost all the American agencies in the state to give the last penny that we can spare in order to buy stamps, in order to buy bonds that our nation might win this war, and at the same time we have a bill on our books that would give away one million dollars towards the setting up of an agency that is absolutely unnecessary at this time—five hundred thousand to seven hundred fifty thousand dollars for the first year.

I agree with the Governor, he is absolutely right, he has shown his American courage and his American patriotism in asking that the effective date of this bill be postponed.

We must above all things win this war, and one of the sinews toward that end is money, and we should not publicly throw away one cent of money if it will not in some way lead the American people to victory in this great contest. Take this money and use it to help your nation and your Republic to win the war.

I propose to sustain the Governor with my one vote, believing that it is my patriotic duty to vote for the passage of this present bill.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, when the parole bill came up for passage last July, I vigorously opposed it. Among other things, I brought out it was unconstitutional, impracticable, very costly, in fact the cost would exceed the appropriation allowed by at least 75 per cent. My opinion has not been altered one iota since it passed. However, I would feel much better if I were arguing for its repeal rather than postponement.

I do not want to inquire into the motives of the Governor in asking for the delay. It may be that he is trying to unload a hot potato. On the other hand, he may feel that it is unconstitutional and under the guise of patriotism, seeks to postpone the effective date. Frankly, I do not believe the reasons advanced by him are at all convincing. However, it may be, I am of the opinion that indefinite postponement will sound the death knell of the act, and satisfied that such will be the case, I intend to vote for postponement. Needless to say, I feel that there has been a growing agitation against the bill. The opponents of the bills last July were cojoled into the belief that the bill would not leave the committee. It seemed to me that a mesmerist pulled the rabbit out of the hat when everyone was asleep and its opponents, particularly the judges, had little or no opportunity to register or voice their opposition. This all happened during the dying days of the Session of 1941.

In my mind, the present system is an excellent one. There are times when abuse creeps in, but by and large, justice in the criminal courts is administered honestly and fairly. You certainly cannot burn a house down because there is a rat or two in it. It may be argued that judges are fooled at times by prisoners, but is that not equally true of boards.

As between the judges and any proposed board, who is in a better position to observe, try and sentence the prisoner. Of course, the judge. The judge, before sentencing certainly can cause investigations to be made of the prisoner, his environment, his physical and mental condition, and frequently they are made. Needless to say, the judge has no control over prisoners sent to penitentiary after the judge's term. He can, however, make recommendation to the Board of Pardon when and if the prisoner applies for commutation. No one can question the work of the Pardon Board. As to prisoners confined to county prisons, the sentencing judges have control even after their term is over, but only after a petition is filed, and all interested parties notified. In both instances, cases are carefully investigated and checked. Our Pardon Board has done excellent work, and probation officers assigned to the county cases have performed their work efficiently.

Judges are human beings, and are prone to error, more likely so to the benefit of the prisoner who is also human. Is it not much better to have a judge err on the side of the prisoner rather than err against it. On the other hand, what is the reputation of Boards? My experience is, although they are generally comprised of outstanding men, as time goes on they become cold, callous, and autocratic. Further, what opportunity have they to observe the prisoner. They depend on information gotten from others. How can they honestly and truly determine the case without first hand information. Boards generally lose sight of the fact that as Shakespeare puts it "Mercy seasons justice." They cease to be sympathetic, and seem to ignore the human equation. You have had experience with relief boards.

Much has been said of the Zupkowski case in Philadelphia, as an argument for putting the act into effect immediately. Mind you, I am not condoning the acts of Zupkowski, but let me give you a few facts concerning this case. Zupkowski at the age of 19, was convicted of a series of crimes, brutal in nature, and sent to the penitentiary for 99 years—a ridiculous sentence to begin with. After serving 9 years as a model prisoner, judges, the district attorney, and reputable citizens, republicans and democrats, collaborated to bring about his release. The prison authorities recommended a commutation of sentence. The Pardon Board, in view of the recommendation, his conduct at jail, the immediate prospect of work, commuted his sentence. Before actual release, he had to face old indictments standing out against him, and the trial judge, imbued with a sense of justice, released him without any further sentence. This boy, upon his release, was given work, reported to both the Probation Office and the trial judge weekly. As you will note, considerable interest was manifested in the activities of this boy. I knew him, talked with him and felt sure that this boy sent away at the age of 19 and released at 28 would go straight. Frankly, we were due for a rude awakening. This boy, in a weak moment, succumbed to the entreaties and cajoleries of an old gangster friend, committed murder and paid the extreme penalty. Here is a young man who fooled judges, district attorneys, reputable business men, prison officials, and Pardon Board. This case was given a thorough going over, was checked, rechecked, investigated by many groups, and all recommended release. No board, parole or otherwise, would have acted differently. Yet, newspapers and certain individuals have indicted our entire system. It may have been a mistake, but, we can not always judge by results. There have been similar cases. Who are these holier than thou men, who lay claim to clairvoyant powers. These gentlemen pose as miracle men. I do not know any of these men, I do not know how they lay claim to saintliness. They feel they can correctly diagnose every case and predict the future in every case. A new Parole Board will not help the situation. They will make the same mistakes that judges make. Let these critics of our present system think in terms of rehabilitation, and crime will be reduced to a minimum. Board or no board, let these gentlemen, these so-called reformers, who are ready to indict the present system, offer work to these prisoners upon release and then and only then will they have accomplished something for society. These boys are given no opportunity for employment, even though they have paid their debt to society, and what usually happen—return to a career of crime.

This act only deals with punishment, and only punishment. What about rehabilitation? We are ready to spend millions to control punishment, but not one cent to make the prisoner a useful citizen.

Only yesterday I read an article in the paper, in which the author of the bill, Sam Rosenfeld, was quoted. Maybe he has not been quoted correctly, but I take it the Record is usually correct.

Mr. Rosenfeld said, and I quote: "An efficient parole system can not be regarded as a frill or luxury, but as a vital defense measure."

I wonder whether Mr. Rosenfeld, at the time he introduced this bill, anticipated that the United States would be at war, and by what stretch of the imagination does his bill help the defense system at the present time? That is ridiculous to me. But he goes on further and says,

"The rebuilding of men through efficient parole, he declared, adds to the nation's strength." Is there anything in his bill, any provision in it that points to rehabilitation? All it deals with is the administration of punishment, the imposition of punishment, but not one word with respect to rehabilitation.

Let us go further. He says "the Governor would have us make liberal appropriations for facilities to keep men in prison instead of having us appropriate money to keep them out of prison." If anything, Mr. President, the money spent here will keep men in prison rather than send them out. We know our experience with boards, and how this money will take them out rather than keep them in, I can not understand.

After reading his statement I wonder whether he is familiar with his own bill. I also wonder whether or not he ever tried a criminal case. I wonder whether he is familiar with the administration of justice in the criminal courts—apparently not.

I am not seeking favor with any judges, district attorneys, probation officers or any one responsible for the administration of justice in the criminal courts. Let us not kid ourselves. This bill was designed to curb the power of judges, nothing more and nothing less; judges who are elected by the people, unlike boards which are appointed and subject to the appointing power. This attempt to curb the power of judges originated in 1937, when I was first elected in the Senate, when the Philadelphia Record launched a campaign to investigate the judicial system and our Democratic Legislature did its bidding.

Frankly I vote for this bill. Two fair-haired boys from Philadelphia, both lawyers, saw fit to act as artful dodgers one hiding behind the door and another man running home on business.

The bill was passed and over fifty thousand dollars was spent and little was accomplished. I then had the highest regard, and I have today, for the sponsor of the resolution and the chairman of the commission, Reverend Ruth. The attorney for the commission was imported from Kansas, I believe, and was paid handsomely for his work. The record indicates that.

It seems to me as a result of this investigation, or at least during the course of it, there were very few newspaper scoops and consequently during the investigation, although an honest-to-goodness effort was made by the commission, the newspapers were no longer interested because they could not prosecute it to a successful termination and get the scoops; it would not pay.

This campaign was revived time and again, particularly during the Zupkowski case. Judge McDevitt and Judge Carroll and the Pardon Board were condemned by one of the Philaelphia newspapers. Frankly I could not see eye to eye with that particular newspaper and I saw fit to criticize it at the risk of losing favor. I lost favor, and I am perfectly satisfied because I spoke my conscience.

Again in July 1941, the campaign was continued to put over a Parole Bill. I voted against it and I am happy to say so. If any newspaper has any feeling against certain judges, district attorneys or any group, it is their privilege, but when attempts are made to impose their will on the Legislature because of prejudice, freedom of the press becomes a mockery. I believe in freedom of the press, as you all do; I believe in freedom of speech, but underlying it is frankness and sincerity. I realize when I make these remarks I may be criticized and attacked and have no opportunity to answer. I have not the means or where-with-all to combat the press; they are too all powerful, but an honest and sincere press will give us the truth and if any answer is to be made, it will give that answer as it is spoken on the floor.

Let me ask one question: where is that one fair-haired boy today, the same fair-haired boy who in 1937 ran out on the judicial investigation? Where is he today to vote on the postponement of this Parole Bill? As usual, absent. I do not speak because he is not here; he deliberately absented himself, as usual finds some excuse for not being here, as he has given us previously. Is he again afraid to lose favor with the judges? I was not, and he is in a much better position than I am financially or otherwise, but I believe in honesty and sincerity and at least I can go home at night and sleep and I will be honest with everyone here. It is a strange coincidence he was not here at that time in 1937, when the vote was cast, and he is not here today. Of course, the fair-haired boy made his speech yesterday when the bill did not come up, but where is he today?

Ladies and gentlemen, this bill is not a move in the right direction. I say in all frankness and fairness, leave the power where it is, in the hands of men elected by the people, judges elected by you and me and others, and not in the hands of appointed men over whom the people have no control.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

INTERROGATION

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, at this time I ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, if he intends to have Senate Bill No. 41 acted on tomorrow?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is my understanding, Mr. President. However, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, is one of the sponsors and of course I would like to interrogate him, if I may.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, when I have finished my interrogation I have no objection to being interrogated.

I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the gentleman from Delaware that I have already asked for leave of absence for myself for tomorrow. The gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, who is also deeply interested in this particular legislation, is not here and I understand he will not be here tomorrow. I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware at this time if it would delay this legislation too much to postpone it until we return to the Senate Chamber Monday. I would not like to have it voted on tomorrow.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, it would make it impossible to have the bill passed in the House next week if we do not pass it here tomorrow.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I do not like to get into an altercation with my co-sponsor what the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, calls my step-bother, but I would like to suggest to him I am one of the co-sponsors of the bill and I would like to be recorded not only from the standpoint of the vote but I would like to comment on the bill when it is voted on.

This bill has been on third reading for several days, and due to the ardent desire and enthusiasm of the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, to present to the Senate a finished, polished product, there are still a number of amendments he wants to put in the bill which are not in there now. At least, that is my understanding of it. If it is to be amended, I think we could have it delayed until Monday because I do not see any ardent desire on the part of the House to get out of here at an early date, and I think a couple of days delay will not be fatal to the bill.

Mr. President, I would like to ask again if action on the bill could be postponed until Monday.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I will be very glad to see what can be done about it. There are three sponsors and I believe the majority rules. If the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, is only one and he is the only fellow that desires this to be postponed, then I think it ought to be voted on tomorrow.

However, Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny whether or not he is trying a case tomorrow?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, Mr. President, I am trying a case tomorrow, very cheerfully I am trying a case tomorrow, and I am tickled to death to have a case to try, in times like these. I do not want to point out that we are in a national emergency, because people might think I am trying this case because of the war; I am not trying the case because of the war, Mr. President, I am trying it on account of the fee.

Mr. HEYBURN. Who has the floor, Mr. President?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I yield the floor to the distinguished gentleman from Delaware, who wishes to interrogate me.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I suggest to the gentleman from Allegheny that we have dinner together. It seems to me since there is a shortage of paper there is not much use in our continuing this debate much longer.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no objection to being the guest of the gentleman from Delaware for dinner, and I appreciate the invitation, but I want to point out to the gentleman that I tried to get this matter settled off the floor, and all I got was vague and indefinite suggestions from the gentleman from Delaware and his colleagues and I am seriously interested in this bill and I would like to comment on it.

This is the first time that I have missed a session of the Legislature since I have been a member of it, and I would like to have an opportunity to discuss this bill on the floor and that is why I make the request. This is not a trivial subject, it is very important; it must have been a very important subject or the Governor would not have included it in his call.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, why can the gentleman from Allegheny not make his comments now?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, we all heard what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan did to his colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, for that. I still have not heard an answer to my request to have action on the bill postponed. Please forgive me for having a one-track mind, but I did make a request that action on this bill be postponed and so far all I have heard is a statement that the majority rules. I do not know whether the gentleman means a majority of Farrell, Walker and Heyburn, or a majority of the members of the Senate. If it is Farrell, Walker, and Heyburn, before the roll is called, I would like a chance to talk with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell.

I desire at this time, Mr. President, to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARRELL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, if he has any objection to postponement of action on Senate Bill No. 41 until next Monday.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I look to my floor leader. My floor leader thinks it would be a great mistake not to pass this bill tomorrow and give the House a chance to pass it on three readings next week. However, Mr. President, I will be guided by my floor leader.

Mr. WALKER. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. I desire to ask my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, whether or not he has any objection to postponement of action on Senate Bill No. 41 until Monday.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I have not any objection to postponement of consideration of this bill until Monday, but coming to the lateral pass stage, I am willing to be guided by the Caucus.

RECESS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I now ask that the Senate take a five minute recess until I confer with the Republican Caucus.

Mr. GELTZ. I will second the request, Mr. President.

It was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

SENATE BILL No. 41 ON THIRD READING CALLED UP

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Bill No. 41, on third reading, which went over in its order temporarily.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

It was agreed to.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am sure everybody will be glad to know that Senator Walker's request will be granted and for that reason, since it is not necessary that the amendments to Senate Bill No. 41 be introduced today, since it will not be up for final passage until Monday, I ask that Senate Bill No. 41 go over in its order.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 41, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897, 1937), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies, with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis, requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons, providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation, providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies, creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties," changing the provisions thereof and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 18, 1942, at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern War Time.

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 3:59 p. m., Eastern War Time, until Wednesday, March 18, 1942, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., Eastern War Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, March 17, 1942

The House met at 1 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Our Father who art in heaven, as we bow our heads in prayer this day, may we be made to feel the importance of the part we have to play here at home while our boys are in service in the camps and across the seas. Today, as we are met here, some of our lads in uniform are to be found in Ireland, a land made prominent because of the work of one of Thy servants of the long ago, St. Patrick.

May Thy blessing be upon all men in the service of our great nation. Be with, we pray Thee, the Commander-in-Chief of all our forces, and may it please Thee, O God, to lead us as a people as Thou didst lead the armies of old.

"I know not by what methods rare
But this I know, God answers prayer.
I'll leave my prayers with Thee alone
Whose will is wiser than my own."

Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. McKINNEY, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. CORDIER. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 27.

In the House of Representatives, March 16, 1942.

It has been reported in the public press that equipment and supplies accumulated for various camps of the Civilian Conservation Corps, notably trucks, blankets and articles of food and clothing, have been left to the ravages of the elements or burned, upon the abandonment of Civilian Conservation Corps activities.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money have been spent in acquiring the things that the Civilian Conservation Corps required. Their wanton and negligent destruction is a crime on the consciences of the persons responsible therefor. Such destruction of useable equipment and supplies is particularly reprehensible at a time such as this when material of all kinds is sorely needed in the prosecution of our war efforts.

Motorized equipment of all kinds can be put to immediate use for military purposes. Food, clothing and blankets, not suitable for the use of the army can nevertheless be used to great advantage in feeding, clothing, keeping warm and protecting from the elements the needy who are the wards of the State, be it, therefore,

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of this Commonwealth condemns the wastefulness and inefficiency of the authorities charged with the duty of accounting for and disposing of public property acquired, but no longer useable, for the purposes intended, and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly of this Commonwealth calls upon the Director of the Civilian Conservation Corps to issue instructions immediately to local Civilian Conservation Corps officials in Pennsylvania to turn over all trucks and other motorized equipment to the nearest unit of the United States Army, to deliver all surplus stores of food, clothing, blankets and other useable supplies to the county board of public assistance of the county in which they may be located, and to dispose of all unserviceable property by sale or otherwise, in such manner only that they will be used for scrap metal, scrap rubber and other purposes for which discarded materials may be made useful, and be it further

Resolved, That if legislation is necessary to accomplish these objectives, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorializes the Congress of the United States to enact such law within the shortest possible space of time in which an act of Congress can be adopted, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the President of the United States, the Director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, and to each United States Senator and Member of the House of Representatives from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. KNOBLE. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 28.

In the House of Representatives, March 16, 1942.

The effectiveness of America's fight for democracy stands in direct relationship to the health and vitality of her people. Of greatest importance in maintaining, building up and improving their stamina, are the services of the men and women of our rural communities in wringing from the soil its nutritive and sustaining products.

Of very great importance also, are the resources of the rural centers of population, hundreds of which dot the vast expanse of this Commonwealth. These communities possess the facilities and man-power needed in the production of vital war equipment and needs of this Nation and her allies.

Billions upon billions of dollars are being appropriated and expended in an ever increasing effort to produce, before it is too late, the things that alone can stop and eventually overcome the driving might of the Axis. A portion of this vast expenditure could, to great advantage, be allotted to the smaller rural communities to augment the quantity production of the great industrial centers; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Congress of the United States, the Office of Production Management, and all other defense and war agencies are hereby memorialized to take advantage, to a greater degree than heretofore, of the facilities afforded by the smaller rural communities, and of the fortitude and willingness of their people to share in a greater degree in the all out effort of the American people in this fight to preserve the freedom and the blessings of the American way of life; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives transmit copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, to the President of the Senate of the United States, and to the Speaker of its House of Representatives, as well as to the Honorable Donald M. Nelson, Director of War Production.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

PETITION

A petition from Latoof Naffah, 5880 Bartlett Street, Pittsburgh requesting the impeachment of Justice Horace Stern of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

The Speaker for Mr. SARGE for today's session.

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE CLASS WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair takes pleasure in announcing the presence in the House this afternoon of the class of Political Science of Swarthmore College, also their professor, Dr. Vernon A. O'Rourke.

They are the guests of the Delaware County delegation.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. FINESTONE and CULLEN offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1942.

The Honorable Herman Modell, a member of this House, was born on March 17, 1906, and has the odd distinction of having his birthday celebrated with St. Patrick every year. By a peculiar coincidence, he was born on Green Street in Reading, Berks County, but as a child came to the conclusion that he could never be elected to this body from that county. Removing to Philadelphia, he graduated from the West Philadelphia High School, the University of Pennsylvania, and the Harvard Law School. He was a member of the track team at Penn, and this experience later qualified him to run for office.

"Handsome Hoiman," as he is known to his less intimate friends, has so far refused to succumb officially to the wiles of the fairer sex, although he has been on their 1-A list for a long time, and while, in this regard, he is democratic in his feelings, he is a rugged individualist in practice.

Since this is his natal day, be it therefore

Resolved, That on this his birthday, his fellow-members of the House extend to the Honorable Herman Modell, their heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a great many more such days; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented by the Chief Clerk to Mr. Modell.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Modell.

Mr. MODELL. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues from Philadelphia, Mr. Finestone and Mr. Cohen, for having introduced this resolution, and I want to thank all the Members of the House for their good wishes. I hope you now know that you have erred in the past in not putting me on the committee with the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

RESOLUTIONS

Messrs. McMILLEN and HELM offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the Rules.

Mr. STANK offered a resolution which was laid over for printing under the Rules.

Section 5 No such officer or employe who is separated from the service by undesirable bad conduct or dishonorable discharge shall be permitted to resume his said office or employment after separation from the service in such manner

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to clear up one matter which now seems to be in doubt concerning this bill. This bill amends an act of 1917. The title of the act of 1917 includes the words " or school districts." However, in 1941 the Legislature passed an act relating to school district employes and vocational school district employes, and specifically repealed this act of 1917 as far as those employes were concerned. The amendments now being made to the act of 1917 do not in any way affect that act of 1941. In other words, the school district employees and vocational school district employees are not affected in any way by this particular bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 18, 1942

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., E. W. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, EDWIN S. WALLACE, offered the following prayer:

We have learned from Thy Word, O God, and from the experiences of our own lives that they who seek Thee shall find Thee, for Thou art not far from any of us. We have also been taught and have found it to be true that to those who ask Thee for wisdom Thou dost give generously. So with that knowledge of Thee we pray for Thy presence and Thy wisdom that will be sufficient for the day.

We know not what the day may bring forth; whatever it be—joy or sorrow, the fulfillment or disappointment of our hopes—give us strength to overcome all that may be sinister and to appropriate with gratitude all the good. If we "do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with our God" we shall be prepared for all eventualities.

We pray Thee, the God of nations, to crown with success all our efforts to preserve our nation and to continue that way of life which will keep us a united and happy people.

Remember the President of the United States and the Governor of this state that they may meet all demands upon them in wisdom and with power.

All this we ask in the name of our Lord. Amen.

MEMORIALIZING THE GOVERNOR TO SUMMON NON PARTISAN COMMITTEE TO STUDY PROBLEM OF ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Mr. MILLER from the Committee on State Government, to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. MALLERY on March 16, 1942, reported the same without amendment, as follows:

The threat to Pennsylvania in the St. Lawrence Waterway is a war as well as a peace time danger and is so real to the State's welfare and to its basic industries that the full extent of it should be ascertained by expert investigation.

The consummation of this dream would inflict double punishment on the Commonwealth. Not only are the taxes of Pennsylvania used to build such projects, but later, through competition with water power the dollars of investment, capital, wages and railroad rates are impaired.

The coal mines of the Commonwealth would be crippled and the loss of coal tonnage would seriously affect the railroads.

No comprehensive study has been made of the paralyzing effects on the mining industry and on the railroads that would result from the operation of the proposed waterway, and it is now time that such study should be made in order to obtain definite facts upon which to base intelligent opposition to the construction of the project, therefore be it.

Resolved, By the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that His Excellency the Governor is hereby requested to summon a non-partisan conference of capable Pennsylvanians, who could plan the raising of sufficient funds to employ experts and engineers to study the paralying effects not only on the mining industry but the railroads of this State, once the generation of power on the St. Lawrence starts competing with power generated by steam from Pennsylvania coal as suggested by a Harrisburg newspaper, and that the results of any such study shall be reported to the Governor before the next session of the Legislature, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be immediately transmitted to the Governor by the Secretary of Senate.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. THOMAS, at the request of Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON, read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 63, entitled:

An Act to amend subsections (b) and (c) of section one thousand and two of the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety; regulating the use of highways, and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians, and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth; providing for the titling, including liens, encumbrances, and legal claims, registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees; prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, the Department of Highways, peace officers, mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof, owners of vehicles, and garage keepers; providing that records are admissible as evidence; imposing upon owners, counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, within the Commonwealth, liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles; imposing penalties; imposing certain costs upon counties; providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees, and miscellaneous receipts; making an appropriation and providing for refunds," as amended, by reducing the speed limit of motor vehicles during the existence of a state of war between the United States and any foreign country.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

SENATE BILL No. 28 CALLED UP FROM THE TABLE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I now call up from the table Senate Bill No. 28, entitled:

An Act to further amend Section 801 of the act, approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 457), entitled "An act relating to the business of building and loan asociations; providing for the organization and voluntary dissolution of such associations; defining the rights, powers, duties, liabilities, and immunities of such associations, and of their officers, directors, shareholders, solicitors, and other employes; prohibiting the transaction of business in this Commonwealth by foreign building and loan associations; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the courts, recorders of deeds, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; establishing limitations of actions; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts," by authorizing building and loan associations to act as fiscal agents of the United States Government for the sale of United States Defense Bonds and Defense Stamps, and permitting such associations to pledge their assets for the faithful performance of their duties as such agents.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

It was agreed to.

RULE 21 SUSPENDED

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the House amendments?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the House placed an amendment in this bill, which is really a correction. At the top of page three, the words "optional payment direct reduction loan" were inserted in this bill by the House, but these words were in the Act of 1937, which was sought to be amended, by allowing building and loan associations to act as fiscal agents for the United States government, for the sale of United States Defense Bonds.

In view of the fact that these words are merely a correction of the bill, I am going to make a motion that the Senate concur in the House amendments.

I wish to have it noted on the Journal that these words were left out of the bill as originally presented by mistake, and are in the Act of 1937. Therefore in the final printed copy of the bill they should not appear in italics, because they are not new words which are now put in by way of amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the amendments made by the House of Representatives?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—44

RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE CALLED UP

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now consider the Resolution just reported from Committee.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

It was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 16, 1942.

The threat to Pennsylvania in the St. Lawrence Waterway is a war as well as a peace time danger and is so real to the State's welfare and to its basic industries that the full extent of it should be ascertained by expert investigation.

The consummation of this dream would inflict double punishment on the Commonwealth. Not only are the taxes of Pennsylvania used to build such projects, but later, through competition with water power the dollars of investment, capital, wages and railroad rates are impaired.

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution shall be immediately transmitted to the Governor by the Secretary of Senate.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

A motion was made by Mr. MALLERY and Mr. MILLER.

That Rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN, from the Committee on State Government reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 49, entitled:

An Act suspending for a limited time all laws of the Commonwealth requiring the registration of trailers insofar as they require the registration of certain wagons or agricultural machinery drawn by a motor driven vehicle for certain purposes.

CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, at the requests of Messrs. Reed and Cavalcante, who are not present today, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 37, on third reading, entitled:

An Act relating to air raid precautions, including blackouts; conferring certain powers and duties upon the State Council of Defense, local and district Councils of Defense, political subdivisions, members of certain municipal and volunteer agencies and civilians necessary for the safety, defense and protection of civilians and property in the Commonwealth; providing for the mobilization, coordination and use of certain municipal agencies and volunteer agencies, including their personnel and equipment; providing for immunity from liability for injury or death to persons or damage to property under certain circumstances; and providing penalties.

To think: without confusion clearly,
To love his fellowmen sincerely,
To act from honest motives purely,
To trust in God and Heaven securely."

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. McMILLEN and HELM.

RESOLUTION No. 29.

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, Our system of transportation is today in a state of transition between ground travel and air travel; and

Whereas, We are now training thousands of men in aviation in all its phases, who will never again be content with the ground methods of transportation; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania has already spent much money on state airports, some now in use, others total losses; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania is fast becoming the center for aeroplane production and assembly; and

Whereas, We have definitely been shown that the very life and existence of states and nations is in proportion to their acceptance of preparation for, and the quality of those in control of, aeronautics; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania, the Keystone State, has and must always be prepared to meet her responsibility, looking forward to the end that her citizens may enjoy the benefits and protection of this new system of transportation and communication; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of five members to make a survey of Pennsylvania's actual aviation equipment, personnel and possible future development; and be it further

Resolved, That this committee present its findings and proposals to the next regular session of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Mr. STANK. RESOLUTION No. 30.

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, The existing coal purchase plan evolved by the Anthracite Emergency Committee and carried out by the legitimate anthracite coal operators and the free-lance coal miners of this Commonwealth, has been very successful in reducing the evils arising from bootleg coal mining, and restoring to legitimate employment, many miners in the anthracite coal fields; and

Whereas, The time limit on said coal purchase plan is about to expire; and

Whereas, The said evils arising from the bootleg coal operations have not been entirely eliminated, due to the insufficiency of time; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulates the Anthracite Emergency Committee, the legitimate coal operators, and the free-lance coal miners of Pennsylvania for their sincere efforts, their conciliatory and earnest attitude and the successful results achieved by their mutual cooperation; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby memorializes the Anthracite Emergency Committee, the legitimate coal operators, and the free-lance coal miners, to continue the said coal purchase plan with whatever modifications seem desirable for a further period of time; and be it also

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Governor of Pennsylvania, and a copy to the Anthacite Emergency Committee.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

By Messrs. LONGO and WOODRING.

RESOLUTION No. 31.

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem, more popularly known as the Christmas City of the United States is celebrating its 200th Anniversary; and

Whereas, The first settlers of Bethlehem, followers of one of the oldest Protestant churches in history, with its roots going back to mediaeval Bohemia and Moravia, brought with them a sincere religious conviction, a progressive social spirit, a marked industrial ability and a strong love for music, and

Whereas, On Christmas Eve in 1741, a small group of Moravian settlers gathered in a rude log cabin which they built on the Monocacy Creek where it joins the Lehigh River, and

Whereas, The settlers had gathered in this, their first house (now the site of the Hotel Bethlehem) to worship as was the custom of their faith. The singing of the old Moravian hymn, "Not Jerusalem—Lowly Bethlehem!" so inspired them and their patron leader Count Nicholas Zinzendorf, that they decided to name their New World home—Bethlehem. Thereafter all the inhabitants were summoned to a special meeting on June 24, 1742, at which the name "Bethlehem" was formally adopted, and

Whereas, On the south side of the Lehigh River, just prior to the Civil War there was started a little Iron Works, which today is known as the Bethlehem Steel Co. With the growth of this enterprise into a mighty industrial giant there was added to the original elements in the population thousands of people of varied nationalities. Thus today Bethlehem is an unusual cosmopolitan community with a population of 62,000 and a metropolitan area of over 300,000, and

Whereas, The fame of Bethlehem's products, particularly in steel and textiles and allied products, is world wide; with approximately 115 industrial establishments which have constituted the City of Bethlehem one of the greatest productive centers for national defense in the United States; and verily, an arsenal of democracy, and

Whereas, The aforesaid city has been endowed and enriched in American History and legend, it being a City of Refuge in the French and Indian War; a supply center and hospital in Revolutionary days. The military Hospital was located in the Single Brethern's Home, (now part of the Moravian College for Women) and here more than 500 soldiers died. Their burial place is the site of an exact replica of the First House of Bethlehem and is also the site of the only Tomb in the United States dedicated to an Unknown Soldier of the Revolutionary War. Distinguished Generals such as Washington and Pulaski were entertained there. The wounded Lafayette was nursed back to health there. Such other dignitaries as John Paul Jones, John Adams, Baron Von Steuben and Doctors Warren and Lewis of the Continental Army Hospital passed through the very halls, now of the Moravian College for women, which still stand in their original settings, and

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem claims many "First" and "Oldest" those which stand out as monumental are Moravian Seminary and College for Women, practically as old as Bethlehem itself and the oldest protestant girls Boarding School in the United States; the first Fire Engine in the United States; the first Drug Store in the United States and still doing business in its original location; the first community Water Works in the United States and the newest too, but recently dedicated; and the first Symphony Orchestra. In the Moravian Church, the now internationally known Bach Choir gave the first complete performance in America of Bach's "B—Minor Mass" and "St. John's Passion," and

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem is no less distinguished in Education than in history, religious and industry, it boasts of Lehigh University, one of the foremost technical institutions of the Nation and high ranking in all other fields of Education; Moravian College and Theological Seminary, now more than a century and a quarter old, is one of the best Liberal Arts and Theological Semniaries in the east; Moravian College for Women, still maintains its place as an exclusive yet democratic and modern school and Liberal Arts College for Women, together with a fine public school system; unusually well developed and maintained parochial schools, a nurses school and a business college which add to its rapid and progressive development, and

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem has become a "Sumptuous Pearl" in the "necklace" of municipalities of this Commonwealth and an industrial religious, educational and musical monument in this glorious Nation, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives salutes and congratulates the illustrious City of Bethlehem on its 200th Anniversary and pay tribute to the "Christmas City of the United States," which was founded upon and still maintains foremost, the Christian Spirit, long after the community has given its name to a great industrial enterprise, and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives give its best wishes to the Christmas City of the United States to continue its glorious traditions, its religious customs and its progressive achievements in the future, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Honorable Robert Pfeifle, Mayor of the City of Bethlehem and chairman of the bi-centennial committee; to Reverend Byron K. Horne, Head Pastor of the Moravian Congregation of Bethlehem, and Andrew Morgan, President of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

RESOLUTION No. 32.

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, The War Production Board has recently ordered a 20% reduction in gasoline deliveries to service stations and bulk commercial users in 17 Atlantic Seaboard States, including Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The oil fields of Western Pennsylvania are the greatest producers of oil for gasoline refining in the Atlantic Seaboard States; and

Whereas, Notwithstanding this fact, the residents and the great industries of Western Pennsylvania by reason of this order of the War Production Board will be restricted to the use of less gasoline, while across its borders in Ohio there will be no such restriction in the delivery and sale of said gasoline; and

Whereas, It is recognized that this type of unscientific rationing is unfair, and will prove unpopular since a proper rationing should be based upon need, and not geographic boundaries; and

Whereas, The residents and the vital industries of Western Pennsylvania, in their patriotic desire to contribute to the successful culmination of the present world conflict will gladly subject themselves to rationing, if based proportionately on need throughout the country, rather than location; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives memoralize the War Production Board to revise its gasoline rationing order, so that such rationing shall be accomplished upon the basis of need rather than upon geographic location; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of this House to the War Production Board of the United States in Washington, D. C.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1942.

Whereas, The problem of an adequate water supply in this Commonwealth, is one involving a natural resource, that has assumed tremendous importance with relation to the industrial output of our industries; and

Whereas, The problem of stream and water pollution in the Commonwealth has engaged the attention of the public authorities of our cities, State and Nation for many years; and

Whereas, This condition, more particularly in the populous centers of the Commonwealth, is a serious menace to the health and safety of its residents; and

Whereas, The contamination of the Commonwealth's water sheds has likewise reduced the availability of the water supply which is so necessary and important to the fullest industrial expansion of our industries for the National Defense needs of our Nation; and

Whereas, Contamination will increase as the natural result of more continuous operations of National Defense industries, adding considerably to pollution of the water supply; and

Whereas, The availability of chemical purifying agents such as chlorine may be restricted because of the demands in National Defense, creating a serious threat to the health, welfare and safety of the residents of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, It is deemed desirable to make a thorough and immediate study in order that preparations may be made to properly remedy or alleviate these conditions; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of this House appoint a committee of twenty-one members, whose duty it shall be to make a careful, thorough and impartial study of the causes and reasons for the continuance of these conditions, and that said committee shall make a report of its findings and recommendations to this House as soon as possible; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 31

Mr. LONGO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 31, just reported from Committee.

The Resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1942.

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem, more popularly known as the Christmas City of the United States is celebrating its 200th Anniversary; and

Whereas, The first setlers of Bethlehem, followers of one of the oldest Protestant churches in history, with its roots going back to mediaeval Bohemia and Moravia, brought with them a sincere religious conviction, a progressive social spirit, a marked industrial ability and a strong love for music, and

Distinguished Generals such as Washington and Pulaski were entertained there. The wounded Lafayette was nursed back to health there. Such other dignitaries as John Paul Jones, John Adams, Baron Von Steuben and Doctors Warren and Lewis of the Continental Army Hospital passed through the very halls, now of the Moravian College for Women, which still stand in their original settings, and

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem claims many "First" and "Oldest" those which stand out as monumental are Moravian Seminary and College for Women, practically as old as Bethlehem itself and the oldest protestant girls Boarding School in the United States; the first Fire Engine in the United States; the first Drug Store in the United States and still doing business in its original location; the first community Water Works in the United States and the newest too, but recently dedicated; and the first Symphony Orchestra. In the Moravian Church, the now internationally known Bach Choir gave the first complete performance in America of Bach's "B—Minor Mass" and "St. John's Passion," and

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem is no less distinguished in Education than in history, religion and industry, it boasts of Lehigh University, one of the foremost technical institutions of the Nation and high ranking in all other fields of Education; Moravian College and Theological Seminary, now more than a century and a quarter old, is one of the best Liberal Arts and Theological Seminaries in the east; Moravian College for Women, still maintains its place as an exclusive yet democratic and modern school and Liberal Arts College for Women, together with a fine Public School System; unusually well developed and maintained parochial schools, a nurses school and a business college which add to its rapid and progressive development, and

Whereas, The City of Bethlehem has become a "Sumptuous Pearl" in the "necklace" of municipalities of this Commonwealth and an industrial, religious, educational and musical monument in this glorious Nation, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Rerpesentatives salutes and congratulates the illustrious City of Bethlehem on its 200th Anniversary and pay tribute to the "Christmas City of the United States," which was founded upon and still maintains foremost, the Christian Spirit, long after the community has given its name to a great industrial enterprise, and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives give its best wishes to the Christmas City of the United States to continue its glorious traditions, its relgious customs and its progressive achievements in the future, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Honorable Robert Pfeifle, Mayor of the City of Bethlehem and chairman of the bi-centennial committee; to Reverend Byron E. Horne, Head Pastor of the Moravian Congregation of Bethlehem, and Andrew Morgan, President of the Bethlehem Chamber of Commerce.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we bow our heads in silence before Thee. May the words of our mouths and meditations of our hearts be acceptable unto Thee.

Thou knowest what we have need of before we ask Thee, and Thou art ready to supply as generously now as during the days that have passed. We admit our failures and pray for strength. We confess our sins and ask for forgiveness.

As a nation we have too often broken the laws of the God of nations. By the tragic events of today Thou art calling us to a new obedience and a new consecration. Restore in us reverence for God and respect for God's law.

Strengthen the hands of our President and Governor, and of all those in authority that we may all see Thy salvation.

May this Senate, seeking Thy approval, be directed by Thy Holy Spirit. Amen.

"Dear Sam:

I hereby desire to express to you and through you to the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, my great appreciation of the privilege of serving as Chaplain of the Senate of Pennsylvania for the last two terms. I am grateful to everyone for the courtesy accorded me and the many fine expressions to me of the appreciation of my service.

I regret that it was necessary for me to resign the Chaplaincy at this time before the completion of my second term. But on account of the circumstances of my military services, of course made it imperative. I shall long treasure the splendid times that I had with you all in the Senate and shall ever remember the privileges of serving as a Chaplain. I trust this service has been of such a calibre as to have brought the Divine Presence, so necessary to the enactment of sound legislation, constantly to the front. At least that was my constant endeavor.

We of the old 28th, Pennsylvania's own, are endeavoring to hold high both the ideals and trusts of the old Keystone State, wherever and whenever we shall be called actively into combat. Again thanking you for two very pleasant sessions of service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Nation, I am

Respectfully yours,

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 37, on third reading, entitled:

An Act relating to air raid precautions, including blackouts; conferring certain powers and duties upon the State Council of Defense, local and district Councils of Defense, political subdivisions, members of certain municipal and volunteer agencies and civilians necessary for the safety, defense and protection of civilians and property in the Commonwealth; providing for the mobilization, coordination and use of certain municipal agencies and volunteer agencies, including their personnel and equipment; providing for immunity from liability for injury or death to persons or damage to property under certain circumstances; and providing penalties.

go over in its order, temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is Senate Bill No. 37 to be acted upon today?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am hoping that the bill may be acted upon today. I am conferring with the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Cavalcante, who has raised a very interesting legal question as to the constitutionality of some of the provisions in this bill, and until one of us satisfies the other I would like to have the bill go over in its order temporarily.

Mr. SHAPIRO. If that is the purpose, Mr. President, may I suggest to the gentleman who sponsored this bill that he consider another suggestion which I should like to make, an objection which I have to this bill, in connection with Section No. 7.

Mr. WALKER. I have no objection at all to receiving any suggestions from the gentleman from Philadelphia, as I have always found them to be very constructive.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, Section No. 7 of this bill which deals with air raid activities, provides for the exemption from liability of persons who are engaged in carrying out protection against air raids. It not only exempts those persons who are agents of a municipality and volunteers; but it also exempts from liability individuals, partnerships, associations, corporations, trustees, receivers or any of the agents thereof, which in good faith are carrying out or complying with or attempting to comply with any law relating to blackouts and so forth.

I suggest, Mr. President, this is a very dangerous provision, the effect of which certainly was not in the mind of the sponsor, because any person who may pull down a shade or put up a shade for a blackout in the office of a corporation, and who knocks out a window which may strike a pedestrian and injure him—against which all companies have liability insurance—the result of this provision would be the injured could get no recovery.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, what is or what is not negligence in complying with blackouts may be a very close question. I do not think this provision is necessary in the bill, because I think it does nothing but protect insurance companies, and does not help the bill any, and I suggest, before we pass this bill some consideration be given to that, as that provision can be taken out of the bill very well without affecting the provisions of the bill itself.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, that during the somewhat stormy career this bill has undergone since it was introduced in the Senate—it has been amended, re-amended and amended over again by a group representing municipalities, that is, boroughs, third class cities, second class cities and first class cities, and by the representatives of the State Council of Defense, by the Attorney General's office, and by groups of amateurs and professionals.

One of the reasons this bill has not been able to be in a position to get to a vote is because of the slowness of these very valuable suggestions coming in.

I have absolutely no objection to the bill going over in order, and I assume that is also true of the gentleman from Philadelphia, because all constructive suggestions are very cheerfully received. My only request was that it go over temporarily.

May I suggest further, Mr. President, if there are any more suggestions or amendments to be offered to this bill that we get them sometime before the third of July, as I will not be here on the fourth.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, this is a bill that deals with the subject of unemployment compensation, a very prolific subject, and it is one of the many things that have crept into our American way of life. We hear so much these days about our democracy and the American way of life. In tranquility or disaster, in peace or war, the quantity of talk on this subject flows on and on in never ending volume, not only on this bill but on many other matters.

When the lease-lend bill was being considered in Congress, when ships, materials and billions of American dollars were being donated to defense of foreign nations, and when the ship of state was being steered ahead on into the storm of foreign wars, the leaders of our democracy and the American way of life talked over-time to justify their views and actions on these issues.

The talk in many instances was void, bitter and questionable. Citizens whose patriotism had stood the sternest test were assailed and denounced as traitors, fifth columnists, and other disparaging names, because they refused to swallow hook, line and sinker the views and opinions of the leaders. I trust I do not fall in that category in commentng upon the bill before us.

In some instances these same leaders used the medium of talk and the cloak of public office to dilute their American attachments and sympathies with those for foreign nations. The prudent American citizen can conscientiously ask those leaders, when will you cease your talk, when will you permit our democracy and the American way of life to vindicate itself against its mortal enemies?

Mr. President, this Legislature has been in session for nearly five weeks, during which time very little has been done in the way of passing useful legislation. The leadership in both Houses appear to lack the initiative, the grasp to come to grips with the task that confronts it, while here in this Senate the dominant leadership is like a man with one eye, one arm, one leg, and a narrow gauge mind, who, though groping in the dark, refuses a lamp, cane, crutch or Bible tendered to him by a neighbor.

Truly, Mr. President, the bill now before us is another instance that affords a broad field for talk but little to be accomplished towards helping soldiers at the war front. Why should this Legislature be engaged in a brawl over a bill that deals with a subject that has no place at present in the task before the Nation?

The pressing cry of our democracy and the American way of life is work and more work to produce the weapons now necessary to subdue our powerful enemies. Greater compensation payments to the unemployed will not help to win the war. The dissipation of the present unemployment compensation insurance fund will not help to win the war. A refund or decrease of the employers share of unemployment insurance taxes will not help to win the war. The times demand that the unemployed be put to useful work and that the excess unemployment insurance fund be invested in the defense bonds and stamps of our nation instead of increasing the employers' war profits.

Now, Mr. President, we can hardly blame the sponsors of the bill for introducing the subject to this Extraordinary Session of the Legislature, because the Governor included the subject in his proclamation and probably the criticism that I have so far leveled against this subject should be directed at the Governor rather than the sponsors of the bill.

If we dig deep for the motive or the purpose for the including of this subject in the Governor's proclamation we may be led in many courses. I am not ready to impute to the Governor sinister motives, motives not consistent with the waging of a successful war by our Nation, but it does appear that this subject of unemployment compensation is a subject very close to the hearts of politicians. There is no doubt that the subject of unemployment reaches a very large number of citizens of this Commonwealth, citizens who are eligible to cast ballots on election day, and it necessarily follows that a man who is politically minded to some degree should not escape the opportunity to curry favor with a large number of the voters of the state, but after the subject has been catapulted here into the Legislature, in both Houses, it seems that the leaders who also may have some political attitude, want to outdo themselves in seeing who can curry the greater favor with that large faction of our population, the working man, the working man for whose benefit this unemployment compensation principle was established.

It seems that the sponsors of this bill have gone to some extent in liberalizing the payments and in favoring also the employer, but from the other corner of the battlefield come the dominant leaders of the lower House who are going to outdo the Republicans of the Senate by sending over to us a bill that is even more liberal than this bill, and so the minds of the politicians will run.

Now, Mr. President, I am fullheartedly in accordance with the principle of unemployment compensation for the laboring people of this state, but I am leveling my criticsm at this subject at this time because I feel that the circumstances existing today, the serious national problem before us, leave no room for a subject of this kind. There ought not to be any unemployment and if there are any unemployed in this State or Nation, we would do our true duty to our democracy and the American way of life, if instead of devoting time to figuring out how we can liberalize unemployment and make it greater, and all of that, we would apply our intelligence and our intellectual honesty to an effort to find out how to put those men, those who are unemployed, to work, because it is only by work that we are going to produce those materials so necessary to win the war.

Yes, Mr. President, I am heartily in favor of unemployment compensation, but, like the great patriot and clergyman, Muhlenberg, said, there is a time for all things, there is a time to preach and a time to fight, and now is the time to fight, and that applies so propitiously here to our present condition.

This unemployment compensation question should have never been catapulted into this Special Session by the proclamation of the Governor, but we countenanced that error and that mistake by taking the subject and talking it over and coming to points of difference and misunderstanding with the lower House on this subject, when we should be agreeing on all subjects that would help to win this war.

As I say—and I feel that those who are seeking to curry favor with the laboring man will understand me—I am in favor of the principle of unemployment compensation, but I think that this is not the time to deal with it, and I feel honestly that if we do have money in our unemployment compensation fund, this is not the time now, to try to give it away in such a manner that it will not do the greatest good towards the winning of the war.

I challenge any of my colleagues here in the Senate to dispute the fact that this fund can do more towards the winning of the war at this time, by taking it and investing it in the defense bonds and stamps of the nation, for to decrease this tax or to increase unemployment compensation is surely not helping any phase of the war effort; the little that you increase the payment of unemployment compensation is not going to help much the man that receives it. In fact, he is being called upon today to do without many necessities, which will effect to him a saving much greater than the little increase that you will give him, but if we keep that fund together we will be able to use it where it will do the war effort the most good.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, now that this bill is before us I can believe that the Governor probably had in mind the fact that something had to be done too for those persons who are being dislocated because of the war effort itself. Many employes in the State of Pennsylvania are finding themselves out of regular lines of employment because we are converting some types of industries into war industries. During those periods of conversion these family men must find a means too to provide the bare necessities for their families.

Most of us realize that there has been an increase in the cost of living of anywhere from twenty to forty per cent, depending upon what strata of society you live in. Anybody that thinks the fifteen dollars maximum which is being paid out today will buy other than the bare necessities or would ever buy anything but the bare necessities of life does not pay much attention to the economics of our system of government.

The twenty per cent increase included in this bill will be beneficial to those families which are now being penalized because the wage earner in that family in an industry that is being converted into war use.

It is important that this bill be presented at this time. I may not agree with all of the features, and I do not agree with them all—but I do believe that it would be the proper maneuver for the Senate at this time to pass this bill over to the House, because I do not think there is any chance whatsoever of getting any bill through until it comes to a conference by conferees on the part of the House and the Senate, and although I could stand here and make a talk against some of the features of the bill, that would do nothing but waste a lot of time and fill a lot of books with a lot of unnecessary talk.

I do believe, however, and I want to advise those members of the Senate that will be on the conference committee, that they must go into the administrative end of this law more seriously. Last year you all remember a deputy attorney general of the State of Pennsylvania charged that there were millions of dollars in fraudulent claims paid to recipients of unemployment compensation. During our investigation of that particular phase of the unemployment compensation law we found that, if there was any fraudulency, the greater percentage of it, in fact the greatest percentage of it, was caused because of the administrative faults in the act itself, which do not allow the proper checkups and do not allow the proper administration of an act that covers such a great amount of money and covers so many thousands of cases.

There have been charges that throughout the State of Pennsylvania there was collusion between employers and labor unions and between employers and employes to the effect that they would employ persons and let them work their time out during a seasonal activity in order that they would get a lay off in order to get the unemployment compensation. Well, if that is true that should be remedied by an act, and we tried to do it.

Mr. President, the reason that I personally put in so many bills covering this subject was because I felt that of the thirteen bills introduced, at least eleven of them would have received the approval of both the House and the Senate, and would have taken care of those administrative defects that now are in the act, as it appears upon the statute books, and then we would have nothing to deal with except the controversial sections of the law pertaining to the length of benefit payment periods and the amount of benefit payments.

If we would have passed those bills, we would probably now only have a seven or eight page bill before us. As it is now, we stand in danger of losing the entire remedial legislation that is necessary at this time in unemployment compensation, because we can not get together on the controversial sections of the law.

However, that may be as it is. I only say that the thing to do now is to vote for this bill, even if we do not like it, in order that we can get it over to the House and expedite matters and get out of this capitol at this time. Some of us are connected with defense industries and would like to go home and give a little more time to the defense effort, and most of us here know we can not keep coming down here every two or three weeks.

Why, Mr. President, when this bill was introduced the action of the Senate was disgraceful, to say the least. There were six or seven bills committed to that committee that night and when we went into committee meeting the only bill the committee chairman picked up on his way into the committee room was this bill, so that we could not take up any other bills. That being as it was, I moved that the bill be brought out, because I have always been interested in expediting this session, in getting it over, but lo and behold, they dilly-dallied for two weeks because the bill was not properly prepared at the time it was introduced and that was because they said they had not had enough time to study anything other than the bill they introduced. My bills were introduced the first day of the session and they should have known what they were doing, because they copied most of my bills.

As the thing stands now, Mr. President—and I am also speaking to the conferees who will be appointed—you should do something about clamping down on the politics being played in the unemployment compensation division of the State of Pennsylvania, and the present condition whereby the Secretary of Labor and Industry has voided hundreds of names of decent citizens of the State of Pennsylvania who took unemployment compensation civil service examinations and now find themselves ineligible for jobs, because they took examinations under one administration and this is another administration. The proof of the pudding is in the tasting. There have been twelve hundred turnovers in less than a year, and still there are on the payrolls of the State of Pennsylvania over seven hundred employes without civil service status in the unemployment compensation division.

Why, the biggest political organization in the State of Pennsylvania has been built up in that department. For whom it will be used can only be guessed at, probably whoever runs for Governor and wins the favor of the Secretary of Labor and Industry.

When you are in this conference make sure that can not happen again.

We Democrats expect to take over the State of Pennsylvania and give it back to the people this November, but we do not want to tempt our Secretary of Labor and Industry with the same temptations that have been given to this secretary, where he can go out and void lists of persons who have taken examinations, but who, because they did not have the right political affiliation were cast aside and favored sons and daughters picked out.

Of course, Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, points out that we might not get a Democratic Governor. I say that, of course, with all due respect to the candidate on the sixty at sixty ticket—and nothing would make me happier than to see John Haluska Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, because I know he would do a better job than has been done.

So I advise my Democratic colleagues, if they will follow what little advice I can give them, to vote for this bill. It is not the best bill but it is the only one that will pass this Senate tonight.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, in substance agrees with my views on the bill. He has ably demonstrated in the latter part of his speech that this bill is charged with politics and controversy.

He has mentioned several matters that are of greatest interest. The question of politics I mentioned previously, and, Mr. President, I agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland that things are not well in the administration of this unemployment compensation fund.

I have personal knowledge of a racket that is even at this date operating in that system. There is one David R. Perry, probably I have met him and probably I have not, but he is in charge of the legal phase of some of the unemployment compensation problems of the bureau, and last year, during the months of April and May, when there was some disturbance between the employer and employe, the local offices of the unemployment compensation bureau anticipated a rush of claims for unemployment compensation and so, in order to meet that rush and before the employes were entitled to the compensation, agents of the local offices went to the meeting places, the union halls of the employes, and there accepted their claims for compensation.

In many cases, this agent of the local office of the Unemployment Compensation Division had the men sign for one week, two weeks and three weeks at a time, at the same time.

Mr. President, there are hundreds and thousands of poor working men in the mines in Western Pennsylvania and elsewhere who are immigrants, and who do not read English as you and I read it and understand it, and so, time went on and in the course of procedure in the Unemployment Compensation Division, these claims, signed by these poor men, poor working men, and accepted by the very agent of the Unemployment Compensation Bureau before they were acceptable, were paid by the department. Many of these poor people received checks. Some few knew they were not entitled to them, some of them made no effort to return the checks, but they received the checks, not because of any misrepresentation on their part, but because of the act, the mistake made by an agent of the Unemployment Compensation Bureau.

Very well. Some time went on and without any warning, Mr. President, a most astounding thing happened; without any warning to these poor employes in my county and many other counties of the state, this man, David R. Perry, bundles prosecutions, by the tons, by the hundreds and by the thousands, and then parcels them out throughout the state to favored justices of the peace and aldermen, warrants have been issued on them, and poor working men brought in to answer a criminal prosecution, and after the hearing, lo and behold, they have been required to pay costs of prosecution that are in excess of the amount of the checks that they had received from the Unemployment Compensation Bureau. They had to pay the costs, and also make restitution of the amounts that they had received.

Mr. President, I know of no other department in this state, that has a claim against a citizen, that does not give him an opportunity to make restitution or to adjust his claim before making a prosecution. We have the Department of Highways that receives checks by the hundreds for motor vehicle tags, licenses and titles, and if one of the checks is issued and the drawer of the check does not have sufficient funds in the bank, which makes him a violator of an Act of Assembly, the Department of Highways does not send out a constable and a prosecution, and seize the man immediately and put him in jail, but they give him warning, they give him notice they say, now, this check has come back to us—not sufficient funds—and you make good or we will prosecute, but here in this unemployment compensation bureau has developed a racket that will not give honest working men that chance.

Mr. President, people who are interested in unemployment compensation, such as the gentleman from Delaware, who is so keenly interested in this subject, he would do indeed a great deal for the people of this Commonwealth and the working men of this Commonwealth, if he would devote his intelligence and time toward eradicating and bringing to public view this innocuous racket that has been carried on in that Unemployment Compensation Bureau by this man, David R. Perry.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this discussion. However, I would like to cover two points that have been raised, first, by the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, and secondly, by the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante.

Senator Dent spoke of the administration of this fund in the Department of Labor and Industry, and criticized particularly the civil service set up as it now exists in that department. I suppose the Senator from Westmoreland knows that this bill does not cover civil service. That is entirely a different act of the Legislature, it was not in the call of the Governor, and should not be considered.

Granting that what he said is true, and, of course I do not know as I have made no study of that situation, I would like to read for the benefit of the Senator from Fayette a portion of this bill. In connection with his recommendation that the Senator from Delaware should do something to protect those poor innocent working people who have been violating the law because they were not aware of the fact, let me read from page sixty-two to the Fayette County Senator:

"Any person who other than by reason of his fraud has received any sum as compensation under this act to which he was not entitled shall not be liable to repay such sum but shall be liable to have such sum deducted from any future compensation payable to him with respect to the benefit year current to or next succeeding the receipt thereof. Provided, however, that no recoupment from future compensation shall be had if such sum was received by such person without fault on his part and such recoupment would be inequitable and unconscionable.

"The claimant and other affected parties shall be notified in writing of the department's determination to deduct any sum from future compensation under this section and such determination shall be subject to appeal in the manner provided in this act for appeals from determinations of compensation."

I humbly suggest to the Fayette County Senator, Mr. President, that we have taken care of the identical problem that he discussed just now on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it seems that the gentleman from Delaware and myself are always getting up here and trying to make each other understand what we are talking about.

I just want to state that I call that to the attention of the conferees, because under your Attorney General's opinion—if you will allow me, I will read just a little explanation that was written to a certain party who inquired about that phase of the act. I said I was trying to give some advice, if possible to the conferees. Your Attorney General had advised the Secretary of Labor and Industry that it was not up to the Attorney General's office or to the Civil Service Board to determine whether the list contained fraud or not, that was for the administrators and finally the courts to decide, and the opinion further stated that if the list did contain fraud, it was not the intent of the Legislature, and in reestablishing those lists, if they were fraudulent, we in effect would be legalizing fraud.

What I am trying to call attention to is that under the present act—if you do not change it somehow—you have passed a civil service law, and you should ake your fingers out of the civil service pie. That is all I ask be done.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, on page fourteen of the bill, paragraph seven, where it is provided that, "Service performed in the employ of a corporation, community chest fund or foundation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable scientific, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation," that part is excluded from the provisions of the bill.

Mr. President, I would like to know if in the mind of the gentleman from Delaware, there is a difference where propaganda is carried on to influence legislation by a charitable institution and when carried on by an industrial corporation such as the United States Steel or Mr. Pew's Sun Oil, and so forth and so on.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do not quite follow the Senator from Fayette. There is an exemption. Those persons who lobby around the halls of the Legislature are covered under this amendment. Maybe the gentleman from Fayette has not read the bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, what I do not understand is this, the bill states "employment shall include all employes of a corporation, community chest fund, foundation organized to operate" and so forth—it shall include it if no substantial part of the activities of it is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation.

Who is going to determine when the amount of propaganda is a substantial part of the employe's work?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, when you say, "otherwise attempting to influence legislation" that seems to me all inclusive. The gentleman from Fayette is reading this act wrong. He is reading from a section dealing with exemptions, where are exempted employes of community chests, religious societies, and so forth, provided no substantial part of their activities is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Well, Mr. President, it seems to me that it is on page eleven that we should start to read, where it says:

"The word 'employment' shall not include" and so forth, and enumerates those exceptions, and one of the exclusions is in the part that I have read, that employment does not include service performed in the employ of a corporation, community chest fund or foundation organized and operated exclusively" for these charitable purposes, if no substantial part of their activities is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation.

My question was aimed at eliciting from the gentleman from Delaware the reason why he makes a distinction between corporations and so forth engaged in charitable purposes and corporations that are engaged in other industries.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the Senator from Fayette has not read this amendment properly—"services performed in the employ of a corporation, community chest fund or foundation"—you have got "corporation" in there, the corporation is in there, whether you are talking about Sun Oil or anything else.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. But it means, Mr. President, a corporation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary and educational purposes.

Mr. HEYBURN. Does the gentleman from Fayette think they should be taxed?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. In other words, Mr. President, the way this bill reads now, religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational corporation can not engage in the art of propaganda or otherwise attempt to influence legislation, but the United States Steel and the oil companies and the other industrial corporations can do so.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I am sorry, but the Senator from Fayette is very wrong, and there is no use of carrying this thing on any further. I will be glad to meet him tonight and tell him what the bill is all about. Mr. President, he is very wrong, he has not read the bill, I regret to say.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 46, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon certain request and with the approval of the Delaware River Navigation Commission and the Department of Wharves Docks and Ferries of the City of Philadelphia to suspend for a limited time the operation of laws regulating or relating to the movement loading, lightering, docking, anchorage of vessels carrying or having on board certain explosives insofar as the same relate to small arms ammunition or ammunition which contains the projectile and the explosive in one container or shell.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 46

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the bill passed second reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion?

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I desire to offer amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Title, line 3, after the word "and" and before the word "Department", by adding the following words: "where the Port of Philadelphia is concerned;" Amend Section 1, page 2, line 2, after the word "and" and before the word "the", by adding the following words: "where the Port of Philadelphia is concerned."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, there have been two sets of amendments prepared, both intended to meet the same condition. I have prepared one set and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart, has prepared the other but neither of us seem to have known the other had prepared amendments. Frankly I think mine are better and more complete than his.

Mr. President, I would like to offer these amendments and move that they be adopted, instead of those submitted by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery does not want me to be the umpire?

Mr. EDMONDS. No, Mr. President, but I think the Senate can be the umpire.

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is consideration of the amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart.

Mr. EDMONDS. It would seem to me that it would be unfortunate if the Senate should vote on those amendments without having the alternate amendments before them in order that they may consider them.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, on account of this difference I suggest that we have both amendments read, as they are short, and perhaps we can get together, after which a motion can be made as to which amendment shall be adopted.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suggest that action on the amendments just offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia be suspended until the Senator from Montgomery presents his amendments, which he has a right to do.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I second that.

It was agreed to.

Mr. EDMONDS. I present the following amendments and ask their immediate adoption.

The amendments were read as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 2, by inserting between the words "and" and "the" the following: "where the port of Philadelphia is concerned upon the additional recommendation of;" Amend title, page 1, line 3, by inserting before the word Department the following: "in certain cases of the."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, may I say in explanation that this has to do with the explosives bill, and as the bill came out from the committee, it provided that the Governor upon the approval of the Navigation Commissioners and also the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, might suspend certain acts relating to explosives when the Federal Government either through the army or navy or the Maritime Commission requested the suspension.

The difficulty about that, Mr. President, is that the Delaware River is a navigable river covering a great many more counties than the County of Philadelphia. The Philadelphia channel goes up as far as Bucks and other counties, and therefore it was thought that the Director of Wharves Docks and Ferries ought to be limited to those cases in which the Port of Philadelphia is concerned, and that is the object of this amendment. If the amendment should govern, it would provide then that the Governor might suspend laws relating to explosives upon approval of the Navigation Commissioners, and, where the Port of Philadelphia is concerned, the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, but it would not make it necessary to get the consent of the Director for anything that had to do with the Port of Bristol or some place below Philadelphia and yet be in the Delaware River channel, and that is the reason the amendment has been framed in this way.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am inclined to agree from the point of English, that the amendments submitted by the gentleman from Montgomery are better than the amendments suggested by the gentleman from Philadelphia.

I think both of them, however have placed their amendments, for the purpose of clarity, in the wrong place. It should be after the word "ferries" on line two, that this amendment ought to come in.

However, Mr. President, it strikes me that there is something faulty with the whole bill and I should like to interrogate the Senator from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Montgomery state whether it is not true that the Delaware River Navigation Commission would have authority over the whole river?

Mr. EDMONDS. It would, Mr. President, that is, the navigable waters.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Therefore, I should like to inquire further why it is the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries has to be given special privilege over some other community.

Mr. EDMONDS. Because in Philadelphia, Mr. President, that director has supervision of the docks, and in the case of loading explosives from the docks that would com nder his supervision, and there have been cases which ave already risen, short as the war time has been, in hich it has been necessary to really breach the existing aw by having explosives taken on docks in order that hey may be readily loaded.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to further nterrogate the gentleman from Montgomery and I should ike to inquire whether there are not any other docks on he Delaware River that are within the jurisdiction of the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries of Philadelphia.

Mr. EDMONDS. No, Mr. President, no docks that are ig enough for this kind of work. The big docks are all in Philadelphia unless you consider further down the Delaware River, below the Sun Shipyards.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, over the weekend I nade some inquiries on this subject and I have found, irst, that this law was passed originally after one of our earlier wars, to prevent insurrections and to prevent people rom coming up the river with explosives and causing another revolution. That is an old law but at the present time it is interfering with the hauling of important lend-lease ammunition that is being shipped abroad, and due mainly to the stubbornness of the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, there has been a great deal of difficulty in getting this stuff loaded.

The only reason, Mr. President, in my opinion, for including the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, is because he will not permit it to be done unless he is satisfied.

With the Delaware River Navigation Commission, impartial as they are, I think we cover the subject sufficiently. I am quite sure, when this bill is passed, we are going to have difficulty because we are taking one man along the Delaware River and saying to him the Delaware River Navigation Commission will act for everybody else, but in Philadelphia they will have to have the additional recommendation of the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries and it seems to me that is not a method of helping the Federal Government in war.

I say, first of all, it is my personal opinion that the Federal Government does not need the approval of any of them, because the Supreme Court has already said that the Delaware River, being a navigable river, is subject to jurisdictional action by Congress—maybe it will be necessary to get an act of Congress, but I do not think this bill is necessary—I am not going to put my opinion of the law ahead of theirs and I am glad to vote for the bill—but I certainly do not think that Philadelphia should be given preference and have some one individual say you can not get this work done unless I approve it. That to me seems to be ridiculous, because you have a commission covering the river and I would like to know why it is necessary that the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries have that authority, even though there are docks there.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I think the answer to the query of the gentleman from Philadelphia is perfectly clear. There are those old laws on our statute books. I do not know historically whether the gentleman from Philadelphia remembers the old Battle of the Kegs on the Delaware River, which probably gave rise to the original law, which provided that no boat carrying more than five hundred pounds of gun powder should come north of a certain point. That is the law now on the statute books and it was never repealed, and the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries in Philadelphia is enforcing it.

We are now proposing to authorize the Governor, under certain circumstances, to suspend that law and that to my mind is what we ought to do. This leaves the Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries without any law which he feels he has got to obey, and I think that is the right thing for us to do, and the object of this particular amendment is simply to limit his authority to that which is under the control of the City of Philadelphia, those wonderful docks the City of Philadelphia built during the period of the first World War.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, there seems to be some dispute as to which amendments are the best. I have read both sets of amendments and although I do not think one is better than the other, I do not think it makes much difference, and I will be glad to withdraw my amendments. They both accomplish the same purpose.

Therefore, Mr. President, I withdraw my amendments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am going to vote for this bill because I believe it may be a necessary bill, but I think the House ought to take out the provision making Philadelphia a special case. I think that is the only way to handle that.

Mr. EDMONDS. As I understand it, Mr. President, there is now no objection to the one set of amendments which I have introduced, as the gentleman from Philadelphia has withdrawn the one set of amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I desire to offer an amendment.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 2, by inserting between the words "and" and "the" the following: "where the port of Philadelphia is concerned upon the additional recommendation of;"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I desire to offer an amendment.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 3, by inserting before the word Department the following: "in certain cases of the."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 47, as follows:

An Act to suspend existing law providing for and requiring certain contracts or purchases made by the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof to be made with and from the lowest responsible bidder after notice by advertisement insofar as they apply to certain contracts and purchases and regulating the letting of contracts and the making of purchases by political subdivisions

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 58, as follows:

An Act to further amend section seven hundred two to amend section seven hundred nineteen and to further amend section eight hundred and six of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1225) entitled "An act concerning game and other wild birds and wild animals and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating thereto" by vesting in the Pennsylvania Game Commission the power to adjust hours for hunting training of dogs and carrying certain firearms and ammunition

Whereas A recently enacted Federal law advances Standard Time one hour daily for the duration of the war in which our Nation is engaged and for a period of six months thereafter and

Whereas Said time change adversely affects the safety and health of the many thousands of our citizens in this Commonwealth who enjoy the sport of hunting for recreation and pleasure by allowing an hour of hazardous hunting in the morning and denying the right to hunt during an hour of daylight at the end of the day contrary to the intent of the General Assembly as established in the Game Law and otherwise affects privileges granted to the lovers of the chase by our statutes and

Whereas Since our Federal authorities deem it essential to the successful prosecution of the war to bolster and maintain the morale and health of our citizens by providing maximum recreational opportunities therefore

In order to vest in the Pennsylvania Game Commission the proper authority to make such time adjustments in our Game Law as may be found necessary to cope with the foregoing situation

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section seven hundred two of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 48, entitled:

An Act to add section one thousand one hundred and nine to the Act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled "An act to consolidate, amend, and revise the Penal Laws of the Commonwealth," as amended, by prescribing additional penalties in the case of the commission of certain crimes during blackouts or air-raids and the confusion resulting thereafter.

And said bill having been read at length the second time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I desire to offer amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, lines 3 to 29, both inclusive, by underscoring all the words in said lines; Amend Section 1, page 3, lines 1 to 26, both inclusive, by underscoring all the words in said lines.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The title was read and agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 49, entitled:

An Act suspending for a limited time all laws of the Commonwealth requiring the registration of trailers insofar as they require the registration of certain wagons or agricultural machinery drawn by a motor driven vehicle for certain purposes.

And said bill having been read at length the second time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I understand the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher, is the sponsor of Senate Bill No. 49, and I should like to interrogate him.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOMSHER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. The preamble of this bill leads me to believe that it is the intent to avoid the necessity of tags, for the purpose of saving material necessary in the defense program. Is that correct?

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I should like the gentleman from Philadelphia to repeat the interrogation.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I understand from the preamble of Senate Bill No. 49, that its purpose is to avoid the necessity of having tags on farm vehicles, in order to save steel for the war defense program. Is that correct?

Mr. HOMSHER. That is the implied purpose, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I thought that was the implied purpose, because I find the bill also avoids the necessity of registering those vehicles. I can not see how that saves steel.

Will the gentleman from Lancaster tell us how the failure to register those vehicles will save steel for the defense program.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, it will indirectly cause a saving and it will save not only the amount of steel used in license plates, but indirectly it will save a lot of rubber; farmers can not get rubber for tires for trailer purposes.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Lancaster state how the failure to register vehicles will save rubber?

Mr. HOMSHER. There will be a saving of rubber because the farmer will be able to use an ordinary farm wagon instead of a rubber tired tractor, without the necessity of requiring a license to use that wagon. At one time a farmer will use one wagon for a certain purpose, to go one place, and the next time he will use another or smaller wagon to go for something else, and he is now required to get a trailer license for each one of those vehicles.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Is it the purpose then, Mr. President, to save the license fee to the farmer?

Mr. HOMSHER. It would save a license fee, no doubt about that.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it seems to me that this bill goes far beyond its purpose. However, I have called my suggestion to the attention of the gentleman from Lancaster, because I think if he wants the real purpose of the bill preserved, some of us are willing to vote for the bill and will vote for this bill if the word "registration" is taken out and it is restricted merely to the purpose of avoiding the necessity for tags.

Mr. HOMSHER. At the present time, Mr. President, a farmer may at any time take a wagon over the road without having any trailer license for that wagon, excepting when he draws it by a tractor which is licensed; if he wants to use his tractor to do it, he can not do that under the present law, he would have to take a pair of horses to draw that wagon.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Or take out registration, Mr. President.

Mr. HOMSHER. Yes, for the wagon.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

While there is discord and distress round about us, we beseech Thee to ever help us to be at peace with Thee, our God and Father. Enfold in Thy Grace all those to whom this war has brought distress and suffering. Be Thou everywhere a strong help and consolation.

Grant that according to Thy will we may do our duty toward our government, both State and National, to Thy glory. Rouse us from all sleep and weariness, that we may be better able to serve Thee, and those who call us friends. Give to each one of us a clear understanding of Thy will that we may be governed by it in all our decisions and actions.

We ask it all in the name of Jesus, the Christ. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. ROSENFELD. RESOLUTION No. 33.

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1942.

Whereas, The Pennsylvania State Defense Council adopted a resolution on July 29, 1941, requesting Pennsylvania employers to hire defense workers without regard to race, color, or creed, and recommended that "no discriminatory regulations be involved against any class, race or creed in placing men and women in defense industries," and that "the American spirit of equal opportunity for all and personal qualifications be made the sole criterion in all jobs," and

Whereas, Many public spirited organizations have for many years been engaged in combating such discrimination against workers in industry and have during these years accumulated a wealth of practical experience and information pertaining to this problem, and are ready and willing to render their services to the Commonwealth by placing at the command of the Council the knowledge and experience so gained; and

Whereas, Notwithstanding the efforts of said organizations and the resolution adopted by the Council, the obnoxious evil of discrimination still exists in our economic life; and

Whereas, No further effort by the Council has been made to eradicate this evil, and the Federal and State Employment Services still require applicants to indicate their religious affiliations and are not avoiding to offer to fill preferential needs (race, color or creed) of employers engaged in defense industries; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby directs the State Council of Defense to create a Board of Commissioners to deal with the problem of discrimination in employment in defense industries; to cooperate with the Federal and State Employment Services and such organizations which have made a study of this problem; to investigate and keep a record of all complaints, and make public its findings with regard thereto; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the Director of the State Council of Defense, for immediate action.

Referred to the Select Committee on Special Session Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. DIX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, evidently the loud speaker next to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran, who does not need any, is in working order while we on the other side where the Bible Belt resides do need one. Evidently it is a conspiracy so that I cannot defend myself.

Last week, Mr. Speaker, you made some remarks in regard to a certain member of the Bible Belt, charging that he had strayed from the narrow path and had fallen by the wayside. You inferred, Mr. Speaker, that all the members of the Bible Belt were all of like character. We feel over there that a cloud of suspicion has been raised upon the corner in which this Bible Belt sits and we believe no one can remove that suspicion except the Chair.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say "To err is human but to forgive is divine." We have forgiven our Member who has fallen by the wayside, and we would like to have the Chair at least explain to the Members of the House why he made the charge he did against the Bible Belt, and also if the Speaker feels he has hit below the belt he should be charitable enough to give us a clean bill.

I would thank the Speaker very much if he would explain, and would be glad to pause at this time to allow the Chair to make his defense.

The SPEAKER. The Chair could not hear the gentleman very well, but the reason the gentleman was classed as one of the Bible Belt was because the Minority Floor Leader, and the Majority Floor Leader, the Speaker and several others were in his home town, and of course, the places we visited did not know him.

Does that answer the question of the gentleman from Wayne?

Mr. DIX. It does, Mr. Speaker.

My real reason for arising here tonight was not in particular defense of the Bible Belt but to pay a tribute to American's greatest General, General MacArthur. As you all know he is the only man who has been able to stand up and make a defense against the armies of the Rising Sun. While the forces of Hong Kong, Singapore and the Dutch East Indies fell before the onslaught of the Japanese, General MacArthur was able to put up such a defense that Japan was stalemated and I think he deserves not only a tribute here in the hall of this House, but it would be a signal opportunity to pay this tribute to the General, because Pennsylvania is proud of him, Wayne County is proud of him and I am sure all of the people of America are proud of him.

I have written a few verses which I would like to read.

MacArthur at Bataan

The soldiers of the Rising Sun
Had victory gained on every field,
And with their nation's plaudits won
Would never any battle yield,
Flaunting the challenge at Bataan
To meet the army of Japan.

There, all day long, MacArthur's men
Had held the Japanese at bay,
And all day long by field and fen
The battle raged till close of day,
And when the bloody sun had set
The Filipinos held them yet.

And when night came, in row on row,
Dead men, with faces toward the sky,
Showed where they met their mortal foe,
And taught the living how to die,
For though outnumbered one to ten
Our heroes fought like valiant men.

At dawn a brigade to the right
Charged forward thru the cannon's smoke,
And drove the enemy to flight
As o'er the ridge the battle broke,
Till precious blood of heroes ran
In that famous Battle of Bataan.

The Japanese imbued with hate,
Came on and on, and in the air
Their pilots, daring death and fate,
Gathered like swarms of locust there,
But that Goliath soon was slain
And all their courage was in vain.

And now, whate'er the Future holds,
Long will the coming ages tell,
As Time its endless scroll unrolls,
How men, like martyrs, bravely fell,
And kept, as only Freemen can,
The rocky ridges of Bataan.

And in the annals of all Time,
There shall be long emblazoned there
A sacrifice that was sublime,
A soldier's epic, showing where
MacArthur proved himself a man
And wrecked the army of Japan.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. AUKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I will take just as short a time as I can on this very important subject of the delegation of legislative authority, because it has been a perplexing question among many minds on both sides of the Capitol as to just how to reach a solution.

On February 17th when His Excellency, the Governor, in his speech to the special session in his first supplemental call asked for "legislation authorizing the suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this nation is or may become engaged", I dare say I was as shocked as any other member of this House.

Since that time five weeks of special session have been held. The House and Senate and individual members therein have given much thought, study and consultation toward solving the problem of the Governor's first supplemental call, realizing that as time went on there is a real problem to be faced and to be met in order that the state of Pennsylvania, one of the foremost key industrial states in our war effort, should not be impeded or delayed in any way.

On March 12th, His Excellency, the Governor, addressed a communication to each Senator and Assemblyman, in which, by reason of his office which enables His Excellency to obtain a more comprehensive and all-over view of this particular subject than any Assemblyman, Senator, or group of Senators or Assemblymen, or department head can do, he listed twenty-two different subjects under which the laws pertaining to those subjects might or would have to be suspended or modified in order that Pennsylvania's war effort might not be impeded or delayed in any way. As one carefully reads and analyzes this communication it can readily be seen how complex, how far reaching and how gigantic would be the work of this special session in trying to repeal or modify the laws relating to these twenty-two subjects and the subsubjects thereunder.

I presume every member of this House has thoroughly studied and analyzed that letter. If not, I certainly now urge you to do so. In fact, I say it is impossible for this special session to do so. From my talks with many members of this House, of both parties, as well as some Senators, I believe this conclusion is well founded.

Not only is this true of these twenty-two different subjects but also of subjects that could not be foreseen by the Governor at the time the communication was written. Let me cite an outstanding example of this very thing.

In a recent conversation with Mr. Thomas, Acting Secretary of Mines, he informed me that Secretary Ickes had called on Pennsylvania for the mining of ten million additional tons of bituminous coal. Mr. Thomas further stated that approximately seven to eight per cent of the miners have been already called to the armed forces with no chance of deferment in sight. He stated to me that it would be impossible to increase the coal tonnage under present existing laws pertaining to mining, and that the production of coal would probably decrease owing to loss of manpower, and that the situation could not be helped unless certain laws relating to mining would be suspended during the time of the war effort. Here is a very concrete example why this special session or any other special session or recessed session cannot adequately cover the situation and solve the problem.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to take the time of any Member of this House to go down over these twenty-two subjects but as an example I draw the attention of the Members of the House to Page 3 of this paper containing the supplemental subjects, Item 13, which takes into consideration all the subjects which might come under the Public Utility Commission and very many laws under the Public Utility Commission's jurisdiction that might have to be suspended in the future. As a concrete example of that, I have been informed recently that Secretary Ickes has called upon Pennsylvania to mine ten million additional tons of bituminous coal in order to keep the industries' war effort here in Pennsylvania rolling. I have been further reliably informed that about eight per cent of the miners in Pennsylvania have been taken into the armed forces of the country. How can Pennsylvania mine ten million additional tons of coal unless there are some suspensions of the mining laws. I know that we have to give up something and the miners and everybody else will have to give up something if we are going to make the right use of the war effort in Pennsylvania. Here is a very important example of why this special session or any other special session or recessed session cannot adequately cover the situation and solve the problem.

I am therefore submitting herewith a bill by which the Legislature will delegate that authority to a legislative committee to suspend or modify laws after a hearing is held, and with the right of appeal to the courts by any aggrieved party or parties. However, after looking up the constitutional requirements, I find that the Legislature cannot delegate its authority to modify laws but it can delegate its authority in my opinion to suspend laws.

This solves the objection of delegating the legislative authority outside its own body. It solves the objection that a dictatorship is being reared or dictatorial powers are being requested. The decision of the committee would be unanimous and would be controlled by four Democrats and four Republicans. The time of the grant is limited to the next regular session, a short time of eight months. We are keeping the power within our own body. This may not be the solution. I only offer it for the consideration of the members for what it is worth. I am of the same conclusion, as are many others, that there must be some delegation of authority in order to properly do the job. Most certainly it is not the proper way to solve the problem if we are going to delegate the power or any powers of suspension or modification in any respect to any departmental head.

Last week, Mr. Speaker, or the week before there was introduced a bill concerning the Highway Department. That bill conferred power on the Secretary of Highways to suspend laws. I say that that is bad legislation. I most certainly do not and could not support such legislation, giving power to any departmental head to suspend laws.

That is worse than giving it to either the State Defense Council or to the Governor. Yet, there is one bill here in the House and on the calendar, House Bill No. 66, Printer's No. 25, in which the Secretary of Highways would be given authority and power for temporary suspension of laws relating to highways and motor vehicle traffic. That is bad legislation. I most certainly will not vote for such a bill and would do everything in my power to defeat it for that is even going way beyond that for which the Governor has asked. A departmental head is not even an elective officer but only an appointive officer and it is futile now to describe the injuries, harm, and disastrous results that might follow such a bill's becoming a law. The bill which I am about to present I believe is at least a step in the right direction and to my mind is the solution of this very vexing problem considering all the many, many, ramifications contained therein. I submit it with the urgent hope and plea that the idea contained therein will at least receive very earnest consideration at the hands of the Special Committee. Possibly the bill may have to be amended. Possibly a new bill redrafted in somewhat more comprehensive form. I do not care how it happens just so it happens and that this problem is solved so that the legislature will not have to sit here indefinitely at great cost to the people of Pennsylvania, or be continually recalled to the session after recesses with untold delays and at great expense to the state if we do not solve the problem in such way as expressed in this bill or some other similar bill.

Mr. Speaker, I earnestly plead with the Special Committee to think very carefully over this bill and the subject it approaches, and if they can find it within their discretion to report it out to the floor of this House, I most certainly urge that they do so, so that every Member of the House may have the right of saying whether this may or not be the proper solution.

With those thoughts in mind I am only offering this Bill so that we in some way may approach this problem, which is a very vexing problem, in the proper light. I thank you very much.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. NAGEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, we are here at this time on serious business. We are here in the defense of our country whether we known it or not. All these bills before us pertain to national defense and I believe there is not a Member of this House present this evening who is not patriotic enough to give up his own life in the defense of our country. But it seems to me that we as American people do things sometimes that we should not do. We do dumb things in a dumb way. We are cautioned not to tell things that we ought not to tell, that might fall into the hands of the enemy and give them valuable information that would be ruinous to our cause in future times.

I want to call to the attention of the Members of this House an advertisement appearing in one of our magazines, none other than the Liberty Magazine, the issue of March 28th of this year. This is an advertisement placed in this magazine by the Greyhound Bus Corporation.

Before reading this advertisement let me preface my remarks, or preface the reading of this advertisement, by stating that I believe this corporation meant no harm in doing it, but I am going to read the advertisement for the information of this House. It is an innocent looking thing and no doubt there are but few members who have read it. They are interested in the editorials and the other articles in this magazine. This advertisement reads as follows:

> "This brings full-color defense map of America.
> Just off the press, lithographed in full colors—fit for framing. A defense map of America, showing hundreds of principle army, navy, marine camps and bases—also information on military insignia, rank of officers and men. Just mail this coupon to nearest Greyhound Information Office listed above."

It seems to me that this in effect says, "Here, Japs, we have prepared for you a map beforehand. It will save your spies the work of coming to this country and looking for these places, locating the points at which our boys are assembled in the defense of our country, and you can go ahead and bomb them without very much trouble."

I think this is wrong, and I think this advertisement should be condemned. I throw it out as a challenge to our newspapers of which we have reporters in this room this evening, that they print editorials condemning such advertisements, regardless of the fact that they are always glad to get advertisements. I am opposed to such work; I want to be patriotic, I want to serve my country and I know that every Member of this House is just as patriotic as I am, but I condemn such procedure. I thank you.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. MELCHIORRE.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 29, as follows:

An Act relating to air raid precautions and the prevention of sabotage in cities of the first class creating a Board of Inspection in the Department of Public Works in such cities imposing powers and duties on such boards and any lessee of water and gas mains owned by such cities and repealing inconsistent legislation

Whereas The probability of serious damage to gas and water facilities in cities of the first class by reason of sabotage and air raids creates a menace to the health morals and welfare of the people of said cities and

Whereas Constant inspection replacement and repair of said facilities will minimize the danger and the damage that may be caused thereby it is therefore declared to be the policy of this General Assembly that in its considered judgment the public good and general welfare of the citizens of cities of the first class require legislation relating to the prevention of such damage by sabotage and air raids therefore

Section 1 There is hereby created in all cities of the first class a Board of Inspection consisting of five members to be appointed by the Director of Public Works whose duty and function shall be to inspect or investigate complaints concerning gas and water mains and order and effect replacements or repairs to all gas or water mains or any and all connections thereof found to be in a defective or dangerous condition The board shall consist of a civil engineer from the Department of Public Works and four employes of the Department of Public Works and shall receive no additional compensation for performing their duties in accordance with the provisions of this act

Section 2 The Board of Inspection shall supervise the activities of all employes of the Department of Public Works charged with the duty of inspecting and repairing or replacing all water mains or any connections thereof and shall keep records of all complaints received from citizens of such cities from all sources These records shall be open to the public for inspection All complaints affecting gas mains or connections thereof shall be immediately forwarded to any and all lessees of any municipally owned gas works and a record thereof kept and the Board of Inspection shall require any such lessee to immediately notify it of any complaints or any pertinent information such lessee shall have received relative to the condition of any gas or water main or connections thereof All such records shall be public documents and shall be kept for a period of five years by the board

Section 3 Immediately after the effective date of this act the said Board of Inspection shall cause inspection of all mains thirty years old or over to be made immediately and thereafter once every year to determine whether such mains or connections thereof are in a safe condition and not hazardous to the public and shall also test soundings in cases of all mains relative to which complaints have been filed by any citizen or official of such first class city Where such mains are found to be defective and require repairs or replacements the board shall immediately order such repairs or replacements to be made In the case of any gas works or water works leased by the city to others the board shall order such lessee in conformity with such contract of lease to make all necessary repairs and replacements or shall take other immediate steps that such dangerous or defective condition shall be immediately corrected

Section 4 The Board of Inspection shall employ all recent and modern methods available to insure proper inspection of all mains or connections thereof in accordance with best engineering practice

Section 5 The said Board of Public Inspection shall be charged with the duty of conducting all investigations into complaints relative to the condition of such gas or water mains or connections thereof as quickly as possible and of effectuating all repairs or replacements as soon as it is possible for such repairs or replacements to be made

Section 6 The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any of the provisions shall be held to be unconstitutional such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included therein

Section 7 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, does this bill affect first class cities only?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran, will please repeat his question.

Mr. MORAN. I would like, Mr. Speaker, to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, whether or not this bill affects only first class cities?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. MORAN. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia explain the purpose of this bill?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, this bill is similar to the one that was passed by this House at the last session of the legislature without a dissenting vote. It requires the Department of Highways in the City of Philadelphia to have inspections of the gas and water mains at least once a year for the purpose of seeing whether or not the pipes are in good condition.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia believe that this comes within the call of the Governor?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I believe that it does.

Mr. TURNER. In what way, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, this is a defense measure, as I see it. With the gas and water mains exploding as they have in the past in the City of Philadelphia and with the war going on, it does not make conditions any better, but makes them worse. We think that a measure of this kind should prevail during the period of the war and for all time.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, even if this bill does pertain to national defense how does it come within the call?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, we all have different interpretations as to what the Governor's call should include and as to what measures we would like to introduce. In my opinion this measure comes within the call, and the Legislative Reference Bureau has prepared the bill for me and my colleague from my district and we have introduced it.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, as coming from a great constitutional lawyer from Philadelphia, I will have to accept it in that way, I suppose.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he knows just how many miles of water lines are involved in this bill?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. I do not know, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia take my amount of piping as a correct amount?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I will take the gentleman's figures as being the correct amount if he knows it, but I do not see what reference the gentleman's question has to this measure.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, say that twelve hundred miles of piping are involved which are thirty years old or over?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I do not know, I am not a plumber.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, also say that there are twelve hundred of miles of gas piping in Philadelphia?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I certainly do not know that.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, how would the gentleman expect the Gas Company to inspect the gas mains?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, under the Board set up in this act.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, how would the gentleman expect the board to inspect the pipe?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. It is up to the Highway Department, Mr. Speaker, to set up a method.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, does not the gentleman mean the Department of Public Works?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. I am sorry, yes, the Department of Public Works.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say that the digging up of the gas and water mains would be the correct way of inspecting them?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I think that the question is a little bit too deep, and the pipes are a little bit too deep.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Philadelphia then agree that it would cost three dollars per foot to dig up the gas mains and three dollars per foot to dig up the water mains in order to inspect them?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, this bill as I understand it, does not mean if it is passed and is signed by the Governor that the department to which is delegated this power would have to tear up all the streets in Philadelphia in order to find out whether the gas or water mains have leaks in them. Only where complaints come in would they take up the question of finding out what is wrong and what is necessary to replace and fix the gas and water mains.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, does the sponsor of this bill believe that after a person has been killed, which I believe is the reason for his introducing this bill,—does the sponsor think such a person is capable of making a complaint?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I can only answer that by saying if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hering, was in one of those explosions he would not be able to explain it either.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, I would be the last one to ever rise on this floor and ask any Member to explain a bill in detail but this happens to be a bill in which I have a great deal of interest. One of the reasons I have quite a great interest in this bill is because I very well realize what the taxpayers and what the gas consumers and what the property owners would have to pay if it should become a law, because the proper way to inspect gas and water mains would be to dig up the streets. If the street has a double car track on it, from my dealings with the city, I would say that probably for three months the streets would be dug up and the P.T.C. would have to come along and remove the car tracks and put them on another street. Under the present emergency where you have to have a priority, when you have to wait so long for materials, I would say that at least three months more would be consumed before your street would be filled up and restored to use by the public.

Mr. Speaker, what causes most of the gas and water mains to break? Not the length of time they have been in the ground but frost and the poor sewerage system we have in Philadelphia. If one were to look at the sewerage system in Philadelphia, they would find many streets where they have had a cavein and the Department of Highways of the city comes along and continually dumps more dirt in the hole. Finally the pressure becomes so great that a crack occurs. At this time of the year particularly, there is a great amount of pressure by the heavy trucks and the continual removal of the ground that has been filled in in some way or another. I can see no sense for passing a bill like this that would probably mean an expenditure of fifteen million dollars by the city and fifteen million dollars by the gas company,—and I would say that would be a very small figure, even if it could be accomplished, with the trouble we have today to get men to do the work, and with the trouble we have of getting materials. I cannot see the idea of passing the bill at this time and I am going to ask the Members of this House, much as I dislike to do so, to vote against it.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, as to the purpose of introducing this Bill after that terrible tragedy in Philadelphia last year, not so long ago, about two months ago, you gentlemen no doubt read in the newspapers where through a gas leak in a gas main in the street three people went to bed at eight o'clock at night and they were found dead the next morning. Only two weeks ago the coroner's jury found that the cause of death was through a leak in the gas main. If my good friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Hering, would read through the Bill he would recall that in our investigation when we asked for the records of the U.G.I. and the City of Philadelphia they said in all repairs that were made they did not keep any records. Our bill calls for records to be kept of all repairs for at least a period of five years.

Mr. Speaker, if we are going to place money above lives of people then I say that you should vote against this Bill, but it is our solemn duty to our people back home to show them that we are here to do something to protect their lives.

Also, Mr. Speaker, about three weeks ago, at Twenty-second Street and Lehigh Avenue, through your gas mains you had explosions. It is lucky that those explosions happened in the streets because if those explosions had happened as they did on Greenwich Street in the homes there, we probably would have had the same tragedy that we had on February 11, 1941. I want to say to the members of the House, regardless of what it would cost the U.G.I. or Philadelphia, I would say that people's lives come first. We are doing everything in this war to try to save the lives of the people and this is one measure by which we can save the lives of some of the people in the City of Philadelphia, and I say lives come before money.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I said a few moments ago I would accept the opinion of the constitutional lawyer of Philadelphia, my good friend, Mr. Melchiorre. That is the first time in my acquaintance with him that he has fooled me.

I am in sympathy with the desires of the gentlemen from Philadelphia to prevent breaks in the mains which are causing death and which cause great damage not only to property of individuals who are directly concerned but also to the property of others. I would therefore stretch many a point to help these people to protect themselves. But this is not a question on the merits of the measure, as I see it. While the title of this bill says it has something to do with air raids and sabotage, if you will read the bill itself there is nothing in the bill that pertains to air raids and sabotage. The bill provides for the setting up of a board to receive complaints and to inspect, as the gentleman from Philadelphia just said, and to keep a record of the breaks and of the complaints. There is nothing within the call of the Governor which provides for any such legislation. If the bill had been written so that it said that this commission or committee had something to do with sabotage or in the event of air raids to take care of the condition of the streets that would seem to me to be a part of the work of the Department of Public Affairs or Public Streets in the city of Philadelphia and not part of some separate commission to be created, which would mean a dual commission.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, because it seems to me it would be a shame to defeat a bill with such a high purpose just because we may think it was outside of the call, I ask the gentleman if he would not agree to place the bill on the postponed calendar for the present.

Mr. EDWIN A. LEE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill has nothing to do with sabotage. I am from Germantown where thousands of homes of people are heated by steam heat. Every once in a while something goes off up in the air but no one gets killed and I do not think we have the right to place the costs of this inspection either upon the city of Philadelphia or upon the gas works of the city of Philadelphia. If we are to create a board under this bill, let us make it a board that will have jurisdiction over accidents caused by live steam.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that it appears to me clearly that the bill is not within the call of the Governor, I am wondering whether the gentleman from Philadelphia would not place this bill upon the postponed calendar for the present.

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been on the calendar for quite some time and I specifically placed it on the postponed calendar because some of the individual members did not like the bill in its present form and wanted to offer amendments, but up to the present time none of those individuals have offered amendments. I cannot see any reason why we should continue the bill on the postponed calendar.

CONSTITUTIONAL POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a constitutional point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his constitutional point of forder.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I raise the constitutional question that this bill is not within the call of the Governor.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, raises the constitutional point of order that House Bill No. 29, Printer's No. 10 is unconstitutional and violates Article 3, Section 25 of the Constitution. Under Rule 4 the Speaker is required to submit questions affecting the constitutionality of a bill to the House for decision, which the Chair now does.

On the question,

Will the House sustain the constitutional point of order?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, before asking for a roll call I would like to state to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, when he says that this Bill does not come within the Governor's call that I believe in my own humble opinion under the supplemental proclamation of the Governor, Point 4, which reads as follows: "Legislation providing for and facilitating the mobilization and use of fire fighting forces and equipment for national defense purposes," this bill comes under that section of the supplemental proclamation of the Governor and is within the Governor's call.

To the individuals who may think I am very foolish in making this statement, I will say that if they happend to be in any of the streets in the city of Philadelphia and a gas main exploded, and they found that the fire plug did not work as was the case during the last explosion which we had in Philadelphia, they would not think it would be so funny not to have water with which to fight the fire.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call on the point of order raised by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I regret very much to raise this point on a bill which I know the gentleman from Philadelphia has introduced with the idea that it is going to be helpful in a situation in Philadelphia which is intolerable. However, no matter where my sympathies may be, I certainly would hate to be accused of doing anything that would prevent the fire fighting equipment of Philadelphia from receiving all the water is necessary and all the equipment and help is necessary to fight fires. Certainly if there were an air attack and pipes were broken by reason of that, it would not have any relation to the question of an ordinary break but would be caused by the explosion of bombs that were directed towards the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. Speaker, there isn't anything in this Bill that pertains to clause No. 4. The gentleman has been very adroit in raising the question of legislation providing for and facilitating the mobilization and use of fire fighting forces and equipment for national defense purposes. I do not believe that anybody can say that mobilization of fire fighting equipment means pipes or fire plugs or water supplies. We all know that the question involved has been one which the Civilian Defense Council has had before it since the beginning of civilian defense, and that is the ability to take fire fighting equipment from one community to another.

This Bill merely sets up a Board of Inspection consisting of five members, and their duty and function shall be to inspect and to investigate complaints concerning gas and water mains, and make replacements and repairs to all gas and water mains found to be in a defective or dangerous condition.

How can you get that within the call? It seems to me that if we permit our feelings to run away with us in legislation and in all the matters in which we may be interested just because they may have some sentimental attachment or because we feel some patriotic fervor to help them along, we will be in a lot of trouble in this session of the legislature.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, much as I regret it, I ask the members of the House to vote to sustain the point of order.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, in clause 4 of the Governor's proclamation, he refers to "legislation relating to air-raid precautions and blackouts". I say this bill would come under the call of the Governor because if during a blackout a gas explosion should occur it would be very dangerous to the citizens of our City.

In this morning's editorial in the Philadelphia Inquirer we find that Philadelphia's storage of water is so low that the people have been asked to use as little as possible because there is a water shortage by reason of leaks. I do not know how many people here have ever seen a fire where water could not be gotten. I do not know how many people here have seen people run out of their homes, and although there was a fire plug right near the home, they could not get any water from that plug, and they had to go two blocks from there, and before they got water the place had burned down. I do not see any reason why any one should be against a bill of this type, because the purpose of this bill is to save the lives of people and not to have people scared to death, not knowing when the next explosion is going to happen.

I might say, Mr. Speaker, that during our investigation the engineers of the U.G.I. Company stated that the frost line in the City of Philadelphia is three feet deep but they had their gas mains only two feet deep. Then you wonder why in cold weather we have these breaks in the mains. It is a statement from their own engineers, that the frost line is three feet but they only have their pipes two feet deep.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, not under the guise of the constitutionality of this bill but as a taxpayer in the city of Philadelphia and as a member of this House, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hering.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HERING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hering, pointed out the fact that all this cost would in all probability fall on the taxpayers, the innocent taxpayers, in the city of Philadelphia. I would like to know from the gentleman from Philadelphia how he places that cost on the taxpayers, the real estate taxpayers.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, after all, any expenses that are incurred by the Water Department of the city of Philadelphia have to be paid by somebody. I believe the taxpayers are the ones who have to foot the bill.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has specifically mentioned the fact that there would be fifteen million dollars spent by the gas company which would in turn have to be paid by the real estate taxpayers. I would like to know how, where and why the gentleman from Philadelphia would figure this real estate tax out.

Mr. HERING. Mr. Speaker, let us say that they are not the taxpayers. We will say the consumers of gas.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, my reason for asking this is because the Philadelphia Inquirer today, which has certainly been very friendly with the present administration in Philadelphia, has pointed out that the income is so great to the City of Philadelphia that there is no need to continue this terrific wage tax which we in Philadelphia have to pay. I certainly feel in all justification, as the Philadelphia Inquirer has pointed out, there is no need for this terrific wage tax, and there is not much likelihood of the real estate taxpayers having to pay any money that might be expended through this particular bill. I think that the anticipated income from the terrific wage tax in the city of Philadelphia would offset any anticipated expenditures in relation to the correcting of these gas mains and water mains in the city. That is the only thing I wanted to correct.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen have gone far afield on the question of the constitutionality of this bill.

CONSTITUTIONAL POINT OF ORDER WITHDRAWN

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in order to give the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, an opportunity to place the bill on the postponed calendar, to see whether he can amend it, I ask leave to withdraw my point of order raising the constitutional question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, withdraws his constitutional point of order on House Bill No. 29, Printer's No. 10.

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I will agree to leave the bill on the postponed calendar to see if we can work out some amendments.

The SPEAKER. It is necessary for the gentleman to make a motion.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House this evening a former member from Fayette County, Mr. J. Harold Arnold.

RESOLUTION

RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 10 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. CHERVENAK offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. RAUSCH and McDERMOTT offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 23, 1942.

It is with deep regret that the House of Representatives has learned of the death in Europe of Robert Riedy, formerly of Allentown, Pennsylvania, and lately Sergeant-Pilot with the Royal Canadian Air Force in England. The telegram received by Sergeant Riedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Riedy, informed them that their son had been killed in action March 18, 1942.

Robert Riedy was an honor student at the Allentown High School, graduating at the age of 18 years. He then turned to the study of aeronautical engineering at the Curtis Wright Technical Institute, Los Angeles. After graduating from that institution in 1940, he was employed by several different aircraft corporations. He then terminated his civilian employment in order to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force. Last fall he ferried an American made bomber to England, and remained there since.

While in Allentown, Robert Riedy was an active member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, taking an active part in young people's activities. He was also affiliated with the Boy Scout Movement and with Y. M. C. A. functions; therefore be it
